Bagley Measure To Seek Strong Bay Government

Legislation Would Give ABAG Broad Power Over Region

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Legislation to transform the Association of Bay Area Governments into a strong governmental body with broad powers over regional problems will be introduced Monday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Bagley said the bill was requested by ABAG, which opposes an earlier bill by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, to set up a regional government run by 36 directors, all elected directly by the voters. ABAG long has argued that a regional government should be run by city councilmen and county supervisors, just as ABAG is.

No official body of ABAG, however, ever publicly requested or reviewed the legislation Bagley will introduce.

Bagley's bill, entitled the Bay Area Regional Home Rule Law, would empower ABAG to "develop as necessary and to implement a comprehensive regional plan, a regional solid waste disposal plan, a regional airport system, a regional open space and regional parks system, a plan to conserve and develop the bay and its shoreline, a regional air quality control plan, a regional water quality control plan, and a balanced regional transportation system."

Thus, the existing regional agencies regulating water and air pollution, set up by the state, would be merged into the super-ABAG proposed by Bagley.

The bill also extends the life of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission from the 90th day after the final adjournment of this year's legislative session to the same day after next year's session. Bagley termed this "a safeguard" if none of the other bills extending the commission's life passed.

Bagley readily acknowledged that the purpose of his bill was to enable ABAG to bargain with Knox on "some kind of con-

IN SIMPLE MAJESTY — The symbol of Christendom stands empty on the eve of Easter — relieved of the awesome burden of Christ's body — and His countless followers await the celebration of the Resurrection. Throughout the world in tomorrow's dawn, multitudes will gather in high places adorned with crosses, some elaborate, some — like this one caught atop San Rafael Hill against a westering sun by Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean — utterly simple but enriched by two millenia of faith and tradition.

Nixon To Overhaul Executive Branch

Appoints New Panel For Study

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPO)—President Richard M. Nixon, fulfilling a campaign pledge, today appointed a blue ribbon advisory council to recommend a major overhaul of the executive branch of government.

In an announcement from his Florida bayside villa, Nixon announced the panel would be headed by Roy L. Ash, president of Litton Industries Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif., and an ardent Republican supporter of Nixon for president.

POWER TO ACT

The four other members of the council—which will perform along the lines of the old Hoover Commission — are: George Baker, dean of Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration; former Texas Gov. John B. Connally; Fredrick R. Kappel, chairman of the executive committee of American Telephone and Telegraph Co., and Richard M. Paget of the New York management consultant firm of Cresap, McCormick and Paget.

Setting up of the council is in line with congressional approval of the Reorganization Act which gives Nixon the power to recommend measures to improve the efficiency of the White House and cabinet departments.

The council will hold a preliminary organizational meeting on Thursday in Washington.

FINAL DECISION

Presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon is moving "to final decisions" on the domestic messages he will begin sending to Congress after the Easter recess, April 14.

He said that the President's brain-trust meeting with his top urban advisers yesterday had brought him closer to seting up a priority list for proposals he will make covering the range of health, education and welfare matters as they relate to the cities.

In other developments Nixon announced he intends to reappoint L. J. Andolsek of Minneapolis, Minn., for another six year term on the Civil Service Commission. Andolsek, a Democrat and former chief counsel on the House Committee on Public Works, has served on the Commission since April 1963. His new term will expire March 1, 1975.

Keeping up his steady stream of new diplomatic appointments, the president also nominated Charles Burke Elbrick, a veteran Foreign Service officer and presently ambassador to Yugoslavia as his new ambassador to Brazil. Elbrick, 61, replaces John W. Tuthill who retired last January.

Nixon and his family are spending a quiet holiday in Florida.

HOUSTON TRANSPLANT

Wife Praying For God-Given Heart

HOUSTON (UPI)—A 47-year-old Illinois man was kept alive today with the world's first artificial heart transplant while his wife and doctors waited hopefully for someone to donate a "God-given heart" to replace it.

The transplant, by famed heart surgeon Dr. Denton A. Cooley, on Haskell Karp of Skokie, Ill., came six months after Cooley had said artificial hearts for use in human transplants was "three to five years away."

Karp, a father of three, was reported by a dawn hospital bulletin as being "awake and alert" and in a "stable and satisfactory" condition.

His wife visited him briefly around 2 a.m., about nine hours after the unprecedented surgery, for what a spokesman called "a cheerful reunion" and then issued a tearful hand-written plea for "someone — somewhere" to make a gift of a "God-given" heart for her husband.

Mrs. Karp, also in bad health, held her husband's hand and talked to him briefly while the couple's 22-year-old son, Mike, looked on from an observation window above the recovery room.

"He was a bit hoarse because of the tubes which had been in his mouth and he could talk to her only briefly," a spokesman said of the visit.

Afterward, Mrs. Karp handed St. Luke's officials a jerkily written note in which she said she "cried without tears" as she watched him "lying there, breathing and knowing that within his chest there is a man-made implement where there should be a God-given heart."

Weatherman Predicts Clear Easter Skies

Easter will be clear, the weatherman predicted today in the midst of a gusty spring storm that dumped as much as an inch of rain on Marin during the night.

The forecase said it would be showery tonight, ending tomorrow morning, then clearing.

Taking advantage of the forecast, the Tamalpais Volunteer Fire Association rescheduled its Easter egg hunt for 2:30 p.m. tomorrow on the Tamalpais High School football field. The hunt, originally scheduled for today, was postponed due to the rain.

Rain and strong winds buffeted the Bay Area during the night and two injury accidents occurred on rain-slick roads, sending four persons to hospitals.

The first accident occurred at 10:05 p.m. in San Francisco, on the Doyle Drive approach to the Golden Gate Bridge, when a car driven by Keith Lyle Garder, 29, of San Francisco, crossed the center line and hit a car driven by Neil Ray Penry, 35, of 44 Cottonwood Drive, San Rafael, the California Highway Patrol said.

Penry was treated at Harbor Emergency Hospital in San Francisco for a scraped forehead and a bruised left knee.

Harry Irwin, 38, of 44 Cottonwood Drive, was treated for a scraped nose and bruised left arm and Evelyn Irwin, 51, of 44 Cottonwood Drive, for a cut left leg at Marin General Hospital. Both were passengers in Penry's car.

The second accident, at 1:40

Three Dead In Shooting On Turnpike

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Three persons died and several others were wounded or injured in a shooting incident along the busy Pennsylvania Turnpike today, state police reported.

The police said a man apparently shot and killed his woman companion and then, before killing himself, sprayed bullets over the heavily traveled superhighway.

James D. Cox, public relations director for the state police, said another person died as a result of the wild incident, but that he had no immediate details. At least 13 persons were treated at area hospitals for gunshot wounds or cuts from flying glass. A Harrisburg hospital said one man was in critical condition with a bullet wound of the facial area. At least three of the injured were children. The bodies of a man and woman, shielded from a mist by a yellow tarpaulin, were stretched out near a blood-spat-

Metropolitan Transit Agency To Be Urged

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Formation of a powerful metropolitan transportation agency to run most transportation facilities in the Bay Area will be proposed in legislation to be introduced Monday by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco.

Expected from the legislation are the Golden Gate Bridge, seaports and airports.

But in a second bill, Foran would require the bridge and highway district "to develop a total transportation facilities plan" to define the district's future before its bonds are repaid in 1971.

Foran said his bills "are designed to bring about a balanced transportation system," which generally is the polite way of saying that public transit must be financed as well as freeways, perhaps by using some gas tax revenue now reserved for freeways.

Foran's proposal similar to a proposal by the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission, would be empowered to approve all regional highway routes in the Bay Area before construction could be started, to run all toll bridges crossing the bay, and to operate the Bay Area Rapid Transit District system after it is built.

Regional highway routes would include interstate and state highways in the nine-county area, Foran said in a press statement.

The new agency would be run by a 14-member commission selected by city, county, state and federal officials.

The planning tasks of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission would be assigned to the new agency.

The bill also provides that the

More Power For Pakistan Leader

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Pakistan's provisional constitution, made public last night by President M. A. Yahya Khan, gives the nation's new leader sweeping powers to continue running the country under martial law.

The new document retains many of the features in ex-President Ayub Khan's 1962 constitution, which was suspended when Yahya assumed power 11 days ago. But 10 of the 17 rights guaranteed by Ayub were scrapped to give the martial law administration a tight rein on this restless nation.

A legal expert said the new constitution will expedite routine governmental operations.

Quake Hits

TOKYO (AP)—A fairly strong earthquake shook a wide area of central Japan early Sunday (Tokyo time). The Meteorological Agency said there were no reports of major damage.

Robber Strikes Liquor Store

A Kentfield liquor store was held up shortly before 11 a.m. today by a man who escaped on foot.

Sheriff's deputies were combing the area around Colonial Liquors at 913 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. The man apparently was not armed, according to preliminary sheriff's reports. The indicated the man used a "simulated gun."

It was not known how much money the holdup man got.

He was described as white and about 40 years old.

Many, Varied Services To Mark Easter

"He is risen."

These three words will resound throughout Marin and Southern Sonoma tomorrow as Christians pay homage to the risen Christ.

A variety of Easter Sunday services is on the agenda from sunrise rites to the traditional family-oriented ones.

In San Rafael the annual sunrise service will be held on San Rafael Hill at 6:15 a.m., sponsored by the San Rafael Inter-Faith Council, composed of eight Protestant and Catholic churches.

Guest speaker will be Rev. John Freeman, a member of the Pacific Northwest Conference of the United Methodist Church, who is currently a student at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Music will be provided by a brass trio from the First Methodist Church of San Rafael.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 57 will direct parking of cars and help usher.

In case of rain the service will be held at the First

Special Peru Envoy To Report To Nixon

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) —The Florida White House announced today special emissary John Irwin will report to President Richard M. Nixon tomorrow on his negotiations with the Peruvian government to prevent the cutting off of all U.S. aid and sugar quotas for Peru.

Irwin was expected to stop by Key Biscayne en route to Peru.

Christians Preparing Easter Celebration

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Pope Paul VI meditated in his secluded Vatican City chambers and pilgrims prayed at the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. Spanish girls dragged heavy chains through the streets and Filipino children practiced jumping up and down.

In solemnity and joy, pageantry and song, the Christian world today anticipated Easter, the celebration of the risen Christ and the promise of life after death.

Much of the rites are unchanged from centuries ago. Thousands would throng to sunrise services in many lands tomorrow to hear the stunning words, "He is risen." Bells would peal, voices would join in the victory.

Across Rome, the tumult of 500 church bells was to ring out the good news and Pope Paul scheduled a mass in St. Peter's Basilica that would mark the end of three days of mourning the crucifixion of Jesus 20 centuries ago.

In Jerusalem, clergymen read biblical prophecies of the coming of Christ while Arab merchants stood in their doorways offering mementos to the throngs of pilgrims who came to the Holy City for Easter this year.

A friendly mood prevailed in the city, although the occasional sight of Israeli policemen served as a reminder that the break in tension was temporary.

In Germany, thousands of city dwellers left their homes and headed for the Bavarian Alps, the Black Forest or Austria for the long Easter weekend and the first sunshine in weeks.

In West Berlin, Mayor Klaus Schuetz expressed regret that Communist East Berlin refused to allow West Berliners to cross through the wall and visit relatives over the holiday, as in years past.

Easter in Germany is a time

Reds Take Over Havana Paper

HAVANA (AP) — Havana's oldest newspaper, El Mundo, ceased publication today after 68 years.

A front page announcement said the morning newspaper's personnel will be absorbed by Granma, the official organ of the Communist party.

The announcement added that the purpose is "to concentrate effort and have better quality in the edition of only one morning newspaper."

The closing leaves Cuba with only two national newspapers, the morning Granma and the evening Communist youth organ, Juventud Rebelde—Rebel Youth.

Cong Lured Into Trap, Slaughtered

SAIGON (AP)—American forces lured Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops out of Cambodian sanctuaries today, then mowed them down with artillery, dive-bombers and helicopter gunships, U.S. officers said.

The two-hour battle 30 miles northwest of Saigon was the only significant ground action reported by the U.S. and allied commands as thousands of American troops prepared to celebrate Easter. There were 20 overnight rocket and mortar attacks across the country and three U.S. aircraft were shot down.

About 500 infantrymen of the U.S. 25th Division sprung the border trap on 500 men of the Viet Cong's 9th Division, most of them North Vietnamese soldiers. Spokesmen said 81 enemy were killed at a cost of four Americans killed and 13 wounded.

Officers said Maj. Gen. Ellis Williamson, commander of the 25th Division, enticed the enemy to cross the Cambodian border into South Vietnam by establishing an artillery and patrol base just across from the enemy's Angel's Wing sanctuary.

Less than 24 hours later the enemy soldiers, camouflaged with rice straw on their backs, launched their attack across paddies under cover of a heavy mortar barrage.

But the Americans were waiting. When the enemy troops got within 30 yards of the fire base, two 105mm howitzers lowered their barrels and opened fire with deadly shrapnel shells while two helicopter gunships and dive-bombers sprayed from above with machine guns.

"There were North Vietnamese soldiers up and running toward the firebase," said Spec. 4 Robert Odom of Memphis, Tenn. "It looked like a football team's end around. We picked most of them off as they came running back across the rice paddies."

Military spokesmen said sunrise Easter services tomorrow would be limited to small congregations in the battle zones, to avoid providing large targets for the enemy.

U.S. spokesman said the enemy shellings caused light damage and casualties. They said the three aircraft downed yesterday and today included two helicopters and a fighter-bomber. Four American were killed and one was wounded in the three crashes, that raised the number of helicopters lost in Vietnam to 2,496 and the number of fixed-wing aircraft to 2,643.

In other action the U.S. Command said American artillery fired three times on North Vietnamese positions inside the southern half of the demilitarized zone yesterday. A communique said the barrages killed at least 23 enemy soldiers, destroyed a truck and two bunkers and triggered 12 secondary explosions, indicating direct hits on ammunition stores.

Nixon's Brother Gets Alaska Post

EDWARD C. NIXON
$30,000 a year

SEATTLE (AP) — Edward C. Nixon, a quiet worker in his brother's presidential campaign, has been named chairman of the Federal Field Committee for Development Planning in Alaska.

His appointment to the $30,000-a-year post was announced yesterday by the Commerce Department. The committee is similar to the Appalachian Regional Commission and others in various parts of the nation which coordinate federal and state programs designed to develop the economy and resources of an area.

The appointment is effective May 3, Edward Nixon's 39th birthday.

Nixon brings a varied background to his new job—California oil worker, Navy pilot, geologist, and for the past two years a commercial staff supervisor for Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Co.

He took a leave of absence from that job last summer to handle correspondence at the New York headquarters of presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon. He later went to Washington to help with inaugural plans.

Nixon, who made an extensive private trip to Alaska in 1962, said he plans to move cautiously in his first major political post.

"I don't want to comment yet on what may be accomplished . . . until I see first hand what has been done," he said. "I will be going to Alaska very shortly and meet with all officials that I can find."

Nixon said he hadn't looked at the programs developed by the incumbent, Joseph Fitzgerald, who resigned to go into private industry, but had heard "he's done an excellent job."

Nixon majored in geology at Duke University and holds a master of science degree in geological engineering from North Carolina State University.

The committee's headquarters will be in Anchorage, but Nixon said he plans to keep his ranch-style home 20 miles north of Seattle where his daughters, Amy, 10, and Beth, 8, have their own horses.

Pope Orders Simple Dress For Prelates

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today ordered bishops and cardinals to simplify their regal mode of dress in keeping with the "simplicity, practicality and spirit of humility" emphasized by the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The order, effective April 13, will make the April 28 consistory to create 33 new cardinals one of the most austere in centuries.

It abolishes the use of red shoes, shoe buckles, the broad brimmed Galere hat, the red plush hat traditionally worn by cardinals, sashes with tassels and the mantelletta, a short red cape.

The new rules do not strip cardinals and lesser prelates of all their finery, but aim at eliminating the royal red, ermine and silver commonly worn by them.

The rules are entitled: "Instructions on the dress, titles and coats of arms of bishops, cardinals and lesser prelates."

The introduction states that Pope Paul issued the rules with the intention of bringing the outward forms of ecclesiastical life "into closer correspondence with the changing circumstances of the times and of making them now accord better with the higher spiritual values which they should express and promote."

Since the end of the Ecumenical Council there have been increasing protests among Roman Catholics against the pomp and rich dress in a church dedicated to simplicity and spirituality.

Last last year an entire parish in Florence revolted against church authority protesting what it called "triumphalism," ostentatious use of jewelry, finery and rich dress by churchmen.

Czech Leaders Rip Journalists' Stand

PRAGUE (AP)—Top Communist leaders sharply rebuked the Czechoslovak Journalists Union today for resisting the new Soviet-dictated crackdown on the occupied nation's news media.

Rude Pravo, organ of the Czechoslovak Communist party, published a statement of the inner eight-member Executive Committee of the party Presidium attacking the journalists' stand against censorship that was imposed after anti-Soviet demonstrations last weekend.

The statement was seen as the forerunner of a sweeping reshuffle of newspaper, radio and television editors. Demotion of two Rude Pravo deputy editors already has been announced.

The party executives complained the journalists union "does not express anywhere support for the declaration of the Communist party Central Committee Presidium or the declaration of the federal government. The union's statement is, on the contrary, an indirect expression of disagreement with the party declaration — a polemic with its basic ideas."

The Czechoslovak leaders' statement said flatly the attitude of the journalists "can be objectively assessed as a protection of antisocialist forces." This is a serious charge in the present Czechoslovak crisis, with the Prague government under severe pressure from Moscow to curb anti-Communism and anti-Soviet feelings produced by the August 1968 invasion.

Three Jolts Hit Mexico Coast Towns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cultists, mystics and soothsayers who said a severe Good Friday California earthquake would make Phoenix, Ariz., a seaport could point only to three jolts that came in a little weak and 1,300 miles off target.

Sharp shocks in the ocean off Mexico yesterday morning cracked a few walls in seacoast towns and sent people scurrying into the streets.

And, scientists point out, there were hundreds of microquakes too small to be detected except by a seismograph. In fact, there are hundreds of microquakes every day and about 300 noticeable shocks each year.

The doomsayers weren't interested in these. For months they said California would be sundered from the continent or even sink into the Pacific in April. Many said it would happen on Good Friday—the day of the disastrous 1964 Alaskan quake.

If the undersea quakes and the microquakes Friday weren't what soothsayers expected, the feeling of firm soil underfoot didn't reassure others. Civil defense officials and scientists were deluged with worried telephone calls.

Throughout the day citizens called the California Institute of Technology, the U.S. Geological Survey and the city's civil defense office demanding to know when the quake would come.

"Most were reasonable," said William Frank, a civil defense coordinator. "But there were a few from highly emotional people who didn't want to be told the truth and demanded to know who's behind the plot to suppress information on the earthquake."

Auto Theft Suspect Free On $1,000 Bail

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—One of two black youths shot by police last weekend, Michael L. Shambray, 20, is free on $1,000 bail after being arraigned in municipal court for auto theft.

The other youth Alvert Joe Linthcome, 19, was killed by police gunfire in a record shop after a high-speed 31-block chase.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Boycott Ends

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bay Area local of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, has yielded to the wishes of its national leaders and ended a boycott of Standard Oil of California products.

The OCAW began the boycott last month after members of the Local 5-561 returned to their jobs at the Chevron Chemical Corp.'s Richmond plant without a contract. The firm, deadlocked with the union over the issue of a closed shop, ordered strikers to return to work or lose their jobs.

G. T. Jacobs, secretary treasurer of the local, said yesterday OCAW headquarters in Denver wanted the proposed boycott limited to only Chevron Chemical Corp.'s products, rather than those of the parent Standard Oil Co. Jacobs said the action was taken because of legal action and possible suits.

Jacobs said a boycott against just Chevron would be futile, so the entire plan was dropped.

Grants Stay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas Friday granted a stay of execution to Robert Lee Sims, scheduled to die April 18 in Arizona's gas chamber. Sims was sentenced for the 1936 robbery-murder of Glendell M. Soape, an insurance man, near Sahuarita, Ariz.

Will Run Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A spokesman for Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., says Ellender, 78, has every intention of running in 1972 for a seventh term. "There is no doubt in my mind the senator plans to run again," the spokesman said. "He is quite active."

007 In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia has invited Britain's most famous secret agent—007—to visit.

Sean Connery, who played agent 007 in the James Bond Film Series, flew here yesterday for two weeks of shooting scenes for a film called "The Red Tent."

Jewelry Theft

HILLSBOROUGH (UPI) — Hillsborough police are searching for thieves who looted more than $150,000 worth of jewelry from the home of a wealthy manufacturer of women's wear.

Adolph Schuman said he first discovered the theft when he returned home late Wednesday night. Besides the jewelry the thieves also took $600 cash.

Police Chief Russell Fisher said the burglars apparently entered the house by forcing a sliding glass door. They then removed a 250-pound safe, which was disguised as a dresser from a closet.

Schuman's wife, Lillian, was on vacation in Hawaii at the time of the theft.

Singer Injured

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Pop singer John Gary, 36, was hospitalized Friday after his motorcycle slammed into the side of a private bus at a Hollywood intersection.

A spokesman at St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica said Gary suffered probable dislocation of both shoulders, a puncture wound of the upper left leg, and facial contusions.

Sirhan Trial May Go To Jury Soon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The murder trial of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, is expected to go to the jury next week, its 14th week, after three days of closing argument.

In the jury selection phase, which began Jan. 7, Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker estimated the trial of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's assassin might last as much as three months.

The state says it expects to wrap up rebuttal Monday with testimony by a psychologist, Leonard Olinger, of the University of Southern California.

The three defense lawyers and two of the prosecutors are expected to deliver closing arguments. Predictions are the jury of seven men and five women will get the case Friday.

If they find Sirhan guilty of first degree murder, a brief trial to fix his penalty would follow.

Gem Thieves Drill From Restaurant In $250,000 Haul

NEW YORK (AP) — Jewels valued at a quarter of a million dollars were stolen yesterday from a West 47th Street diamond shop while a security guard kept vigil outside the vault. The burglars had drilled through the wall of an adjoining restaurant.

The guard was posted at Nat Altman Jewelers, in midtown Manhattan's "diamond district" after the store's burglar alarm went off twice.

The vault door showed no signs of tampering and the signals were attributed to defective wiring. The guard, however, remained in the front of the store.

Meanwhile, a two-foot-square tunnel was being bored through the eight-inch plaster and cement brick wall separating the vault from the Villa Nova restaurant. The thieves left behind a number of tools, including chisels and mallets.

The burglary was discovered when the restaurant opened for the day. Entrance to the dining spot was gained by breaking the lock on a metal grill barring the kitchen window.

Disorders Flare But Many March For King

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Thousands of Negroes who marched behind Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. took to the streets again yesterday in solemn processions honoring the slain leader. Some of the demonstrations were marred by violence.

President Richard M. Nixon sent a person letter to Mrs. Coretta King, the widow, and Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., commemorated the first anniversary of King's slaying by joining a march in Memphis, Tenn., where the fatal shot was fired.

Police clamped a curfew on Memphis when groups of Negro youths watching the march by 8,000 persons—the largest of many tributes staged across the nation—broke store windows and began looting.

Disorders flared in Chicago, Kalamazoo, Mich., and Baltimore, Md. on the eve of the anniversary.

About 300 angry Negro youths gathered outside the Tennessee State Prison at Nashville, where King's admitted slayer, James Earl Ray, is serving a 99-year term. They ignored officials who pleaded that the demonstration could touch off trouble inside the walls and raised their fists in black power salutes. Ray could not see them from his cell.

About 10,000 National Guard troops were alerted in six states and the District of Columbia and troops were on duty in Chicago, where rock-throwing, looting and sniper fire erupted Thursday night in ghetto areas.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who succeeded King as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, led the Memphis march past the Lorraine Motel where King was slain. Pausing there, Abernathy and Kennedy eulogized King.

"To some, this is a day of sorrow," said Kennedy. "To some it is a day of fear. To me this is a day of hope."

Abernathy announced the start of what he called the second phase of the Poor People's campaign—a demand for free food stamps for every family with less than a $3,000 annual income. He also demanded a national system to coordinate welfare, government price controls on necessities, and elimination of unemployment.

Family Life Bill Scheduled

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill providing state technical assistance for school districts wanting to conduct family life and sex education programs was proposed yesterday by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills.

Sieroty said the measure would require the State Department of Education to develop curricula, teaching guides, manuals and other instructional aids in sex education for use by school districts and offer family life courses as part of teacher training curriculum.

He said the bill, to be introduced Monday, was designed to "train teachers and develop programs to assure parents that local schools provide worthwhile and effective family life and sex education programs."

The Case Of The Missing Attorney

Nobody "did him in." He wasn't really missing - just missing clients. Because nobody KNEW him.
How to rectify this painful situation? Simple: all he (or any attorney) has to do to gain greater public recognition is to place legal notices where more people will notice them! Which means placing it in the Independent-Journal which in turn reaches 45,000 homes each evening. That's more than any combination of media can offer - by far. Best of all, the I-J is the home newspaper for the entire county. Read cover to cover - with Legals a surprisingly well - read feature. Lovely part about all this is that a legal advertisement for clients becomes a well - read notice of YOU . . . of your firm. Solves the case of the missing attorney. Nolo contendere!

Campus Unrest Is Blamed On Permissiveness

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The United States has a permissive society that will allow "assaultive behavior on a campus which would never be tolerated on skid row," says the Los Angeles County district attorney.

And that society, Evelle J. Younger told the Commonwealth Club yesterday, is one of the prime causes of campus unrest.

Younger, speaking on "Violence in Education," said school administrators and police tend to underreact to campus violence. "The situation is out of hand" before school officials call police, he said.

The Watts riots in Los Angeles, Younger said, were caused because police underreacted.

"We've learned our lesson," Younger declared. The next time Los Angeles police are told to keep out, he said, persons making the request will be asked firmly "to step aside, and massive but restrained force will be sent in."

new agency will become part of a regional government if one if formed.

The second bill would prevent the bridge district from making "any long-range transportation commitments until one year after submission of the final report to the Legislature," but Foran could not be reached to say whether this could block the district from acting on its proposal to go into the commuter bus business.

The plan that would be drawn by the district under Foran's bill would include estimates of bridge revenues available for "transportation services."

The bill specifically would permit the district to engage in tests of the use of ferry boats or other public transit systems.

"Future development of the transportation system for the Bay region must be coordinated, responsive to community values, and not discriminate in favor of one form of transportation," Foran said. He is the chairman of the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee.

SKIES

a.m. today on Highway 101 near Novato, sent William Tim Plantz, 21, of Vallejo, to Novato General Hospital for treatment of a bruised right shoulder and cut right hand.

The patrol said Plantz fell asleep and ran off the road into a ditch.

Rain totals for the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today included: Woodacre, 1.10 inches; Ross, .90 of an inch; San Anselmo, .86; Bolinas, .75; Mill Valley, .72; Civic Center, .70; Petaluma, .64; Novato, .54; Sausalito, .50, and Tiburon, .43.

In the 24 hours ending at noon, San Rafael had .81 of an inch.

San Rafael Car Wreck Hurts Two

Two persons were injured in an accident at 6 p.m. yesterday at Union Street and Mission Avenue, San Rafael police reported.

A car driven by Patrick R. Hines, 35, of 235 Union Street, was northbound on Union when it collided with a westbound car on Mission Avenue, driven by Sp/4 Walter S. Fisher of Fort Barry, police reported.

Mrs. Shirley J. Hine, 39, a passenger in the Hine car, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a twisted knee and pelvic fracture.

Fisher is in Letterman General Hospital, San Fracisco, with head injuries.

Bar Association To Have Own Office

The Marin County Bar Association, which formerly shared headquarters in the Albert Building with the Legal Aid Society, will have its own new office in the same building on 1010 B Street, Robert Andresen, chairman of the local association's lawyer referal committee, said yesterday.

The new headquarters will not be opened until the association approves its furnishings sometime this week, Andresen said. The association made its move to have a larger office with rooms for its records, he said.

Andrew Jackson was the first President to be named by a national nominating convention.

Bagley termed Knox's bill "a bag of worms" last month, saying he preferred expansion of ABAG's powers.

Knox's bill, which grew out of a 16-month, $240,000 legislative study he headed, provides that the regional government cannot be formed without approval by a majority of the voters in the June, 1970, primary election. Bagley's proposal would not require a vote by the citizens of the region.

Another major difference between the Knox and Bagley bills is that the Knox bill uses the watershed boundary of the Bay Area, thus excluding large chunks of Sonoma, Solano, Contra Costa and Alameda counties. The Bagley bill includes all territory in all nine counties, including Marin.

Also, while Knox's bill would levy a 1 per cent surcharge on personal income taxes and a gross receipt tax on businesses to finance the regional government, Bagley's bill was silent on financing. At present, ABAG is financed by members' dues and federal grants.

Bagley's bill also would transfer to ABAG the powers of the Bay Area Transportation Study Comission, which is to go out of business this year, and of the Bay-Delta Water Quality Control Program, which last month called for an $804 million project to upgrade waste water in the 12 counties that drain into the bay and delta.

(Representatives of public transit on the study commission have criticized turning its work over to ABAG on the ground that they are not represented on ABAG.)

It was ABAG's vice president, Sonoma County supervisor Ignazio A. Vella who asked him to introduce the bill, Bagley reported.

Vella told the Independent-Journal that the bill was an "updating" of a similar bill pushed unsuccessfully by ABAG in 1967. The 2-year-old bill was endorsed by ABAG's executive committee and general assembly at the time, he noted, "and I did not hear of any unendorsement."

Also, Vella said, the executive committee was not going to be ready to consider a stand on the Knox bill until its April 17 meeting, but Tuesday is the deadline to introduce legislation this year.

Marin County Supervisor John F. McInnis, a member of the executive committee, said the bill "simply restates the initial position that ABAG took in this matter two years ago." (About half of the bill's language is new.)

The decision to seek the bill again, McInnis said, was made at an unannounced meeting of a few executive committee members on March 21. He said he did not know how many attended, and that he was absent, but that it did not violate the state's antisecret meeting law because less than a quorum of the committee was present.

ABAG was formed in 1961 to provide a forum for discussion of regional problems, but since has won federal funds to prepare a regional plan. Also, the federal government designated ABAG as the regional agency that must review all applications by local governments for federal grants.

Eighty of the 92 cities and eight of the nine counties in the Bay Area are members of ABAG. Solano County is the only holdout among the counties.

Tooth Chipped In Collision

A 13-year-old Greenbrae newspaper boy was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for a chipped tooth after his bicycle collided with a car yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Kevin Scott Purcell, 13, of 141 Vista Grande, reportedly looked back to throw a newspaper and went onto the wrong side of the road, where his bicycle struck a car driven by Justine Mary Harriman, 19, of 15 Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae, the patrol said.

The accident occurred at 5:30 p.m. on Vista Grande, just west of Corte Anita in Greenbrae.

Flooding Forecast From Heavy Snow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Snow and water content measurements in the highlands that drain into the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys indicate record runoffs and flooding can be expected this spring.

There is deeper snow with more water content this year than in the big Sierra winter 1952, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. reported.

PG&E employees and national park rangers this week completed the third series of monthly measurements in the watersheds draining into the San Joaquin Valley and into the Sacramento Valley south of the American River.

April 1 surveyors' records showed snow depth of 191 inches and water content of 81 inches at Kaiser Pass in Fresno County.

In April of 1952, the snow was 158 inches deep and water content measured 69 inches. The normal water content for April is 37 inches.

At 8,000-foot Nellie Lake, surveyors found 191 inches of snow with a water content of 79 inches. There was 168 inches of snow there in 1952, with water content of 76 inches. Normal April water content there is 36 inches.

EASTER

of folklore, lamb and painted eggs.

Spaniards marked Easter with countrywide processions. Barefooted women, many dragging heavy iron chains from their ankles, trudged through Madrid and other cities to reenact the role of Christian slaves. Hooded faithful bearing heavy wooden crosses also marched, as did goose-stepping Spanish army units in combat uniform.

French children anticipated long Easter Sunday dinners before they could rush into their gardens and hunt for fat chocolate eggs they knew were there.

In Belgium it will be cheese, not eggs, that pageants feature. Floats representing various cheeses will parade through Herve on Monday to concelebrate Easter and the town's annual cheese festival.

Britons prepared for the annual Easter spate of protest marches, rallies, speeches and harangues by those with a cause. Scottish and Welsh ban-the-bomb groups planned Easter demonstrations at the U.S. Air Force base at Ruislip.

In the Philippines, the only heavily Christian nation in Asia, children put finishing touches on angel costumes, complete with paper wings, which they will wear in stage plays reenacting the resurrection.

AEC Preparing Bigger Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is preparing for possible underground nuclear tests in Nevada with explosive forces equivalent to several million tons of TNT and even larger ones in Alaska.

A commission spokesman said Saturday if the the future tests are approved, they would be "weapons related" to meet Defence Department requirements.

The planning for subterranean detonations many times more powerful than previously conducted was outlined in AEC correspondence with the Howard Hughes organization, which owns large interests in Nevada. The Hughes people had voiced concern over possible danger from larger explosions.

HEART

The artificial heart, Cooley said, eliminated the possibility of rejection, apparently eliminated the threat of coagulation, and minimized the destruction of blood vessels.

But the device could only be considered as a temporary means of keeping a patient alive until a human donor could be found. "A journey of a million miles can begin with only one step," Cooley said. "If everyone said we have this thing licked, we would be left holding the bag."

A human donor was almost found last night.

A 31-year-old woman from Cleveland, Tex., who died after giving birth, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Houston, a journey of nearly 50 miles. Her heart was kept alive along the way with a resuscitator but it collapsed as her body was brought into the hospital.

An administrator at the hospital said the earliest a transplant had ever been performed at St. Luke's was nine hours after the donor became available.

Last night, Dr. Cooley could have transplanted the woman's heart into Karp in an hour and a half.

The prospective donor remained anonymous at the request of her family. Administrators said today there was no prospects for another donor.

Cooley said after the operation the artificial heart could keep Karp alive if a suitable human donor could be found "in a week or so."

The artificial heart, designed and built by Dr. Domingo Liotta, a native of Argentina, an assistant professor of surgery at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, weighs one-half pound. A human heart weighs three-quarters of a pound.

The console that operates the artificial heart costs $20,000 and is reusable. The heart itself costs $5,000 and can not be used again.

Karp's transplant was the 124th in the short history of such operations and the second Friday. A 35-year-old Canadian woman received a heart in Canada's 15th such transplant yesterday in Toronto.

New Phone Book Soon To Arrive

Delivery of the 1969 Marin County telephone directory will start Wednesday and should be completed within three days, announced Jack Eddy, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph district manager.

Initial distribution will be to 119,000 phones, Eddy said, a 5,000 increase over last year. It took 186 tons of paper to print the directory, which will include 63,387 alphabetical listings for every community in the county.

The size of the book is 800 pages, 40 more than last year, Eddy said.

Boatyard Owner, Aide In Court

Donald Charles Harlander, 43, of Orinda, owner of the Richmond Boat Works, and his employee, Quentin Tripp Lewton, 24, of San Anselmo, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to stealing a car in San Anselmo March 20.

A preliminary hearing was set for April 21.

The two men were arrested two blocks from where the car was stolen after the owner, Mrs. Therese Berreyesa of 124 Prospect Avenue, called police to say, "Someone just took my car and they are going down the hill."

OBITUARIES

Donald M. Parker Dies At 61

Donald M. Parker, 61, a photoengraver for the Independent-Journal the last 13 years, died at a local hospital yesterday after a long illness.

Parker, who came to the I-J after working with the Salter Brothers engraving firm in San Francisco for 30 years, lived with his wife, Gladys, at 842 Hayden Avenue in Novato.

A native of Portland, Ore., Parker had lived in the Bay Area for more than 50 years. He was a member of the Hamilton Masonic Lodge and Photoengravers Union.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. Monday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. Inurnment will follow.

tered auto near the Highspire service plaza about 10 miles east of Harrisburg. Several spent cartridges were scattered about the auto, which bore Missouri license plates.

The state police said several autos and trucks were struck by the flying bullets, and windshields and windows were shattered.

The turnpike, opened in 1940, is the nation's oldest superhighway. It links many of Pennsylvania's major cities as it spans the state from Ohio to New Jersey.

Gift Will Assist Wildlife Visits

Youngsters from underprivileged areas in the Bay Area will have a chance to go to Audubon Canyon Ranch in West Marin for a day of outdoor conservation education as a result of an anonymous $1,000-a-year gift from a Boston foundation to the Ranch.

Schools in low income areas needing financial help in visiting the ranch should write Audubon Canyon Ranch, Stinson Beach.

The grant by the Boston foundation will provide $1,000 a year for three years.

Pedestrian Hit By Car, Treated

Denise Lorne, 18, of 161 Sacramento Avenue, San Anselmo, was injured at 1:17 a.m. today when she ran into the path of a car as she crossed Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at San Francisco Boulevard, police said.

She was treated at Marin General Hosiptal for a fractured right collarbone and cuts and scrapes on her right leg.

The driver of the car was John Joseph Higgins, of 87 Woodland Avenue, San Anselmo.

HOWARD CHAVEZ

Funeral for Howard Chavez, 62, of South San Francisco, a former resident of Mill Valley who died Thursday in a San Francisco hospital, will be at 11 a.m. Monday at Halsted and Co. in San Francisco. Inurnment will follow.

Chavez, a bookbinder more than 40 years, was born in Mill Valley and lived there as a boy. He returned to Mill Valley after World War II and lived there until 1955.

He is survived by his wife, Ann, and a sister, Mrs. Vee Fifer of San Francisco.

ROMULO GALLEGOS

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Romulo Gallegos, the first popularly elected president of Venezuela and one of Latin America's most distinguished educators and writers, died today in a local clinic. He was 84.

At the time of his death, Gallegos was chairman of the Inter-American Committee of Human Rights of the Organization of American States.

He was best known, in Venezuela and abroad, as the author of the novel, "Dona Barbara," which was published in Spain in 1928 and later made into a film. He also wrote a political satire, "Canaima," which was strongly critical of Venezuelan dictator Juan Vicente Gomez. Gomez banned the book in Venezuela in the 1930s.

A lifelong opponent of dictatorships, Gallegos founded the Accion Democratica party in Venezuela and ran as its first candidate for president in 1947, after one of his former students—Romulo Betancourt—had overthrown the government and called for national elections.

Gallegos won the election with 80 per cent of the vote but served only two months before being toppled by a military coup led by Marcos Perez Jimenez, Perez Jimenez ruled the country for 10 years.

Gallegos, however, refused to resign the presidency, charging that the military had betrayed the constitution.

"Until my term expires, there are only two places for me in Venezuela—in jail or in the presidential palace," he told the coup leaders.

The army marched him at gunpoint to a Mexico-bound plane and sent him into exile.

He lived in exile in the United States, Cuba and Mexico, where he directed films based on his novels.

Gallegos returned to Venezuela during Betancourt's 1959-64 administration and was made a senator for life.

BISHOP WELCH

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Herbert Welch, former president of Ohio Wesleyan University and a bishop of the United Methodist Church, died Friday night. He was 106.

The Rev. Dr. Welch gave up his administrative duties in the Church 20 years ago, when he retired for the third time at the age of 86. He was thought to be the oldest college alumnus in the United States and the oldest bishop of any church in the world, a Church spokesman said.

The bishop once said he had lived a life in which "typhoon and earthquake and fire . . . and Alaskan shipwreck, bandits and revolutions broke up any possible monotony."

The bishop, who began as an engineering student but then decided to become a preacher, was ordained in 1890 and elected a bishop in 1916.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Wife Trumps Partner's Ace And Causes Anguish To Lover

DEAR HELEN:

I'm working in a factory with a guy named Pete, who just happens to be a married man. I've loved him for a year, and if he doesn't love me, he's been giving a good imitation.

But he hasn't spoken to me since the middle of February when I sent him a Valentine and his wife got it first.

Should I fight for him or forget him?—P.K.L.

DEAR P:

Forget him. You played the wrong card — and his wife holds all the trumps! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You get a lot of letters from unhappy and disturbed people. I'd like to tell them about an organization that can help. It's called Neurotics Anonymous and the national headquarters are: Room 426, Colorado Building, 1341 "G" Street N.W., Washington, D.C., 20005.

This program, based on the Alcoholics Anonymous plan for 12 steps, has helped me overcome fear, guilt and many inferiority feelings. I feel like a human being for the first time in years. At age 22, I have learned to live with the problems I can't solve.

Unfortunately, Neurotics Anonymous isn't accepted by the majority, as people who really need it don't want to be classified as "crazy." Perhaps mention in your column would show them that most all of us are a little neurotic and could do with group therapy.

Those interested can write to the above address for direction to a club in their area.—LINDA

DEAR HELEN:

You've never had this in your column, so here's my

WHAT IS A FIRST LOVE?

A first love is the pre-dawn quiet of early spring. It comes hesitantly, enveloped in a fine, translucent mist. It needs protection from bitterness and rejection.

A first love is the master of disguise and a quick-change artist any performer would worship. It comes stumbling and colored bright pink for shyness and embarrassment. It comes aloof and in green for indifference. It comes shrouded in gray, splashed with the blood red of a broken heart. You can add a smile and a few words to grayness and it will turn to yellow — for happiness.

A first love is elusive. It's here today, here tomorrow; and the next day it fades, so that you can hardly tell it still exists. But it does. You can hide a first love with the mist, but the sun has to come out eventually and it will burn the mist away. — D.A.J.

DEAR HELEN:

I used to date this boy that my mother liked very much, but I didn't. So we broke up. But my mother has sorta hired him to keep watch over me. Not that I do anything wrong, but the trouble is, this kid still likes me, so he makes up things to tell my mother, figuring if I get in trouble I'll get grounded and then she'll make me date a "nice safe boy like Max."

How can I convince my mother that he is a sneaky blackmailer, almost? — STYMIED

DEAR S.:

Blackmailers almost always hang themselves if you give them enough rope.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

THE BRIM THAT FLOPS is tops for spring. Here is a dip-brim cloche of pink felt from the Mr. John collection, teamed with a matching scarf flowing from the crown to add softness. (UPI Telephoto)

'Easter Bonnet' Vanishes Along With Floral Chapeaus

NEW YORK (UPI)—The brim that flops is the brim that's tops in the hats women are buying for spring.

Giving the big, "relaxed" brims strong competition, however, are the scarf hats, part of the millinery scene in recent years, but this spring better than ever before.

Faded from the picture are the traditional florals, with few exceptions. And gone too is the phrase "Easter bonnet" (sorry about that, Irving Berlin) from the hat industry's vocabulary.

The bonnet is not a 1969 fashion, And as the hatmakers explain, women no longer buy a hat just for an Easter Sunday. Not, that is, unless they are celebrities on parade or girls grabbing for television camera attention in Fifth Avenue's fashion spectacle on this Christian holy day.

INSTEAD, WOMEN think in terms of a new hat or hats for a whole season, and often in terms of coordination with one specific outfit.

Coordination is a preachment of Mr. John, the milliner-clothes designer who uses the term "relaxed" to describe his spring best-sellers—"drooping onto the face, with chiffon drapes to the floor."

These chapeaux, some with brims nearly six inches wide and with "good round crowns" are ideal with the pants suits sweeping the feminine fashion scene, Mr. John said. They go well, too, with the smooth, "boy hairdo", which has replaced what he called the "orthopedic" coiffure, twisted and combed into an artificial fantasy.

"The look today is sort of like Marlene Dietrich riding off into the desert," said Mr. John.

A United Press International pre-Easter check of the Millinery Institute of America, trade organization for the industry, plus couture firms and volume manufacturers showed enormous popularity for brims and the big use of scarves as trims for felt or straw or to make the entire hat.

THE INSTITUTE said a check of buying offices showed: flowers out; the floppy felts, fabric turbans and scarfs hats big in the East and Northeast; the scarf hats and brimmed straws leading in the South; felts, straws, usually brimmed, selling in the Midwest and West; and in the Southwest, the "status" hat, a big brimmed number in straw or felt looking like a cowboy's hat.

White's been a big seller with most firms. Archie Eason, who ran a millinery business in his native Jacksonville, Fla., before moving it to New York nine years ago, said white on his "status brim" number was one of the tops of the season.

And with the teen and 20's set, Irving Sefir of Emme Boutique reported this trend—"status" hats which are nothing more than blocked felts with four-inch brims and high crowns, untrimmed.

Good Taste Suits

Here's help for males deciding to try something other than the ivy league suit: don't buy the something other if it looks outlandish. "We are reaching a tricky point in men's wear," says the designer, Richard Miller. "The minute one man looks outlandish in a suit, it's no good. We are drawing a line of good taste."

'Super Shoppers' Careful Buyers

Today, the average family's food bill amounts to approximately 18 per cent of its take-home pay. That's a pretty large slice of the pie. Any single purchase, such as an automobile, amounting to as large a portion of our personal spending power would be given more than careful consideration.

Why not so with food expenditures? Probably because it involves many small decisions before anything is realized in actual savings.

A few basic guidelines will be helpful in mastering the art of shopping.

One of the first rules of wise shopping is to take advantage of sales. But don't be tempted to buy things you really don't need.

Compare prices, especially of fresh, canned and frozen foods. Fresh foods are usually more expensive, except when "in season." And if you live near a local growing area you'll find prices lower than in other parts of the country where fresh food has to be shipped in by rail or truck.

Convenience foods are one of the mixed blessings bestowed upon modern homemakers. They save you time and energy but you also pay for the food having been pre-washed, peeled, and pre-cooked. These items should be evaluated according to your particular needs. You might find some convenience foods will be worthwhile using on a regular basis, while others might be reserved for emergencies only.

Make use of substitutions such as dry milk occasionally in cooking or more often if you're really trying to stretch the food budget. Macaroni and rice are helpful as meat-extenders. Margarine can be an economical substitute for butter in cooking or as a table spread.

You can save a great deal of time and energy if you are familiar enough with the store where you do your shopping to be able to arrange your shopping list beforehand according to the general arrangement of products on the shelves. This saves doubling-back to pick up items you missed. If possible, shop early in the day when selection is greatest and stores are likely to be less crowded.

Dad will especially appreciate these considerations if he has volunteered to do the shopping for a busy mother. If there's a youngster in the family it might be a fun excursion for them to go together.

As you become a more sophisticated shopper your familiarity with prices and brands will increase and intelligent shopping will become less tedious.

Mother Of The Bridegroom Performs Wedding Rite

Bill Chandler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Chandler of San Francisco, formerly of Mill Valley, claimed Charlotte Houston as his bride Saturday in a 7 p.m. ceremony held at the Scientology Headquarters in San Francisco.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys Peaks of Fort Worth, Tex.

The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's mother, who is a newly ordained minister of the Church of Scientology in San Francisco.

Maid of honor was Sadie Bishop, and Cathy O'Gorman was bridesmaid. Best man was Scott Taylor and James Jenkins was the usher. All attendants were from San Francisco.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Scientology headquarters, where both of the young people are employed. They will live in San Francisco.

The new Mrs. Chandler attended Oakland City College. Bill attended the University of California at Davis and the College of Scientology in East Grimstead, England.

He is the brother of Mrs. Wilson Goddard of Davis and Marie Chandler of San Francisco and the grandson of Mrs. Sibyl Schneller of Mill Valley and Mrs. Charles Chandler of San Rafael.

Donegal Tweeds

The gray flannel suit has given way to Donegal tweeds, velvets, leather, furs—you name it. Textures and colors, in a dazzling variety, are the marks of masculine high fashion for spring.

CHERYL REDDING, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Redding Jr. of Corte Madera, and Carmen Simonelli were wed at St. Anselm's Catholic Church. The bride is a graduate of Redwood High School and College of Marin. Carmen served in the Air Force, stationed at Travis Air Force Base. Mrs. Ronald Hune of Novato was matron of honor and Racco Palladino Jr. was best man. The Simonellis will live in Boston, the bridegroom's home. (Planert photo)

Instruction Available

A new practical course on group leadership and parliamentary procedure for men and women who are taking responsible positions in civic, church, business and professional groups will open Tuesday evening.

The 12 session course will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesdays at the San Rafael High School cafeteria, sponsored by the College of Marin Community Education Department. Lothar Salin, former president of Toastmasters International, will be the instructor.

The first sessions will deal with use of parliamentary procedures, using leadership to get things done, and analysis of parliamentary techniques and an introduction to group dynamics techniques. The second half of the series includes understanding and using the speaking-listening process, and the use of group dynamics.

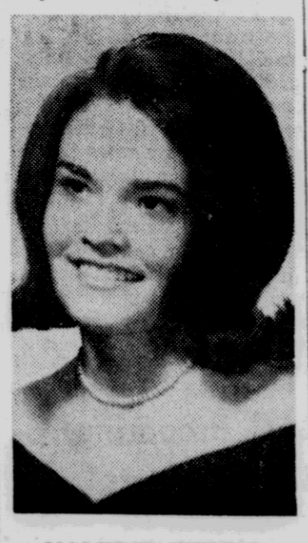
Registrations are open at the Registrar's Office, Student Personnel Center, College Avenue, Kentfield. Registration also will be accepted at the first class meeting.

Date Set For August

Mr. and Mrs. Claude R. Witzel of Novato announced the engagment of their daughter, Valerie Claire, to Charles W. Ridgeway Jr. of Novato at a family dinner at their home on Indian Valley Road.

The future bride is the sister of Terrence Witzel of San Mateo and Ron Witzel of Walnut Creek. She was graduated from Novato High School and College of Marin. Valerie is attending the Orvis School of Nursing at the University of Nevada in Reno.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Ridgeway of King City are the future bridegroom's parents. He is the brother of Mrs. Norma Conway of Petaluma. He was graduated from Novato High School and is attending College of Marin. Charles plans to continue his studies in business administration at the University of Nevada. He has served with the Army in Korea for two years.



VALERIE WITZEL

San Rafael Indoor Sports Elect Mrs. G. A. Hendricks

Mrs. Glenn A. Hendricks of Novato has been elected president of the San Rafael chapter of Indoor Sports.

Josephine Hendricks has also served as district bowling chairman and district executive secretary for the organization. She has been a member for eight years of the organization, which contacts and draws out physically handicapped persons to lead as normal a life as possible.

Mrs. Hendricks says the organization is now working on legislative bills concerning the disabled, both state and national, and even lobbying when possible; watch-dogging recent state and national legislation pertaining to accessibility, either new or remodeling of all state and federal buildings; working to open a home for self-care disabled through money making projects and having a membership drive to bring out more disabled.

Mrs. Hendricks was graduated from Chico State College and has an elementary teacher's certificate. She and her husband, a railroad engineer, have lived in Marin County 28 years. They have three children, John and Ray Hendricks and Mrs. Jo Ann Anderson.

Officers elected to serve with Mrs. Hendricks are Walter Hughes of Kentfield, first vice president; Mrs. Julie Butler, Mill Valley, second vice president; Mrs. Victor Brown, San Rafael, executive secretary; Russell Bohlke, Larkspur, recording secretary, and Robert Thomas, Daly City, treasurer.

District director is Walter Hughes, and chapter directors are Nello Palidini, Novato; Mrs. Alice Caldwell, Mill Valley, and Mrs. Ben Day, Mill Valley.

Wendy Magladry Bride Of Robert F. Edwards

Wendy Magladry of San Rafael became the bride of Robert Franklin Edwards in a ceremony Saturday afternoon at St. Luke's Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Wendy chose her sister Betsy Magladry as maid of honor and another sister, Nancy Magladry, along with Nancy Kimberling and Cathy O'Brien as bridesmaids.

Phillip C. Edwards was best man for his brother. Ushering were Bruce Edwards, another brother; Bruce Palmer and Gary Luchese, all of Novato.

A reception was held after the wedding at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Marilyn Malm Magladry of San Rafael. Wendy is also the daughter of Dr. G. William Magladry of Palo Cedro.

After a Southern California wedding trip the newlyweds will live in Novato.

Wendy is a graduate of San Rafael High School and the College of Marin and is employed with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Rafael. She is also the sister of Robert and G. William Magladry III. Mrs. A. H. Nicoll of Los Altos Hills is her grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Edwards of Novato are parents of the bridegroom. He is a graduate of Novato High School and Heald's Business College and is a professional musician. Mrs. D. B. Edwards of Piedmont and B. F. Edwards Jr. of San Francisco are his grandparents.

Monika Brodien Sets June Date

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard B. Brodien of San Anselmo are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Monica Karin, to Kenneth Wilkie Van Der Slice of Santa Rosa.

Monika was graduated from Terra Linda High School and is employed at Ross General Hospital. Roxanne Gail Brodien is her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. George Evans Van Der Slice of Santa Rosa are parents of the future bridegroom. Kenneth is a graduate of Montgomery High School in Santa Rosa and attends Santa Rosa Junior College.

The couple plan to be married in June in San Anselmo.

Primary project of the board the past year and for the next term is the establishment of two funds. One will provide tuition grants for minority group children, and the other will finance teacher training in a new careers program for four black women through donations from individuals and organizations in Marin.

Vine Tells Crucifixion Story

By GRACE HENDERSON

What do flowers say to you? Do they brighten your day? Do they form a background for people and automobiles in their hurry to go somewhere — or can you find a story in their petals?

Since the beginning of recorded time, religion has been closely associated with nature. And somewhere and at some time interpretation of religious events through flowers began.

Thus it was that the Passiflora (Passion flower) became the visual illustration for the story of Christ's suffering on His way to, and upon, the Cross at Golgotha. A native of Brazil, the hardy Passiflora vine may be found in local gardens and adorning trellises at such locations as near the old Letterman Hospital on the Presidio grounds in San Francisco and behind a medical center at 800 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo.

MANY PEOPLE "say it with flowers," but no plant expresses a stronger story than does the Passiflora, or Passion Flower, that tells of the Crucifixion of Christ through its petals. In the blossom and vine may be found illustrations of the apostles, the crown of thorns, wounds, nails that pierced Christ's body, whips and the hands of the persecutors. The legend has been handed down from early missionaries who saw the story in the blooms of the Passion Flower.

The plant grows outdoors and in greenhouses, usually blooming after Easter unless forced. Local nurseries have starts available and it is a popular vine for home gardeners. The hybrids are of varied colors but the more common specie is a white and lavender combination, not spectacular to look at but with an interesting and intriguing story.

The unusual blooms are interpreted as holding significance with the Crucifixion story, and early missionaries are said to be responsible for the interpretation given. To them the story indicates the Passion of Christ and the blossoms are implements of the Crucifixion itself.

The 10 outside petals of the Passiflora blossom represent the 10 apostles present at the Crucifixion, Peter and Judas being absent; the corona, or crown, (the darker circle of lacy fringe) is described as representing the crown of plaited thorns placed on Jesus' head — or as another version has it, the halo associated later with the figure of Christ.

The five anthers or stamens relate to His five wounds, but some people have suggested they represent the hammers used to drive the nails (this theory is based on the shape of the stamens). The three stigmas in the center of the blossom represent the three nails piercing His hands and feet (two for the hands, one for the feet).

To complete the story, parts of the vine itself are included. The curling, grasping tendrils are said to represent cords or whips used to scourge the "thieves" prior to their Crucifixion. The finger-like, or digitate, leaves suggest the many hands of the persecutors.

So, through legend, a portion of the Easter story has been retained in the life of the Passiflora, a common flower.

Phillips Brooks seems to exemplify the story in "An Easter Carol":

"Tomb, thou shalt not hold Him longer;
Death is strong, but Life is stronger;
Stronger than the dark, the light;
Stronger than the wrong, the right;
Faith and Hope triumphant say
Christ will rise on Easter Day."

Casuals For Girls

To wear with pants or maybe a short jumpsuit, there is a special sort of casual shoe for little girls. It has two straps with squared spectator toes and should be done in black and white patent.

Mrs. Ralph Tobener Is Chairman Of Auxiliary

MRS. RALPH TOBENER

A busy grandmother, boasting of 15 grandchildren, will head the Nazareth House Auxiliary this coming year. Mrs. Ralph E. Tobener of Corte Madera, a Marinite for 22 years, is the new chairman for the auxiliary.

She has been active in cultural and civic groups and is a past president of Marin County Junior Theatre, Marin Catholic High School Women's Guild, St. Patrick's Women's Guild, Marin Deanery Council of Catholic Women and past vice president of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women in San Francisco. Mrs. Tobener is the mother of five children, all married, and the wife of a building contractor.

All children interest the gray-haired woman and have been the basis for her juvenile hall and other child-oriented work. Her 15 grandchildren all wished to spend a part of their Easter vacation with the Tobeners this week so Mrs. Tobener shifted them by twos and threes to accommodate them all.

Other interests for the new chairman include music and the making of hooked rugs. Mrs. Tobener was co-founder of the Nazareth House Auxiliary which had its beginning about three years ago. She was assisted by Mrs. Lester Teter of San Rafael with the organization.

Nazareth House Auxiliary is a volunteer service organization to assist guests and the Sisters of Nazareth.

Other incoming officers are Mrs. L. E. Schweb, vice president; Mrs. R. Clark Clopton, treasurer, and Miss Charlotte Gates, secretary.

Birth Rate Is Forecast

All indications point toward a new baby boom for the 1970's.

There are several reasons for the current belief that there will be an increasing number of births in the years ahead. It is true that the birth rate decline slowed to a virtual halt during 1968, and the experts expect birth rates will either stay near current levels or maybe even rise slightly throughout the 1970s. Besides this leveling of the birth rate, the number of women of child bearing age who were born during the time of the soaring birth rates of the 1950s is now growing at an increasingly rapid rate.

There were 40.8 million women between the child bearing ages of 15 and 44 in 1968. The U. S. Census Bureau predicts there will be an increase of 11.1 million, for a total of 51.9 million women in the child bearing ages by 1980. All these figures mean that there will be more babies born in the 1970s than were born in the 1960s, even if the birth rate does not rise.

The indications point toward a record number of births in the United States in 1980 — 4.5 million babies. Therefore, even though the nation's birth rate will remain fairly low and steady, the already rapid growth of U. S. population will get an added boost.

Designers' Linen Tailors And Travels Beautifully

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

I have always thought linen was very hot and not too practical in the summer. Yet, when I look through the fashion books and wander through the costume room at our department store, I am always shocked to find linen dresses that are priced as high as $200. I can't understand how they could possibly cost so much when the linen at our store only costs about $4 per yard.

MRS. D. E. R.

DEAR MRS. D. E. R.:

Linen has become very popular with the top designers, but they aren't using the ordinary kind of linen that is usually found in fabric shops. They are using an imported French suiting linen that is 54 inches wide. This linen doesn't wrinkle like the kind you are thinking about. It tailors beautifully and travels well if you don't overfit the garment.

It seems quite expensive and yet when you consider the width, it isn't. This can be underlined or not, we have made garments using both methods of construction.

MRS. D. BROWN, Ft. Wayne, Ind., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her suggestion:

Summer is just ahead and many of us will be making outdoor tablecloths or picnic cloths. To make, allow enough material for a one inch hem on all sides inserting drapery weights that come by the yard. This will keep the cloths from blowing away.

DEAR EUNICE,

I thought that styles had not changed the past few years until I looked at patterns and compared them to some clothes in my closet. Now I am wondering just what is "in" and what is "out." Do dresses and skirts still have kick pleats at the back? Some of my dresses are wide enough to take out the pleats.

MRS. W. E. M.

DEAR MRS. W. E. M.:

There really isn't any one look today. Everyone wears what they want to wear, but you also have to have the courage to wear the clothes you believe in and not make excuses.

The kick pleats you are referring to were a necessity when we wore the narrow, long skirts, or you couldn't walk. The kind of skirt that has been popular the past few years had a great deal more ease and fullness in it — anything from a dirndl to the A-line skirts. Now, the very newest skirts have soft pleats which are much more attractive when short; the more narrow skirts were more attractive when long.

If you can sew and can afford it, I would give your older clothes away to someone who is less fortunate than you and have the joy of making something that is up to the minute for yourself.

MRS. M. McM. SAYS:

"Since I have a family of three girls who all wear ribbons in their hair, we had a problem deciding how to keep the ribbons from getting crushed or lost and how they could be chosen at a moment's notice. I surprised my girls by purchasing a brass towel rack from the dimestore, pressed their ribbons and hung them neatly on the rack. Now, they not only make a great conversation piece for the room, but they are organized."

A walking cabana, a flower bikini coverup and ribbons for your hair can all be made by following directions in Eunice Farmer's booklet "Boutique Gifts." To obtain your copy send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer in care of The Independent-Journal.

Warden Asks End To Race Imbalance

An order to equalize racial imbalance among San Quentin Prison employees and in job assignments to prisoners has been issued by Warden Louis S. Nelson.

Nelson ordered the percentage of minority employees doubled, from five to 10 per cent, within the year, and directed future assignment of inmate work and training on a system of racial quotas.

He suggested active recruitment of minority-group people and leaving vacancies unfilled until such people can be found as means of accomplishing his goal.

Nelson said he has found racial imbalance in jobs and training offered prison inmates. White prisoners get soft jobs and the training more useful on the outside, he said.

Nelson told his staff he could not understand why there were nine Negroes to every white man in the prison quarry or why the five Negroes on the 15-man detail assigned to the captain's substation were all janitors.

Although he deplores the use of quotas to achieve racial balance in job assignments, Nelson said, it now appears the only way to attain equality.

The racial mix of the prison staff, Nelson said, should more closely resemble the inmate ratio of 50.6 per cent white, 31.5 per cent Negro, 16.3 per cent Mexican-American and 1.3 per cent other minorities.

'Bowery Mayor' Dies At 65

NEW YORK (AP) — Sammy Fuchs, the "mayor of the Bowery" who befriended bums and Broadway stars alike, died early yesterday at his home in Queens. He was 65 years old.

Fuchs ran "Sammy's Bowery Follies" for 35 years, featuring the talents mainly of old-timers who had seen better days on the stage and vaudeville circuit. Present-day luminaries often dropped in to entertain, including Jimmy Durante.

Fuchs was always good for a hand-out to inhabitants of "Skid Row." Each year since 1946 he provided Thanksgiving turkey dinners for the needy and homeless.

For some years he held a "Bum of the Month" contest—the judges being a priest, a local Chamber of Commerce member and a third person. The winner received new clothes, a room in a hotel, and leads for a job.

Smothers Brothers Show Is Canceled

NEW YORK (AP) — The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour television show has been canceled by the Columbia Broadcasting System for next season after several months of argument between the network and its stars about the program's content.

Robert Wood, president of CBS-TV said yesterday that Tom and Dick Smothers had broken their contract by failing to submit Sunday's program in time for a screening last Wednesday by the network and its affiliates.

"CBS has been trying to force us in to a breach of contract," Tom Smothers replied in Los Angeles. "CBS is obligated by contract to air 26 Smothers Brothers shows next season."

"They've harassed us and want us off the air because they think we're a threat to them," Smothers told newsmen, "... they have lied to us consistently, we have complied with our contract at all times."

The brothers have disagreed previously with CBS over cuts which the network made in the show. The Jan. 5 show was dropped and an earlier one substituted after folk singer Joan Baez, who was appearing as a guest, dedicated a song to her husband who is a draft resister.

In announcing the cancellation of the show next season, Wood said that the Smothers Brothers "had consistently failed" to deliver tapes of their shows in time for the network to review them.

In his telegram to Tom Smothers yesterday, Wood said the tape of Sunday's show had not been received in time to be reviewed. He said a show originally broadcast on Nov. 10 would be substituted for it.

"On the basis of our information about parts of that program," Wood said, "we believe that the program in its present form would not be acceptable."

He said the network understood that the program included "at the very least ... a monologue which in our opinion would be considered to be irreverent and offensive to a large segment of our audience, and therefore unacceptable even if this were not the week of the Eisenhower funeral rites and even if Sunday were not Easter Sunday."

The monologue, CBS said, was by comedian David Steinberg and was described as a "sermonette," satirizing the religious lectures used by some stations to sign on or off.

A spokesman for the Smothers brothers said that Sunday's program was previewed by CBS broadcast officials in Los Angeles and that the Steinberg monologue was dropped from the program tape at their suggestion.

Even if it had been left in, the spokesman said, it would not have been "remotely offensive."

Livestock Show Set June 21-22

The 20th annual West Marin Junior Livestock Show will be held at Point Reyes Station June 21-22 and the sponsoring West Marin Lions Club is looking for queen candidates, Mrs. J. H. Mendoza, registrar for the queen contest, said yesterday.

The contest, with an entry deadline of April 15, is open to all girls between 16 and 21 who live in the county or attend Tomales High School. The winner will be decided on the basis of most show tickets sold per candidate.

The winner will get a $500 scholarship and the possibility of a trip to Hawaii, Mrs. Mendoza said. All entrants get to keep 25 per cent of the money from their ticket sales. The queen and her two princesses will receive a trip to Hollywood and Disneyland, a dinner and a show in San Francisco and their royal gowns as a gift of the Lions.

Senior Citizens Due Tour Of Wineries

The San Rafael Goldenaires Senior Citizen Club will visit the Napa Valley wine country in a field trip to St. Helena on April 16.

The club members, to leave from the Community Recreation Center at Second and Brooks streets at 9:30 a.m., will visit several wineries during the daylong trip. Reservations must be made by next Friday. More information on the trip may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

Rodney L. Cameron Files For Council

Rodney L. Cameron, 33, of 1537 Lauren Drive, filed candidacy papers yesterday for the Petaluma City Council election on June 10.

A Petaluma native, Cameron is employed as a computer operator for the Operating Engineers Union, Local 3, San Francisco.

Scarlatti Oratorio Turns Up

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI)— A spring cleaning has turned up the 300-year-old manuscript of an oratorio by Alessandro Scarlatti that lay in a vault unnoticed for a decade.

The oratorio is titled "La Guiditta" and dated March, 1693, Naples. It was discovered in a collection of rare printed materials in the Morristown National Historical Park Library, it was disclosed yesterday.

The manuscript is the only musical work in the collection, willed to the library by the late philanthropist Lloyd Wadell Smith of Florham Park.

Staff members cataloging the huge collection discovered it.

Its authenticity has been verified by two members of the music faculty of the College of St. Elizabeth in Convent Station.

A three-page letter bound to the front of the manuscript, apparently in Scarlatti's fine handwriting and signed by him, contains performance notes on the work.

Mrs. Kulka Sets Get-Togethers In Vote Campaign

Mrs. Valda Kulka, Kentfield School District board candidate, will meet the voters at a series of coffee klatches and wine-and-cheese get-togethers in her campaign for election April 15.

Dr. and Mrs. David Zakiam and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Marvin will host an 8 p.m. meeting Monday in the Marvin home at 330 Via La Paz, Greenbrae.

Mrs. Kulka will be at two meetings Tuesday, a 10 a.m. coffee klatch sponsored by Mrs. Cornelius Sullivan and Mrs. Donald Elsener at the Sullivan home, 110 Tioga Lane, Greenbrae, and an 8 p.m. meeting hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Harold Brownstein of 25 Wolfe Glen Way, Kentfield.

An 8 p.m. meeting is slated for Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Erskine, 30 Turnagain Road, Kent Woodlands. Next Monday at 8 p.m. is the final meeting at the home of Mr. and Mss Harold Stone of 33 Via Navarro, Greenbrae.

Life Termer Dies At Prison

Lemmie Hackney, 62, who was serving a life term for murder at San Quentin, died at the prison yesterday after a long illness, officials said.

Hackney was serving the life term on two counts of first degree murder from Stanislaus County. Prison officials said he was transferred to San Quentin from the California Medical Facility at Vacaville on Jan. 27 for treatment of lung and heart trouble.

He is survived by a sister, Rosa McLourin of Fresno.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

MUSIC REVIEW

'Requiem' Has Great Emotional Impact

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — The emotional impact of Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem" was doubled last night at the Opera House because it was presented in memory of the late former President and General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It was of special interest to me because the Marin Symphony under Sandor Salgo and the Winifred Baker Chorale and Children's Chorus were given the honor by the composer of presenting the Northern California premiere of this choral-symphonic masterpiece.

It was performed in Marin on Dec. 6, 1964, with a repeat performance in Grace Cathedral on March 28, 1965. Marin soloists were soprano Gwen Curatilo and baritone Byron Jones.

Of course, everything last night was greatly magnified in scale with the full San Francisco Symphony directed by guest conductor Hans Schmidt-Isserstedt, a chamber orchestra under Verne Sellin, a Stanford University chorus of some 200 voices, and the San Francisco Boys Chorus under Madi Bacon, all performing with soloists of international renown.

These were Negro soprano Ella Lee, Negro tenor George Shirley and Welsh Baritone Delme Byrne-Jones.

Schmidt-Isserstedt conducted in such a tightly controlled and unobtrusive manner that attention was focused at all times on performers.

Dedicated to four of the composer's friends who died in World War II and combining the Latin text of the mass for the dead with the poetry of the young British poet Wilfred Owne, who was killed in World War I, the requiem and special significance for Americans who feel anguish over Vietnam.

For this reason and because Shirley and Byrne-Jones had excellent voices, the poems sung in English were the most moving part. Though Shirley's tonal quality was not always pure, he had a fine strong lyric tenor and sang with total involvement, but I was more impressed with Byrne-Jones's perfectly focused and projected voice, beautiful tone and remarkably distinct diction. The chamber orchestra accompanying them was directed with finesse by Sellin.

Miss Lee, singing the Latin text with the big chorus, had a rich toned, vibrant voice strong enough to lend it an agility in negotiating the wide intervals.

The big chorus did credit to its conductor, Harold C. Schmidt, with singing of sharp precision and expressive dynamics, but truly unique and enchanting was the singing of the boys' chorus heard from high up in the top balcony so that the effect was that of an angelic choir.

The final Libera Me was stunning with its stupendous climax joining all forces and its last barely audible "amen."

Merrydale Road Density Problem Before Planners

The Marin County Planning Commission is scheduled to decide Monday how much residential density should be allowed in the Merrydale Road area near the Civic Center, where apartments are springing up piecemeal.

Last month, the commission agreed that the strip closest to Highway 101 should be zoned for planned commercial, planned residential and garden apartments.

Still to be decided is the type of zoning for 10 lots on the west side of Merrydale Road from north San Pedro Road to El Prado Avenue.

The commission meeting will start at 9 a.m. in the administration building of the Civic Center.

In other action, Johngold Corp. will ask for a use permit to construct a service station and boat storage facility next to the Howard Johnson Restaurant and Motor Lodge under construction near the Richardson Bay Bridge in front of Fireside Motel. An indoor tennis club, originally planned there, proved unfeasible, according to Joseph E. Sheeks, attorney for the developer.

Driver Claims Weed Not His

Always clean a new car thoroughly.

Dennis A. Lee of 41 Madrone Avenue, Larkspur, learned that lesson the hard way yesterday, according to San Rafael police.

The police were called to a Northgate Shopping Center parking lot by a security guard who reported a marijuana cigarette on the dash board of a car. In searching the car, police also found in the glove compartment, a pipe which apparently had been used to smoke marijuana or hashish.

Lee told poice that he had just purchased the car and had cleaned some marijuana seeds from the floor of it. He had forgotten to throw away the cigarette and pipe, he said, claiming that they were not his. He was not held pending further investigation by San Rafael police.

CBS Acquires Two TV Cable Firms In Marin

Two Marin cable television firms have been acquired by the Columbia Broadcasting System and the network has begun proceedings to take over a third cable firm which also operates in the county.

CBS announced yesterday it has acquired Clear View Cable Systems Inc. and Marin Cable Television Inc. with a total of 7,500 customers by exchanging 51,510 shares of CBS common stock for all outstanding shares of the companies.

The network also said it has filed a petition with the Securities and Exchange Commission to acquire Tele-Vue Systems Inc., which operates in California (including Marin) and Washington.

The cable firms, which came to Marin several years ago, have been involved in running battles with each other, the cities they serve and the Marin County Board of Supervisors over service, or in many cases, lack of it.

The firms have also warred frequently with Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., blaming the telephone company for lack of progress in getting service to some areas. The telephone company has granted the cable firms use of its poles in parts of Marin.

Homeless In Flood

JAKARTA Indonesia (AP) — About 51,000 persons were homeless after floods hit the low lying areas of Central and East Java, Antara news agency reported today.

Bolinas, Stinson Residents Ask Judicial Change

A group of Bolinas and Stinson Beach residents wants their area to be absorbed into the Northwestern Judicial District court in Point Reyes Station so that they can appear there on misdemeanor and traffic cases instead of going into San Rafael.

County Supervisor Louis H. Baar said he has received several requests from residents who want the justice court to extend its jurisdiction. The requests will be considered by the board of supervisors at its meeting Tuesday at the Civic Center.

The justice court, with Judge David R. Baty presiding, handles misdemeanor cases, such as fishing violations, and minor civil disputes.

Timothy M. Jackson, administrative analyst in the county administrator's office, will oppose any expansion of the court's jurisdiction, recommending that it be consolidated with Marin Municipal Court in San Rafael.

Jackson said the presiding judge of Municipal Court, the State Judicial Council, and the 1965 Marin County Grand jury all recommended this consolidation.

Quality Is the Buy Word

in this 2 bedroom, 1½ bath home! For example, the walls — exterior of resawn redwood, next comes heavy plywood, followed by full insulation; with plywood followed by paneling on the inside! Just 5 years old, this home is built on a choice ½ acre with a view that is truly magnificent. Cozy now, and with just a little imagination the downstairs can be finished into a large bedroom or family room. Another bath is "roughed in" as well! Exclusive. $31,750.

Two Arrested In Theft Try In Larkspur

Larkspur police last night interrupted a burglary attempt and arrested a San Rafael youth who already faces two court appearances on burglary charges next week. San Rafel police later picked up a second youth allegedly involved in the burglary.

Booked into Marin County Jail were Andrew M. Gillespie, 19, of 808 A Street, and Robert Charles Baldi, 19, of 11B Taylor Street, both San Rafael. Gillespie was released on $6,250 and Baldi was held for the same bail. Both were to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. Monday.

Gillespie was arrested by Larkspur officer John Cottle after a chase through a wooded area behind the James Stewart residence at 378 Via La Cumbre, police said. A neighbor had called police when he spotted two persons in and around the house.

Cottle said as he and Officer Gary Orr arrived at the house, Gillespie was leaving the house through a sliding glass door and started running, dropping a strong box as he ran. Baldi, already outside the house, also ran and was picked up by San Rafael police several hours later, they said.

Gillespie already faced court hearing Tuesday and Thursday next week in connection with earlier burglaries in San Rafael and Tiburon.

Baldi has been spending weekends in the County Jail since pleading guilty in February to a charge of burglarizing a San Rafael apartment house last year.

Budget Report Due School Board

A preliminary 1969-70 budget will be presented when the Sausalito School District board meets at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the district office.

The board also will hear reports on plans for another joint Sausalito-Mill Valley summer school.

Closed sessions are scheduled with Supt. Philip W. Schneider and Asst. Supt. Joseph Amato to give them instructions for salary negotiations with teachers and other employees.

Quake Kills One

BELGRADE (AP)—A series of earthquakes struck southern Albania early yesterday, killing one child, injuring 65 persons, and destroying 1,000 buildings, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said today.

Boathouse Cleaning Under Way

A communitywide cleanup of the old Shriver boathouse on Tomales Bay at Inverness was held today in preparation for summer by the Inverness Improvement Association.

The association made plans for the cleanup at a meeting last night, according to Mrs. John C. Wright, secretary.

Mrs. Wright reported the five old round-bottom rowboats stored in the boathouse are still for sale. The boats are being sold to raise money for a community pier.

Mrs. Wright reported Richard Plant will continue as acting president until July when regular elections will be held. Plant was vice president when Allan D. Telford resigned as president last month.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. May 2 at Vladimir's Moravian Restaurant, Inverness.

Police Report Thefts At Homes

Three San Rafael homes have been burglarized, police reported yesterday.

Walter F. Freitas, retired attorney, of 50 Manderly Road, told police that his house was entered and a portable television, tool kit and stereo set valued at $1,250 taken between March 28 and 30 while he was away.

A rifle and tools valued at $123 were taken from the basement of his home at 20 G Street, Donald K. Newburn reported. The burglary occurred between March 20 and 30.

A stereo and two rings valued at $440 were taken from his home between 6:50 a.m. and 5 p.m. yesterday, Earl B. Kofold of 199 Southern Heights Boulevard said.

$4,250 In Watches, Gems Reported Stolen

Two homes and one car have been burglarized in the unincorporated area of Marin, according to sheriff's reports.

The largest burglary was reported by Eric D. Jacobsen of 1 Marin View Avenue, outside Mill Valley. He said that antique watches and jewelry valued at $4,250 were taken from his home between 11:30 a.m. and noon on Tuesday.

Vi Rose Stitz reported she was awakened at 12:30 a.m. Wednesday by someone in her apartment at 10 Milan Court, Strawberry. The man, described as a white male, about 20, five feet 10 inches tall, ran from her apartment. She said she was missing more than $50 in cash from her purse and two pearl rings valued at $275.

A set of golf clubs valued at $500 was taken from his station wagon between 1 and 4 p.m. Tuesday when it was parked at the Indian Valley Golf Club outside Novato, Karl C. Butler of 7620 Beth Court, Rohnert Park, reported.

Bible College Drops Move To Rohnert Park

The proposed move of a Bible college to Rohnert Park is no longer under consideration, according to Dr. Fred R. Brock, president of the Western Baptist Bible College of El Cerrito.

Dr. Brock said the board of trustees had been studying a stie on the west side of Highway 101 where 60 acres had been donated by Fred Rohnert. The president said the trustees had been impressed with the location, but are now considering a site in Salem, Ore., where buildings are already constructed.

Rohnert Park developers Paul Golis and Hugh B. Codding had developed a financial plan for construction of a $3.5 million campus, but Dr. Brock said the trustees were concerned about interest rates and the ability to repay loans.

The four-year accredited college would have brought 500 more students to Rohnert Park, which is home to Sonoma State College.

Stereo, Tape Taken

The Petaluma home of Gerald Williams was burglarized of $715 worth of stereo and tape recording equipment last night, police said. Entry to the home at 1182 Lombardi Street apparently was gained by jimmying a locked rear door, they said.

Faculty To Vote On ROTC Credit

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University's 1,000 faculty members will vote on whether to retain academic credit for military training on campus.

The Academic Council called yesterday for the vote in a meeting attended by about 400 faculty members.

The ballots to be mailed will ask the faculty members to say whether credit should be dropped for Reserve Officers Training Corps classes starting with the 1970 freshman class, or whether the university president should negotiate with the Defense Department to develop ROTC programs "consistent with the academic standards and objectives of the university."

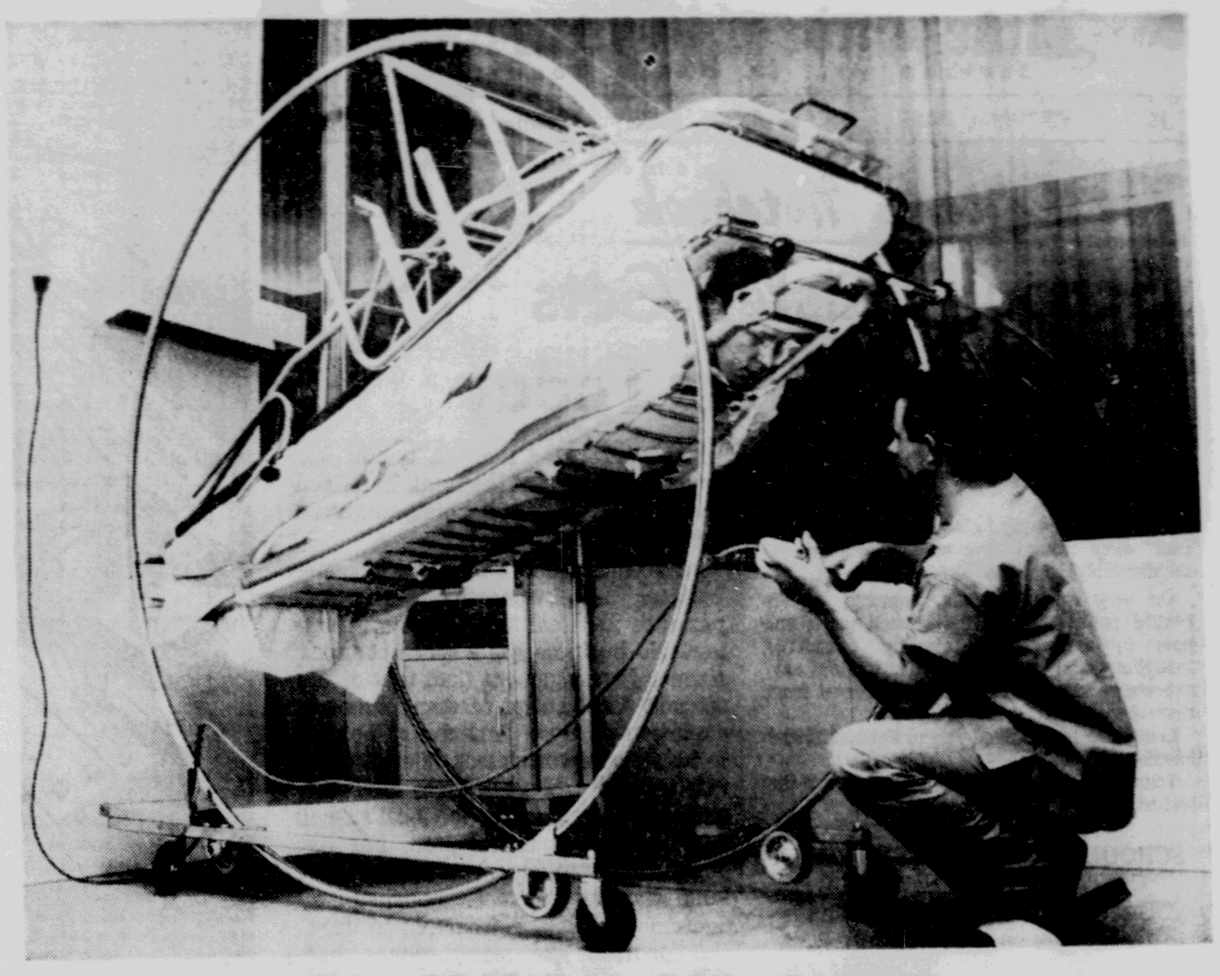
Women Voters To Help Search

The League of Women Voters of Southern Marin last night volunteered its services to the Mill Valley Human Rights Commission in organizing a committee to find available housing in Mill Valley for minority and elderly persons, commission chairman Roger J. Fleischmann has reported.

The commissioners delayed action on endorsing a proposed youth commission pending further information and a statement from students at Tamalpais High School that such a youth commission would meet their needs, Fleischmann said.

Commissioners also recommended that Iniece Bailey be considered to fill an existing vacancy on the commission, created by the resignation last month of Charles P. Guichard.



NEW HOSPITAL TREATMENT

This special hospital bed, able to be electrically revolved to the desired position by seriously injured patients, is in a new $9.5 million clinic recently opened in Ludwigsburg, Germany. The clinic has 25 of the beds, which cost $100,000 each. The clinic is financed by 26 German chemical and agricultural trade associations. (German Features photo)

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Weird Images, Notions Often Grip Mind At Dozing-Off Time

VAN DELLEN

A young executive came to my office a few weeks ago. "On falling asleep, beautiful, colored scenes appear just as though I was looking through a kaleidoscope. My eyes are closed and it is not only disturbing, but frightening. Am I going crazy?"

These are hypnagogic hallucinations that take place in the twilight state of consciousness. The person is not fully awake, nor is he asleep.

The cause is not known, and although the images are more common in persons with narcolepsy, perfectly healthy men and women experience them. The hallucinations are usually visual in nature and often consist of bright, shifting patterns of light.

SOME SLEEP HALLUCINATIONS are unpleasant and terrifying. The individual visualizes a dream when half awake. His head and limbs feel as though they were twice their normal size, or that they were shrinking in size to an inch or two.

Many persons have experienced the feeling of not being able to move the hands or feet during the few moments that precede slumber, or just before awakening. Sleep paralysis is a strange sensation and, like a trance, is dispelled quickly by a noise or when the person is touched. The condition is of emotional origin.

WE ALSO RECEIVE letters from people who develop jerkiness when falling asleep or on awakening. These movements may be confined to one arm or leg, or involve the entire body. The cause is not known, and unless the jerks occur constantly, can be considered normal.

The phenomenon may be related to anxiety or to partial wakefulness as a result of illness or worrying about a sick child or a dating teen-ager who is out after the curfew.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

TIMES OF STRESS

A. C. U. writes: Please tell me why "nerves" would bother a young man at critical times such as getting ready for a job interview.

REPLY

Because at these times, tension mounts and anxiety is likely to occur. This individual may have inherited an overly-active nervous system or perhaps is emotionally immature. Some people are unable to handle everyday problems because their parents never allowed them to grow up and become independent.

LOCAL HERNIA

A. G. writes: Can a hernia in the groin be repaired without a general anesthetic?

REPLY

Yes. Some surgeons use a local anesthetic, whereas others prefer a spinal. In this procedure, the muscles should be relaxed and the medico selects the anesthetic he considers most suitable.

TWO KINDS OF VITAMINS

R. S. writes: Are the natural vitamin products sold in health food stores superior to synthetic vitamins?

REPLY

No. There is no proof that natural vitamins are more beneficial than synthetic preparations. Consequently, one is not superior to the other.

FIBROIDS

Mrs. E. B. writes: Is hysterectomy necessary for fibroids of the uterus?

REPLY

Only if the tumor is large or several exist, causing symptoms such as pressure or bleeding. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on uterine fibroids.

EATS RAW POTATOES

Miss L. writes: Is there any harm in eating raw potatoes? This is the only way I like them.

REPLY

No, although raw starch digests more slowly. Cooking alters the starch but has little effect upon the nutritional elements.

FORMATION OF KELOIDS

S. R. writes: My young son was in an accident that necessitated stitches on his back. After the area healed, the scar developed into a deloid. Will he always heal in this way whenever he needs stitches or gets cut? Could the deloid have been prevented?

REPLY

There is a possibility that if he develops scars elsewhere they will become keloids. We do not know why some people develop these superscars.

EATING APPLE SEEDS

G. R. writes: Is there any danger in eating an entire applie, including seeds?

REPLY

No, provided your intestine can handle the added roughage without complaint. Seeds are not digested, but, because they are small, they seldom cause obstruction.

COOKED, PUREED VEGETABLES

A reader writes: Can a person suffering from ulcerative colitis eat cooked, pureed vegetables?

REPLY

Yes. Cooking and pureeing usually reduce residual bulk to a minimum.

School Trustee Gets The Last Word Today

"Don't argue with a newspaper; you can't win. The newspaper always gets the last word."

So goes an old saying among public officials (not often heard by newspapermen, understandably).

On very rare occasions, however, a concerned public official sets himself down and puts in writing his carefully considered thoughts on an important problem of the day, expressing views constructively different from those expressed.

Leo Souza of the Reed School District Board has done just that.

Today in this space he is going to have the last word.

SCHOOLS NEED CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM AND SUPPORT

"The Independent-Journal, in its recent editorials, has been unduly harsh upon the people responsible for running our schools. Some criticism is undoubtedly warranted; to be constructive, it must be based upon fact and sound logic. This has not always been true.

"For example, on March 20 the Independent-Journal editorial stated: 'In Reed School District, the board of trustees has recognized a teacher negotiating council, yet its demands have not been made public.'

"The board's minutes for Nov. 26, 1968, clearly indicate that the teachers' salary requests for 1969-70 were submitted and received for consideration in a public meeting. The teachers also asked that their request be examined in conjunction with the working budget, which has been done in a public meeting. In addition, the board's attitude toward the recognized negotiating panel has been expressed in a public meeting.

"In an earlier editorial, it was stated that James Atkin, of the Reed board, resigned shortly before the expiration of his term to permit the appointment of a 'quickie incumbent,' presumably to perpetuate the philosophy of the current board. Admittedly, this political maneuver has been tried frequently; however, is your criticism justified in this case?

"According to official minutes, between July 1 and Dec. 1, 1968, Atkin was absent from six out of 17 meetings, or 35 per cent of the time. By the first week in January, following public encouragement by the board, 10 candidates had filed for the vacancy. Prior to his interview, the person selected was unknown to three members of the board and only casually known to the fourth. Due to the number of interested and qualified candidates, the final choice was a difficult one. Two of the candidates who were not selected are now running for the board.

"In your editorial of March 11, entitled 'Schools Blame Voters But Never Themselves,' many salient observations were made. The lack of discipline, the use of marijuana, the unwise allocation of classroom time, and the number of 'consultants,' administrators and experiments are all deserving of valid criticism. The editorial continued: 'They (schools) blame attacks on the schools by right-wing (never, to our recollection, by left-wing) groups.' Yes, we agree that the school system could be improved if the participants represented a balance of political philosophies. I would welcome more persons from the 'right wing' as teachers, administrators and trustees, if they would devote the time and effort and assume the responsibility of any one of these positions. As part of the 'establishment,' they may develop a different perspective of current problems confronting our schools. As outsiders, we all tend to throw rocks too soon!

"No single segment of the community is more fully cognizant of the rising costs of education and the impact upon property taxes than the approximately 120 taxpayers who serve on school boards in Marin County. We have, individually and collectively, pleaded with our legislators in Sacramento for tax reform and a more equitable source of revenue. The cost of education in California is now increasing at the rate of seven per cent per year; the most generous bill introduced in the legislature to date provides for two per cent.The balance will have to be borne by the local taxpayer. The state's contribution toward education, on the average, is now less than 40 per cent of the total. The Reed District, for example, obtains only 20 per cent from the state.

"As your readers are aware, many trustees are businessmen with experience in fiscal and budgetary matters. No business has a more complex financial arrangement than that of the schools. The receipt of many funds is conditioned upon matching local funds, the size of classes, special override taxes, etc. Some of these funds are subject to change after the local school budgets have been adopted. For example, funds to support single session kindergartens were abolished in September, 1968, retroactive to July. Our district, like many others, had employed teachers by written contract in May for this program.

"As businessmen, we can further attest that no organization employing white-collar workers has more employment restrictions than a school district. The position of the tenured teacher, though he may be totally incompetent, is preserved for life. The position of the probationary teacher — one who is employed three years or less — is also protected to a great extent. In actual practice, existing laws for the termination of employment are virtually useless to the school board. I have never seen them applied or enforced.

"This year the 'Winton Act' has become operative. It prescribes that school boards shall in good faith meet and confer with teachers on any subject—not just their salaries and fringe benefits, but on the district's basic policies, educational programs, number of support personnel, school calendar, etc. Will this law result in higher educational costs? An emphatic 'yes'! School boards are already being advised to employ professional labor negotiators. Were the readers of the Independent-Journal made aware of the full effect of this legislation before its passage?

"In nearly 10 years of attempting to serve our schools in various capacities, I have found virtually all trustees, administrators, teachers, and other district personnel to be hard-working, dedicated and solid American citizens. We frequently differ on methods, but we endeavor to achieve the best education possible for our children a the lowest possible cost. As trustees, we have begged for community involvement and support in school matters. While we like to share the blame for our failures, particularly when parents and the legislature are partially to blame, we should, and do, accept the responsiblity for our mistakes.

"In respect to our teachers, they are the backbone of our educational system. Most of them do a commendable job. There is a crying need for more and better teachers — for anyone who wishes to enter the profession and to accept the rigors of supervising and instructing 25 to 30 of our children. The rate of pay has greatly improved from years gone by. If a few teachers are incompetent or misguided, give our school boards the legal tools to cope with the situation.

"Each two years, members of school boards are elected to represent the people of their districts, to formulate policies and to select administrators. We accept our job willingly, knowing the many hours of work it entails. We do not suddenly become 'villains' upon our appointment or election, to function behind a cloak of secrecy or to spend prodigally all of the taxpayers' money. When we request more funds, it is our honest appraisal that more funds are needed to continue or improve the educational program.

"The development of an informed and disciplined youth is one of the greatest social projects confronting our nation. To achieve success will require the cooperation of all segments of our society. The Independent-Journal should be Marin County's catalyst for improved communications, necessary legislation, sound educational standards, and a new system of school finance."

Thank you, Leo Souza.

Turnout Poor To Hear Candidates

On Thursday evening, March 27, my husband and I attended the "candidate night" which was held at Redwood High School. All of the candidates seeking the vacant positions on the Tamalpais Union High School District Board were there.

It was a great disappointment to see so few people at this meeting. There are many parents that have been very concerned over various problems that exist in this school district and yet where were they when they had a chance to put their inquiries to the very people who will be charged with trying to solve these problems?

Since they (these parents and taxpayers) have missed this opportunity, I hope they will avail themselves of all the information that may be published about the various candidates in hopes that we may elect three people who will dedicate themselves to these immediate problems. . . .

But . . . where were the parents, taxpayers, etc. of this TUHS District, when they could ask these people some very pertinent questions?

LINES ON LIVING

Watchword For Harassed Man: 'Meet Thyself!'

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

There are those who claim that we live in a twilight zone of civilizations. We have left the dreamlike garden of pastoral calm and lowly beasts, but we have not yet come fully to enjoy the tempting fruits of the tree of knowledge and science. We look upon our lost innocence as a primitive condition of nature. Yet, with all our modernity and sophistication, we are still awed by the "flaming sword" and know no peace.

Persons today are too mechanized and too specialized to maintain the integrity and freedom of their personality and life. They are estranged from themselves and hopelessly alienated from the unity which underlies inner peace.

ELEMENTS in our society conspire against the individual, explains Dr. F. A. Weiss, and tend to foster emotional conflict and mental anguish. The individual "resents the dependency, and feels hostility coming up; but his hostility is repressed, not only for reasons of external security, but because it contradicts his ideal self-image of himself as a good, socially-minded citizen. So he swallows his resentment and this swallowing is more important in the causation of gastric ulcers than the swallowing of rough or hard food."

This self-mutilation similarly occurs when people feel compelled to live their lives to please others more than to please themselves and to live by fashion more than by faith; to fit the "pattern" and to become socially acceptable; to be popular at the cost of principle and to gain the coveted status symbol at the price of serenity, the pinnacle of a misguided sense of belonging. For what are some of those glamorized socials and glittering parties if not empty rituals of modern image-worshippers who have lost their souls and are in a mad chase after their own tails in an attempt to recapture their lost identity?

Many of them are tribal games that people play because other people play them who have seen still others play them. They are soul-eclipsing gatherings of shallow nonsense and small non-talk, mentally stifling and emotionally stupefying. And yet the social instinct to conform, the temptation to be part of the crowd prompts countless individuals to indulge excessively in such merry-go-wilds and to "swallow" many rough and indigestible "hors d'oeuvres" with social grace.

FEW PEOPLE have the courage and conviction to react the way the great French writer Balzac did when he felt repulsed after returning home from a long and uneventful party with boring people. He went to his lined book shelves, exclaiming with excitement and relief: "Now for some real people!"

The first among the real people one must meet is the real person in himself. Surely people have a need to be with other people. But, first and foremost must they be with themselves. The desire to be like others, to be popular, to be loved, is normal and worthwhile. But if we can't be good to ourselves, what good are we to others? And if we can't appreciate our own self worth and esteem, can we hope to recognize the individual value of others? In the sage words of the ancient Talmudist Hillel: "If I am not for myself, who is for me And I am only for myself, what am I?"

Imitation, we know, is not our brand, nor conformity. Originality is our destiny, and thus is our identity. And in this mass society and mass identification of ours, the ancient truth of "know thyself!" might better be modified to answer the needs of our time in finding ourselves and our individual identity by heeding the newer motto: "Meet thyself!"

Series On Drugs Issued As Booklet

I am impressed by your series of articles, printed during March, on use of drugs and drug addiction. Have you considered reprinting these articles and making them available in pamphlet form for those who may have missed the series? I should think the schools would be interested in having such pamphlets for use of teachers and administrators, as well as for dissemination to parents.

U.S. Debate On China Policy Unrealistic—Like Mao's Dreams

HONG KONG — From the perspective of this nodule attached to the great land mass of China, the continuing debate over China policy in the United States sounds like an exercise in medieval theology.

At this late date it seems self-evident nothing can be done to change that policy.

Nothing, that is to say, until Mao Tse-Tung dies. At 75, he has had one and possibly two strokes.

But even after Mao goes, a considerable time will pass before there is any appreciable change in the hard, resistant policy of the old revolutionary. According to the China watchers, the draft of a constitution is being circulated that names Lin Piao, the minister of defense, as Mao's successor. This will be confirmed during the present ninth party congress. This congress is window-dressing, guaranteeing Mao's grip on the apparatus. Lin is said to be tubercular and in frail health, and while he has been publicly anointed he may find it difficult to consolidate his position once Mao is gone.

THE BIG OBSTACLE to any change in the United States' China policy is Taiwan. Very possibly another hard, resistant old man, Chiang Kai-Shek, will have to pass from the scene before any solution is remotely possible. At 81, Chiang is as fiercely chauvinistic as Mao. The Taiwanese maps, like Peking's maps, color as Chinese Tibet and all the disputed territories.

It has been the fashion in recent years to diagnose the Chinese dragon as disintegrating, falling apart in a sick and dying state.

Sick from a series of disorders, yes; but there is little to support the view that the country is breaking up with the people living on grass.

MAO, WHO HAS never been outside China, has no comprehension of the specialization essential to a technological society in the modern world. He dreams of a society created in the image of the long march, a populist revolution, unto each according to his need. And, while he tries to enforce an egaliatarian society, the professors, scientists, and bureaucrats live in fear that their turn will come next for shipment to the countryside. Production drops as do exports, so important for earning hard currency.

It is the extreme instance of the political plague bedeviling almost every Asian nation with the overthrow of colonialism. As the dogmatists and the doctrinaires quarrel on the brink of civil war, fundamental problems of organization and production go unsolved. The backdrop is the specter of hunger that appears certain in the early '70s to stalk virtually all of Asia.

SO LONG as in most nations the population explosion is unchecked this is inevitable. China has made sporadic attempts at birth control, with the emphasis on enforcing late marriages and threatening families with more than three children with a reduction in social allowances. The birth-control program along with just about everything else was disrupted by the revolution that Mao initiated in 1966.

Whether development and a somewhat higher living standard must precede any meaningful attempt to damp down population growth is widely debate in this part of the world. Without health centers and trained personnel contraception by modern techniques is nat practicable, to say nothing of abortion.

Untrained, unskilled, illiterate masses with a small, disgruntled, half-educated class at the top are susceptible to every political plague going. They make up the shouting, screaming mobs burning and murdering in Pakistan. They are the Red Guards unleashed to destroy and disrupt. This may be merely a high fever, a reaction to the long suppression of the colonial past. But, if this is so, there are few signs that it has run its course.

Chart Explosion At Pentagon Menaces Senators' Parity

WASHINGTON — Whenever the Defense Department has to convince our lawmakers that the vital interests of the United States are in danger, they resort to elaborate displays of charts. The development, stockpiling and delivery of charts is one of the most critical activities the Pentagon is involved in.

Through a close friend in the Pentagon, I was permitted to visit a top-secret Defense Department chart testing center where all charts are tested before they are sent up to Capitol Hill.

THE GENERAL in charge of the center said, "We've been working day and night on charts for the ABM congressional hearings. It's probably the biggest job we've had, but ine misfired chart, and the whole system could go up in smoke."

"Is this why the center is located so far from population centers?"

"Exactly. We don't want the taxpayers to know what we're doing. Also we have to watch security. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has built a chart system of its own. We believe our charts are still more reliable than theirs, but we have to be ready with a second-strike capability in case they launch a damaging first-strike chart offensive."

"HOW DID the charts the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee unveiled at the ABM hearings last week differ from yours?"

The general smiled. "They were very primitive — what we ccould call 'first generation' charts. You probably noticed their charts were so large that Senator Gore was unable to reach the top of them with his pointer. Now, we've been in the chart business a lot longer than the Senate, so we've managed to take advantage of the great strides in miniaturization, and our smaller charts can be launched from any easel with the same impact as their large ones. We can launch four charts to their one; or, of you want to put it another way, one Pentagon chart represents an overkill of 13 Senate charts."

"What are those men doing over there?"

"They're training for chart turning."

"I beg your pardon?"

"THE MILITARY has its own chart turners, who have to know when to turn a chart to the exact second. If you turn a chart too early, you lose the impact of it, and if you turn it too late, your audience could get bored."

"It must require a great deal of skill," I said.

"All of our chart turners have been to the National War College and have been personally interviewed by Admiral Rickover. If you recall, a few weeks ago when Senator Gore's subcommittee produced its charts against the ABM system, they had to press their chief counsel and his assistant into service as chart turners. It was a disaster."

"WHAT IS THAT building over there with the machine guns on it and all the MPs around it?"

That's where we're developing a new top-secret automatic chart-turning machine. Once it is deployed, no Senate committee will dare to attack a Defense Department budget."

"But won't this spiral the chart race and force the subcommittee to develop its own automatic chart turner?"

The general said, "When the security of the Pentagon is at stake, we are not interested in chart parity."

Peru Latest White House Worry

By ARY MOLEON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The recent wave of military coups in Latin America has finally hit the White House.

The return to military rule in most of Latin America is focused today in an eleventh-hour effort to defuse a dangerous crisis with Peru.

But the turbulence unleashed by 16 military takeovers since the Alliance for Progress was founded could hit the Nixon administration with tidal force.

If the Peruvian junta does not take what the U. S. considers to be "appropriate steps" toward compensating the International Petroleum Corp. For properties it expropriated last fall, Nixon is required by U. S. law to cut off most U. S. aid to Peru.

President Nixon has said it might have a "domino effect" all over Latin America.

There is a strong undercurrent of Nasser-type officers in the Latin military establishment.

Nine of the 19 Alliance's Latin member countries are now ruled by the military. There was only one military government when President Kennedy launched the program to accelerate economic progress within a democratic framework.

The progress has not been impressive. For every billion dollars the United States has furnished to the Alliance, 20 million Latin Americans have lost the right to self-determination. Today three out of every four Latin Americans live under military rule.

Total Latin American military expenditures in 1965 were $1.5 billion, 50 per cent in excess of what the United States was committed to appropriate that year in economic aid to the area.

Sometimes the Latin military are more concerned with arms purchases than in achieving social goals. The Latin American military establishment takes 2.4 per cent of the area's gross national product.

Why the huge arms expenditures? The Latin soldier loves to toy with them.

Argentina has just escalated the Latin arms race by announcing the purchase of three destroyers and two submarines.

Brazil, Chile and Peru are likely to follow suit, raising the prospect of another arms race similar to the one touched off three years ago when Argentina bought 50 jet bombers.

Pentagon experts said the Argentine ship purchases have "little military significance" and that they serve merely for "reasons of prestige."

Despite the continuing search for military advantage, the possibilities that weapons will be used against other Latin American nations are considered remote.

War in the Western Hemisphere is seen as a political absurdity and a military impossibility.

According to existing treaties, any country which launches an attack against another member of the hemispheric alliance would automatically be considered at war with the rest of the treaty nations, including the United States.

Pentagon experts say the real threat facing Latin American nations comes from within.

Arms purchases, they say, should correspond to the needs created by indigenous insurrections.

At the Latin American summit conference at Punta Del Este in 1967, a resolution was passed to "limit military purchases to the levels required by demands of national security."

Nonetheless, efforts made at a preparatory conference to define unnecessary military spending ended without agreement.

The Argentine plan to build up its fleet with the purchase of two submarines involves supply by West Germany of the parts, which will be assembled in Argentina itself.

It is also reported that conversations on arms purchases are going on between Argentina and Great Britain.

The purchase from West Germany would raise to four the number of Argentine submarines — the same number now owned by Brazil. Brazil has dispatched officials to Great Britain to study the financing of possible purchases.

Chile, which is in dispute with Argentina over islands at South America's southern tip, possibly would join the arms race, increasing its submarine fleet, which now numbers two.

Eventual action by Chile could cause repercussion in Peru, owner of four submarines.

Moreover, Venezuela, citing its need to patrol its offshore waters because of the threat from Cuba, also might join the race.

A similar situation was produced in 1965 when Argentina purchased "Skyhawk" bombers from the United States. Chile followed this with the purchase of 21 British Hawker Hunter planes, and Venezuela reacted by buying up 72 West German Sabre jets.

Peru, in turn, went to France to purchase a dozen Mirage 5 jets, and then Brazil entered negotiations for the purchase of a jet, also from France.

When the Peruvian junta took over the $135 million IPC complex, it flew a French-made Mirage over the refinery and oil fields.

Experts are now waiting for the response of other countries to the Argentine purchase from Great Britain of Sea Cat rockets for its navy.

The U. S., recognizing the limited possibilities of a conventional attack against any Latin American nation, has tried to discourage the purchase of military equipment more sophisticated than needs require.

Efforts to this end failed earlier this year when the Inter-American Committee on the Alliance for Progress showed little interest in including the arms question in its annual economic review of member nations.

Sol Linowitz, U. S. ambassador to the OAS, suggested other forums were being looked into for possible discussion of the problem, perhaps the OAS itself.

Mystery Riot Pamphlet Appears On Campuses

Behind The News

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "If you can't kill them, harass them."

That is one of the instructions in a pamphlet distributed to area college students on how to deal with police during campus disturbances . . . complete with crudely drawn illustrations of how to make bombs.

HOW TO MAIM

It tells how a campus rioter can disable and maim police, police horses, photographers and even innocent onlookers during school disorders.

Frank L. Rizzo, city police commissioner, says the anonymously written six-page pamphlet, called "Your Manual," was distributed to 25 members of Students for a Democratic Society on the 18,000-student body campus of the University of Pennsylvania.

Along with copies went orders to circulate them widely, Rizzo said. A spokesman for SDS denied the organization has any connection with the booklet.

MYSTERY SOURCE

The booklet lists its publisher as the "3R News Service, Inc., San Francisco." No such firm is listed in the San Francisco telephone directory, however similar pamphlets with the firm also listed as publisher have appeared on the campus of San Francisco State College.

On the effectiveness of hurling rocks and bottles, the manual reads: "An empty bottle or rock can disable a pig (policemen) for the whole campaign."

It prompts agitators to throw first at police cameramen to eliminate pictures of ensuing clashes.

FIRST VOLUME

The manual, Vol. 1, No. 1, gives other details on possible weapons and how to use them.

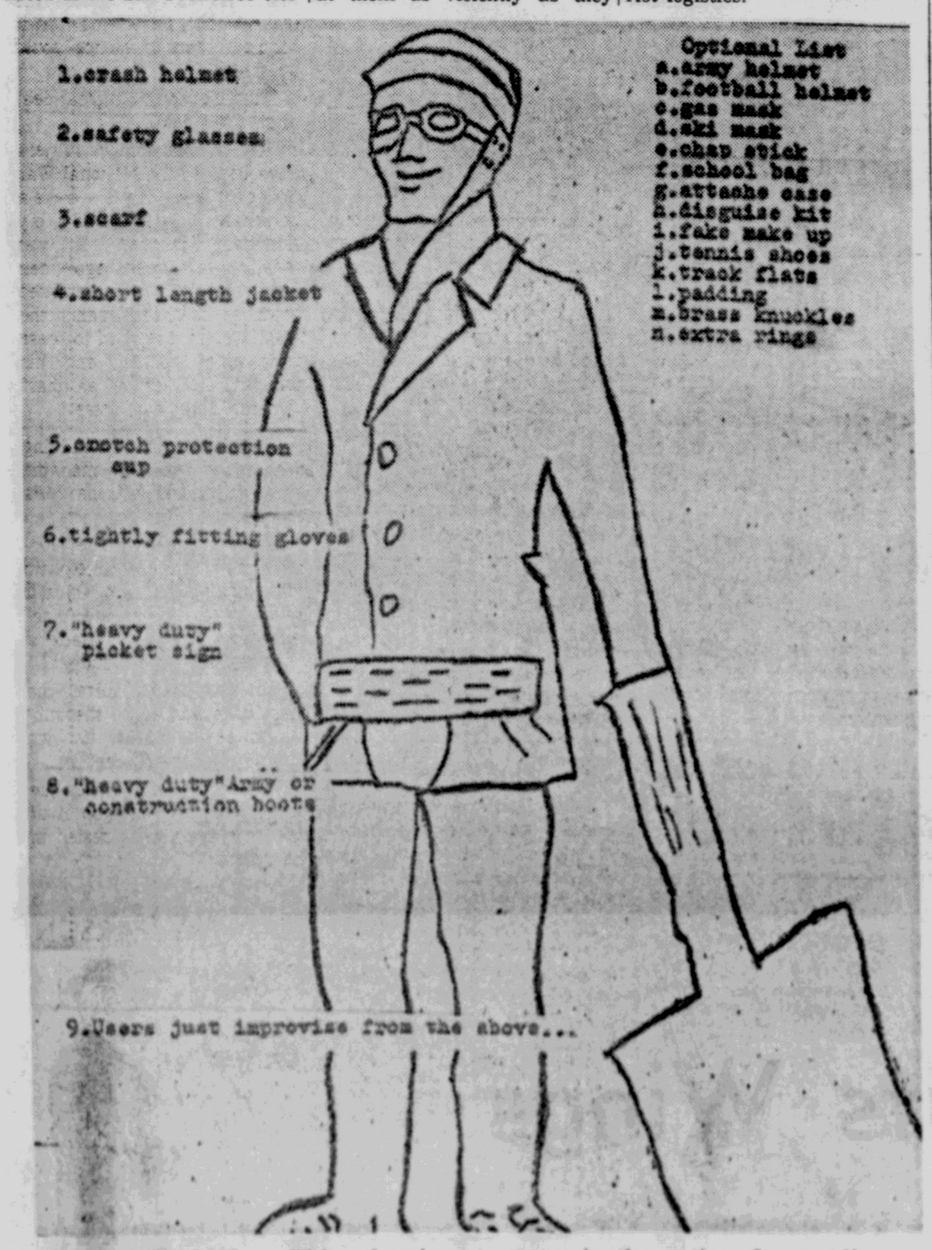
"If we are to free ourselves, we must out of necessity, strike at them as violently as they have struck at us," a preface says.

"It's terrible and outrageous," said Rizzo.

He said no attempt is being made to confiscate copies, but added he is taking steps to see whether any violation of city statute is involved in circulation.

A spokesman for the University of Pennsylvania said the pamphlet would not be banned because this would not "effectively curtail its distribution."

The initial issue promises in subsequent editions to highlight a revolutionary leader of the month, publish an assassination list, detail how to make napalm bombs and print a primer on riot logistics.



INSTRUCTIONS — This drawing and list of "basic equipment" are in a pamphlet making the rounds of some college and university campuses in the nation. It was discovered recently on the University of Pennsylvania campus. (AP Wirephoto)

DOOMSDAY THIS MONTH?

Quake Jitters Shake State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Is California in danger of being shaken into the ocean by a quake this month?

With the month almost here, that is the question with which thousands of anxious residents are besieging geologists and government researchers.

The answer they get is that there is no scientific or other justification for such a rumor.

"The best we can tell them is that there is no scientific basis for a prediction of a major earthquake in April," according to L. C. Pakiser, chief of earthquake research for the U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park.

Pakiser and his colleagues have been flooded with inquiries since someone started the idea circulating that the state's days were numbered since April arrived.

"We try to calm them down and explain rationally what the chances are," the scientist said, "but unfortunately, there's no such thing as an absolute anti-earthquake guarantee."

RUMOR'S SOURCE

The doomsday speculation apparently began about a year ago when Rev. Donald Abernathy "saw a vision that a giant earthquake will destroy California and swallow the entire state up into the ocean."

"God told me He is going to punish California for its sins, especially Hollywood and Beverly Hills where the movie stars live," said Reverend Abernathy of the First Apostolic Church of Bell Gardens. He led about 200 members of his congregation to the "safety" of Atlanta, Ga., which subsequently was the victim of a disquieting temblor.

A San Francisco seeress, Mrs. Elizabeth Steen, 29, had a vision of a quake occurring during April, 1969. Mrs. Steen, her husband and two children fled to Spokane, Wash., in December after "I just went over the map with my hand and got good vibrations there."

DISQUIETING SONG

In recent weeks, predictions of doom have increased, thanks partly to a popular song which, to a calypso beat, proclaims:

"Where will we go when there is no San Francisco? Guess we better get ready to tie up the boat in Idaho.

"Every day all people come to L. A. Sssh. Don't you tell them de whole place shakin' away."

In addition, talk of doom keeps coming up on radio and television talk shows along with references to strange astrological charts. The day most frequently mentioned is April 14, a Monday.

Says Dr. Charles Richter, developer of the Richter scale for measuring earthquake magnitude and one of the world's foremost experts:

SPURIOUS DATES

"A few years ago, in 1965 to be exact, we received spurious earthquake predictions for Jan. 17, Feb. 4, March 17, April 1, April 16, all of May, May 30 and for the Imperial Valley sometime in June or July. But it was a normal year—none came true."

"If you look at the record," Dr. James N. Brune says, "those people have been predicting major disasters for years and they've consistently been wrong. There is no way yet to predict earthquakes although seismologists are seeking ways to accurately estimate and reduce earthquake hazards."

NOT IMPOSSIBLE

While scientists can discount the probability of an earthquake, they do not deny the possibility.

"There is a great deal of restrained energy stored up along some of the major faults," Menlo Park's Pakiser says, "and it could slip at any time.

"Earthquakes are, after all, normal occurrences in this part of the state."

Actually, some 200-300 tremors—too small to be felt by man—are recorded every month in the San Francisco area alone.

"During 1968, we recorded about 2,000 earthquakes from San Francisco to Monterey," Pakiser said, "but all but six were below the level where they would be noticed by human beings."

Scientists point out that California's San Andreas Fault, a huge, 600-mile-long fracture in the earth's crust, has been slipping for as long as 100 million years. In that time, total displacement along the fault may be as much as 350 miles. Current estimates are that Los Angeles actually is moving toward San Francisco at the rate of one to two inches a year.

The fault extends about 20 miles into the earth, and scientists say, at a depth of about six miles the temperature on the east side is about 200 degrees warmer than on the west side because of friction brought about by the slippage.

JOLT OF 1906

The San Francisco earthquake of April 18, 1906, originated along the San Andreas Fault and was one of the 10 worst ever recorded.

The temblor, which registered a magnitude of 8.3, left 452 persons dead in the rubble from the quake and the ashes of the uncontrollable fire that followed. The shock waves leveled 460 city blocks and left more than 100,000 homeless.

This Week In The World

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The funeral of Dwight D. Eisenhower occupied a large place this week in the hearts of America and the world.

The valiant heart of the fivestar general and former president gave up the long fight last Friday. After a state funeral Monday in the Washington Cathedral, the body was taken by train to Abilene, Kan., to be laid to rest in Eisenhower's boyhood home.

"He once said 'I come from the heart of America,' and so it is to the heart of America that General Eisenhower returns today," a minister said at the final services in the Kansas City.

Dozens of foreign leaders came to Washington for the state funeral, and thousands of persons filed past the casket while Eisenhower lay in state beneath the Capitol Rotunda.

Some of the mourners had served under Eisenhower's command in Europe or the Mediterranean during World War II, and others had been members of his presidential administration.

There were many, though, who had never had any direct contact with the general, who knew him only as (in President Nixon's words) "this good and kind and gentle man who made us proud to be Americans."

Around The World; Around The Clock:

Saigon — Army authorities announced that 312 Americans were killed in Vietnam last week, making the conflict there the third most costly in terms of human life in U. S. history. The total announced death toll now stands at 33,641—12 more Americans than were killed in Korea.

Chicago—Violence erupted in negro neighborhoods on the eve of the first anniversary of the Martin Luther King assassination. Seven thousand national guardsmen had to be called out to restore order.

Prague — Russia tightened the screws on Czechoslovakia this week, forcing local Communists to tighten press censorship and to threaten party members with disciplinary action because of an outbreak of anti-Soviet violence inspired by a Czech victory over Russia's world-champion hockey team. Communist leader Alexander Dubcek warned his people in a national telecast that further demonstrations could trigger sterner Russian repression.

Civic Center Spreads Its Wings

The multimillion-dollar Marin County Civic Center stretches its length over the rolling hills north of San Rafael. The first section of the Frank Lloyd Wright building is at right, housing many county administrative offices, the library in the domed center, and the board of supervisors chambers. The new Hall of Justice wing (left) will house courts, county jail, sheriff's department and other offices and is expected to be completed this spring. Out of the photo at left is the 800-seat Veterans Memorial Auditorium, under construction and planned for use for conventions, exhibitors and dances. It is scheduled for completion at the end of the year. Above the new wing in the photo is the baseball field near the National Guard armory. Top left is Santa Venetia Middle School. Blessed Sacrament School is at top center-right, also in the community of Santa Venetia. Highway 101 runs across the bottom of the photo and North San Pedro Road extends diagonally from the right, disappearing in wooded hills at the top of the photo. The Civic Center lagoon shows just above left end of new wing.

OPENS SPADE

West opened the 10 of spades, and East put up the queen without the slightest thought. After all, don't all the textbooks tell you to play third hand high?

South shrewdly refused the first trick, and now he couldn't be beaten. East returned a low spade, and South won with the jack. Now South led diamonds, since he needed one diamond trick for his contract.

If West took the king of diamonds, he could not lead another spade. If East won the first diamond, he could set up the spades but could never regain the lead to cash them.

PLAYS LOW

East should defeat the contract by playing the nine of spades at the first trick. This forces South to win the first trick with the jack.

When South leads diamonds, as he must, West steps up with the king of diamonds in order to lead his remaining spade. East sets up his long suit and gets in with the ace of diamonds in time to defeat the contract with the rest of his spades.

TRICK MARKED

East's duck at the first trick is marked. West would open a low spade rather than the 10 if he held 10-x-x. If West has only 10-x of spades, South must hold A-J-x and is sure to win two spade tricks sooner or later. East must therefore force South to win the first spade trick in order to leave a spade in the West hand.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ A J 4
♥ K Q J
♦ 7 5 3 2
♣ K J 5

What do you say?

Answer: Bid 4 no-trump. This does not ask partner to show his aces. Instead, you invite partner to bid a slam if he has 18 points but to pass if he has 16 points. If he has the middle value of 17 points, he may use his judgment. You promise 15 or 16 points with a suit of any real merit for your jump to 4 no-trump.

281 Billion Cups

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (UPI)—The Coralville Reservoir in Iowa is the state's second largest body of water. Someone in the Army Corps of Engineers office here figured out that during the summer months the reservoir holds enough water to make almost 281 billion cups of coffee.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, April 5, the 95th day of 1969 with 270 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Mars. The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1792 President George Washington set a precedent by vetoing a bill for the apportionment of representation.

In 1951 Julius and Ethel Rosenberg of New York City were sentenced to death as "atom spies."

In 1964 Gen. Douglas MacArthur died at the age of 84.

In 1968 major American cities were hit by violent riots in the aftermath of the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr.

A thought for the day: Lord Byron said, "Fame is the thirst of youth."

Space Exploration Is Costly Venture

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UPI)—The nation's $5 billion annual investment in space exploration represents only one-sixth of one per cent of the U.S. gross national product, according to Daniel Fink, general manager of General Electric's Space Systems organization.

In contrast, Adm. Richard E. Byrd's funds raised to finance his 1928 expedition to the South Pole totaled $800,000. Fink also cites figures showing that U.S. smokers in 1968 spent almost twice the $5 billion space budget amount for cigarettes.

Special Rites For Easter

Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, Fifth Avenue and H Street.

Churches in the Marinwood, Terra Linda and Lucas Valley will gather for an ecumenical sunrise service at 5:30 a.m. at Terra Linda Hill behind the Aldersgate Methodist Church.

And atop Mount Tamalpais a 5 a.m. non-denominational service will be held in the mountain theater.

The rite, a "celebration of life," will feature 20 high school and college dancers, who will perform a three-part interpretation of the Easter theme — life, death and resurrection. It is under direction of Reg Wood, a drama student at College of Marin. Music will be furnished by the Burning Bush. Officiating will be Rev. Charles G. Robertson Jr., Protestant chaplain at the Newman Center, located adjacent to the College of Marin.

Also on schedule is a youth ecumenical service at 6 a.m. on a hilltop across from the San Geronimo Valley Golf Course and the San Geronimo Valley Community Church.

The contemporary service will include a dialogue between Rev. John O'Connor of St. Isabella's Catholic Church and Rev. Willard Frederickson of the San Geronimo Presbyterian Community Church.

Also included will be folk music and a "soul" offering.

SEMINAR LEADERS—The First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael will present two post-Easter seminars beginning Monday at 8 p.m. Dr. Neill Q. Hamilton (left) and Dr. Edward V. Stein of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo will conduct the five-part programs which will be on Mondays through May 12.

Peninsula Singer To Give Sacred Concert Tomorrow

Russell J. Marshall, minister of music at Redwood City's Peninsula Covenant Church, will present a program of sacred music at 4 p.m. tomorrow at the First Baptist Church of San Rafael.

Formerly of Seattle, where he had his own radio program, Marshall is well-known in operatic circles. He has been a regional finalist in the New York Metropolitan Opera auditions and is presently being considered for a Merola Scholarship by the San Francisco Opera Company.

He has appeared in numerous sacred concerts on the West Coast as well as appearing with the Bach Societies of Victoria, Seattle and San Francisco. He has also been guest soloist with the Vancouver and San Leandro Symphonies.

The service is open to the public. The church is located at 1411 Lincoln Avenue.

THE LENTEN SEASON

Local Greek Orthodox Church Sets Services

The recently organized Greek Orthodox Church of Marin will observe its first Holy Week with services starting tomorrow.

The Lenten schedule, according to Rev. John Bersetes, pastor, will culminate with an outdoor service on Eastern Orthodox Sunday next week to be followed by a traditional picnic, a glendi.

Due to church events celebrated according to the Georgian calendar, which is 13 days behind the Julian calendar used by the Western Christian church, Easter falls on the same Sunday only once every four years.

All services will be held in the Montgomery Chapel on the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo which is home for the church unit until it can build its own sanctuary.

Tomorrow, Palm Sunday, services will be at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Monday through Friday evening services will be held at 7:30 p.m. and Holy Saturday's schedule will include a divine lturgy and memorial for the repose of the departed at 10 a.m. and the traditional midnight rites, beginning at 11 p.m.

The agape (service of love) will be held next Sunday at 12 noon at the Sequeira Ranch in Novato. It will be followed by the glendi which will feature a Greek dinner and dancing, kicking off the building fund for the 200-member congregation.

In charge of the glendi are Gus Stathis of Terra Linda; Spiros Halikas of Novato and John Pappadopoulos of Greenbrae.

Presiding at all the services will be Rev. John Bersetes, who has served in the Greek Orthodox priesthood for 40 years. Prior to moving to Marin he served churches in Bakersfield and Pittsburg.

Ecumenical Song Fest Next Sunday

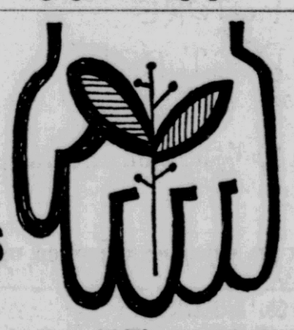
"Come Alive — Sing!", an ecumenical hymn festival, will be held next Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Sponsored by the San Francisco Theological Seminary, it will feature St. Anselm's Roman Catholic guitar choir, the seminary's choir and that of the San Anselmo Presbyterian church.

The program will be under direction of Dr. Austin C. Lovelace, minister of music at the Montview Boulevard Presbyterian Church in Denver.

According to Wilbur F. Russell, associate professor of church music at the seminary, emphasis will be on congregational singing.

WHAT EASTER MEANS



"He is not here; he is risen!" The empty tomb is what Easter is all about. It means victory over death—his and yours. Easter tells us there is more to this life than what appears.

Life's struggles all seem to end with the tombstone. They don't seem worth the trouble. But if the grave is not the end of it, a new perspective is created. Death is not just defeat; it is a doorway to an unknown, perhaps fearsome future.

Easter is to show us a guide for the trip through that doorway. Jesus has been there before. Commitment of our future to him also gives new meaning, new purpose, new tasks for the present. That's what our Church is all about. We invite you to come and share in this meaningful life with us.

WE WELCOME YOU

Managers Express High Hopes As '69 Openers Near

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are no more optimistic people in spring than baseball's managers. Every year they prove it just before the season opens.

Here is this year's proof—the pennant predictions and hopes of the 24 major league managers:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Red Schoendienst, St. Louis Cardinals—Our club added a lot when we got Vada Pinson. He can do everything. And Joe Torre gives us protection behind the plate. Dave Giusti should help our pitching. But we could be hurting in relief.

One of our biggest problems is not having a bench man who can motor. I mean a man who can pinch-run well. All in all, I like our pennant chances.

Clyde King, San Francisco Giants—I'm not predicting we will win the pennant but I know we are capable of winning it all. Besides, we've got a winning attitude. This is a happy club.

Walter Alston, Los Angeles Dodgers — Basically, three factors make us strong. First, our pitching looks pretty solid. Maybe we could use some relief help. Second, our youngsters—Willie Crawford, Bill Russell, Ted Sizemore and Bill Sudakis—have had good spring training seasons although they haven't actually proven themselves yet. Third, Ron Fairly and Jim Lefebvre have looked the best in years.

Dave Bristol, Cincinnati Reds—This is now my type of team. We can score runs. We've proved that. If our pitchers can stay healthy we should be able to have a good shot at winning the Western Division.

Leo Durocher, Chicago Cubs—I don't believe in pennant predictions. I predicted once. I said my club wasn't an eighth-place club. It wasn't. We finished 10th.

Preston Gomez, San Diego Padres—We went for young kids in the expansion draft because we think that's the only way we can build for the future. Our kids will lose us a lot of ball games this year but they'll be learning.

Larry Shepard, Pittsburgh Pirates—Things are much better than last spring in spite of the late arrival and the disappointing weather. There have been several bright spots and we haven't had thei njuries that we had this time last year. Our young players look good.

Luman Harris, Atlanta Braves—I think we can win the pennant. I think we've got as good a chance as anybody. I don't see why we can't get off to a fast start.

Our bench will help us more than it did last year and that's going to be a big factor. For instance, we've got Tito Francona, Tommie Aaron and Bob Aspromonte and all of them can handle first base and the outfield.

Harry Walker, Houston Astros—I believe our club is better than any we have brought back previously from training camp. We acquired a fine catcher in John Edwards and a live wire in Curt Blefary at first. The trade controversy has put Jesus Alou under a strain but his attitude has been tremendous. Joe Morgan is back and his leg apparently is in good shape.

Gene Mauch, Montreal Expos—I think we can hold our own with any team in our division except maybe the Cardinals and the Cubs. We won't beat ourselves. In fact we are, in my opinion, the strongest expansion club in baseball history.

Bob Skinner, Philadelphia Phillies—The Phillies could be a surprise team this season.

Richie Allen now is our first baseman and with Deron Johnson at third we will have as much power on the corners as any team in the majors.

Warriors Face Do-Or-Die Situation Tonight

Lakers Can Wrap Up Title In S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Warriors have their backs against the wall tonight when they meet the Lakers in the sixth game of the NBA's Western Division playoffs with Los Angeles holding a 3-2 advantage over San Francisco in the best of seven series.

Tonight's game at the Cow Palace will start at 8 o'clock.

The Lakers scored their third straight win last night on the Los Angeles home court, 103-98 after the Warriors spurted in the second half to close the gap to two points with 10 seconds left.

But then little John Egan sank three clutch free throws to give the Lakers the victory.

Los Angeles appeared to be running away with the game in the first half as the Lakers piled up a 20-point advantage only to dissipate it in the second half when their star, Jerry West, fouled out with 4:43 left to play.

'PLAYED BADLY'

"We played badly in the second period and that's what cost us," said Warriors coach George Lee. "You can't spot a team like the Lakers 20 points and expect to win."

Lee pointed out that the Lakers won the game at the free throw line as his club at one point went 32 minutes and had only two free throw chances. The Warriors made only 18 of 30 free throws.

Coach Bill van Breda Kolff of the Lakers said his team "just stopped" in the fourth period and gave the Warriors a chance to catch up.

"We have to keep moving and penetrate and we weren't," he said. "Wilt Chamberlain played a fantastic game, especially in the first half."

MULLINS LIMITED

Lee said the Warriors had hoped that Jeff Mullins, star of San Francisco's first two wins in the series, would be over a leg injury but he saw only limited action and did not score last night.

Even with 10 seconds remaining, the Warriors still had a chance but Rudy LaRusso made a wild pass out of bounds and removed whatever hopes San Francisco had of tieing up the game.

West was the game's high scorer with 29 points, most of them in the big Laker first half.

It was Bill Turner who fouled Egan with 10 seconds remaining and the 6-footer sank both of his shots. Seven seconds later, when the Warriors fouled him intentionally, he sank his third clutch free throw.

Joe Ellis led the Warriors with 23 points followed by Nate Thurmond with 18 and LaRusso with 17 while Mel Counts had 17 for Lakers.

Cha Cha Cepeda May Spark Atlanta To Division Title

Manager Lum Harris of the Atlanta Braves expects big things from Orlando Cepeda this season. Harris expects Cha Cha to correct a deficiency that existed last season in Brave hitting.

Felipe Alou and Hank Aaron provided the only dependable Brave bats last year, Alou hitting .317 and Aaron .287. But they couldn't carry the entire Brave offense, particularly when pitchers pitched around Aaron's dangerous bat.

"Now," said Harris, "we have Cepeda's bat behind Aaron. They (opposition pitchers) are going to think twice before pitching around Aaron this year. Cepeda gives us another home run bat."

Harris believes Cepeda's bat will give the Braves a good shot at the National League's Western Division title. Cepeda did put the necessary muscle into the 1967 pennant drive of the St. Louis Cardinals after the Giants traded him for Ray Sadecki.

He Kept 'El Birdos' Relaxed

Furthermore, Cepeda, a buoyant character with a sunshine smile when he is happy, gave the Cardinals a light-hearted confident attitude that kept them relaxed not only in 1967 but again in 1968 when they won the pennant in a walkaway.

Cepeda was the cheer leader of the Cardinals for two seasons. He dubbed them El Birdos. Nobody minded that El Birdos didn't fit grammatical rules. The title sure fit the carefree Cardinals on their way to back-to-back pennants. Los Birdos somehow never would have caught the fancy of the Cardinals or their loyal fans in the manner El Birdos did.

Last season Cepeda hit a most disappointing .248 after his big .325 that won him Most Valuable Player honors in 1967. However, Cepeda kept his tape-recorder going full blast in the Cardinal clubhouse in 1968 and continued to cheer everybody on despite a somewhat heavy heart.

Torre Trade Shocked Cepeda

When he learned that he had been traded last month to the Braves for Joe Torre, Cepeda was shocked. There was no secret that Torre wanted to be traded. He and Paul Richards, general manager of the Braves, engaged in some sharp exchanges during the winter.

But Cepeda was happy with the Cardinals, as happy as he had been with the Giants at the outset of his major league career 12 years ago when he won Rookie of the Year honors in 1958.

Was it because of Cepeda's discouraging .248 average last season that the Cardinals traded him? Joe Schultz, former Cardinal coach who is manager this season of the Pilots, Seattle's American League expansion team, doesn't think so.

This spring in Arizona, where the Giants and Pilots met in Cactus League exhibition games, Schultz pointed out that Cepeda didn't report until eight days after agreeing to contract terms.

"You just don't do things like that in the Cardinal organization," said Schultz.

Surprise For Marr: He Leads

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—When Dave Marr heard someone say that his 8-under-par 134 for the second-round lead in the Greater Greensboro Open (GGO) golf tournament was surprising, he laughed and said, "It surprised me too."

"Until today I've been playing so badly I haven't had anything you could call my best finish in a tournament this year," the 35-year-old Marr said yesterday after carding an eagle and four birdies against one bogey for the 5-under 66 that vaulted him into a two-stroke lead in the $160,000 GGO. He shot a 68 Thursday.

LITTLER SLIPS

Leading money winner Gene Littler and Gordon Jones of Windemere, Fla., two of the first-round leaders with 5-under 66 scores, each carded a 70 to tie with Rod Funseth of San Jose, who had a 69, at 136.

South African Gary Player, 26-year-old Alameda County Open winner Dick Lotz, Bruce Crampton, Deane Beman, Art Wall and Chi Chi Rodriquez were another stroke back at 5-under 137 after 36 holes.

Marr credited his improved game to cousin Jack Burke Jr., a famous golfing figure himself who won the Masters and the PGA in 1956.

Burke himself was 76-71—147 after two rounds and failed to survive the cut. Seventy-six players scored one-over-par 143 or lower to survive the cut.

Sadecki, McCormick Battle For Fourth Starting Post

Bolin Clinches No. 3 Role; S.F. Set For Opener

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bobby Bolin has the No. 3 spot all but locked up on the San Francisco Giants pitching staff.

Bolin won his spot in the starting rotation off excellent spring performances and moves in behind Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry.

The Giants meet the New York Yankees in exhibition games today and tomorrow before opening the 1969 National League season against the Braves in Atlanta Monday night.

VETERAN LEFTIES

By then, manager Clyde King will have made up his mind who has the No. 4 starting job. The competition for that job is between veteran lefthanders Ray Sadecki, Mike McCormick and rookie Rich Robertson. Since Marichal, Perry and Bolin all are righthanders the job should go to either Sadecki or McCormick.

"I'll make up my mind after the two games with the Yankees," said King.

The club otherwise seems all set for its Monday opener now that Bobby Etheridge apparently has won the third base job and left fielder Jim Ray Hart seems to have gotten over a groin injury.

SANTA CRUZ TOURNEY

Marin Catholic Loses In 4-3 Heart-Breaker

Marin Catholic High School's baseball team lost a heartbreaker at the Soquel Invitational Tournament yesterday, bowing to Soquel, 4-3, in a nine-inning semifinal action at Santa Cruz.

The Wildcats of Kentfield were set to play for third place and Redwood of Larkspur would have gone for the consolation title today but rain washed out the remainder of the action. The rest of tournament has been postponed to an unannounced date.

The Wildcats got off to a 2-0 lead against Soquel, scoring on a double by Rick Denning, an out, a passed ball and a mighty 390-foot homer by Bill Wilson.

Soquel got two in the third on a two-run pickoff error and went ahead on a sacrfifce with the bases loaded in the third. Marin Catholic tied it in the sixth on a double by Roger Offenbach and a single by Rick Fox to force the game into extra innings.

The game-winner came in the ninth inning, Soquel scoring on a botched rundown play.

Braves May Lose Carty For Opener

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Braves may have lost the services of veteran outfielder Rick Carty for Monday's season-opening game with San Francisco.

Carty suffered a dislocated shoulder last night while warming up for an exhibition game with Richmond, the Braves' International League farm club.

Trainer Dave Pursley put the shoulder back in place and said the injury was minor although Carty may miss Monday's opener.

Seals Battle Kings' Home Edge Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings closed their second regular season in the National Hockey League without a victory in their last six games and weren't particularly thrilled to begin the Stanley Cup playoffs right then.

Tonight when the Kings take on the Oakland Seals in the third game of their best-of-seven set, things couldn't look rosier.

Ted Irvine scored the fastest sudden death overtime goal in the league's history as the Kings won the first game of the series. Oakland won the second, 4-2, but tonight the Kings are home enjoying a home-ice advantage.

And it's a good thing the Kings are at home: Their road record during the year was a horrendous 5-27-5. The home record was 19-15-5.

But you can forget the regular season, says Coach Red Kelly of the Kings.

"You have to convince the players that it's a new season and they can atone for a lot of things just by winning in the playoffs," said Kelly.

The defeat Thursday to the Seals was a disappointment to Kelly, who said his players "acted as if they didn't want to shoot the puck."

But he feels that problem will be remedied when the teams clash here tonight.

Irvine's sudden death goal that gave Los Angeles its playoff victory was just another of his late-season antics that sparked the Kings.

On Mar. 18, Irvine scored his first NHL hat trick and those three goals were all Los Angeles needed to turn back the Seals, 3-2.

The Kings had a 4-2-2 season mark against the Seals but Oakland won the last two games of the eight.

Hecklers Infuriate Sifford

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Negro professional Charlie Sifford indicates he may never play in the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament again after the heckling he received during the tournament's second round yesterday.

"This used to be a damn good tournament," said Sifford, formerly of Charlotte, N.C., but now of Los Angeles. "But it isn't worth a damn anymore."

His remarks came after four spectators were ushered from the Sedgefield Country Club course for allegedly heckling golfers. Sifford was the target of most of the abuse, club officials said.

"When Charlie was putting, after the stroke, some members of the gallery were yelling 'Miss it nigger,'" said George Walsh, member of the Professional Golfers' Association field staff.

MISSES CUTOFF

Sifford finished with an even-par 71 for a 145 total, which failed to make the 36-hole cutoff.

Shortly after the incident, tournament officials issued a prepared statement in which they apologized to Sifford.

"Charlie Sifford has always been a favorite of Greensboro golf fans," the statement said. "Indeed a warm relationship has developed between Mr. Sifford and the GGO."

Pro Al Geiberger said the fans were saying some "pretty nasty things," but that he didn't believe the insults were racial.

Death Of Philly, Rebirth Of Celtics In Playoffs

Boston Now Takes On N.Y. Knicks

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Philly is dead, Philly is dead," yelled Emmette Bryant, leaving unsaid the obvious: The Boston Celtics are alive again, and kicking.

The rebirth of the Celtics, who finished a dismal fourth in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association this season, came last night when they wrapped up their playoff semifinal against Philadelphia with a 93-90 victory for a decisive 4-1 spread in the best-of-seven series.

The Celtics now open the East best-of-seven final set tomorrow on national television (10:55 a.m., PST, Channel 7) at Madison Square Garden against the New York Knicks, a surprise 4-0 winner against Baltimore.

In the Western Division semi-finals Friday night, Los Angeles closed in on a trip into the final with a 103-98 victory over San Francisco for a 3-2 lead while San Diego evened its set at 2-2 against Atlanta with a 114-112 triumph.

'COOL IT'

Bryant thoroughly enjoyed his first playoff triumph in the otherwise quiet Celtic locker room until teammate John Havlicek, a veteran of many Boston playoff successes, told him to "cool it."

But Philadelphia's Hal Greer, another playoff veteran, couldn't believe that Philly was dead.

"Sure, they're a great team," Greer said, "but to this day, I think the better team didn't win. I can't believe it's over."

It wasn't over until Billy Cunningham missed an off-balance jumper in the last minute after the 76ers had cut an eight-point deficit to 91-90 with 1:20 left.

THE WRAPUP

Then Bryant and Havlicek, who totaled 22 points, hit free throws to wrap it up. Cunningham had 23 for the 76ers in a defensive contest in which Boston hit only 33 of 80 field shots and Philadelphia 35.1 per cent.

Elvin Hayes' desperation 18-foot shot at the buzzer made San Diego a winner after Joe Caldwell had knotted the score with two seconds left for Atlanta, which has not beaten the Rockets on the West Coast this season.

Hayes finished with 30 points, four less than the Hawks' Walt Hazzard.

Optimism Runs High Among Most Big League Skippers

sive center fielder the Phillies have had since Richie Ashburn and Don Money is a strong, young shortstop with a fast bat.

Gil Hodges, New York Mets—This is the best Mets team ever. Our pitching should be even stronger than it was last year when two of our youngsters made the All-Star team. Using Cleon Jones at first gives us the chance to put Rod Gaspar in center field. He swings a good bat.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Mayo Smith, Detroit Tigers—The Tigers have their work cut out for them but I think they have the stuff to win against. I'd say that Baltimore, Boston and New York are the teams to beat in the East.

This is a young club with fine pitching and great hitting.

Dick Williams, Boston Red Sox — Barring injuries, I believe we have as good a chance as any team to win the American League pennant.

We have youth and talent on the Red Sox and, if we can stay free of serious injuries, we have a shot at the pennant. The return of Tony Conigliaro should help us greatly. Also, having Jim Lonborg available all season will make a great deal of difference.

Billy Martin, Minnesota Twins — This has been the type of spring I hope never to see again. Because of brutal weather; injuries to Jim Kaat, Dave Boswell, John Roseboro, Rod Carew and Bob Allison plus late arrivals, we just haven't caught up.

Al Lopez, Chicago White Sox —I feel we have a good chance in our division. Gary Peters, Joe Horlen and Tommy John have rounded into shape well and none shows any trace of injuries. We hope Sammy Ellis can be our fourth starter. Bill Melton is a good third baseman, a new boy who has been hitting around .400 all during spring training.

Joe Gordon, Kansac City Royals — We've looked pretty good. We haven't scored many runs but our pitching has looked real good. Our defense hasn't been too bad. I feel we'll surprise some people.

Bill Rigney, California Angels —I'm excited about the potential. It's the first time I've felt that the starters will carry us and not the bullpen. Our fate is in our young arms—Jim McGlothlin, Andy Messersmith, Tomy Murphy and Rudy May.

Joe Schultz, Seattle Pilots — We'll have a club with good power and good hitting. Our defense is good and we have fairly good speed. Our pitching is fairly good and we have strong relief pitching. The addition of Gene Brabender from Baltimore will really help.

Earl Weaver, Baltimore Orioles—We'll be close all the way if everybody has just a normal year, not even an outstanding year. I don't see how any American League team can run away with it. Our pitching is better. We had three starters-last year —Dave McNally, Tom Phoebus and Jim Hardin—who won 55 games. To these we have added two starters in Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer.

Hank Bauer, Oakland A's—We should be a real contender this year for the title in our division along with Minnesota. Our problem will be scoring runs. We also might have problems with our young bullpen and the catching. John Odom, Jim Nash, Jim Hunter and Chuck Dobson give us four strong and young starters.

Ted Williams, Washington Senators—I can't make any predictions becaue I haven't seen all the other clubs yet, but we're coming out of spring training with our spirits high and we're in good shape."

Alvin Dark, Cleveland Indians —We're definitely a contender in the American League this season. I'm looking for our pitching to be even better and certainly we should score more runs.

Ralph Houk, New York Yankees—I believe this is a better team than we've had recently. It is the youngest in Yankee history. It also is the fastest. It can be a good one.

The development of Murcer, Kenney and Burbach makes us stronger.

Leach Ninth In Western College Golf

Ray Leach, former Novato High School golf star now playing for Brigham Young University, skied to an 80 in the third and final round of the Western Intercollegiate Golf Tournament yesterday at Santa Cruz to finish in a three-way tie for ninth.

Gary Sanders of USC finished with a 223 to take individual honors, a stroke ahead of Lane Bennett of BYU, who shot a hot final-day 69.

The team title went to Arizona State, which finished two strokes ahead of USC, 913-915.

San Jose State was third at 921, followed by BYU and San Diego State at 923.

Second-round individual leader John Jackson of Arizona State bogeyed his first four holes yesterday and finished with an 82, dropping to a tie for third at 225.

Rev. Crowley Named New WCAC Chief

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—The Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley, who once headed the National Collegiate Athletic Association's United States Track and Field Federation, is the new commissioner of the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Father Crowley, 61, succeeds Walter J. McPherson, chairman of the San Jose State Physical Education Department. McPherson resigned from the post after San Jose State pulled out of the WCAC to join the new Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

Walter J. Hawkins, a member of the University of Santa Clara's Board of Control, has been named executive secretary of the WCAC. The post is a new one.

The WCAC offers competition in basketball and baseball only.

McLain's Shoulder Still A Question

DETROIT (AP)—It's still a question mark whether Denny McLain can pitch for the Detroit Tigers Tuesday in their opening game against Cleveland.

McLain, bothered by tightness in his shoulder, was treated by orthopedic specialist Dr. Leslie Mitchell at Ford Hospital yesterday. Dr. Mitchell said he would see McLain again Monday before determining whether he should pitch the opener.

Tiger Manager Mayo Smith said McLain would work out Monday at Tiger Stadium. Mickey Lolich is expected to start in place of McLain if last year's 31-game winner isn't ready.

Nine-Time Champ

DETROIT (UPI)—Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers won the American League batting crown for nine consecutive years from 1907 to 1915. He lost to Tris Speaker in 1916 and then won it for the next three seasons.

Jensen Doing 'Very Well'

COMBINED AP & UPI

RENO, Nev. — Former star athlete Jackie Jensen is "doing very well" in his recovery from a heart attack and is expected to be released from Washoe Medical Center in about two weeks.

The former University of California football All-America and the American Baseball League's Most Valuable Player in 1958 was hospitalized a week ago after suffering a seizure while watching his University of Nevada, Reno, baseball team practice.

Jensen's wife, Kathy, said yesterday, "He's now walking a little bit and moving around in a wheel chair. He's also no longer under sedation."

GYMNASTICS

SEATTLE — There's no rest in sight for Washington's Mauno Nissinen, the new NCAA all-round gymnastic champion.

The junior from Finland, who won the title with ease yesterday to give the host Huskies their first NCAA individual national crown in six years, returns to the arena tonight to compete for the individual championship in the side horse, rings and horizontal events.

Penn State and Iowa are battling it for the team title, with scores of 159.60 and 159.17, respectively, going into the finals.

BASEBALL

ANAHEIM — Veteran Lou Johnson was acquired by the California Angels from Cleveland in exchange for infielder-outfielder Chuck Hinton. Pitcher Phil Ortega also was obtained from the Washington Senators for the $20,000 waiver price.

FOOTBALL

BUFFALO, N. Y. — Al Bemiller, veteran center for the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, reportedly is seeking the Democratic endorsement for town supervisor in suburban Cheektowaga.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. E. — Johnny Walton, a Negro quarterback from Elizabeth City State College, has singed a contract with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

Walton, according to Rams' scout Paul Younger, is the first Negro quarterback to sign with an NFL team.

TENNIS

SAN JUAN — Top-seeded Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., advanced to the final round by beating Jaime Fillol of Chile, 6-4, 6-3 and Ove Bengston of Sweden moved into a semifinal against Charles Pasarell by ousting Brian Fairlie of New Zealand, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3. Julie Heldman of New York also advanced to the finals in women's play by downing Judy Tegart of Australia, 6-4, 11-9 in the 17th Caribe Hilton International Tournament.

HORSE RACING

ALBANY — Alvaro Pineda, leading rider at Santa Anita, booted home Apply to win yesterday's featured Tiburon Purse at Golden Gate Fields.

Pineda, who also won the seventh race, sent Apply up on the inside in the turn and kept her going to finish a length in front of Everything Lovely.

Tam Favored In Marin Golf League

Tamalpais High School's golf team came within an eyelash of winning or tying for the Marin County Athletic League title last year.

The Indians figure they can do a little better this year.

They have two things going for them. Coach Paul Wata has an all-veteran squad and practically seven guaranteed wins at the Mill Valley home course, the Indians' favorite stomping grounds.

Nothing will come that easily for the Indians. There aren't very many bad teams in the league, although none could be termed exceptional.

For Tamalpais, it is strictly a matter of depth and experience.

Back again this year are Craig and Wayne Smith, Jeff DeVoto, Dean Ryder, Kevin Hogan and Steve Golfine, all returnees from last year's near-miss team, along with a couple of good prospects in Rick Golfine and Greg Anderson.

The Indians were the top MCAL finishers in the recent 20-team Terra Linda Invitational Tournament at Peacock Gap in San Rafael.

The finishing order behind them was Terra Linda, San Rafael, Redwood and Drake. Those teams, along with Novato, figure to give the Indians whatever challenge they'll get for the title.

Terry Davis, Warren Raatz, Joel Jurtovsky and Art Cudworth head Terra Linda's team, which is described as "enthusiastic, young and dedicated" by coach Bill O'Bayley.

Chris Cardenal is a top returnee for the San Rafael Bulldogs, who always manage to put together a contending team.

Three-year veteran Wayne Duerson heads Redwood's squad, which has a solid nucleus of Duerson, George Carewe and Bruce McCarthy.

Drake figures to do better than in past years, with veterans Ed Herrington, Dean Hamilton and Tom Schaal, along with a pair of talented juniors in Fred Hellwig and Scott Thompson.

Novato lost super-star Ray Leach and a flock of veterans from last year's title squad, but the Hornets still have Mike Ahern, one of the top golfers in the county. Jeff Lesieur, another top returnee, will help and so will Greg Davenport, but the Hornets may just be too thin.

WHEN WILL AMERICA LAND A MAN ON THE MOON?

When will the first American Astronaut set foot on the moon? This June? This summer? Exactly when? You can share in the excitement of the momentous event by guessing precisely when it will be. And if you win—well, take a look at the prizes!

WIN

A 2-week trip for two anywhere on earth!

2ND PRIZE a 2-week all-expense vacation for two, Cocoa Beach, Cape Kennedy

to view a future space shot

3RD PRIZE $100.00 in cash—for fun money

ENTER THIS EXCITING CONTEST NOW!

IT'S STRICTLY FOR FUN. YOU CAN WIN!

Here's all you do:

Fill out the entry blank shown (or use a postal card facsimile) to guess the year, month, day, hour, minute and second that the first American Astronaut steps on to the surface of the moon.

Why the contest?

The contest, co-sponsored by the Independent-Journal and Today, the newspaper of Cape Kennedy, is offered as a novel guessing game for our readers — and as a means of recognizing the nation's space program. It's fun, it's out of this world!

SOME TIPS TO AID YOU ON YOUR GUESS

The Space Agency (NASA) has provided for readers the most likely times for the first landing attempt. These "windows" are the days when the Apollo spacecraft can reach pre-selected sites on the moon. The best "window" days include: April 18-24; June 16-22; July 15-22 and August 14-21. While most space experts talk of a June, 1969 landing, some predict it could come as early as April. Others believe it will not come until August. Watch for further news from NASA on the moon landing. And keep the above dates in mind in making your best guess. Happy landing!

RULES

1. ANY MAN, woman or child in the U.S. is eligible to enter except employees of the Independent-Journal and Today, the newspaper of Cape Kennedy and families.)
2. DEADLINE for entries is May 1, 1969. Entries must contain year, month, day, hour, minute and second to be eligible. Official time will be that registered by NASA as the time the first astronaut steps onto the surface of the moon. If astronauts do not leave the lunar module, the time will be the instant the module landed on moon's surface.
3. THE WINNING ENTRY will be that with the exact EASTERN STANDARD TIME or closest to it. Do not worry about difference in the time zones. The time you send in will be judged on the assumption it is Eastern Standard Time.
4. ENTRIES must be mailed to: MOON CONTEST, INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL, P.O. BOX 330, San Rafael, Calif. 94902. Use entry blank herewith or facsimile.
5. FIRST PRIZE: Two-week all-expense paid vacation for two anywhere on earth winner selects. Trip must be completed within one year from date of notification. Second prize: 2-week all-expense paid vacation for two to Cocoa Beach at Cape Kennedy to view future space shot. Third prize: $100 cash. Decision of the judges final.

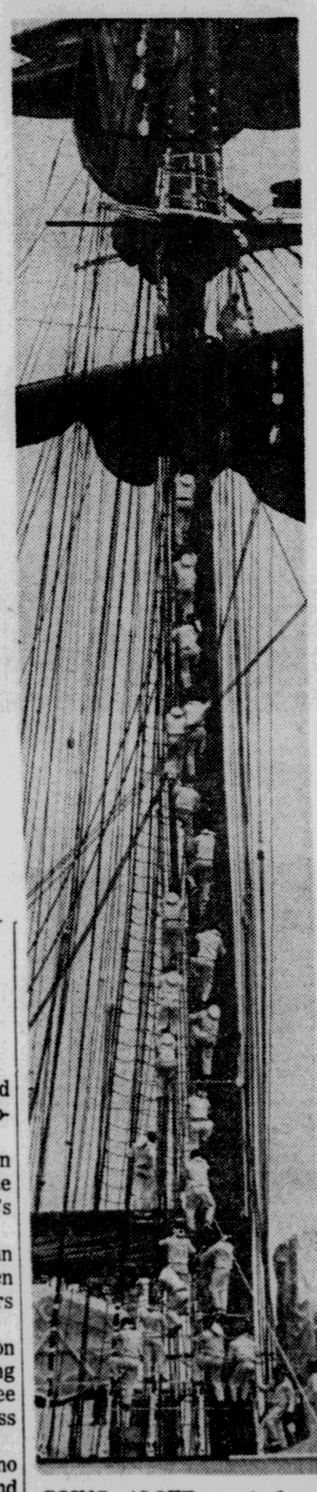
UNDER THE GOLDEN GATE — The Spanish Navy training schooner Juan Sebastian de Elcano is framed by the Golden Gate Bridge and a small swarm of fireboats and yachts as she sails toward her San Francisco berth at Pier 17 North yesterday. The training tour of the schooner brought back reminisceses of California Spanish colony days. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

STRIKING CONTRAST — The sight of a four-masted schooner against the background of the 1969 San Francisco skyline is a rare vision. The Spanish ship Juan Sebastian de Elcano's visit coincides with the California bicentennial.



GOING ALOFT — A large crew climbs the mainmast rigging as the Spanish training schooner Juan Sebastian de Elcano glides into San Francisco Bay.

Spanish Schooner Paying A Visit

The 300-foot Spanish schooner Juan Sebastian de Elcano sailed through the Golden Gate yesterday to open a five-day courtesy visit to San Francisco in connection with the 200th birthday celebration of the first sighting of San Francisco Bay.

The huge, four-masted schooner will be tied up at Pier 17 North through Tuesday before lifting anchor to sail to San Diego. It will be open to the public from 2:30 to 6 p.m. daily.

The schooner's captain, Commander Alvaro Fontanalis Baron, and his 336 crewmembers were greeted at dockside by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, members of the California Bicentennial Celebration Commission and Spanish Consul General Antonio Vidal-Gabas.

Reinecke presented a scroll to the Spanish officer commemorating the first entry into San Francisco Bay by a flagship of the Don Gaspar de Portola-Father Serra expedition. That expedition resulted in the naming of such landmarks as Alcatraz, Angel Island and San Pablo Bay.

The 52-year-old schooner, reconstructed in 1955-56, has sailed around the world three times and has served as the training ship for most of the officers in the Spanish Navy.

With 20 officers, 49 sub-officers, 97 midshipmen and 170 seamen on board, the 1500 horsepower Elcano had come through the Panama Canal on a training voyage with stops at San Diego and Monterey before arriving in The City.

Its next destination is San Diego, then back through the canal and home. It has logged 550,000 miles so far in three trips around the world so far, according to U. S. Navy officials.

Auto Stolen

Petaluma police today reported the theft of a 1966 Chevrolet Impala beglonging to James Carte of 632 St. Francis Drive, Petaluma. The bronze-colored auto was taken from Carte's driveway sometime last night, police said. Its license was RXP 469 and it had a black vinyl roof, they said.

Woman's Lip Cut In Wreck

A San Rafael woman was treated for a cut lip at Marin General Hospital yesterday after her car collided with another and bounced into a hill on South San Pedro Road.

The California Highway Patrol said a car driven by Grace Henry Russell, 37, of 400 Canal Street, crossed the center line near Main Drive and collided with a car driven by Wendy Wertz, 18, of 35 Wolf Grade, Kentfield, at 6:55 p.m. The Russell car then bounced into a hill, the patrol said.

Judge Orders Tiburon To Court In I-J Petition

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, acting on a petition by the Independent-Journal, yesterday ordered the City of Tiburon to make available to the public a plan for downtown Tiburon or to appear in court Monday to explain why it had not done so.

The action was brought against the City of Tiburon, the Tiburon Planning Commission, Tiburon planner Philip K. Buskirk and City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose by the California Newspapers Inc., owners of the Independent-Journal, and Anne Bardwell, Independent-Journal reporter.

A writ signed by Judge Gardiner orders the city officials and Buskirk to appear at 10 a.m. Monday before Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson, saying that they are "wrongfully refusing the inspection and/or copying of public records."

The state's Inspection of Public Records Act, authored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, requires that all public records and documents be made available to the public for inspection and/or copying upon request, said Mrs. Bardwell through attorney Gary T. Giacomini.

In its action, the newspaper said the city officials and Buskirk had refused Mrs. Bardwell permission to inspect the plan.

It alleges that Buskirk privately approached several members of the planning commission, the city council and Rose to discuss his alternate plan for downtown Tiburon and that, receiving interest in his plan, he agreed to present it to the planning commission for consideration.

The plan was presented to the commission at a workshop session held Tuesday, the petition states.

Another master plan for downtown Tiburon, first proposed by designer Charles Warren Callister but later modified by city planning consultant George Gatter, has been reluctantly endorsed by the city council.

The reason for a lack of enthusiasm for that plan is because it proposes high density commercial and residential development on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad property.

According to the I-J's petition, the planning commission agreed that the Buskirk plan had "sufficient merit to warrant further study" and named commissioners Joseph C. Marshall and Peter Macgowan to pursue the matter.

After presentation of Buskirk's plan to the commission, the petition notes, Mrs. Bardwell asked to see and copy the plan and was told by Buskirk that he would not allow her to do so unless authorized by the planning commission.

On the other hand, according to the action, Marshall and Rose told Mrs. Bardwell that Buskirk has possession of the plan and she must obtain his permission to see it.

Further, the petition states, Marshall and Macgowan refused to authorize Mrs. Bardwell to inspect and copy the plan.

Finally, according to the petition, Mrs. Bardwell and the Independent-Journal "are informed and believe" that the planning commission intends to consider the Buskirk plan at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall and that the newspaper and Mrs. Bardwell will "suffer irreparable damage" if they are not allowed access to it before the meeting is held.

Planning commissioners named in the action are Marshall, Macgowan, Joseph H. Bacheller III, Victor C. Banks, Allan N. Littmann, Allan Thompson and Bennett Wren.

Agent Shoots, Kills Man Fleeing During Robbery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A narcotics agent shot and killed one of four men fleeing an armed robbery the agent witnessed.

Dead is an 18-year-old Negro, Lannier Ross. Plainclothes inspector Ron Lemneos, who shot him, is white.

Lemneos and narcotics inspector Arthur Gerrans were sitting in an unmarked car near San Francisco's Fillmore district questioning a woman when the robbery unfolded in front of them late last evening.

As they watched, four Negro youths approached a white man walking along the sidewalk and one of them pulled a gun, police said.

Lemneos and Gerrans ran from their car toward the scene as the youths took the man's watch.

The person with the gun turned toward them, and then started to run with the others as the officers approached.

Lemneos chased the person he said he had seen brandishing the gun. He fired two or three shots, one of which hit Ross in the head and killed him.

A pistol, from which no rounds were fired, was found in the pool of blood beside Ross' body.

The three other suspects, all juveniles, were picked up by police a few hours later near the alleged holdup scene.

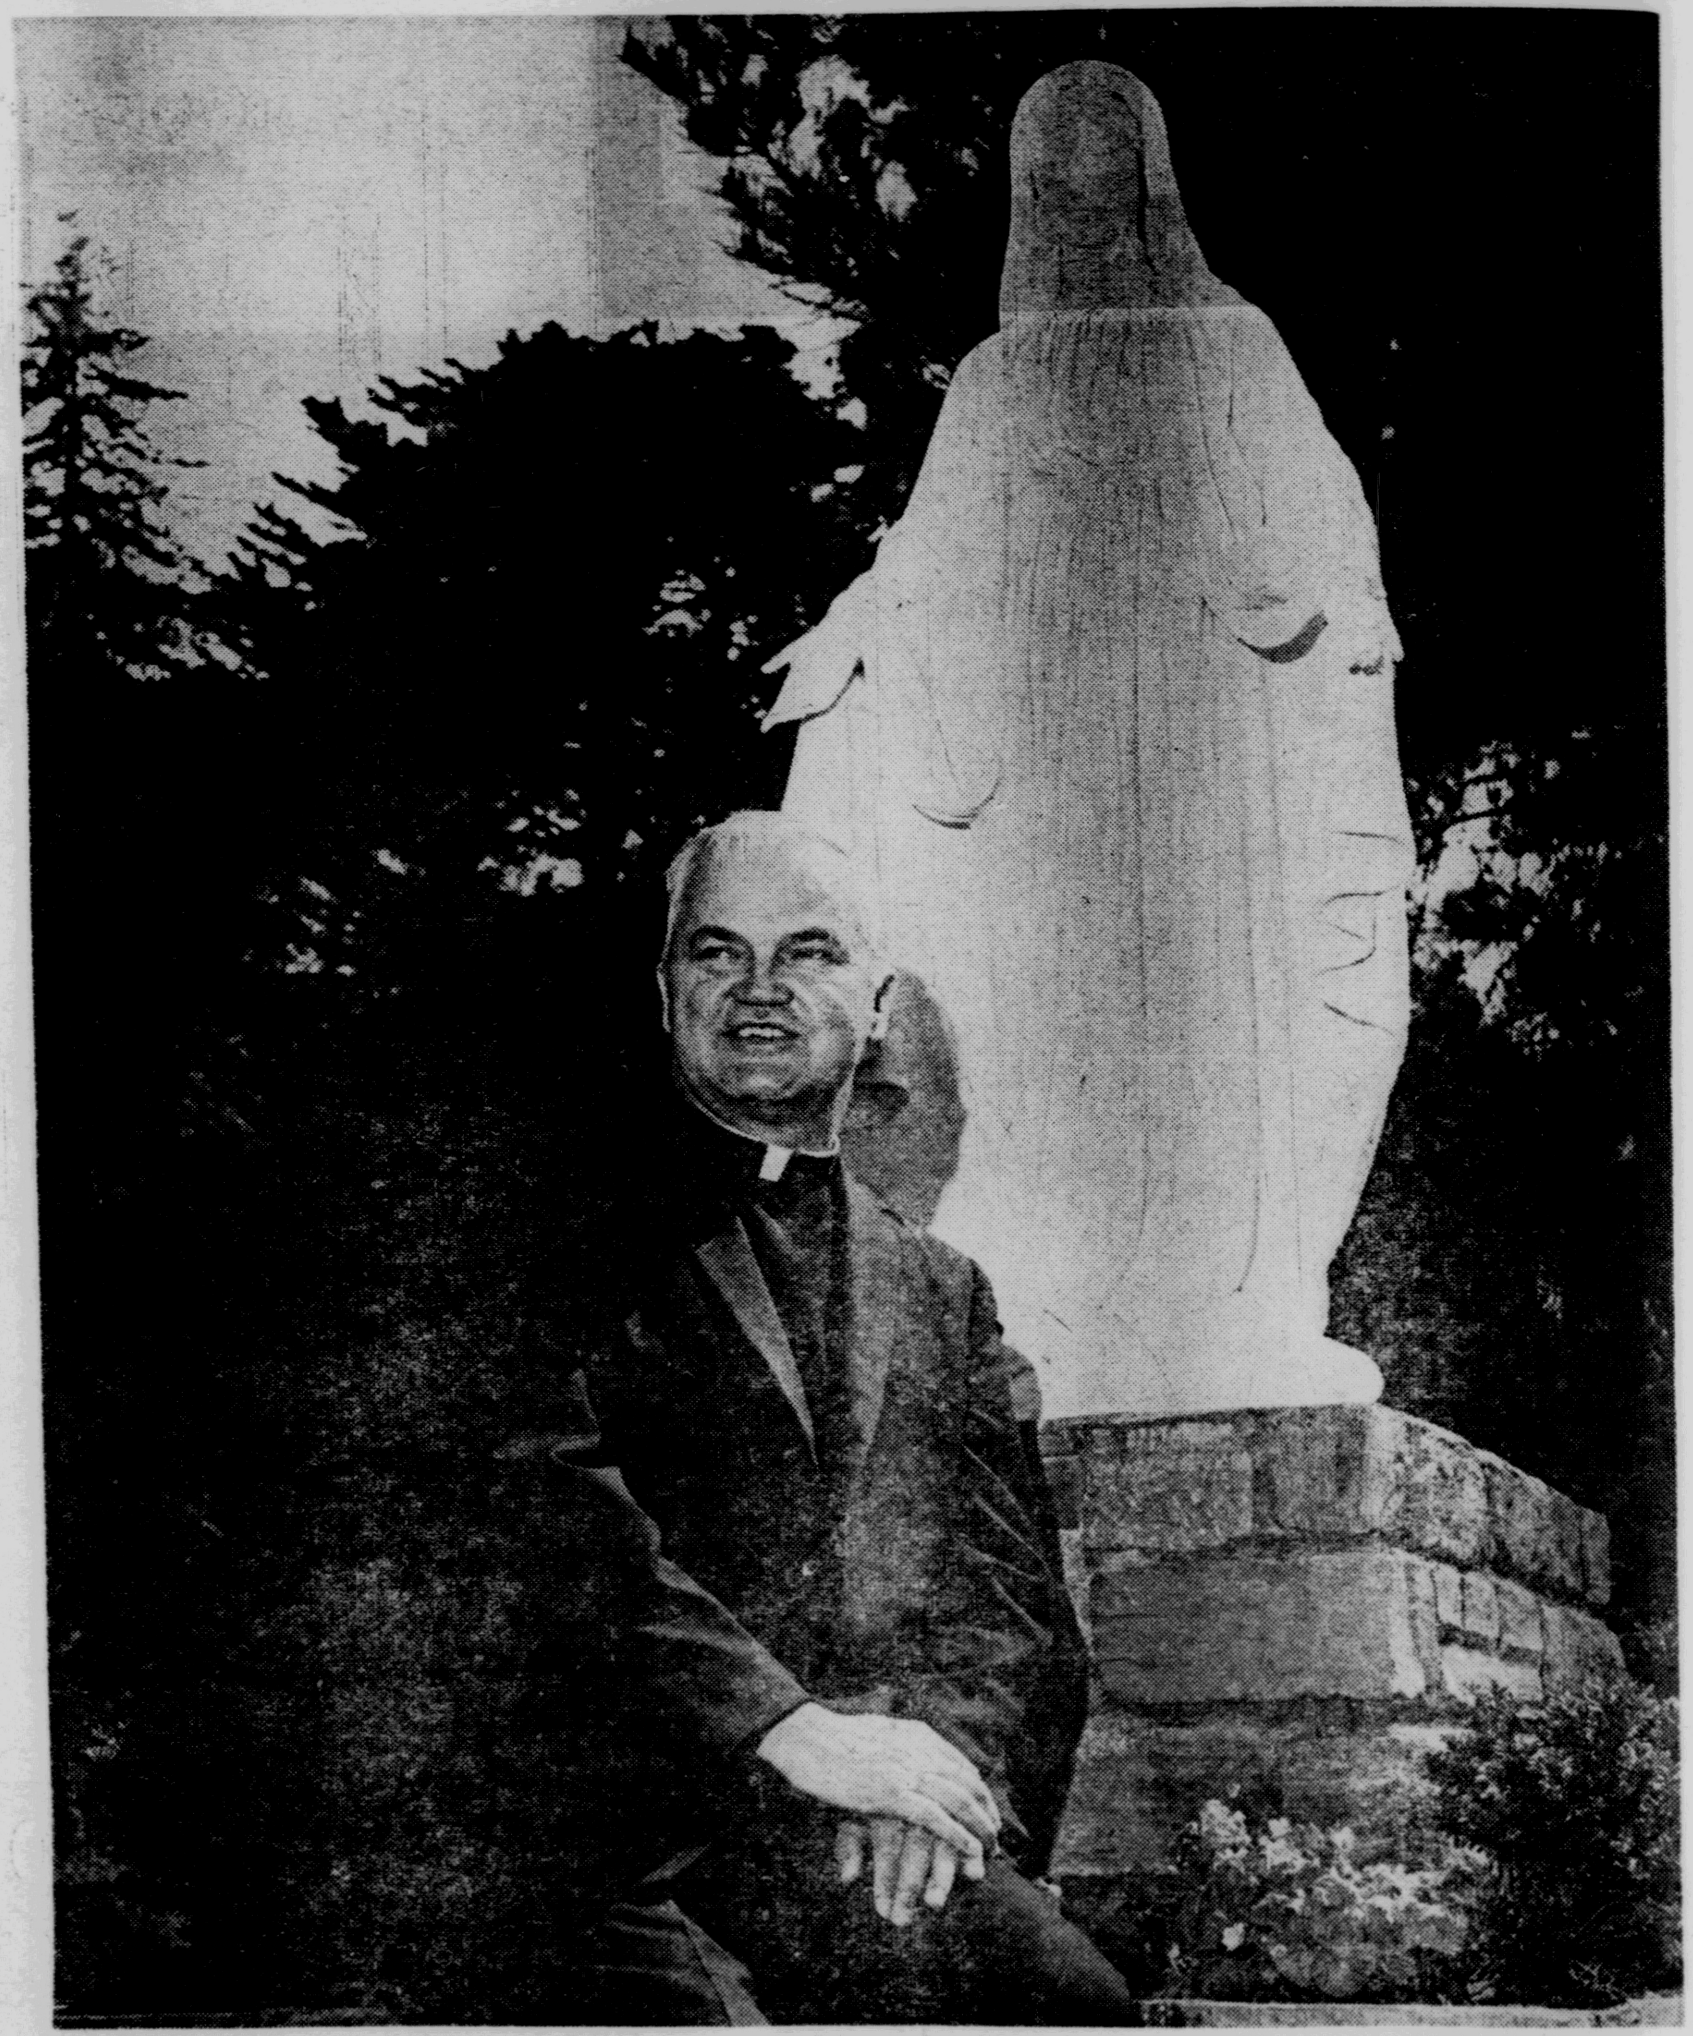
Thumper Is The Star At Easter Time

See Page M4



TWICE EACH year, at Easter time and again at Christmas time, the Independent-Journal's Marin Magazine presents to its readers an inspirational message from a member of the Marin clergy. This year's Easter message has been written by the Very Rev. Paul J. Flynn, S.M., rector of the Marist Fathers' St. Peter Chanel Seminary in San Rafael. Father Flynn came to the seminary in August of 1968 from Nampa, Idaho, where he was pastor of St. Paul's Parish of the Roman Catholic Church. At right he is pictured on the grounds of the seminary. An Easter Message For Our Readers

'Happy Are Those Who Believe, For They Too Will Rise'

By Fr. PAUL J. FLYNN

"But the angel spoke; and he said to the women, 'There is no need for you to be afraid. I know you are looking for Jesus, who was crucified. He is not here, for he has risen as he said he would. Come and see the place where he lay, then go quickly and tell his disciples, 'He has risen from the dead and now he is going before you to Galilee; it is there you will see him.' Now I have told you." Matthew 28: 5-8.

The winter rains, the clouds, the storms have gone. Spring has come, spelling out the newness, the freshness, the beauty of life.

The curses, blasphemies, jeers, taunts of calvary are quieted with his dying breath; "It is accomplished." The peace of that early morn, the first day of the week, was indeed the herald of spring that would make all things new. . . . "the angel spoke . . . He is not here, for He has risen as He said He would."

A simple statement of fact. He is not here. He is risen. He said He would arise. The prophecy, His prophecy is fulfilled. And there it is, this tremendous event in the history of the world for all men to accept or to reject.

There are those who believe, there are those who do not. Some doubt it like Thomas, and for them He gives the same answer as He gave the apostle: "You believe because you can see me. Happy are those who have not seen and yet believe." John 20: 29.

The fearful apostles have their shaken faith restored. Christ walks, talks with them, even eats with them to show that He is not solely a spirit but has a resurrected body. He gives them a job to do — to go out and tell the world about this good news. They do. Fearful before, they become intrepid. The resurrection of Christ is a fact. They preach it. They suffer for it . . . stoning, imprisonment, exile, death.

Their proclamation of faith has come down through the centuries: Christ has died, Christ is risen, Christ will come again! Such is the good news and its sequel; happy are those who believe, for they too will rise. It is a promise of Christ. Our hope is based on His promise. He never reneges.

"Yes, it is my Father's will that whoever sees the Son and believes in Him shall have eternal life, and that I shall raise him up on the last day." John 6: 40.

Ninety-Six Children—And Two Rabbits

The population at the Merrie-Go-Round Nursery School at 5461 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, consists of 96 boys and girls, ages 3 to 5, owner and director Mrs. Roderick Crandall, eight teachers, one cat, one turtle, one talkative cockatiel, a hooded rat and two furry rabbits.

Mrs. Crandall, her teachers and the nursery school children are there only in the daytime.

But the bird and animals make their home there, day and night.

Ordinarily, Petey the cockatiel is the star of the menagerie.

HE DELIGHTS the youngsters by ripping off such tongue-twisters as "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers," or by squawking out "happy birthday" greetings.

But at Easter time, even the talented Petey must yield the spotlight to the two rabbits, Thumper and Thumbelina.

Thumper, in particular, is a favorite, a big gray buck who enjoys a romp, be it with the other animals of the nursery school zoo or with the children.

LIKE THE doe Thumbelina, Thumper is technically the property of Greg Pickrel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Pickrel and a 6-year-old "graduate" of the Merrie-Go-Round School who is now in kindergarten. But both rabbits have made their homes at the nursery school for more than a year.

The rabbits are kept in hutches in the school yard placed so as to be well protected from the elements. When the children are present, Thumper and Thumbelina are allowed to roam the fenced school grounds freely.

They are fed a commercial rabbit food, and sometimes carrots, but the last have to be

AT EASTER time the unchallenged "star" of the small menagerie maintained by the Merrie-Go-Round Nursery School in Corte Madera is Thumper, the big gray and good-natured rabbit. He is one of two rabbits making their homes at the school along with a cockatiel, a turtle, a cat and a tame rat. Such pets as the rabbits, according to Mrs. Roderick Crandall, owner and director of the school, foster a gentleness in the children as well as a curiosity about the animal world. Attempting to interest Thumper in his picture book is Todd Santino. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean) washed most carefully because of sprays.

THE NURSERY school children take care of the feeding, as well as the brushing and the combing.

And they see to it that the two rabbits get the generous quantities of water they require — something like two quarts daily per animal.

The play of the children with the rabbits is always gentle, says Mrs. Crandall.

"Pets like the rabbits or the hooded rat seem to induce a tenderness in small children," she says. "That is why they are so ideal."

Thumper and Thumbelina have been enjoying the special attention that comes their way at Easter-time. But Petey seems impatient, anxious for the holiday to pass, so that he can once again become the star attraction in the Merrie-Go-Round menagerie.

The Music Of The Bells

A Joyous Easter Sound At The St. Luke Church

By DON KEOWN

JAMES GROVES, who directs both the handbell and the singing choirs at St. Luke Presbyterian Church, shows young Kathy Van Herwynen the correct technique for the ringing of a bell. Kathy is the president of the church's young Jubal Ringers. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

Worshipers arriving for the two Easter Sunday services tomorrow at San Rafael's St. Luke Presbyterian Church will be greeted by bells ringing out the joyous tidings that "Christ Is Risen Today."

The music will be coming from the handbells of the church's Jubal Ringers, assembled before the entrance in their robes.

While bells before the services and outside the sanctuary will be a special Easter touch, the congregation is accustomed to handbell music as part of their religious observances.

THE JUBAL Ringers, made up of boys and girls in the eighth through tenth grades, are but one of three groups organized and conducted by James Groves, the church's organist and choir director.

A second group, the Sanctuary Bells, a less experienced handbell choir of seventh and eighth graders, will be playing inside the church during tomorrow's Easter rites.

There is also a boys' group, the Crusader Boys, who play the handbells as well as such Carl Orff instruments as the autoharp, the xylophone and rhythm pieces.

IN ADDITION, Groves directs adult and primary (second and third grade) singing choirs, while an assistant, Mrs. Frank Dill, is in charge of a voice choir of fourth through sixth graders.

It is Groves, says Rev. Henry Kent, the pastor, who is responsible for the special interest of his church at 10 Bay View Drive in handbell ringing.

And his own interest in handbells, Groves says, began before his arrival in the Bay Area back in Fort Smith, Ark., where he was associated with the First Christian Church.

"A SET OF bells was donated to the church," he relates. "So it was sink or swim. Those bells had to be put to use."

Groves, also a professional piano teacher, formed a handbell choir of junior high school and high school students that was the first of its kind in Fort Smith.

"But by the time I left, handbell ringing had become so popular that five other churches had formed such choirs," he says.

GROVES' OWN appreciation of handbells also grew to the point where he purchased a set of bells of his own for use with his private pupils. These he brought west with him.

Out here he continued to give private piano lessons and was for a time with the music department of San Domenico School, conducting bell-ringing choirs in both the upper and lower schools. Since his departure from San Domenico, the school has continued its handbell program under the direction of Sister Susan, O.P.

Groves became choir director and organist at St. Luke two and a half years ago, and was eager to introduce handbell ringing to that church. But while his bells were in use at San Domenico, they were unavailable to the church.

NEVERTHELESS, Groves began drilling the Presbyterian youths, having them practice with bottles to master technique and rhythm.

Then, after he left San Domenico School, his bells replaced the bottles, and St. Luke Presbyterian soon boasted one of the finest handbell programs in the entire area.

In addition to his work at the church and his private lessons, Groves is now music department head at Katharine Branson School in Ross. "The girls there used the handbells for their Christmas program last year, and I hope they will be making greater use of them in the future," he says.

WHAT DOES it take to be a handbell ringer?

"Prior instrumental experience is not terribly important," Groves answers. "The most important thing is to have a good sense of rhythm — also excellent coordination, and utter dependability."

Dependability is vital, he explains, because the absence of a single one of the 11 ringers can destroy the value of an entire rehearsal.

THE JUBAL Ringers have that dedication to a remarkable degree, says Groves, as do his other choral groups.

"I've had the kids show up for practice with a 102 temperature," he says.

The Jubal Ringers have a special incentive these days. They aim to travel to Grove City, Pa., in June to participate in the National Festival of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers. Parents will provide some of the money, but the youngsters are raising a good part of the funds necessary for the 11 bellringers, their director and two chaperones to make the trip by plane.

THEY HAVE been performing janitorial and yard work, doing baby-sitting and sponsoring brunches and picnics.

Another source of money has been their appearance before service clubs and similar groups for a modest fee. They entertained the San Rafael Rotary Club recently. Groves and his young charges would like to have more such engagements.

Youngsters, Groves says, seem to get a particular enjoyment out of ringing English handbells — "they find it very challenging and very rewarding."

ENGLISH BELLS, which may be manufactured in Britain or

Jubal Ringers Make Handbell Music For Sunday Services

Unusual Choirs Are Heard Regularly At St. Luke Presbyterian Church in the United States, differ from the Swiss bells in that the clapper is on a spring so that it will strike but once per arm movement and thus can be controlled musically.

Basically, each ringer is responsible for two note letters—for instance A and B—plus the sharps and flats of those notes.

Groves originally owned a full five-octave set of 61 handbells. However, just prior to Christmas, 20 of the bells were stolen from his automobile in San Francisco.

THE BELLS were insured and replacements have been ordered from the manufacturer, the Whitechapel Foundry in England, maker of the Liberty Bell, Big Ben and other famous chimes.

"If the replacement don't arrive in time for the big festival in Pennsylvania (June 24 through June 28), we will just have to borrow some bells," Groves says.

Incidentally, he adds, the American Broadcasting Co. plans a network telecast from the Grove City festival.

ST. LUKE Presbyterian Church maintains a regular schedule by which the Jubal Ringers perform on the first Sunday of each month, the Sanctuary Bells on the second Sunday, the singing choir on the third, and the Crusader Boys on the fourth. The adult singing choir performs regularly every Sunday.

Music for handbell ringers is not easy to come by, Groves said. "Very, very little of it has been written." So Groves winds up doing most of his own arrangements for his choirs.

Chairman of the music committee of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, he has been actively trying to interest Bay Area composers in producing music for the bells.

ERNST BACON of Orinda is currently at work on a suite to be performed at the national festival, he reports.

Handbell ringing, Groves says, is a less resounding derivative of another traditional form of music from England's churches and cathedrals, tower bell ringing.

But its growth in the United States has reached the point where it now exceeds its popularity in England where it all began.

TO GROVES, to Reverend Kent, and to the worshipers of Kent, and to the worshipers of St. Luke Church, the pure, clear sound of bells, rung by young hands, offers the best of all means of announcing and celebrating the greatest news that Christianity has ever heard:

"Christ Is Risen Today."

The Case For Beauty Contests

Director Of Miss Marin Pageant Tells Of Rewards

MRS. CAROLYN BEACH uses the "mike" of radio station KTIM to publicize the Miss Marin Beauty Pageant, to be held April 17 in Olney Hall at College of Marin, Kentfield. Mrs. Beach is the director of the pageant, and KTIM is the sponsor. (Independent-Journal photo)

The beauty pageant is as much an American institution as the traditional apple pie or the contemporary campus riot.

It is considerably more controversial than apple pie and sometimes almost as fiercely debated, pro and con, as student demonstrations.

Parental attitudes toward these competitions among pulchritudinous young women generally fall into one of two divergent categories:

Those proud parents who are so eager for their daughters to compete that they almost push them into participation.

And those parents who are strongly opposed to permitting their offspring to bid for a beauty crown, usually in the belief that such events are frivolous, constitute exhibitionism, or pose too great a hazard of heartbreak for the young competitors.

MRS. EDWARD Beach is a woman who has been dealing with both kinds of parents for nine years now.

She began her association with beauty spectaculars while with the John Robert Powers School in San Rafael, assisting Millie Cameron, director of the school, in conducting the annual Miss Marin contest.

Then Hugh Turner, manager of KTIM, was searching for a public service event that could be staged in conjunction with the Marin radio station's 18th anniversary celebration. He was interested particularly in some kind of a program that would involve young women, since the station was already the sponsor of its Sportsmen's Club movement for young men.

THE RESULT was the programming of a Miss KTIM contest with Mrs. Beach as its director.

And with the John Robert Powers School no longer involved in the Miss Marin Pageant, Mrs. Beach continued to work under Marin Visitors Bureau sponsorship with Esther Dearth in the staging of that annual event.

The Miss KTIM titleholder qualified for the later Miss Marin contest.

Gradually, however, the Miss Marin and Miss KTIM contests became one, under the direction of Carolyn Beach and the radio station as franchise-holder and sponsor.

TODAY, IN the midst of final preparations for the 1969 Miss Marin Pageant to be held April 17 at 8 p.m. at Olney Hall on the College of Marin campus in Kentfield (Monday is the closing date for entries), Mrs. Beach is also an executive director for the Miss California Beauty Pageant, held each year in Los Angeles with the Miss Marin winner among the contestants, and an honorary board member of the Miss USA - Miss Universe pageants at Miami Beach, Fla., to which the Miss California titlist advances.

She serves, too, as executive director for Miss Sonoma-Miss Marin Beauty Pageant, annually a part of the Sonoma-Marin Fair in June in Petaluma, where she is also a fashion show coordinator and commentator.

And she is an official chaperone for the Maid of California Pageant.

DESPITE HER close association now with the world of beauty pageants, the attractive Mrs. Beach never herself competed in such an event. But she feels her work as a John Robert Powers instructor provided her with an excellent background for the beauty pageant field.

Reared and educated in Marin County, Carolyn Beach resided in San Rafael until recently when she moved with her husband, an electrician, to Sebastopol.

What does she tell those parents who are reluctant to permit their daughters to compete in the Miss Marin Pageant?

"I POINT OUT to them that it is a marvelous opportunity," she answers. "It offers the young women the kind of experience that helps to bring out their personalities, that develops confidence and poise. It is the kind of thing they could never get from books."

Carefully, at an annual get-acquainted Coke party, she goes over with all the parents and their daughters the strict rules and close supervision that are part of the pageant system.

As for those parents who are worried that their daughters will be too badly hurt if they should fail to win, Mrs. Beach says:

"I TELL THEM that it is true that there is some disappointment, as there is in much of life. But almost always, in advance, the girls seem to sense who is going to win, and most often they are pleased by the judges' decisions. They are sincere in their congratulations.

"And they say afterwards that they wouldn't have traded the experience or the fun for anything."

Mrs. Beach says that the chain of beauty pageants that leads ultimately to the crowning of a Miss Universe in Miami Beach is the only real beauty competition among the major contests.

"THE OTHERS are talent contests to a large degree," she explains.

Competitors in the Miss Marin competition and in the succeeding pageants are judged on poise, carriage, stature, smile, texture of skin, grooming, posture and "all in all, magnetic personality."

"My advice to each contestant is that the two most important factors are posture — stand tall and proud, think tall —, and smile — be in love with the world and let your joy show."

MRS. BEACH also counsels the girls: "Don't worry about turns, pivots, walk, etc. Just relax, stand tall, and smile. Look at your judges, for eye contact is most important."

Judges are advised, when rating the girls in the evening gown competition: "Do not be prejudiced by the evening gown the contestant is wearing, but consider her ability to create a picture of good taste and charm."

"Why Did My Suede Jacket Lining Change Color?"

This occurrence is prevalent in many suede jackets today—especially those with light or white linings. The majority of these suede garments are of foreign manufacture. The cause is a poor selection of dyes for the suede by the manufacturer. This dye bleeds readily in any type of cleaning, no matter how much care is taken. The dye transfers to the jacket lining—and there it is!

Although this dye bleeding may be found in domestic garments, too, it is far less likely here because manufacturers in this country are more alert to such complaints. The watchful eye of the National Institute of Drycleaning observes, complains, publicizes and urges manufacturers to use dyes which do not bleed in drycleaning solvent.

pearances: "Consider beauty of face and figure, but bear in mind that grace, poise and posture are essential requisites for beauty too."

COMPETING girls receive expert advice in etiquette, in their wardrobes, in proper walking and in posture that is invaluable and long lasting, says Mrs. Beach.

"Since we stress natural beauty, make-up is of only incidental importance," she adds.

Her association with beauty pageants has convinced Mrs. Beach that beauty and brains do go together. Most of the Miss California contestant are either college graduates or college students, and they display, she says, a keen awareness of the issues of the day.

FOR THE Miss Marin Pageant, Mrs. Beach finds that most of the entries are women 20 and younger.

"This," she says, "despite the fact that women are at their most beautiful age in their early 20s. Somehow, past 20, there seems to be a loss of confidence that prevents them from entering the pageants."

Throughout her nine years of working with the pageants, Mrs. Beach says, the contestants have remained "wholesome, all-American types." This wholesomeness, she adds, is usually reflected in their stable family backgrounds.

ONE OF THE highlights of the year for Carolyn Beach comes when she accompanies the Miss Marin winner and other Northern California title-holders south to Los Angeles for the Miss California Pageant held in Los Angeles' Biltmore Hotel.

"As an official chaperone, I become sort of a mother confessor and pill-dispenser, as well as an emergency stagehand," she says. "I'm on the go, every moment that I'm there."

A high point in Marin's beauty pageant history came in 1961 when Pam Stettler, now Mrs. Jim Costello and mother of two children, went on to win Miss California and Miss USA first runnerup honors.

"BUT WE ARE always proud of our girls," says Mrs. Beach. "They have never given us the slightest cause to feel otherwise."

The Miss California Pageant with which the Miss Marin competition is affiliated is conducted by the California Beauty Pageant Inc., with Dr. Leonard B. Stallcup, a Los Angeles dentist, as president.

Involved before the final selection of a Miss California is made is the screening of some 6,000 young women.

THE FINAL Miss USA and Miss Universe competitions will be aired on Columbia Broadcasting System network television this summer before some 75 million viewers.

The Miss Universe creed, Mrs. Beach says, is something more than flowery words. It reads:

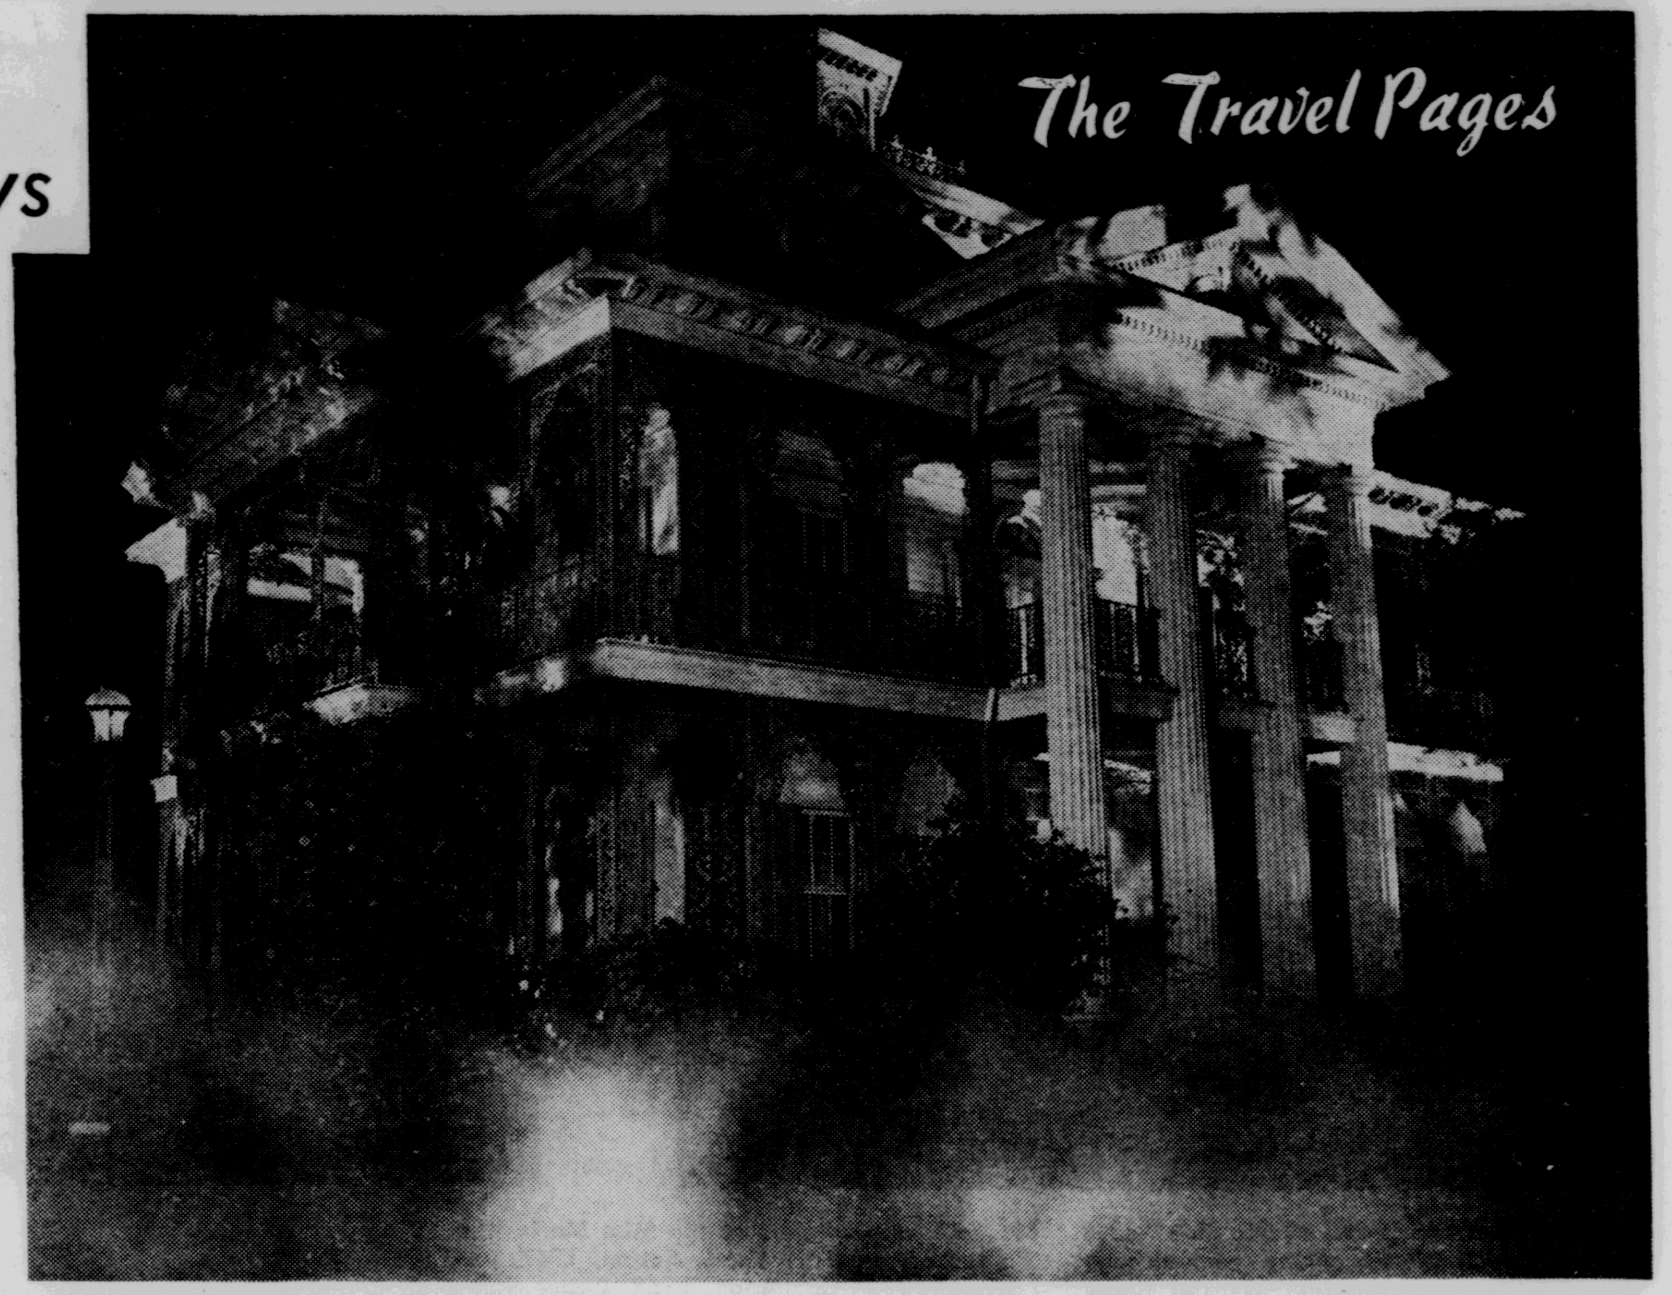
"We, representing the countries of the world in the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant in order to further the cause of peace, justice and mutual understanding, do solemnly dedicate ourselves to the highest ideals of sportsmanship, friendship and goodwill among all the people of the universe."

THIS SAME spirit prevails on the local contest level, she says, as Marin goes about selecting its best qualified candidate to vie for state, national and world honors.

And such goodwill is exactly what the world, and the community, need now, in a time of tension and trouble.

Disneyland's Magic Grows

Spooky Place To Become Newest Unit



A HAUNTED MANSION, now in its final phases of construction, will open late this summer to become Disneyland's 53rd major adventure attraction. The mansion will be home to a "floating population" of 999 ghosts and other restless, ghoulish spirits, including a Ghost Host who will conduct curious mortals on tours of the cobwebbed halls and haunted graveyard.

San Francisco Bay Area residents are reluctant to acknowledge that Southern California offers any advantages, for residents or for tourists, that our own region cannot match or or surpass.

But when it comes to sheer escapist entertainment, Northern Californians are hard put to cite anything we can offer that is in the same class with Disneyland.

Furthermore, the magic kingdom at Anaheim created by the late Walt Disney continues to grow annually in its attractions.

FOR INSTANCE, under construction there now is a Haunted Mansion that will open late this summer, inhabited by happy spooks collected from throughout the world.

Frequenting the mansion's shadowy rafters and echoing hallways will be a Ghost Host who will serve as the guide to visiting guests. Dwelling in the cobwebbed labyrinth and misty gardens with him will be headless knights, phantom dancers, floating furniture, howling hounds and other supernatural apparitions and psychic phenomena.

This summer will also see the introduction of a new fleet of Disneyland monorail trains and enlarged stations at Tomorrowland and the Disneyland Hotel. The new five-car trains will be equipped with foam rubber seats, panoramic windows and super-soft air suspension.

THE SUMMER season begins officially June 21 when daily hours become 8 a.m. to midnight. During its winter season, Disneyland is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekends, with extended hours on holidays.

A three-day festival, May 30, 31 and June 1, will preview the stepped-up summer fun, highlighted by a Great Bands of America Festival starring Count Basie, Don Ellis, Harry James, Sammy Kaye and other bandleaders and their great musicians.

The premiere night-time show for this summer will be "On Stage USA," to be produced twice nightly on the Tomorrowland Stage, with celebrity performers and the John Scott Trotter show band. For the younger set, there will be the top rock bands and recording stars.

EACH SATURDAY night will spotlight "pop music" favorites, while Sunday evenings, beginning June 22, will be given over to a country and western music jubilee.

The well established Golden Horseshoe Revue will be staged hourly each evening as well as during the daytime this summer.

Other summer specials will include the twice-a-day parades of Disney characters led by Micky Mouse and including such beloved figures as Donald Duck, Snow White and Winnie the Pooh, and the nightly 9 o'clock "Fantasy in the Sky" fireworks display preceded by Tinkerbell's flight over Sleeping Beauty's Castle.

ALL THE regular Disneyland adventures, including the Pirates of the Caribbean, the submarine voyage, the jungle cruise and the Matterhorn bobsleds, many of these expanded and improved, will be operating full tilt, before and after the new Haunted Mansion begins functioning.

The mansion will become the 53rd major adventure awaiting Disneyland visitors, and the eighth to use the "audio-animatronics" system that combines animation and sound electronically, producing in this case everything from chains that clank to a raven that recites, from bones that rattle to a seance that calls in spirits from beyond.

These ghostly goings-on provide just one more reason why Marinites will be swallowing their prejudices this summer and, in greater numbers than ever, will head south to see the sights of Disneyland.

No sense arguing — we just haven't anything to match it. At least, not yet.

YALE GRACEY, one of the Walt Disney-trained creators of illusion, greets this happy hunter upon his arrival at Disneyland's new Haunted Mansion where he should be perfectly at home among clanking chains and demonized doors.

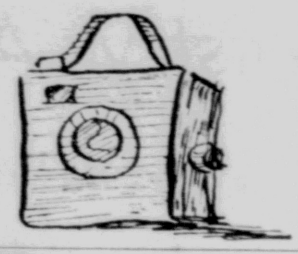
MAKING MONEY WHILE VACATIONING IN AUSTRALIA



You can make money on a vacation in Australia, maybe lots of it, and the way to do it is to try your luck at "rock hounding."

Gems and semi-precious stones are to be found in many parts of Australia, which is why rock hounds are beginning to converge there from all over the world.

IT'S WELL known that precious opals are practically an Australian monopoly. But that's only part of the picture.

Australia produces many of the world's most valuable sapphires, is rich in emeralds and rubies, and has in bonanza proportion just about every semi-precious stone from agate to zircon.

To set yourself up as a gem-seeker all you need is a Miner's Right, available at local police stations, and some digging and sifting equipment, which can be inexpensively hired on the spot.

CURRENTLY tops for opals are Amdamooka and Coober Pedy, 400 and 600 miles north of Adelaide, and Lightning Ridge, 450 miles northwest of Sydney.

Coober Pedy has yielded Australia's biggest single opal, the 135-ounce "Olympis Australis," which is priceless.

Lightning Ridge is the only source of the famous "black" opals.

Among the finest Lightning Ridge "blacks" are "Pride of Australia," valued at $180,000; "Aurora Australis," valued at $250,000, and "The Queen of the Earth," purchased on the field for $200 and now valued at $200,000.

Years may go by between discoveries such as these. But the unearthing of opals worth from $50 to $200 is quite common.

Sapphire, emerald, beryl, aquamarine, topaz and some diamonds occur in a broad band of east coast country running 700 miles from Canberra to the Queensland border.

But the biggest gem rush center at present is Queensland's Anakie district, 200 miles west of Rockhampton.

The quest here is mainly for sapphires, for Anakie has produced such exquisite gems as the 888-carat "Star of Queensland" sapphire, valued at more than $300,000, but sold on the field for $30.

From all this, there are two important things to remember; keep your finds in one piece and shop around before you sell them.

SPRINGTIME HAS COME TO BRITISH COLUMBIA

WHY HAVEN'T YOU?

British Columbia enjoys the earliest arrival of real, shirt-sleeve spring weather in all of Canada. The pageant of springtime begins on southern Vancouver Island, where fields of golden daffodils appear, and Victoria's famed gardens erupt with color. Then, on the lower mainland, Vancouver's green parks present a blaze of floral beauty, and Fraser Valley pasture lands come alive with lush new growth. Later in the season, you can savor the sight of apple orchards blooming by clear blue lakes in the valleys of the Okanagan and the Kootenays. From the Rocky Mountains to Vancouver Island, springtime in British Columbia is an experience you'll never forget. And it's happening now.

"Drive" the Inside Passage between Prince Rupert and Vancouver Island. An unforgettable 330-mile cruise, rich in vistas of coastal fjords. Frequent service now in effect. For reservations, see your travel agent or local automobile club.

Artistry And Insight In A New Deck For An Ancient Game

T: THE NEW TAROT by John Cooke and Rosalind Rosalind Sharpe; Western Star Press, 148 pages, softcover, $1.95.

THE TAROT SPEAK by John Cooke; East Totem West, 22 Tarot cards, $5.95. Reviewed by Margaret Terrien.

A new deck has been cut in the ancient game of Tarot and the result may be a "consciousness map" to rival the Rorschach ink blots, according to Ralph Metzner, Ph.D., of the Kaiser Foundation Hospital and Stanford Counseling Service.

Dr. Metzner writes the introduction to "T: The New Tarot," a limited edition paperback dictated via the ouija board in Carmel and compiled in Marin.

Rosalind Sharpe of Mill Valley is co-author with John Cooke of this book describing and interpreting the loaded symbolism of the 22 cards of the new Tarot's "major arcanum" painted by Cooke. Full color reproductions are available in seven and a quarter by 12-inch posters suitable both for wall decor and self analysis. These cards and the illustrated commentary of "T: The New Tarot" will serve as introduction to the full 78-card deck which, when released later this year, will be printed in conventional playing card format.

The presently available 22 cards provide a mind-blowing tour through the major archetypes of C. E. Jung's racial unconscious. Although Cooke insists he is "no artist" he has done a remarkable job, presenting in jeweled color and heavy line the Tarot's 20th Century cast of characters: Actor, Feeler, Thinker, Seeker, Nameless-One, et al. Equally evocative are Cooke's grace notes of peripheral design: lions, serpents and spiders; daggers and chalices; fire, stars and blossoming trees. Here is imagery for everyone.

Black and white reproductions of the 22 major trumps appear in "T: The New Tarot" side by side with their ancestors from the European deck, six centuries old. In most cases, interestingly enough, the symbolism is completely reversed. The old "Death" card, for example, is now "Renewer." The conflict of sex, depicted in the old "Lovers" by a confused man standing between two women costumed as angel and whore, is resolved in the "Unity" with naked male and female bodies, one each, whose reaching arms enclose a sphere.

Miss Sharpe, who is astrologist as well as novelist, playwright and journalist, states that the new cards are "predictive" and herald the dawning of the Aquarian Age. The former era of Pisces, a tumultous 12,500 years, she assures us is now ending. And high time.

In contrast to the gloomy forecasts of most world thinkers the predictions in this book give mankind a fighting chance. The species just may survive if it has the sense to develop the best in itself, herein described as the divine "Essence."

Whatever the new Tarot's original source of inspiration — the ouija board or a mighty powerful joint subconscious — the book reflects an admirably humane point of view. Self awareness, psychic wholeness and world brotherhood are recurring themes. The diction is poetic.

The authors are completing the 56 minor trumps (the "minor arcana"), which when completed will round out the full deck. In the meantime, "T: The New Tarot" may be obtained from most Bay Area bookstores and the 22 posters from East Totem West, Mill Valley.

To enjoy the artistry and insight of both, a knowledge of card games or Rorschach is not required.

Club Women Offer Their Best Recipes

AMERICA COOKS, edited by Ann Seranne; Putnam's, 796 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This is a big, no-nonsense book, aimed at giving the cook a mass of practical ideas and help.

First and foremost it is a recipe book—some 3,500 in all. And they are the kind of recipes that belong in the home kitchen, not in the gourmet restaurant or on the printed page.

Their sources, indeed, are homes across the country. For the book is a project of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which solicited the most prized recipes of its many members. Nearly a million poured in, and from these Ann Seranne, food editor of the New York Post and a veteran cookbook editor, performed the immense task of selecting the best after subjecting them to rigid testing. The book was 10 years in its formulation.

It is a most comprehensive book with recipes of every kind imaginable, and it is a distinctively American book, capturing all the regional specialties, the ethnic variety, the zest and the hearty flavor that Americans like in their table fare.

While quite properly the recipes are accorded priority, there is also included a great deal of basic culinary information that will be of special value to the newlyweds.

It is, in short, one of those cookbook standards that come along about once in a decade, to remain popular with an entire generation that keeps it always on the kitchen shelf close at hand, like an old friend for times of need.

Advice From A Mr. Nice Guy

THE GAME OF BASEBALL by Gil Hodges with Frank Slocum; Crown, 159 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Any hope that Gil Hodges' "The Game of Baseball" will do for that game what Jerry Kramer's best-selling "Instant Replay" did for professional football, by taking its readers into the very bowels of the sport, dies quickly.

Hodges, one of baseball's Mr. Nice Guys, has, with the help of veteran sportswriter Frank Slocum, written a rather routine sports book of advice to managers, coaches, players and fans on the basics and some of the finer points of the game.

This instruction has been spiced with some mildly amusing anecdotes picked up by Hodges during his long playing career and his current managerial tenure.

For what it is intended to be, the book is quite satisfactory, keeping its advice simple and uncomplicated.

The book could be of the greatest assistance to coaches of Little League and other "kid" teams.

For instance: "One area that I think is abused is the position of Little League baseball as stepping-stone to the major leagues. It's not, any more than students are taught French in our schools to prepare them to live in France. It's merely an outlet for some kids to have fun."

In other words, the manager or coach should intrude himself only when he serves to make the pastime more enjoyable to the boys, rather than to attempt to control the program within certain organized guidelines, or, worse yet, to indulge his own ego.

Nor, says Hodges, should youngsters be expected to confine their baseball to scheduled practices and games. There is still a lot to be said for the old sandlot style where the kids get together, choose up sides, and play away, tossing the finer points and even some of the rules aside, for sheer enjoyment.

It is the kind of thoughtful advice that one would expect from a decent, commonsense chap like Hodges who has always been a credit to his sport. One hopes that as a manager Hodges proves Leo Durocher wrong and that this "nice guy" does become a winner.

Novel No. 63

THE VELVET HAMMER by Faith Baldwin; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 213 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This is Faith Baldwin's 63rd novel and 86th book.

Again her scene is smalltown New England, where young war widow Meg Brand comes to live with her imperious and wealthy mother-in-law while her baby is born. Afterwards, Meg has another chance for romance and marriage, but she must survive the bitter opposition and intrigue of her first husband's mother.

The plot sounds "soap-operish," which it is. But Miss Baldwin writes with sensitivity and skill.

It is no literary blockbuster, but it is a novel that will please Miss Baldwin's loyal followers, and they are considerable in number.

One Doctor's Remedy For Sicknesses Of The Nerves

HOPE AND HELP FOR YOUR NERVES by Dr. Claire Weekes; Hawthorn, 183 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

All over this stress-filled globe, individuals are fighting desperately against nervous illnesses. And in so doing, says this Australian physician with a special interest in the field, they are making a basic error.

The key to recovery from nervous disorders and their symptoms, she advises, lies in accepting, not fighting, those conditions.

She summarizes her program as: "Facing, accepting, floating, letting time pass."

Oversimplifying, she says nervous sickness can be described as a case of nerves overly-sensitized by fear. The decision to accept and to live — temporarily — with that condition is the first step toward improvement. We are advised to go about our business without paying undue attention to these symptoms — "Don't be bluffed by physical feelings."

This attitude is attained, the doctor writes, by the process she describes as "floating" — by loosening our attitudes, avoiding self-analysis, by-passing the struggle. Then it becomes a matter of "letting time pass" as nerves, usually very gradually, lose their excessive sensitivity.

Mr. Weekes takes up specific types of nervous disorders and symptoms, from the so-called breakdown to such problems as sleeplessness, depression, unreality, guilty, sorrow, palpitations, extreme fear, etc. There is specific advice for the nervously ill person returning home, and for his or her family.

"Anybody is capable of experiencing a nervous illness. . . ," she writes. The important thing is not to become afraid of and try to fight the manifestations of those sensitized nerves, for by so doing he becomes caught in a trap by which his fight only increases the fear and tension rubbing raw his nerves.

Norman Thomas' Last Counsel To His American Countrymen

By DON KEOWN

THE CHOICES by Norman Thomas; Ives Washburn, 85 pages, $3.50.

The first "celebrity" we interviewed as a cub reporter was a presidential candidate.

A most unusual presidential aspirant, he had arrived in town alone, without the usual entourage and ballyhoo. He was staying not in a lavish suite, but in a single smallroom in the city's third best hotel.

The year was 1944, the place Wichita, Kans., and the candidate Norman Thomas of the Socialist Party.

Twenty-five years have passed during which we have been privileged to interview personages ranging from Dwight Eisenhower to Jack Dempsey, from Eleanor Roosevelt to Miriam Anderson. But that wartime interview of Norman Thomas in his unpretentious hotel room remains in our mind as an extraordinary experience.

He was not all that impressive as a figure, slim, even then white-haired, conservatively dressed and somewhat courtly in manner. Nor was he an eloquent speaker. His voice was soft and mild, and he had a pronounced stammer.

But there was an innate decency in the man and an undeniable wisdom in his words. What he said was filled with commonsense and goodwill.

There was optimism, too, though it was not the brightest of times for Thomas. The fortunes of the Socialist Party and movement were very low. But far worse, his country was at war. And even more than an economic socialist and political democrat, Thomas was a peace-loving idealist. He accepted the fact that the United States had had war thrust upon it by German and Japanese totalitarianism, and patriotically supported our military efforts. But still he longed for—and spoke out for — a postwar world of lasting peace and brotherhood as well as one of social justice.

Twenty-four years after that hotel room conversation that made such a lasting impression upon a young reporter, Norman Thomas was still a voice for those same causes, as reflected in his small book, "The Choices," published now some three months after his death.

In failing health, partially disabled and nearly blind, Norman Thomas still could not refuse the request of publisher Ives Washburn that he contribute to a projected series of books of counsel for young people by American leaders. He mustered the last of his strength, and what he produced was a book for Americans of all ages and all persuasions, in which, in a series of short, keenly-honed essays, he presents his views on our most contemporary problems — his old foes war and poverty, civil rights and liberties, disarmament, the draft, our electoral system, youthful unrest, violence, organized labor, agriculture, etc.

Norman Thomas had remained steadfastly the champion of the underdog, but not a doctrinaire one.

Thus he could defend vigorously the rights of dissent and protest, while adding a warning against destructive violence:

"One of the most serious signs of our times is that after two world wars, with their immense destruction, men seem readier than ever to resort to violence in their personal affairs. Violence is no new thing in public life, but never before has it been so easy for any one to get hold of extremely dangerous weapons . . . No one with the slightest imagination can fail to recognize that a small, determined, and fanatical minority can thus destroy our cities and create horrifying havoc. What this minority cannot do is create a better life for those in whose name the violence is used. In America it can only satisfy a natural but immensely destructive passion for revenge. Unquestionably, we must rapidly find alternatives to violence, and this applies to police brutality as well as rioting demonstrators."

Thomas spoke out, too, for economic planning: "Recently, the role of planning has been attacked — and not only by the Hippies. There is even a song that stresses 'loving' rather than 'planning.' It seems to me ridiculous to imply that there is necessarily a contradiction between the emotion of loving, and the intellectual and practical art of making this love effective."

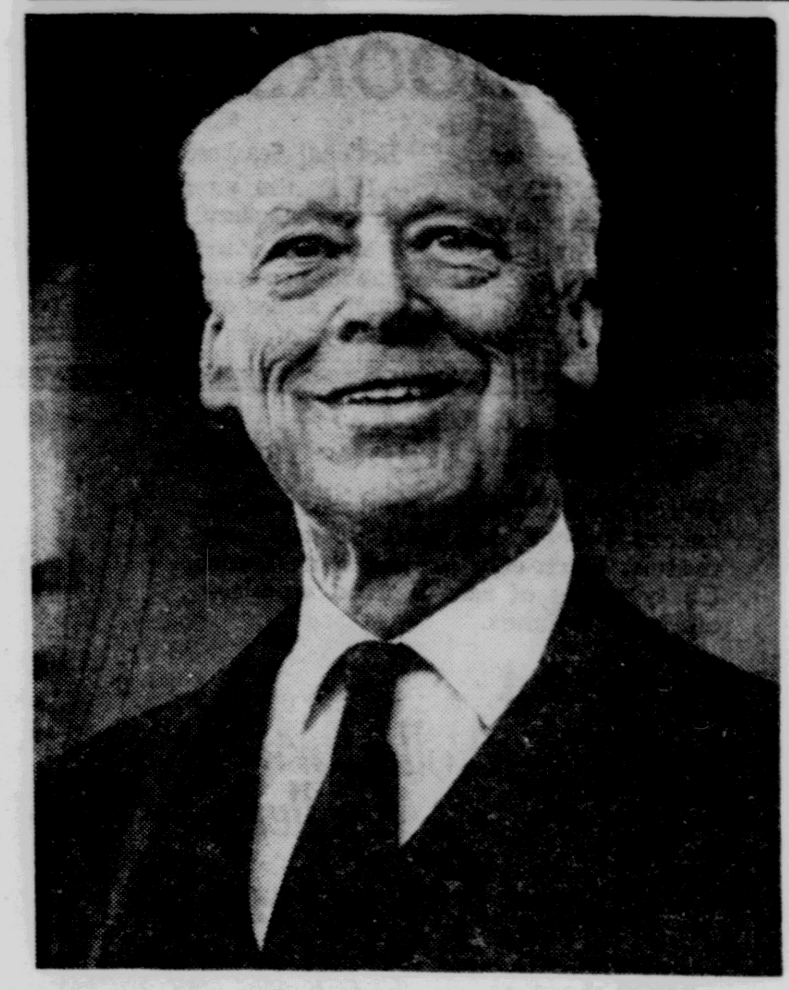
He endorsed the voluntary army scheme as an alternative to the draft: "War is organized murder, and a man may believe that it is necessary, but for a government to inculcate this doctrine, and to force a man to take an active part in its horrors is the ultimate crime against civil liberties."

He retained his lifelong distaste for communism, "It is not devoted to pacifism.", but advised: "Our great weapon against communism, when it is in the wrong, is to demonstrate the superiority of a democracy that we too often talk about rather than practice."

He reiterated his belief in democratic socialism while admitting it had not been completely successful where it had achieved some political power in differentiating itself from welfare state capitalism: ". . . but I wish to repeat my belief that even the relative successes of this ideology have been vastly superior to the achievements growing out of authoritarian answers to the problems we have discussed, whether they be of the right or the left. . . " He offers Sweden as his shining example of social democratic government of skill, imagination and courage.

It might seem strange to categorize the public career of a political figure who ran for president six times, governor once and mayor twice, and was never elected to office, as a success. But in the closing days of his eventful life, Norman Thomas had the assurance that he had moved from his early reputation as a distrusted radical to the status of an esteemed statesman and revered sage, earning the admiration of even those conservatives who disagreed most sharply with his philosophy.

But undoubtedly more important to Norman Thomas, he could take inventory of the progress made in his lifetime in such fields as minimum wages, old-age insurance and medical care, public housing, conservation, union bargaining rights, education, legal justice and voting qualifications, and realize that he had played a leading, pioneering role in our slow but steady advancement toward those goals.



"WE CAN NO longer say we cannot stop possible disasters because of lack of knowledge. Our lack is rather of will and social arrangement," wrote Norman Thomas in his book, "The Choices," completed shortly before his death in December of 1968.

Sleuths & Suspense

CLUTCH OF CONSTABLES by Ngaio Marsh; Little, Brown, 244 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Ngaio Marsh may not write the fastest-paced mystery novels, but her books invariably make pleasant and diverting reading.

She is at her finest in this delightful tale.

It is all very English, set aboard a river cruise boat on which one of the passengers is Troy Alleyn, artist and wife of Supt. Roderick Alleyn of Scotland Yard. Her fellow passengers are an oddball lot, and, it soon develops, at least some of them are dangerous as well.

There is murder and theft and apparently the makings of an art swindle. Superintendent Alleyn arrives on the scene to unravel the puzzle with the help of his charming wife.

It's a well-plotted yarn with good characterization. And the British atmosphere and geography are utterly captivating.

DIABLO PRESS has published "Open Spaces: The Choices Before California" as a $6.50 hardcover of $4.95 paperback book.

It is a report by the urban-regional landscape architects, Eckbo, Dean, Austin & Williams, that is a result of their study as one phase of the long and expensive California State Development Plan.

While the plan has been severely criticized by conservationists and others, for its lack of conclusions, the Eckbo, Dean, Austin & Williams probe of California's critical shortage of open space in its metropolitan centers has stirred widespread interest.

Like most reports prepared by or for government, it isn't easy reading. One must wade through a welter of statistics and some planners' terminology that is almost as bad as the bureaucrats' gobbledygook, but it deals expertly with a subject that is concerning more and more thoughtful Californians. It is available from Diablo Press Inc., 440 Pacific Avenue, San Francisco, 94133.

WHILE MOST of the attention today is focused upon moon photographs taken from space vehicles, manned and otherwise, camera studies shot from observatories on earth are still of immense interest and value to science.

This is borne out by Dover Publications reprinting of the "Lunar Atlas" prepared by the Space Sciences Laboratory of the Space Division of North American Aviation Inc. under the editorship of Dinsmore Alter.

The book was first published in 1964 in a limited edition of 500 copies.

The Dover reprint, selling for $5, is a large, softcover volume containing 219 telescopic photos taken from such observatories as Mount Wilson, Palomar, Lick and McDonald, as well as French and Russian stations. Included, also, are two views photographed from Russia's Lunik II. Twenty-one of the plates show overall views of the moon that follow it through the crescent, full and waning phases.

Most of the plates have been reproduced in full-page size, and show such detail that we must acknowledge that the moon was something far less than a total stranger to us before we began approaching it with our man-made satellites. The captions are expert and informative. For its edition Dover has added an introduction by Harold C. Urey and has updated the written material where new developments have pointed out slight errors.

At the same time Dover has also published in its customary high quality softcover format an enlarged and revised version of "Skyshooting — Photography for Amateur Astronomers" by R. Newton Mayall and Margaret W. Mayall. It was written in 1949, the first really non-technical manual on astrophotography for amateurs. The Mayalls offer detailed instruction on how the astromomy enthusiast without elaborate equipment can take and process his own photographs of planets, stars and other phenomena overhead. Three new chapters have been written to keep step with innovations in photography and new knowledge in astronomy. The book now sells for $2.50.

FARRAR, STRAUS and Giroux Inc. has given a first American publication to another of the novels of the great German writer Hermann Hesse, this time his "Gertrude," first printed in 1910. Translated by Hilda Rosner, it is a "memoir" by a fictitious, successful composer who becomes involved in an ill-fated romance. It has been praised as a compelling and discerning novel of "the calamity of the creative spirit."

New Books For The Juniors

What has to be the most "Marin" junior book of the season is "Wild Peninsula" (Atheneum, $4.25), written by a Marin resident, Laura Nelson Baker of Lagunitas, about a Marin subject, the Point Reyes National Seashore.

It is also an excellent book by any standard.

Mrs. Baker writes of the great public preserve that lies virtually at her own doorstep, primarily of its history, taking some dramatic license in so doing, but also of its geology, geography, ecology, biology, climate and park attractions.

Her story begins on a note of controversy with the arrival of the Portuguese Sebastian Cermeno sailing a galleon for Spain in Drake's Bay in November, 1595. Was he the first white man to visit the Point Reyes Peninsula, or had England's Sir Francis Drake been there 16 years earlier? If Drake did, indeed, bring his Golden Hinde on shore there in 1579, "no one has proved it yet" to Mrs. Baker's satisfaction.

Her story continues with the life of the Miwok Indians, the influence of Mission San Rafael Arcangel on the area, the lighthouse, the ranchos, the earthquake, and finally the successful struggle for a national seashore, a movement in which she gives due credit to the late Rep. Clem Miller as its leading figure.

Mrs. Baker's text is accompanied by simple drawings of regional history and park scenes by Earl Thollander, while former Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall has written an introduction including an effective plea for conservation-mindedness in our young people.

Some other new books for the juniors:

Two Marinites, writer Zilpha Keatley Snyder of Larkspur and photographer John Arms of Fairfax, have collaborated on "Today Is Saturday" (Atheneum, $3.75), a recreation of what is unquestionably the finest day of the week for children—and why it is so. Mrs. Snyder's contribution is in the form of poetry that explores with sensitivity and with fresh approaches the thinking and the activities of the child enjoying the freedom of the weekend. The form is a change for her, since she has previously written prose, and it works out splendidly. Arms' camera catches youngsters at play, meditating and just plain relaxing, and his candid photographs provide the perfect accompaniment to Mrs. Snyder's appealing poetry.

" The Congressman" McGraw-Hill,) by William Green is part of the "A Week With . . ." autobiographies series. In it, Green, a 29-year-old member of the House of Representatives from Philadelphia, takes his young readers through a busy week of work in Washington, D.C. Photos by Dennis Brack also depict the young legislator in action. Would that all congressmen were as energetic, personable and effective as Green. But for youngsters, it can serve at least as an introduction to what their representatives in Congress should be doing for them, their communities and their country.

If you have an automotive-minded boy in the family, in or about the earliest teens, "Sudden Iron" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95) by John Clarke is an action novel that should grip his interest. It is about a young drag racer and some moral lessons he learns from the sport. The story is presented in a mature manner, not preachy, and the racing language, situations and settings are authentic.

"Tomahawk Shadow" (Doubleday, $3.95) by Nancy Faulkner is another adventure novel for young boys, in a different time and setting. Its hero is Bart Hatherley, a youth in the 17th Century American colony of Roger Williams' Providence Pdantation with an unhappy past which he hopes he has left behind him in Plymouth. It is a good picture of the colonial era, and a good suspense story as well as the past threatens to catch up with Bart and cost him his precious freedom.

"Tales From the Marble Fountain" (Meredith, $3.95) is in the well-established tradition of children's stories featuring animal characters. Author Hugh Gardner says he first told the tales to his small son while the boy was recovering from an eye operation and unable to read. Later, he put them down in writing. Thus we have the humorous adventures of Bear, Ostrich, Owl and Goat, a quartet with loads of child-appeal.

Emery Kelen, artist, author and television producer, has written "Dag Hammarskjold, A Biography" (Meredith, $3.95). For 11-year-olds and up, it is a serious presentation of the life and special qualities of the late United Nations figure. Not all children will settle down to this kind of book. But if yours will, then you are among the fortunate parents.

"Heroes of the International Red Cross" (Meredith, $4.95) is a collection of the accounts of the experiences and contributions of 10 outstanding representatives of the worldwide welfare and mercy organization. It begins with Red Cross founder Jean Henri Dunant and Clara Barton and follows through to men still active. It is a factual, dignified tribute to a kind of hero that receives too little mention in books for the juniors. It is suited to children 11, 12 and 13.

Plenty of books about the flying saucer issue have been written for adult buffs and skeptics, but "Is Something Up There" (Doubleday, $3.50) by Dale White takes up the question for curious grade schoolers. White (a pseudonym) does an adequate rewrite job in relating the incidents that have created the controversy and in covering the various theories. In conclusion, he holds that UFOs are still unexplained and "one of the great mysteries of the 20th Century."

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

"CROWN OF CREATION" — Jefferson Airplane — Victor LSP-4058:

Seems like just yesterday everyone was being shocked by the first LP to use the atomic bomb mushroom cloud for cover art (a Count Basie album). Now many have used it. Here is the latest (courtesy USAF).

The Airplane has continued a rather far-out vein here, and although there are some great tunes — "Triad," "Greasy Heart" — there is a certain sameness about the harmonic construction and voicing peculiar to the group that now seems repetitious. Grace Slick is terrific, as usual.

"THE HURDY GURDY MAN" — Donovan — Epic BN 26420:

Latest and most welcome offering from the modern troubador. Besides the title tune, dig the sweetly swinging "Jennifer Juniper," plus 11 other gems of Donovan's completely unique talent, many into an East Indian bag. Backing, as always, is exquisitely right.

"ENGLISH ROSE" — Fleetwood Mac — Epic BN 26446:

Another English group into the blues bit with a vengeance. If they were the only such thing around, they would be welcome, but since others are doing the same thing from London to San Francisco — often with more originality (Paul Butterfield, for example) — this effort strikes me as less than vital. However, the group was a smash hit recently in San Francisco, so they must have their staunch fans.

DONOVAN
Modern troubador

"BAYOU COUNTRY" — Creedence Clearwater Revival — Fantasy 8387:

The second LP by this Bay Area foursome is another humdinger. "Born on the Bayou" has a wonderfully assimilated country feeling to it that makes one play it again and again. "Graveyard Train" spotlights the harmonica skills of John Fogerty, who with his lead guitar and vocals is the crux of the group. One of the most consistently fun-to-hear of the recent rock LPs is this fine local effort.

"RHINOCEROS" — Elektra EKS-74030:

Since the John Lennon-Yoko Ono LP, it seems less unusual to talk about the cover art of an album before the contents in the grooves. This one has been nominated for a Grammy for best cover art of the year, for an arresting collage beast which is spread across the double-fold album. The rock group is gutsy and hard-driving without becoming repetitious. John Finley is a fine vocalist, and the septet also combines piano and organ along with the usual guitars.

Marin Poets' Corner

THE IDES, PLUS SIX

It's the first day of spring; I can tell.
A bird sang to me and a lily bloomed in the garden.
The sun felt warm again, as March's chill and wind
fanned my face.
From a church steeple I heard the Lenten-service bell.
Dime-stores are stacked with cellulose grass and all of Easter's bargains.
I'm confused between penance and promise; price
and pantheistic grace.

White becomes green and green becomes brown,
and brown dies.
Yet, in that annual death, the promise of awakening Spring ever hides;
Beneath the mantle of winter-white that aged Fall
was heir to.
The crocus bud and daffodil push signals through their snow ties—
That life, again, has come the cycle 'round—and
Winter chides,
As that beauteous day of spring can only do.

How good it was of Him to say, "We must all die to rise again,"
And then, sacrificially, prove his thesis on the mountain.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

THE STEREO PHONO CARTRIDGE — The stereo cartridge is probably one of the most delicate items in a quality component home music system. Its function is to follow precisely all of the tiny wiggles in the grooves of a record and convert the wiggles to electrical currents.

There are great differences in stereo phonograph cartridges. The two most common types are the ceramic cartridge and the magnetic cartridge. This article will discuss the magnetic type since it is the one used with component music systems. Basically, the magnetic cartridge consists of two coils of wire, one for the left channel and one for the right channel, and a magnet that is activated or moved by the stylus. The movements of the magnet create currents in the coils.

The important characteristic of a good cartridge is its trackability. Trackability means the ability of the stylus to wiggle and follow the grooves with low pressure. The better the cartridge, the lower will be its tracking force. The best cartridges will track the grooves of a record with the extremely low weight of from one-half a gram to one and one-half grams. What does all this mean? Why use such light weights? The heavier the needle or stylus bears down on the record grooves, the more wear on the record. The heavy and stiff stylus will shave off some of the very fine modulations on the walls of the groove.

When such complicated sounds as orchestral bells and cymbals are mixed in with heavy rhythm, the groove modulations are quite intricate. The function of the stylus is to follow every variation and maintain contact with the groove walls. The ability to do this is its compliance or ability to wiggle easily. When the stylus does not have sufficient compliance for the better full range and dynamic stereo records, the stylus loses contact with the groove walls on some of the more delicate instrument passages. Some of the higher delicate sounds will be raspy and fuzzy. The instruments will tend to be muddled together without much transparency.

Naturally, the older stereo cartridges were stiffer and less compliant than modern stereo cartridges. These cartridges have to be used with heavier tracking forces to make the stylus move. For clearer, sharper sound consider one of the new stereo cartridges.

Rhododendrons Find Marin's Climate Perfect

There's no shrub lovelier in bloom than the rhododendron.

And fortunate Marinites have the ideal growing conditions for this spectacular performer.

More and more Marin gardeners are taking advantage of that situation to grow rhododendrons in their yards.

For those who have not yet joined the ranks, now, while the rhododendron blooming season is at its peak, is the time to shop for these splendid shrubs, and to plant your purchases.

IN MARIN, gardeners planting rhododendrons normally use a mixture of peat moss or commercial planting material with sand — heavy on the peat moss.

Generally, you can plant them in the same shaded sites where you would grow azaleas or camellias. For instance, a mass of vari-colored rhododendrons blooming beneath a grove of high-arching trees is an unforgettable sight.

You see them that way at San Francisco's Golden Gate Park, and marvel.

AND IN MARIN, the Ross and San Anselmo areas, with their profusion of fine shade trees, are the rhododendron culture centers.

These shrubs can also be grown as specimen plants in smaller gardens. Several, of the same color, can be utilized for border purposes. On a rolling or sloping lawn, they make the perfect hillside cover.

And they can be grown in containers such as redwood tubs that will accommodate the plants indefinitely.

Small wonder, then, that the rhododendron has become a Marin favorite. If you aren't among its growers, better correct that regrettable oversight this weekend with a visit to the nearest nursery.

AS A SPECIMEN plant growing in a redwood tub is only one of the many landscape purposes that the lovely rhododendron can fulfill. The variety shown above is the lavender Anna Kruschke, a type that will take a warmer, sunnier location than will most of the rhododendrons. Don't Disdain The Dandelion, For It's A Delicacy

There are two ways of looking at those dandelions that raise their golden heads in Marin lawns — and just about everywhere else as well.

You can regard them as obnoxious weeds. And that's the common point-of-view.

But, says Dr. H. D. Harrington, author of "Edible Native Plants of the Rocky Mountains," they can also be regarded as delicacies.

HARRINGTON notes that young dandelion leaves are fancied for salad; he recommends as an especial delicacy those grown in shade. The crown is supposed to be comestible, too.

Leaves may be boiled like spinach (with a change of water to lessen the bitter taste.) The roots can be sliced for salads, and some folks roast, fry, dry and even grind them (to make a coffee-like beverage).

Dried leaves supposedly make an acceptable "tea," and is offered in some grocery stores.

Dandelion blossoms, supported by sugar and other fermentables, have long been favored for wine.

BUT DID YOU know that young blossom heads are good in pancakes? Drop them into the batter before turning the pancake. And Boy Scouts are supposed to eat dandelion seeds as an emergency food.

Some of us, however, might prefer to grow greens in the garden, and keep our lawns free from broadleaf blemishes. This is easily accomplished so far as dandelions are concerned.

The selective 2-4, D-type w killers won't harm the gra but are deadly on dandelions

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- For the overlooked Easter gift for a loved one, the possibility of a living plant such as a camellia or a philodendron is still open to the last-minute shopper, thanks to most nurseries' open-on-Sunday policy.
- Now is the ideal time to plant dwarf citrus trees that will produce fantastically despite their small size.
- Check the seed rack at y nursery for flowering pl not commonly available started seedlings.
- Now is a favorable time planting new lawns.
- You should begin an organ pest control program for y roses in early April, and t spray at regular intervals.
- To produce a succession bloom, continue to pl gladiolus at two-week tervals.

Wainscotting Has Made A Comeback

Handyman's Page

One way to give an old room a new look is to panel the lower half of each wall.

Known as wainscotting, this procedure was fairly common in one or more rooms of almost every house many years ago. It disappeared from most new construction for a long time, but is making a comeback in both traditional and contemporary homes.

It's the same type of decorating seen in many bathrooms which have tiling half way up the walls with regular plaster or gypsum board above.

THE LOWER-WALL paneling can be regular lumber of set or random widths, finished or unfinished plywood or hardboard, materials with laminated plastic faces or any one of half a dozen or so other wall products.

Entirely aside from the objective of giving a room a different appearance, wainscotting can be used as an effective backdrop for furniture, either to pick up the wood tone of the sofa, chairs and tables or to provide a suitable contrast.

The idea that wainscotting should be reserved for certain rooms has no basis in fact, either as an aesthetic, self-satisfying measure or, for types who like to emulate so-called high styling, from the standpoint of being "in." Lower-wall paneling can be seen in the living rooms and bedrooms of many expensive, tastefully decorated homes as well as in kitchens, dining rooms and family rooms.

PANELING CAN be attached directly to an existing wall or to furring strips which have been firmly secured. The method depends on the kind of material being used and the strength and solidity of the old wall. With a solid plaster wall, for instance, large panels — four-by-eights or four-by-fours — can be attached with a special adhesive. Furring strips are necessary if the wall might not hold the weight of the new panleing, in which case they should be nailed through the wall directly into the studding.

If lengths of lumber are used, decide whether you want them to run horizontally or vertically, a decision that will affect the way in which the furring strips are attached.

Prefinished paneling will cost more, but save work and virtually eliminate maintenance. Should you get unfinished panels, take the time and care to coat them properly and you'll get a finish that will last indefinitely.

ANOTHER WAY to give a room a different look is to panel a single wall from floor to ceiling, leaving the other walls the way they are, except perhaps for new paint or wallpaper.

If the paneling is being done from scratch — that is, in a newly constructed room, such as might be located in an attic or basement — don't overlook the opportunity to utilize the wall areas for built-ins. These can be constructed much more easily before the paneling is up than if it were necessary to break into the wall and then work in a restricted area.

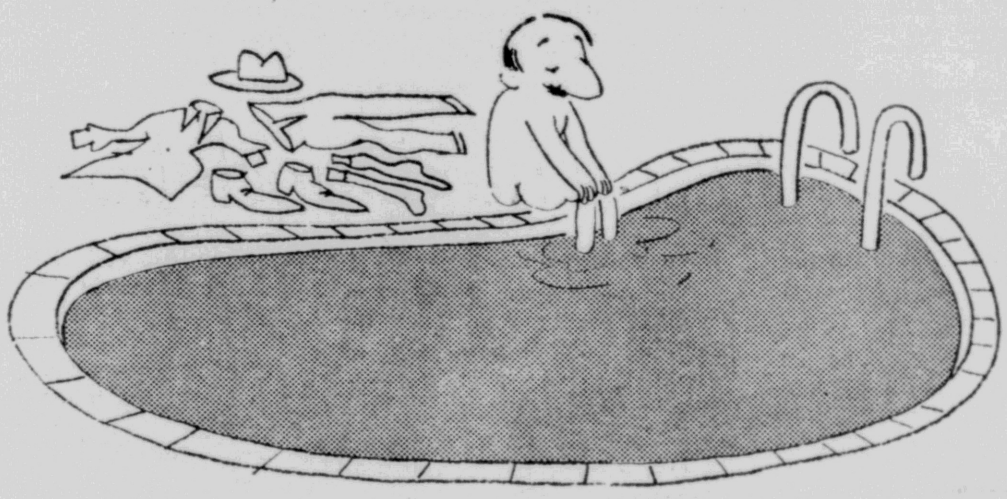
A word about nude swimming.



The beautiful abandon of swimming in the raw is at once an experience of sensual, almost spiritual joy.

Do it alone, do it with friends, do it with the better half—but by all means, do it in an Anthony swimming pool. Because in an Anthony pool you can be sure the plaster will be smooth, the lighting will be at its flattering best, and the water will be warm and safe from germs.

The naked truth is some pools just don't work too well. In the past 10 years, over 200 California swimming pool companies either went down the drain or changed their names. A lot of nice people who bought swimming pools wound up taking a bath instead of a swim.

Anthony Pools is the world's largest builder of pools. Anthony Pools has no franchise dealers. All Anthony Pool offices are company owned. Anthony Pools, building pools for nearly a quarter of a century, is the only pool company listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges.

Wouldn't you feel better having the leader in the industry build your pool?

Anthony Pools compares with all other pools in price, beginning as low as $2,495. But there the comparison ends. If you're thinking of buying a swimming pool, fill out the coupon. We'll send you a beautiful swimming pool catalog with all the information that will help you get right down to the bare facts.

FULL BED RECLINING

What's so beautiful about nylatron bushing? La-Z-Boy® puts six in every chair they build, and for many good reasons. These bushings prevent jarring metal-to-metal contact. No matter who sits in the chair or how much he may abuse it, these special components are practically indestructible. As is the case with the rest of La-Z-Boy's superior components, even after years of torture, they help provide the most noiseless comfort and ease of operation ever built into a reclining chair. A strong statement? Certainly, and why not? If you had for sale an exceptional product, wouldn't you tell people about it?

RICHARD BURTON as Thomas Becket, left, prepares himself for death as his eyes reflect his thoughts in the motion picture "Becket," to be colorcast tonight at 9 o'clock on Channels 3 and 4. Appointed archbishop of Canterbury by his king, Henry II of England, Becket is slain by four barons who have misinterpreted the king's frustrated cry, "Will no one rid me of this meddlesome priest?"

INGRID BERGMAN, in her role of Joan, asks the Dauphin, later King Charles VII of France, played by Jose Ferrer, for a chance to serve her country, in this scene from the movie, "Jaon of Arc," to be shown tonight and again on Sunday at 7 p.m. by Channel 2. Gene Lockhart, right, plays the king's counselor.

The Networks Plan For The Fall

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP) — The television network schedules for next fall are going to offer more talk, more sex and less violence.

The three networks each put together packages with heavy emphasis on comedy, variety and drama.

Shows high in gunplay and fistfights will be in short supply next season. Not a single new Western will be introduced in the fall and only four will remain. Action-adventure shows are down to 10 with a few new entries.

On tap are four new variety shows, 10 comedies and eight shows loosely categorized as drama.

The talk is to fill up the time formerly occupied by actors knocking each other about. And the sex is to perk up the interest when the talk begins to pall.

Actually, television is not going to go all the way down the path taken by the movies. The sex is going to be talked about, hinted at and joked about.

At the top of this list undoubtedly will be ABC's "The Survivors," which its creator Harold Robbins says will make bold use of sex. This "novel for television" will chronicle the jet set Robbins has written about in such best sellers as "The Carpetbaggers" and "The Adventurers."

Following it on Monday nights on ABC will be "Love American Style," with only one continuing character—a large brass bed. It will tell two to four separate love stories each week.

Underscoring the fact that television is indeed cyclical are three medical dramas. One of them, ABC's "Marcus Welby, M.D.," was created by David Victor, who produced "Dr. Kildare" in the heyday of medical shows. It will be about a family doctor.

The other entries, CBS's "Medical Center" and NBC's "New Medicine," will be hospital oriented.

An interesting footnote to the NBC show is that it will alternate Sunday nights with a courtroom drama called "The Whole World Is Watching" and a police show called "Deadlock."

The tentative title for the alternating series is "The People," but that may be changed to avoid a conflict with ABC's "The New People."

"The New People," created by Rod Serling, is about a group of young people who set up a new society on an island after their plane crashes—a combination of "Lord of the Flies" and "Wild in the Streets."

The reason for the trend to comedy, variety and drama—and the demise of so many action-adventure shows—is obvious. The networks are under pressure from Washington and from critics to eliminate violence.

In recent weeks Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate Communications subcommittee, warned that if television "doesn't exercise restraint, drastic action will be taken." And Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, said he hoped to begin an investigation of whether violence poses a health hazard to children.

Monster Cartoons Are Passe

NEW YORK (AP) — The power of the public to affect television is illustrated by changes in children's programming.

Parents made known their displeasure with the cartoon diet of monsters and superheroes being fed their children on Saturday mornings — and the networks reacted.

"Action-adventure cartoons were severely criticized and we took them off the air," said Bud Grant, director of daytime programming at NBC.

Ed Vane, vice president for daytime programming at ABC, said, "We knew there was adverse reaction to all the networks presenting cartoons with monsters and superheroes."

As a result of the barrage of complaints the Saturday morning monster cartoons are all but off the air. Those remaining probably will disappear at the end of the season.

In many cases, however, they are simply being replaced by comedy cartoons.

CYRIL RITCHARD sets the stage for "S.S. Lusitania," a Group W presentation of a Granada TV documentary. The one-hour special recalls the historic events that brought the United States into World War I, through rare film footage, and will be presented Thursday at 8 p.m. on Channel 5.

Bagley Measure To Seek Strong Bay Government

Legislation Would Give ABAG Broad Power Over Region

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Legislation to transform the Association of Bay Area Governments into a strong governmental body with broad powers over regional problems will be introduced Monday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Bagley said the bill was requested by ABAG, which opposes an earlier bill by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, to set up a regional government run by 36 directors, all elected directly by the voters. ABAG long has argued that a regional government should be run by city councilmen and county supervisors, just as ABAG is.

No official body of ABAG, however, ever publicly requested or reviewed the legislation Bagley will introduce.

Bagley's bill, entitled the Bay Area Regional Home Rule Law, would empower ABAG to "develop as necessary and to implement a comprehensive regional plan, a regional solid waste disposal plan, a regional airport system, a regional open space and regional parks system, a plan to conserve and develop the bay and its shoreline, a regional air quality control plan, a regional water quality control plan, and a balanced regional transportation system."

Thus, the existing regional agencies regulating water and air pollution, set up by the state, would be merged into the super-ABAG proposed by Bagley.

The bill also extends the life of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission from the 90th day after the final adjournment of this year's legislative session to the same day after next year's session. Bagley termed this "a safeguard" if none of the other bills extending the commission's life passed.

Bagley readily acknowledged that the purpose of his bill was to enable ABAG to bargain with Knox on "some kind of con-

IN SIMPLE MAJESTY — The symbol of Christendom stands empty on the eve of Easter — relieved of the awesome burden of Christ's body — and His countless followers await the celebration of the Resurrection. Throughout the world in tomorrow's dawn, multitudes will gather in high places adorned with crosses, some elaborate, some — like this one caught atop San Rafael Hill against a westering sun by Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean — utterly simple but enriched by two millenia of faith and tradition.

Nixon To Overhaul Executive Branch

Appoints New Panel For Study

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPO)—President Richard M. Nixon, fulfilling a campaign pledge, today appointed a blue ribbon advisory council to recommend a major overhaul of the executive branch of government.

In an announcement from his Florida bayside villa, Nixon announced the panel would be headed by Roy L. Ash, president of Litton Industries Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif., and an ardent Republican supporter of Nixon for president.

POWER TO ACT

The four other members of the council—which will perform along the lines of the old Hoover Commission — are: George Baker, dean of Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration; former Texas Gov. John B. Connally; Fredrick R. Kappel, chairman of the executive committee of American Telephone and Telegraph Co., and Richard M. Paget of the New York management consultant firm of Cresap, McCormick and Paget.

Setting up of the council is in line with congressional approval of the Reorganization Act which gives Nixon the power to recommend measures to improve the efficiency of the White House and cabinet departments.

The council will hold a preliminary organizational meeting on Thursday in Washington.

FINAL DECISION

Presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon is moving "to final decisions" on the domestic messages he will begin sending to Congress after the Easter recess, April 14.

He said that the President's brain-trust meeting with his top urban advisers yesterday had brought him closer to seting up a priority list for proposals he will make covering the range of health, education and welfare matters as they relate to the cities.

In other developments Nixon announced he intends to reappoint L. J. Andolsek of Minneapolis, Minn., for another six year term on the Civil Service Commission. Andolsek, a Democrat and former chief counsel on the House Committee on Public Works, has served on the Commission since April 1963. His new term will expire March 1, 1975.

Keeping up his steady stream of new diplomatic appointments, the president also nominated Charles Burke Elbrick, a veteran Foreign Service officer and presently ambassador to Yugoslavia as his new ambassador to Brazil. Elbrick, 61, replaces John W. Tuthill who retired last January.

Nixon and his family are spending a quiet holiday in Florida.

HOUSTON TRANSPLANT

Wife Praying For God-Given Heart

HOUSTON (UPI)—A 47-year-old Illinois man was kept alive today with the world's first artificial heart transplant while his wife and doctors waited hopefully for someone to donate a "God-given heart" to replace it.

The transplant, by famed heart surgeon Dr. Denton A. Cooley, on Haskell Karp of Skokie, Ill., came six months after Cooley had said artificial hearts for use in human transplants was "three to five years away."

Karp, a father of three, was reported by a dawn hospital bulletin as being "awake and alert" and in a "stable and satisfactory" condition.

His wife visited him briefly around 2 a.m., about nine hours after the unprecedented surgery, for what a spokesman called "a cheerful reunion" and then issued a tearful hand-written plea for "someone — somewhere" to make a gift of a "God-given" heart for her husband.

Mrs. Karp, also in bad health, held her husband's hand and talked to him briefly while the couple's 22-year-old son, Mike, looked on from an observation window above the recovery room.

"He was a bit hoarse because of the tubes which had been in his mouth and he could talk to her only briefly," a spokesman said of the visit.

Afterward, Mrs. Karp handed St. Luke's officials a jerkily written note in which she said she "cried without tears" as she watched him "lying there, breathing and knowing that within his chest there is a man-made implement where there should be a God-given heart."

Weatherman Predicts Clear Easter Skies

Easter will be clear, the weatherman predicted today in the midst of a gusty spring storm that dumped as much as an inch of rain on Marin during the night.

The forecase said it would be showery tonight, ending tomorrow morning, then clearing.

Taking advantage of the forecast, the Tamalpais Volunteer Fire Association rescheduled its Easter egg hunt for 2:30 p.m. tomorrow on the Tamalpais High School football field. The hunt, originally scheduled for today, was postponed due to the rain.

Rain and strong winds buffeted the Bay Area during the night and two injury accidents occurred on rain-slick roads, sending four persons to hospitals.

The first accident occurred at 10:05 p.m. in San Francisco, on the Doyle Drive approach to the Golden Gate Bridge, when a car driven by Keith Lyle Garder, 29, of San Francisco, crossed the center line and hit a car driven by Neil Ray Penry, 35, of 44 Cottonwood Drive, San Rafael, the California Highway Patrol said.

Penry was treated at Harbor Emergency Hospital in San Francisco for a scraped forehead and a bruised left knee.

The second accident, at 1:40

Metropolitan Transit Agency To Be Urged

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Formation of a powerful metropolitan transportation agency to run most transportation facilities in the Bay Area will be proposed in legislation to be introduced Monday by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco.

Expected from the legislation are the Golden Gate Bridge, seaports and airports.

But in a second bill, Foran would require the bridge and highway district "to develop a total transportation facilities plan" to define the district's future before its bonds are repaid in 1971.

Foran said his bills "are designed to bring about a balanced transportation system," which generally is the polite way of saying that public transit must be financed as well as freeways, perhaps by using some gas tax revenue now reserved for freeways.

Foran's proposal similar to a proposal by the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission, would be empowered to approve all regional highway routes in the Bay Area before construction could be started, to run all toll bridges crossing the bay, and to operate the Bay Area Rapid Transit District system after it is built.

Regional highway routes would include interstate and state highways in the nine-county area, Foran said in a press statement.

The new agency would be run by a 14-member commission selected by city, county, state and federal officials.

The planning tasks of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission would be assigned to the new agency.

The bill also provides that the

More Power For Pakistan Leader

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Pakistan's provisional constitution, made public last night by President M. A. Yahya Khan, gives the nation's new leader sweeping powers to continue running the country under martial law.

The new document retains many of the features in ex-President Ayub Khan's 1962 constitution, which was suspended when Yahya assumed power 11 days ago. But 10 of the 17 rights guaranteed by Ayub were scrapped to give the martial law administration a tight rein on this restless nation.

A legal expert said the new constitution will expedite routine governmental operations.

Quake Hits

TOKYO (AP)—A fairly strong earthquake shook a wide area of central Japan early Sunday (Tokyo time). The Meteorological Agency said there were no reports of major damage.

Robber Strikes Liquor Store

A Kentfield liquor store was held up shortly before 11 a.m. today by a man who escaped on foot.

Sheriff's deputies were combing the area around Colonial Liquors at 913 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. The man apparently was not armed, according to preliminary sheriff's reports. The indicated the man used a "simulated gun."

It was not known how much money the holdup man got.

He was described as white and about 40 years old.

Many, Varied Services To Mark Easter

"He is risen."

These three words will resound throughout Marin and Southern Sonoma tomorrow as Christians pay homage to the risen Christ.

A variety of Easter Sunday services is on the agenda from sunrise rites to the traditional family-oriented ones.

In San Rafael the annual sunrise service will be held on San Rafael Hill at 6:15 a.m., sponsored by the San Rafael Inter-Faith Council, composed of eight Protestant and Catholic churches.

Guest speaker will be Rev. John Freeman, a member of the Pacific Northwest Conference of the United Methodist Church, who is currently a student at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Music will be provided by a brass trio from the First Methodist Church of San Rafael.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 57 will direct parking of cars and help usher.

In case of rain the service will be held at the First

Special Peru Envoy To Report To Nixon

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI)—The Florida White House announced today special emissary John Irwin will report to President Richard M. Nixon tomorrow on his negotiations with the Peruvian government to prevent the cutting off of all U.S. aid and sugar quotas for Peru.

Irwin was expected to stop by Key Biscayne en route to Peru.

Christians Preparing Easter Celebration

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Pope Paul VI meditated in his secluded Vatican City chambers and pilgrims prayed at the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. Spanish girls dragged heavy chains through the streets and Filipino children practiced jumping up and down.

In solemnity and joy, pageantry and song, the Christian world today anticipated Easter, the celebration of the risen Christ and the promise of life after death.

Much of the rites are unchanged from centuries ago. Thousands would throng to sunrise services in many lands tomorrow to hear the stunning words, "He is risen." Bells would peal, voices would join in the victory.

Across Rome, the tumult of 500 church bells was to ring out the good news and Pope Paul scheduled a mass in St. Peter's Basilica that would mark the end of three days of mourning the crucifixion of Jesus 20 centuries ago.

In Jerusalem, clergymen read biblical prophecies of the coming of Christ while Arab merchants stood in their doorways offering mementos to the throngs of pilgrims who came to the Holy City for Easter this year.

A friendly mood prevailed in the city, although the occasional sight of Israeli policemen served as a reminder that the break in tension was temporary.

In Germany, thousands of city dwellers left their homes and headed for the Bavarian Alps, the Black Forest or Austria for the long Easter weekend and the first sunshine in weeks.

In West Berlin, Mayor Klaus Schuetz expressed regret that Communist East Berlin refused to allow West Berliners to cross through the wall and visit relatives over the holiday, as in years past.

Reds Take Over Havana Paper

HAVANA (AP) — Havana's oldest newspaper, El Mundo, ceased publication today after 68 years.

A front page announcement said the morning newspaper's personnel will be absorbed by Granma, the official organ of the Communist party.

The announcement added that the purpose is "to concentrate effort and have better quality in the edition of only one morning newspaper."

The closing leaves Cuba with only two national newspapers, the morning Granma and the evening Communist youth organ, Juventud Rebelde—Rebel Youth.

Three Dead In Shooting On Turnpike

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Three persons died and several others were wounded or injured in a shooting incident along the busy Pennsylvania Turnpike today, state police reported.

The police said a man apparently shot and killed his woman companion and then, before killing himself, sprayed bullets over the heavily traveled superhighway.

James D. Cox, public relations director for the state police, said another person died as a result of the wild incident, but that he had no immediate details. At least 13 persons were treated at area hospitals for gunshot wounds or cuts from flying glass. A Harrisburg hospital said one man was in critical condition with a bullet wound of the facial area. At least three of the injured were children. The bodies of a man and woman, shielded from a mist by a yellow tarpaulin, were stretched out near a blood-spat-

Cong Lured Into Trap, Slaughtered

SAIGON (AP)—American forces lured Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops out of Cambodian sanctuaries today, then mowed them down with artillery, dive-bombers and helicopter gunships, U.S. officers said.

The two-hour battle 30 miles northwest of Saigon was the only significant ground action reported by the U.S. and allied commands as thousands of American troops prepared to celebrate Easter. There were 20 overnight rocket and mortar attacks across the country and three U.S. aircraft were shot down.

About 500 infantrymen of the U.S. 25th Division sprung the border trap on 500 men of the Viet Cong's 9th Division, most of them North Vietnamese soldiers. Spokesmen said 81 enemy were killed at a cost of four Americans killed and 13 wounded.

Officers said Maj. Gen. Ellis Williamson, commander of the 25th Division, enticed the enemy to cross the Cambodian border into South Vietnam by establishing an artillery and patrol base just across from the enemy's Angel's Wing sanctuary.

Less than 24 hours later the enemy soldiers, camouflaged with rice straw on their backs, launched their attack across paddies under cover of a heavy mortar barrage.

But the Americans were waiting. When the enemy troops got within 30 yards of the fire base, two 105mm howitzers lowered their barrels and opened fire with deadly shrapnel shells while two helicopter gunships and dive-bombers sprayed from above with machine guns.

"There were North Vietnamese soldiers up and running toward the firebase," said Spec. 4 Robert Odom of Memphis, Tenn. "It looked like a football team's end around. We picked most of them off as they came running back across the rice paddies."

Military spokesmen said sunrise Easter services tomorrow would be limited to small congregations in the battle zones, to avoid providing large targets for the enemy.

U.S. spokesman said the enemy shellings caused light damage and casualties. They said the three aircraft downed yesterday and today included two helicopters and a fighter-bomber. Four American were killed and one was wounded in the three crashes, that raised the number of helicopters lost in Vietnam to 2,496 and the number of fixed-wing aircraft to 2,643.

In other action the U.S. Command said American artillery fired three times on North Vietnamese positions inside the southern half of the demilitarized zone yesterday. A communique said the barrages killed at least 23 enemy soldiers, destroyed a truck and two bunkers and triggered 12 secondary explosions, indicating direct hits on ammunition stores.

Nixon's Brother Gets Alaska Post

EDWARD C. NIXON
$30,000 a year

SEATTLE (AP) — Edward C. Nixon, a quiet worker in his brother's presidential campaign, has been named chairman of the Federal Field Committee for Development Planning in Alaska.

His appointment to the $30,000-a-year post was announced yesterday by the Commerce Department. The committee is similar to the Appalachian Regional Commission and others in various parts of the nation which coordinate federal and state programs designed to develop the economy and resources of an area.

The appointment is effective May 3, Edward Nixon's 39th birthday.

Nixon brings a varied background to his new job—California oil worker, Navy pilot, geologist, and for the past two years a commercial staff supervisor for Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Co.

He took a leave of absence from that job last summer to handle correspondence at the New York headquarters of presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon. He later went to Washington to help with inaugural plans.

Nixon, who made an extensive private trip to Alaska in 1962, said he plans to move cautiously in his first major political post.

"I don't want to comment yet on what may be accomplished . . . until I see first hand what has been done," he said. "I will be going to Alaska very shortly and meet with all officials that I can find."

Nixon said he hadn't looked at the programs developed by the incumbent, Joseph Fitzgerald, who resigned to go into private industry, but had heard "he's done an excellent job."

Nixon majored in geology at Duke University and holds a master of science degree in geological engineering from North Carolina State University.

The committee's headquarters will be in Anchorage, but Nixon said he plans to keep his ranch-style home 20 miles north of Seattle where his daughters, Amy, 10, and Beth, 8, have their own horses.

Pope Orders Simple Dress For Prelates

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today ordered bishops and cardinals to simplify their regal mode of dress in keeping with the "simplicity, practicality and spirit of humility" emphasized by the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The order, effective April 13, will make the April 28 consistory to create 33 new cardinals one of the most austere in centuries.

It abolishes the use of red shoes, shoe buckles, the broad brimmed Galere hat, the red plush hat traditionally worn by cardinals, sashes with tassels and the mantelletta, a short red cape.

The new rules do not strip cardinals and lesser prelates of all their finery, but aim at eliminating the royal red, ermine and silver commonly worn by them.

The rules are entitled: "Instructions on the dress, titles and coats of arms of bishops, cardinals and lesser prelates."

The introduction states that Pope Paul issued the rules with the intention of bringing the outward forms of ecclesiastical life "into closer correspondence with the changing circumstances of the times and of making them now accord better with the higher spiritual values which they should express and promote."

Since the end of the Ecumenical Council there have been increasing protests among Roman Catholics against the pomp and rich dress in a church dedicated to simplicity and spirituality.

Last last year an entire parish in Florence revolted against church authority protesting what it called "triumphalism," ostentatious use of jewelry, finery and rich dress by churchmen.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Boycott Ends

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bay Area local of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, has yielded to the wishes of its national leaders and ended a boycott of Standard Oil of California products.

The OCAW began the boycott last month after members of the Local 5-561 returned to their jobs at the Chevron Chemical Corp.'s Richmond plant without a contract. The firm, deadlocked with the union over the issue of a closed shop, ordered strikers to return to work or lose their jobs.

G. T. Jacobs, secretary treasurer of the local, said yesterday OCAW headquarters in Denver wanted the proposed boycott limited to only Chevron Chemical Corp.'s products, rather than those of the parent Standard Oil Co. Jacobs said the action was taken because of legal action and possible suits.

Jacobs said a boycott against just Chevron would be futile, so the entire plan was dropped.

Grants Stay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas Friday granted a stay of execution to Robert Lee Sims, scheduled to die April 18 in Arizona's gas chamber. Sims was sentenced for the 1936 robbery-murder of Glendell M. Soape, an insurance man, near Sahuarita, Ariz.

Will Run Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A spokesman for Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., says Ellender, 78, has every intention of running in 1972 for a seventh term. "There is no doubt in my mind the senator plans to run again," the spokesman said. "He is quite active."

007 In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia has invited Britain's most famous secret agent—007—to visit.

Sean Connery, who played agent 007 in the James Bond Film Series, flew here yesterday for two weeks of shooting scenes for a film called "The Red Tent."

Jewelry Theft

HILLSBOROUGH (UPI) — Hillsborough police are searching for thieves who looted more than $150,000 worth of jewelry from the home of a wealthy manufacturer of women's wear.

Adolph Schuman said he first discovered the theft when he returned home late Wednesday night. Besides the jewelry the thieves also took $600 cash.

Police Chief Russell Fisher said the burglars apparently entered the house by forcing a sliding glass door. They then removed a 250-pound safe, which was disguised as a dresser from a closet.

Schuman's wife, Lillian, was on vacation in Hawaii at the time of the theft.

Singer Injured

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Pop singer John Gary, 36, was hospitalized Friday after his motorcycle slammed into the side of a private bus at a Hollywood intersection.

A spokesman at St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica said Gary suffered probable dislocation of both shoulders, a puncture wound of the upper left leg, and facial contusions.

At Home Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, 69, has been released from Walter Reed Army Medical Center to convalesce at his home in Baltimore, Md., under the care of his own doctor.

In Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, widow of the 34th president, returned to the privacy of her Gettysburg farm for an indefinite stay yesterday.

Teaching Post

TORONTO (AP) — Andreas Papandreou, exiled former cabinet minister in Greece, has been appointed professor of economics at York University, effective in September.

Sirhan Trial May Go To Jury Soon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The murder trial of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, is expected to go to the jury next week, its 14th week, after three days of closing argument.

In the jury selection phase, which began Jan. 7, Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker estimated the trial of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's assassin might last as much as three months.

The state says it expects to wrap up rebuttal Monday with testimony by a psychologist, Leonard Olinger, of the University of Southern California.

The three defense lawyers and two of the prosecutors are expected to deliver closing arguments. Predictions are the jury of seven men and five women will get the case Friday.

If they find Sirhan guilty of first degree murder, a brief trial to fix his penalty would follow.

Gem Thieves Drill From Restaurant In $250,000 Haul

NEW YORK (AP) — Jewels valued at a quarter of a million dollars were stolen yesterday from a West 47th Street diamond shop while a security guard kept vigil outside the vault. The burglars had drilled through the wall of an adjoining restaurant.

The guard was posted at Nat Altman Jewelers, in midtown Manhattan's "diamond district" after the store's burglar alarm went off twice.

The vault door showed no signs of tampering and the signals were attributed to defective wiring. The guard, however, remained in the front of the store.

Meanwhile, a two-foot-square tunnel was being bored through the eight-inch plaster and cement brick wall separating the vault from the Villa Nova restaurant. The thieves left behind a number of tools, including chisels and mallets.

The burglary was discovered when the restaurant opened for the day. Entrance to the dining spot was gained by breaking the lock on a metal grill barring the kitchen window.

Disorders Flare But Many March For King

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Thousands of Negroes who marched behind Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. took to the streets again yesterday in solemn processions honoring the slain leader. Some of the demonstrations were marred by violence.

President Richard M. Nixon sent a person letter to Mrs. Coretta King, the widow, and Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., commemorated the first anniversary of King's slaying by joining a march in Memphis, Tenn., where the fatal shot was fired.

Police clamped a curfew on Memphis when groups of Negro youths watching the march by 8,000 persons—the largest of many tributes staged across the nation—broke store windows and began looting.

Disorders flared in Chicago, Kalamazoo, Mich., and Baltimore, Md. on the eve of the anniversary.

About 300 angry Negro youths gathered outside the Tennessee State Prison at Nashville, where King's admitted slayer, James Earl Ray, is serving a 99-year term. They ignored officials who pleaded that the demonstration could touch off trouble inside the walls and raised their fists in black power salutes. Ray could not see them from his cell.

About 10,000 National Guard troops were alerted in six states and the District of Columbia and troops were on duty in Chicago, where rock-throwing, looting and sniper fire erupted Thursday night in ghetto areas.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who succeeded King as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, led the Memphis march past the Lorraine Motel where King was slain. Pausing there, Abernathy and Kennedy eulogized King.

"To some, this is a day of sorrow," said Kennedy. "To some it is a day of fear. To me this is a day of hope."

Abernathy announced the start of what he called the second phase of the Poor People's campaign—a demand for free food stamps for every family with less than a $3,000 annual income. He also demanded a national system to coordinate welfare, government price controls on necessities, and elimination of unemployment.

Family Life Bill Scheduled

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill providing state technical assistance for school districts wanting to conduct family life and sex education programs was proposed yesterday by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills.

Sieroty said the measure would require the State Department of Education to develop curricula, teaching guides, manuals and other instructional aids in sex education for use by school districts and offer family life courses as part of teacher training curriculum.

He said the bill, to be introduced Monday, was designed to "train teachers and develop programs to assure parents that local schools provide worthwhile and effective family life and sex education programs."

Czech Leaders Rip Journalists' Stand

PRAGUE (AP)—Top Communist leaders sharply rebuked the Czechoslovak Journalists Union today for resisting the new Soviet-dictated crackdown on the occupied nation's news media.

Rude Pravo, organ of the Czechoslovak Communist party, published a statement of the inner eight-member Executive Committee of the party Presidium attacking the journalists' stand against censorship that was imposed after anti-Soviet demonstrations last weekend.

The statement was seen as the forerunner of a sweeping reshuffle of newspaper, radio and television editors. Demotion of two Rude Pravo deputy editors already has been announced.

The party executives complained the journalists union "does not express anywhere support for the declaration of the Communist party Central Committee Presidium or the declaration of the federal government. The union's statement is, on the contrary, an indirect expression of disagreement with the party declaration — a polemic with its basic ideas."

The Czechoslovak leaders' statement said flatly the attitude of the journalists "can be objectively assessed as a protection of antisocialist forces." This is a serious charge in the present Czechoslovak crisis, with the Prague government under severe pressure from Moscow to curb anti-Communism and anti-Soviet feelings produced by the August 1968 invasion.

Three Jolts Hit Mexico Coast Towns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cultists, mystics and soothsayers who said a severe Good Friday California earthquake would make Phoenix, Ariz., a seaport could point only to three jolts that came in a little weak and 1,300 miles off target.

Sharp shocks in the ocean off Mexico yesterday morning cracked a few walls in seacoast towns and sent people scurrying into the streets.

And, scientists point out, there were hundreds of microquakes too small to be detected except by a seismograph. In fact, there are hundreds of microquakes every day and about 300 noticeable shocks each year.

The doomsayers weren't interested in these. For months they said California would be sundered from the continent or even sink into the Pacific in April. Many said it would happen on Good Friday—the day of the disastrous 1964 Alaskan quake.

If the undersea quakes and the microquakes Friday weren't what soothsayers expected, the feeling of firm soil underfoot didn't reassure others. Civil defense officials and scientists were deluged with worried telephone calls.

Throughout the day citizens called the California Institute of Technology, the U.S. Geological Survey and the city's civil defense office demanding to know when the quake would come.

"Most were reasonable," said William Frank, a civil defense coordinator. "But there were a few from highly emotional people who didn't want to be told the truth and demanded to know who's behind the plot to suppress information on the earthquake."

Auto Theft Suspect Free On $1,000 Bail

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—One of two black youths shot by police last weekend, Michael L. Shambray, 20, is free on $1,000 bail after being arraigned in municipal court for auto theft.

The other youth Alvert Joe Linthcome, 19, was killed by police gunfire in a record shop after a high-speed 31-block chase.

The Case Of The Missing Attorney

Nobody "did him in." He wasn't really missing - just missing clients. Because nobody KNEW him.
How to rectify this painful situation? Simple: all he (or any attorney) has to do to gain greater public recognition is to place legal notices where more people will notice them! Which means placing it in the Independent-Journal which in turn reaches 45,000 homes each evening. That's more than any combination of media can offer - by far. Best of all, the I-J is the home newspaper for the entire county. Read cover to cover - with Legals a surprisingly well - read feature. Lovely part about all this is that a legal advertisement for clients becomes a well - read notice of YOU . . . of your firm. Solves the case of the missing attorney. Nolo contendere!

Campus Unrest Is Blamed On Permissiveness

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The United States has a permissive society that will allow "assaultive behavior on a campus which would never be tolerated on skid row," says the Los Angeles County district attorney.

And that society, Evelle J. Younger told the Commonwealth Club yesterday, is one of the prime causes of campus unrest.

Younger, speaking on "Violence in Education," said school administrators and police tend to underreact to campus violence. "The situation is out of hand" before school officials call police, he said.

The Watts riots in Los Angeles, Younger said, were caused because police underreacted.

"We've learned our lesson," Younger declared. The next time Los Angeles police are told to keep out, he said, persons making the request will be asked firmly "to step aside, and massive but restrained force will be sent in."

new agency will become part of a regional government if one if formed.

The second bill would prevent the bridge district from making "any long-range transportation commitments until one year after submission of the final report to the Legislature," but Foran could not be reached to say whether this could block the district from acting on its proposal to go into the commuter bus business.

The plan that would be drawn by the district under Foran's bill would include estimates of bridge revenues available for "transportation services."

The bill specifically would permit the district to engage in tests of the use of ferry boats or other public transit systems.

"Future development of the transportation system for the Bay region must be coordinated, responsive to community values, and not discriminate in favor of one form of transportation," Foran said. He is the chairman of the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee.

SKIES

a.m. today on Highway 101 near Novato, sent William Tim Plantz, 21, of Vallejo, to Novato General Hospital for treatment of a bruised right shoulder and cut right hand.

The patrol said Plantz fell asleep and ran off the road into a ditch.

Rain totals for the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today included: Woodacre, 1.10 inches; Ross, .90 of an inch; San Anselmo, .86; Bolinas, .75; Mill Valley, .72; Civic Center, .70; Petaluma, .64; Novato, .54; Sausalito, .50, and Tiburon, .43.

In the 24 hours ending at noon, San Rafael had .81 of an inch.

San Rafael Car Wreck Hurts Two

Two persons were injured in an accident at 6 p.m. yesterday at Union Street and Mission Avenue, San Rafael police reported.

A car driven by Patrick R. Hines, 35, of 235 Union Street, was northbound on Union when it collided with a westbound car on Mission Avenue, driven by Sp/4 Walter S. Fisher of Fort Barry, police reported.

Mrs. Shirley J. Hine, 39, a passenger in the Hine car, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a twisted knee and pelvic fracture.

Fisher is in Letterman General Hospital, San Fracisco, with head injuries.

Bar Association To Have Own Office

The Marin County Bar Association, which formerly shared headquarters in the Albert Building with the Legal Aid Society, will have its own new office in the same building on 1010 B Street, Robert Andresen, chairman of the local association's lawyer referal committee, said yesterday.

The new headquarters will not be opened until the association approves its furnishings sometime this week, Andresen said. The association made its move to have a larger office with rooms for its records, he said.

Andrew Jackson was the first President to be named by a national nominating convention.

sensus."

Bagley termed Knox's bill "a bag of worms" last month, saying he preferred expansion of ABAG's powers.

Knox's bill, which grew out of a 16-month, $240,000 legislative study he headed, provides that the regional government cannot be formed without approval by a majority of the voters in the June, 1970, primary election. Bagley's proposal would not require a vote by the citizens of the region.

Another major difference between the Knox and Bagley bills is that the Knox bill uses the watershed boundary of the Bay Area, thus excluding large chunks of Sonoma, Solano, Contra Costa and Alameda counties. The Bagley bill includes all territory in all nine counties, including Marin.

Also, while Knox's bill would levy a 1 per cent surcharge on personal income taxes and a gross receipt tax on businesses to finance the regional government, Bagley's bill was silent on financing. At present, ABAG is financed by members' dues and federal grants.

Bagley's bill also would transfer to ABAG the powers of the Bay Area Transportation Study Comission, which is to go out of business this year, and of the Bay-Delta Water Quality Control Program, which last month called for an $804 million project to upgrade waste water in the 12 counties that drain into the bay and delta.

(Representatives of public transit on the study commission have criticized turning its work over to ABAG on the ground that they are not represented on ABAG.)

It was ABAG's vice president, Sonoma County supervisor Ignazio A. Vella who asked him to introduce the bill, Bagley reported.

Vella told the Independent-Journal that the bill was an "updating" of a similar bill pushed unsuccessfully by ABAG in 1967. The 2-year-old bill was endorsed by ABAG's executive committee and general assembly at the time, he noted, "and I did not hear of any unendorsement."

Also, Vella said, the executive committee was not going to be ready to consider a stand on the Knox bill until its April 17 meeting, but Tuesday is the deadline to introduce legislation this year.

Marin County Supervisor John F. McInnis, a member of the executive committee, said the bill "simply restates the initial position that ABAG took in this matter two years ago." (About half of the bill's language is new.)

The decision to seek the bill again, McInnis said, was made at an unannounced meeting of a few executive committee members on March 21. He said he did not know how many attended, and that he was absent, but that it did not violate the state's antisecret meeting law because less than a quorum of the committee was present.

ABAG was formed in 1961 to provide a forum for discussion of regional problems, but since has won federal funds to prepare a regional plan. Also, the federal government designated ABAG as the regional agency that must review all applications by local governments for federal grants.

Eighty of the 92 cities and eight of the nine counties in the Bay Area are members of ABAG. Solano County is the only holdout among the counties.

Tooth Chipped In Collision

A 13-year-old Greenbrae newspaper boy was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for a chipped tooth after his bicycle collided with a car yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Kevin Scott Purcell, 13, of 141 Vista Grande, reportedly looked back to throw a newspaper and went onto the wrong side of the road, where his bicycle struck a car driven by Justine Mary Harriman, 19, of 15 Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae, the patrol said.

The accident occurred at 5:30 p.m. on Vista Grande, just west of Corte Anita in Greenbrae.

Flooding Forecast From Heavy Snow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Snow and water content measurements in the highlands that drain into the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys indicate record runoffs and flooding can be expected this spring.

There is deeper snow with more water content this year than in the big Sierra winter 1952, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. reported.

PG&E employees and national park rangers this week completed the third series of monthly measurements in the watersheds draining into the San Joaquin Valley and into the Sacramento Valley south of the American River.

April 1 surveyors' records showed snow depth of 191 inches and water content of 81 inches at Kaiser Pass in Fresno County.

In April of 1952, the snow was 158 inches deep and water content measured 69 inches. The normal water content for April is 37 inches.

At 8,000-foot Nellie Lake, surveyors found 191 inches of snow with a water content of 79 inches. There was 168 inches of snow there in 1952, with water content of 76 inches. Normal April water content there is 36 inches.

EASTER

of folklore, lamb and painted eggs.

Spaniards marked Easter with countrywide processions. Barefooted women, many dragging heavy iron chains from their ankles, trudged through Madrid and other cities to reenact the role of Christian slaves. Hooded faithful bearing heavy wooden crosses also marched, as did goose-stepping Spanish army units in combat uniform.

French children anticipated long Easter Sunday dinners before they could rush into their gardens and hunt for fat chocolate eggs they knew were there.

In Belgium it will be cheese, not eggs, that pageants feature. Floats representing various cheeses will parade through Herve on Monday to concelebrate Easter and the town's annual cheese festival.

Britons prepared for the annual Easter spate of protest marches, rallies, speeches and harangues by those with a cause. Scottish and Welsh ban-the-bomb groups planned Easter demonstrations at the U.S. Air Force base at Ruislip.

In the Philippines, the only heavily Christian nation in Asia, children put finishing touches on angel costumes, complete with paper wings, which they will wear in stage plays reenacting the resurrection.

AEC Preparing Bigger Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is preparing for possible underground nuclear tests in Nevada with explosive forces equivalent to several million tons of TNT and even larger ones in Alaska.

A commission spokesman said Saturday if the the future tests are approved, they would be "weapons related" to meet Defence Department requirements.

The planning for subterranean detonations many times more powerful than previously conducted was outlined in AEC correspondence with the Howard Hughes organization, which owns large interests in Nevada. The Hughes people had voiced concern over possible danger from larger explosions.

HEART

The artificial heart, Cooley said, eliminated the possibility of rejection, apparently eliminated the threat of coagulation, and minimized the destruction of blood vessels.

But the device could only be considered as a temporary means of keeping a patient alive until a human donor could be found. "A journey of a million miles can begin with only one step," Cooley said. "If everyone said we have this thing licked, we would be left holding the bag."

A human donor was almost found last night.

A 31-year-old woman from Cleveland, Tex., who died after giving birth, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Houston, a journey of nearly 50 miles. Her heart was kept alive along the way with a resuscitator but it collapsed as her body was brought into the hospital.

An administrator at the hospital said the earliest a transplant had ever been performed at St. Luke's was nine hours after the donor became available.

Last night, Dr. Cooley could have transplanted the woman's heart into Karp in an hour and a half.

The prospective donor remained anonymous at the request of her family. Administrators said today there was no prospects for another donor.

Cooley said after the operation the artificial heart could keep Karp alive if a suitable human donor could be found "in a week or so."

The artificial heart, designed and built by Dr. Domingo Liotta, a native of Argentina, an assistant professor of surgery at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, weighs one-half pound. A human heart weighs three-quarters of a pound.

The console that operates the artificial heart costs $20,000 and is reusable. The heart itself costs $5,000 and can not be used again.

Karp's transplant was the 124th in the short history of such operations and the second Friday. A 35-year-old Canadian woman received a heart in Canada's 15th such transplant yesterday in Toronto.

New Phone Book Soon To Arrive

Delivery of the 1969 Marin County telephone directory will start Wednesday and should be completed within three days, announced Jack Eddy, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph district manager.

Initial distribution will be to 119,000 phones, Eddy said, a 5,000 increase over last year. It took 186 tons of paper to print the directory, which will include 63,387 alphabetical listings for every community in the county.

The size of the book is 800 pages, 40 more than last year, Eddy said.

Boatyard Owner, Aide In Court

Donald Charles Harlander, 43, of Orinda, owner of the Richmond Boat Works, and his employee, Quentin Tripp Lewton, 24, of San Anselmo, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to stealing a car in San Anselmo March 20.

A preliminary hearing was set for April 21.

The two men were arrested two blocks from where the car was stolen after the owner, Mrs. Therese Berreyesa of 124 Prospect Avenue, called police to say, "Someone just took my car and they are going down the hill."

MOUNT TAMALPAIS CEMETERY in the Heart of our County

Marin pioneers chose a site in the heart of our county as a final resting place for their families. Today this location—at the west end of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael—is still convenient to all Marin points.

Marinites who choose Mount Tamalpais do so with the assurance that its beauty will grow with the years. The interest from a quarter-million dollar endowment fund—twice the legal requirement—is dedicated to the constant care and improvement of this 57-acre site.

Perhaps—like many Marin families—you wish to make your own final arrangements to spare others difficult decisions. If so, we invite your inquiry or a personal visit.

OBITUARIES

Donald M. Parker Dies At 61

Donald M. Parker, 61, a photoengraver for the Independent-Journal the last 13 years, died at a local hospital yesterday after a long illness.

Parker, who came to the I-J after working with the Salter Brothers engraving firm in San Francisco for 30 years, lived with his wife, Gladys, at 842 Hayden Avenue in Novato.

A native of Portland, Ore., Parker had lived in the Bay Area for more than 50 years. He was a member of the Hamilton Masonic Lodge and Photoengravers Union.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. Monday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. Inurnment will follow.

TURNPIKE

tered auto near the Highspire service plaza about 10 miles east of Harrisburg. Several spent cartridges were scattered about the auto, which bore Missouri license plates.

The state police said several autos and trucks were struck by the flying bullets, and windshields and windows were shattered.

The turnpike, opened in 1940, is the nation's oldest superhighway. It links many of Pennsylvania's major cities as it spans the state from Ohio to New Jersey.

Gift Will Assist Wildlife Visits

Youngsters from underprivileged areas in the Bay Area will have a chance to go to Audubon Canyon Ranch in West Marin for a day of outdoor conservation education as a result of an anonymous $1,000-a-year gift from a Boston foundation to the Ranch.

Schools in low income areas needing financial help in visiting the ranch should write Audubon Canyon Ranch, Stinson Beach.

The grant by the Boston foundation will provide $1,000 a year for three years.

Pedestrian Hit By Car, Treated

Denise Lorne, 18, of 161 Sacramento Avenue, San Anselmo, was injured at 1:17 a.m. today when she ran into the path of a car as she crossed Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at San Francisco Boulevard, police said.

She was treated at Marin General Hosiptal for a fractured right collarbone and cuts and scrapes on her right leg.

The driver of the car was John Joseph Higgins, of 87 Woodland Avenue, San Anselmo.

HOWARD CHAVEZ

Funeral for Howard Chavez, 62, of South San Francisco, a former resident of Mill Valley who died Thursday in a San Francisco hospital, will be at 11 a.m. Monday at Halsted and Co. in San Francisco. Inurnment will follow.

Chavez, a bookbinder more than 40 years, was born in Mill Valley and lived there as a boy. He returned to Mill Valley after World War II and lived there until 1955.

He is survived by his wife, Ann, and a sister, Mrs. Vee Fifer of San Francisco.

ROMULO GALLEGOS

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Romulo Gallegos, the first popularly elected president of Venezuela and one of Latin America's most distinguished educators and writers, died today in a local clinic. He was 84.

At the time of his death, Gallegos was chairman of the Inter-American Committee of Human Rights of the Organization of American States.

He was best known, in Venezuela and abroad, as the author of the novel, "Dona Barbara," which was published in Spain in 1928 and later made into a film. He also wrote a political satire, "Canaima," which was strongly critical of Venezuelan dictator Juan Vicente Gomez. Gomez banned the book in Venezuela in the 1930s.

A lifelong opponent of dictatorships, Gallegos founded the Accion Democratica party in Venezuela and ran as its first candidate for president in 1947, after one of his former students—Romulo Betancourt—had overthrown the government and called for national elections.

Gallegos won the election with 80 per cent of the vote but served only two months before being toppled by a military coup led by Marcos Perez Jimenez. Perez Jimenez ruled the country for 10 years.

Gallegos, however, refused to resign the presidency, charging that the military had betrayed the constitution.

"Until my term expires, there are only two places for me in Venezuela—in jail or in the presidential palace," he told the coup leaders.

The army marched him at gunpoint to a Mexico-bound plane and sent him into exile.

He lived in exile in the United States, Cuba and Mexico, where he directed films based on his novels.

Gallegos returned to Venezuela during Betancourt's 1959-64 administration and was made a senator for life.

BISHOP WELCH

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Herbert Welch, former president of Ohio Wesleyan University and a bishop of the United Methodist Church, died Friday night. He was 106.

The Rev. Dr. Welch gave up his administrative duties in the Church 20 years ago, when he retired for the third time at the age of 86. He was thought to be the oldest college alumnus in the United States and the oldest bishop of any church in the world, a Church spokesman said.

The bishop once said he had lived a life in which "typhoon and earthquake and fire . . . and Alaskan shipwreck, bandits and revolutions broke up any possible monotony."

The bishop, who began as an engineering student but then decided to become a preacher, was ordained in 1890 and elected a bishop in 1916.

LOUIS RASPILLER

Requiem Mass for Louis Otto Raspiller, 70, of San Francisco, will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Notre Dame Des Victoires Church, 544 Bush Street, San Francisco. Rosary services will be at 8 p.m. Monday at Godeau Funeral Home, 41 Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Oakland.

Raspiller, brother of Ruth F. Guyette of Kentfield, died in a San Francisco hospital Thursday after a long illness.

He is also survived by another sister, Edith M. Hewer of Summerland, B. C. Raspiller was a native of San Francisco.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Wife Trumps Partner's Ace And Causes Anguish To Lover

DEAR HELEN:

I'm working in a factory with a guy named Pete, who just happens to be a married man. I've loved him for a year, and if he doesn't love me, he's been giving a good imitation.

But he hasn't spoken to me since the middle of February when I sent him a Valentine and his wife got it first.

Should I fight for him or forget him?—P.K.L.

DEAR P:

Forget him. You played the wrong card — and his wife holds all the trumps! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You get a lot of letters from unhappy and disturbed people. I'd like to tell them about an organization that can help. It's called Neurotics Anonymous and the national headquarters are: Room 426, Colorado Building, 1341 "G" Street N.W., Washington, D.C., 20005.

This program, based on the Alcoholics Anonymous plan for 12 steps, has helped me overcome fear, guilt and many inferiority feelings. I feel like a human being for the first time in years. At age 22, I have learned to live with the problems I can't solve.

Unfortunately, Neurotics Anonymous isn't accepted by the majority, as people who really need it don't want to be classified as "crazy." Perhaps mention in your column would show them that most all of us are a little neurotic and could do with group therapy.

Those interested can write to the above address for direction to a club in their area.—LINDA

DEAR HELEN:

You've never had this in your column, so here's my

WHAT IS A FIRST LOVE?

A first love is the pre-dawn quiet of early spring. It comes hesitantly, enveloped in a fine, translucent mist. It needs protection from bitterness and rejection.

A first love is the master of disguise and a quick-change artist any performer would worship. It comes stumbling and colored bright pink for shyness and embarrassment. It comes aloof and in green for indifference. It comes shrouded in gray, splashed with the blood red of a broken heart. You can add a smile and a few words to grayness and it will turn to yellow — for happiness.

A first love is elusive. It's here today, here tomorrow; and the next day it fades, so that you can hardly tell it still exists. But it does. You can hide a first love with the mist, but the sun has to come out eventually and it will burn the mist away. — D.A.J.

DEAR HELEN:

I used to date this boy that my mother liked very much, but I didn't. So we broke up. But my mother has sorta hired him to keep watch over me. Not that I do anything wrong, but the trouble is, this kid still likes me, so he makes up things to tell my mother, figuring if I get in trouble I'll get grounded and then she'll make me date a "nice safe boy like Max."

How can I convince my mother that he is a sneaky blackmailer, almost? — STYMIED

DEAR S.:

Blackmailers almost always hang themselves if you give them enough rope.—H.

THE BRIM THAT FLOPS is tops for spring. Here is a dip-brim cloche of pink felt from the Mr. John collection, teamed with a matching scarf flowing from the crown to add softness. (UPI Telephoto)

'Easter Bonnet' Vanishes Along With Floral Chapeaus

NEW YORK (UPI)—The brim that flops is the brim that's tops in the hats women are buying for spring.

Giving the big, "relaxed" brims strong competition, however, are the scarf hats, part of the millinery scene in recent years, but this spring better than ever before.

Faded from the picture are the traditional florals, with few exceptions. And gone too is the phrase "Easter bonnet" (sorry about that, Irving Berlin) from the hat industry's vocabulary.

The bonnet is not a 1969 fashion, And as the hatmakers explain, women no longer buy a hat just for an Easter Sunday. Not, that is, unless they are celebrities on parade or girls grabbing for television camera attention in Fifth Avenue's fashion spectacle on this Christian holy day.

INSTEAD, WOMEN think in terms of a new hat or hats for a whole season, and often in terms of coordination with one specific outfit.

Coordination is a preachment of Mr. John, the milliner-clothes designer who uses the term "relaxed" to describe his spring best-sellers—"drooping onto the face, with chiffon drapes to the floor."

These chapeaux, some with brims nearly six inches wide and with "good round crowns" are ideal with the pants suits sweeping the feminine fashion scene, Mr. John said. They go well, too, with the smooth, "boy hairdo", which has replaced what he called the "orthopedic" coiffure, twisted and combed into an artificial fantasy.

"The look today is sort of like Marlene Dietrich riding off into the desert," said Mr. John.

A United Press International pre-Easter check of the Millinery Institute of America, trade organization for the industry, plus couture firms and volume manufacturers showed enormous popularity for brims and the big use of scarves as trims for felt or straw or to make the entire hat.

THE INSTITUTE said a check of buying offices showed: flowers out; the floppy felts, fabric turbans and scarfs hats big in the East and Northeast; the scarf hats and brimmed straws leading in the South; felts, straws, usually brimmed, selling in the Midwest and West; and in the Southwest, the "status" hat, a big brimmed number in straw or felt looking like a cowboy's hat.

White's been a big seller with most firms. Archie Eason, who ran a millinery business in his native Jacksonville, Fla., before moving it to New York nine years ago, said white on his "status brim" number was one of the tops of the season.

And with the teen and 20's set, Irving Sefir of Emme Boutique reported this trend—"status" hats which are nothing more than blocked felts with four-inch brims and high crowns, untrimmed.

Good Taste Suits

Here's help for males deciding to try something other than the ivy league suit: don't buy the something other if it looks outlandish. "We are reaching a tricky point in men's wear," says the designer, Richard Miller. "The minute one man looks outlandish in a suit, it's no good. We are drawing a line of good taste."

'Super Shoppers' Careful Buyers

Today, the average family's food bill amounts to approximately 18 per cent of its take-home pay. That's a pretty large slice of the pie. Any single purchase, such as an automobile, amounting to as large a portion of our personal spending power would be given more than careful consideration.

Why not so with food expenditures? Probably because it involves many small decisions before anything is realized in actual savings.

A few basic guidelines will be helpful in mastering the art of shopping.

One of the first rules of wise shopping is to take advantage of sales. But don't be tempted to buy things you really don't need.

Compare prices, especially of fresh, canned and frozen foods. Fresh foods are usually more expensive, except when "in season." And if you live near a local growing area you'll find prices lower than in other parts of the country where fresh food has to be shipped in by rail or truck.

Convenience foods are one of the mixed blessings bestowed upon modern homemakers. They save you time and energy but you also pay for the food having been pre-washed, peeled, and pre-cooked. These items should be evaluated according to your particular needs. You might find some convenience foods will be worthwhile using on a regular basis, while others might be reserved for emergencies only.

Make use of substitutions such as dry milk occasionally in cooking or more often if you're really trying to stretch the food budget. Macaroni and rice are helpful as meat-extenders. Margarine can be an economical substitute for butter in cooking or as a table spread.

You can save a great deal of time and energy if you are familiar enough with the store where you do your shopping to be able to arrange your shopping list beforehand according to the general arrangement of products on the shelves. This saves doubling-back to pick up items you missed. If possible, shop early in the day when selection is greatest and stores are likely to be less crowded.

Dad will especially appreciate these considerations if he has volunteered to do the shopping for a busy mother. If there's a youngster in the family it might be a fun excursion for them to go together.

As you become a more sophisticated shopper your familiarity with prices and brands will increase and intelligent shopping will become less tedious.

Mother Of The Bridegroom Performs Wedding Rite

Bill Chandler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Chandler of San Francisco, formerly of Mill Valley, claimed Charlotte Houston as his bride Saturday in a 7 p.m. ceremony held at the Scientology Headquarters in San Francisco.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys Peaks of Fort Worth, Tex.

The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's mother, who is a newly ordained minister of the Church of Scientology in San Francisco.

Maid of honor was Sadie Bishop, and Cathy O'Gorman was bridesmaid. Best man was Scott Taylor and James Jenkins was the usher. All attendants were from San Francisco.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Scientology headquarters, where both of the young people are employed. They will live in San Francisco.

The new Mrs. Chandler attended Oakland City College. Bill attended the University of California at Davis and the College of Scientology in East Grimstead, England.

He is the brother of Mrs. Wilson Goddard of Davis and Marie Chandler of San Francisco and the grandson of Mrs. Sibyl Schneller of Mill Valley and Mrs. Charles Chandler of San Rafael.

Donegal Tweeds

The gray flannel suit has given way to Donegal tweeds, velvets, leather, furs—you name it. Textures and colors, in a dazzling variety, are the marks of masculine high fashion for spring.

CHERYL REDDING, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Redding Jr. of Corte Madera, and Carmen Simonelli were wed at St. Anselm's Catholic Church. The bride is a graduate of Redwood High School and College of Marin. Carmen served in the Air Force, stationed at Travis Air Force Base. Mrs. Ronald Hune of Novato was matron of honor and Racco Palladino Jr. was best man. The Simonellis will live in Boston, the bridegroom's home. (Planert photo)

Instruction Available

A new practical course on group leadership and parliamentary procedure for men and women who are taking responsible positions in civic, church, business and professional groups will open Tuesday evening.

The 12 session course will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesdays at the San Rafael High School cafeteria, sponsored by the College of Marin Community Education Department. Lothar Salin, former president of Toastmasters International, will be the instructor.

The first sessions will deal with use of parliamentary procedures, using leadership to get things done, and analysis of parliamentary techniques and an introduction to group dynamics techniques. The second half of the series includes understanding and using the speaking-listening process, and the use of group dynamics.

Registrations are open at the Registrar's Office, Student Personnel Center, College Avenue, Kentfield. Registration also will be accepted at the first class meeting.

Date Set For August

Mr. and Mrs. Claude R. Witzel of Novato announced the engagment of their daughter, Valerie Claire, to Charles W. Ridgeway Jr. of Novato at a family dinner at their home on Indian Valley Road.

The future bride is the sister of Terrence Witzel of San Mateo and Ron Witzel of Walnut Creek. She was graduated from Novato High School and College of Marin. Valerie is attending the Orvis School of Nursing at the University of Nevada in Reno.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Ridgeway of King City are the future bridegroom's parents. He is the brother of Mrs. Norma Conway of Petaluma. He was graduated from Novato High School and is attending College of Marin. Charles plans to continue his studies in business administration at the University of Nevada. He has served with the Army in Korea for two years.

VALERIE WITZEL

San Rafael Indoor Sports Elect Mrs. G. A. Hendricks

Mrs. Glenn A. Hendricks of Novato has been elected president of the San Rafael chapter of Indoor Sports.

Josephine Hendricks has also served as district bowling chairman and district executive secretary for the organization. She has been a member for eight years of the organization, which contacts and draws out physically handicapped persons to lead as normal a life as possible.

Mrs. Hendricks says the organization is now working on legislative bills concerning the disabled, both state and national, and even lobbying when possible; watch-dogging recent state and national legislation pertaining to accessibility, either new or remodeling of all state and federal buildings; working to open a home for self-care disabled through money making projects and having a membership drive to bring out more disabled.

Mrs. Hendricks was graduated from Chico State College and has an elementary teacher's certificate. She and her husband, a railroad engineer, have lived in Marin County 28 years. They have three children, John and Ray Hendricks and Mrs. Jo Ann Anderson.

Officers elected to serve with Mrs. Hendricks are Walter Hughes of Kentfield, first vice president; Mrs. Julie Butler, Mill Valley, second vice president; Mrs. Victor Brown, San Rafael, executive secretary; Russell Bohlke, Larkspur, recording secretary, and Robert Thomas, Daly City, treasurer.

District director is Walter Hughes, and chapter directors are Nello Palidini, Novato; Mrs. Alice Caldwell, Mill Valley, and Mrs. Ben Day, Mill Valley.

Wendy Magladry Bride Of Robert F. Edwards

Wendy Magladry of San Rafael became the bride of Robert Franklin Edwards in a ceremony Saturday afternoon at St. Luke's Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Wendy chose her sister Betsy Magladry as maid of honor and another sister, Nancy Magladry, along with Nancy Kimberling and Cathy O'Brien as bridesmaids.

Phillip C. Edwards was best man for his brother. Ushering were Bruce Edwards, another brother; Bruce Palmer and Gary Luchese, all of Novato.

A reception was held after the wedding at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Marilyn Malm Magladry of San Rafael. Wendy is also the daughter of Dr. G. William Magladry of Palo Cedro.

After a Southern California wedding trip the newlyweds will live in Novato.

Wendy is a graduate of San Rafael High School and the College of Marin and is employed with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Rafael. She is also the sister of Robert and G. William Magladry III. Mrs. A. H. Nicoll of Los Altos Hills is her grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Edwards of Novato are parents of the bridegroom. He is a graduate of Novato High School and Heald's Business College and is a professional musician. Mrs. D. B. Edwards of Piedmont and B. F. Edwards Jr. of San Francisco are his grandparents.

Monika Brodien Sets June Date

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard B. Brodien of San Anselmo are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Monica Karin, to Kenneth Wilkie Van Der Slice of Santa Rosa.

Monika was graduated from Terra Linda High School and is employed at Ross General Hospital. Roxanne Gail Brodien is her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. George Evans Van Der Slice of Santa Rosa are parents of the future bridegroom. Kenneth is a graduate of Montgomery High School in Santa Rosa and attends Santa Rosa Junior College.

The couple plan to be married in June in San Anselmo.

Valerie Smith, the junior Jack and Jill member, will also attend.

New members are Mmes. John Mueller, Patrick Conway and Richard Bradshaw.

THE MILL VALLEY Chapter of the Pacific Dance Guild will sponsor on Thursday a one-time showing of the film classic "Red Shoes" as a benefit for its scholarship fund.

The film, starring Moira Shearer and Anton Walbrook, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in Olney Hall of the College of Marin. Tickets are available at Tyrell's in Mill Valley or by calling the Pacific Dance Guild office.

NEW BOARD chairmen have been elected for the Tamalpais Nursery School Corporation, which operates the non-profit Tamalpais and Maringate nursery schools in Mill Valley and Marin City.

Mrs. Serge Petroff of Mill Valley is the new chairman. Serving with her will be Mmes. Donald Beers of Sausalito, vice chairmen, and Melvyn Mark of Mill Valley, secretary-treasurer.

New trustees are Mmes. Mark, Samuel Banks Jr. of Marin City and John Green of Mill Valley.

Continuing members of the board are Mrs. Richrd Newman, Mrs. Douglas Ferguson, John Little and Robert Huston, all of Mill Valley; and Mrs. John Griffin of Marin City. Mrs. Robert Bastian of Belvedere is executive director.

Primary project of the board the past year and for the next term is the establishment of two funds. One will provide tuition grants for minority group children, and the other will finance teacher training in a new careers program for four black women through donations from individuals and organizations in Marin.

Vine Tells Crucifixion Story

By GRACE HENDERSON

What do flowers say to you? Do they brighten your day? Do they form a background for people and automobiles in their hurry to go somewhere — or can you find a story in their petals?

Since the beginning of recorded time, religion has been closely associated with nature. And somewhere and at some time interpretation of religious events through flowers began.

Thus it was that the Passiflora (Passion flower) became the visual illustration for the story of Christ's suffering on His way to, and upon, the Cross at Golgotha. A native of Brazil, the hardy Passiflora vine may be found in local gardens and adorning trellises at such locations as near the old Letterman Hospital on the Presidio grounds in San Francisco and behind a medical center at 800 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo.

MANY PEOPLE "say it with flowers," but no plant expresses a stronger story than does the Passiflora, or Passion Flower, that tells of the Crucifixion of Christ through its petals. In the blossom and vine may be found illustrations of the apostles, the crown of thorns, wounds, nails that pierced Christ's body, whips and the hands of the persecutors. The legend has been handed down from early missionaries who saw the story in the blooms of the Passion Flower.

The plant grows outdoors and in greenhouses, usually blooming after Easter unless forced. Local nurseries have starts available and it is a popular vine for home gardeners. The hybrids are of varied colors but the more common specie is a white and lavender combination, not spectacular to look at but with an interesting and intriguing story.

The unusual blooms are interpreted as holding significance with the Crucifixion story, and early missionaries are said to be responsible for the interpretation given. To them the story indicates the Passion of Christ and the blossoms are implements of the Crucifixion itself.

The 10 outside petals of the Passiflora blossom represent the 10 apostles present at the Crucifixion, Peter and Judas being absent; the corona, or crown, (the darker circle of lacy fringe) is described as representing the crown of plaited thorns placed on Jesus' head — or as another version has it, the halo associated later with the figure of Christ.

The five anthers or stamens relate to His five wounds, but some people have suggested they represent the hammers used to drive the nails (this theory is based on the shape of the stamens). The three stigmas in the center of the blossom represent the three nails piercing His hands and feet (two for the hands, one for the feet).

To complete the story, parts of the vine itself are included. The curling, grasping tendrils are said to represent cords or whips used to scourge the "thieves" prior to their Crucifixion. The finger-like, or digitate, leaves suggest the many hands of the persecutors.

So, through legend, a portion of the Easter story has been retained in the life of the Passiflora, a common flower.

Phillips Brooks seems to exemplify the story in "An Easter Carol":

"Tomb, thou shalt not hold Him longer;
Death is strong, but Life is stronger;
Stronger than the dark,
the light;
Stronger than the wrong,
the right;
Faith and Hope triumphant say
Christ will rise on Easter
Day."

Designers' Linen Tailors And Travels Beautifully

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

I have always thought linen was very hot and not too practical in the summer. Yet, when I look through the fashion books and wander through the costume room at our department store, I am always shocked to find linen dresses that are priced as high as $200. I can't understand how they could possibly cost so much when the linen at our store only costs about $4 per yard.

MRS. D. E. R.

DEAR MRS. D. E. R.:

Linen has become very popular with the top designers, but they aren't using the ordinary kind of linen that is usually found in fabric shops. They are using an imported French suiting linen that is 54 inches wide. This linen doesn't wrinkle like the kind you are thinking about. It tailors beautifully and travels well if you don't overfit the garment.

It seems quite expensive and yet when you consider the width, it isn't. This can be underlined or not, we have made garments using both methods of construction.

MRS. D. BROWN, Ft. Wayne, Ind., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her suggestion:

Summer is just ahead and many of us will be making outdoor tablecloths or picnic cloths. To make, allow enough material for a one inch hem on all sides inserting drapery weights that come by the yard. This will keep the cloths from blowing away.

DEAR EUNICE,

I thought that styles had not changed the past few years until I looked at patterns and compared them to some clothes in my closet. Now I am wondering just what is "in" and what is "out." Do dresses and skirts still have kick pleats at the back? Some of my dresses are wide enough to take out the pleats.

MRS. W. E. M.

DEAR MRS. W. E. M.:

There really isn't any one look today. Everyone wears what they want to wear, but you also have to have the courage to wear the clothes you believe in and not make excuses.

The kick pleats you are referring to were a necessity when we wore the narrow, long skirts, or you couldn't walk. The kind of skirt that has been popular the past few years had a great deal more ease and fullness in it — anything from a dirndl to the A-line skirts. Now, the very newest skirts have soft pleats which are much more attractive when short; the more narrow skirts were more attractive when long.

If you can sew and can afford it, I would give your older clothes away to someone who is less fortunate than you and have the joy of making something that is up to the minute for yourself.

MRS. M. McM. SAYS:

"Since I have a family of three girls who all wear ribbons in their hair, we had a problem deciding how to keep the ribbons from getting crushed or lost and how they could be chosen at a moment's notice. I surprised my girls by purchasing a brass towel rack from the dimestore, pressed their ribbons and hung them neatly on the rack. Now, they not only make a great conversation piece for the room, but they are organized."

A walking cabana, a flower bikini coverup and ribbons for your hair can all be made by following directions in Eunice Farmer's booklet "Boutique Gifts." To obtain your copy send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer in care of The Independent-Journal.

Mrs. Ralph Tobener Is Chairman Of Auxiliary

MRS. RALPH TOBENER

A busy grandmother, boasting of 15 grandchildren, will head the Nazareth House Auxiliary this coming year. Mrs. Ralph E. Tobener of Corte Madera, a Marinite for 22 years, is the new chairman for the auxiliary.

She has been active in cultural and civic groups and is a past president of Marin County Junior Theatre, Marin Catholic High School Women's Guild, St. Patrick's Women's Guild, Marin Deanery Council of Catholic Women and past vice president of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women in San Francisco. Mrs. Tobener is the mother of five children, all married, and the wife of a building contractor.

All children interest the gray-haired woman and have been the basis for her juvenile hall and other child-oriented work. Her 15 grandchildren all wished to spend a part of their Easter vacation with the Tobeners this week so Mrs. Tobener shifted them by twos and threes to accommodate them all.

Other interests for the new chairman include music and the making of hooked rugs. Mrs. Tobener was co-founder of the Nazareth House Auxiliary which had its beginning about three years ago. She was assisted by Mrs. Lester Teter of San Rafael with the organization.

Nazareth House Auxiliary is a volunteer service organization to assist guests and the Sisters of Nazareth.

Other incoming officers are Mrs. L. E. Schweb, vice president; Mrs. R. Clark Clopton, treasurer, and Miss Charlotte Gates, secretary.

Birth Rate Is Forecast

All indications point toward a new baby boom for the 1970's.

There are several reasons for the current belief that there will be an increasing number of births in the years ahead. It is true that the birth rate decline slowed to a virtual halt during 1968, and the experts expect birth rates will either stay near current levels or maybe even rise slightly throughout the 1970s. Besides this leveling of the birth rate, the number of women of child bearing age who were born during the time of the soaring birth rates of the 1950s is now growing at an increasingly rapid rate.

There were 40.8 million women between the child bearing ages of 15 and 44 in 1968. The U. S. Census Bureau predicts there will be an increase of 11.1 million, for a total of 51.9 million women in the child bearing ages by 1980. All these figures mean that there will be more babies born in the 1970s than were born in the 1960s, even if the birth rate does not rise.

The indications point toward a record number of births in the United States in 1980 — 4.5 million babies. Therefore, even though the nation's birth rate will remain fairly low and steady, the already rapid growth of U. S. population will get an added boost.

Warden Asks End To Race Imbalance

An order to equalize racial imbalance among San Quentin Prison employees and in job assignments to prisoners has been issued by Warden Louis S. Nelson.

Nelson ordered the percentage of minority employees doubled, from five to 10 per cent, within the year, and directed future assignment of inmate work and training on a system of racial quotas.

He suggested active recruitment of minority-group people and leaving vacancies unfilled until such people can be found as means of accomplishing his goal.

Nelson said he has found racial imbalance in jobs and training offered prison inmates. White prisoners get soft jobs and the training more useful on the outside, he said.

Nelson told his staff he could not understand why there were nine Negroes to every white man in the prison quarry or why the five Negroes on the 15-man detail assigned to the captain's substation were all janitors.

Although he deplores the use of quotas to achieve racial balance in job assignments, Nelson said, it now appears the only way to attain equality.

The racial mix of the prison staff, Nelson said, should more closely resemble the inmate ratio of 50.6 per cent white, 31.5 per cent Negro, 16.3 per cent Mexican-American and 1.3 per cent other minorities.

'Bowery Mayor' Dies At 65

NEW YORK (AP) — Sammy Fuchs, the "mayor of the Bowery" who befriended bums and Broadway stars alike, died early yesterday at his home in Queens. He was 65 years old.

Fuchs ran "Sammy's Bowery Follies" for 35 years, featuring the talents mainly of old-timers who had seen better days on the stage and vaudeville circuit. Present-day luminaries often dropped in to entertain, including Jimmy Durante.

Fuchs was always good for a hand-out to inhabitants of "Skid Row." Each year since 1946 he provided Thanksgiving turkey dinners for the needy and homeless.

For some years he held a "Bum of the Month" contest—the judges being a priest, a local Chamber of Commerce member and a third person. The winner received new clothes, a room in a hotel, and leads for a job.

Smothers Brothers Show Is Canceled

NEW YORK (AP) — The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour television show has been canceled by the Columbia Broadcasting System for next season after several months of argument between the network and its stars about the program's content.

Robert Wood, president of CBS-TV said yesterday that Tom and Dick Smothers had broken their contract by failing to submit Sunday's program in time for a screening last Wednesday by the network and its affiliates.

"CBS has been trying to force us in to a breach of contract," Tom Smothers replied in Los Angeles. "CBS is obligated by contract to air 26 Smothers Brothers shows next season."

"They've harassed us and want us off the air because they think we're a threat to them," Smothers told newsmen, "... they have lied to us consistently, we have complied with our contract at all times."

The brothers have disagreed previously with CBS over cuts which the network made in the show. The Jan. 5 show was dropped and an earlier one substituted after folk singer Joan Baez, who was appearing as a guest, dedicated a song to her husband who is a draft resister.

In announcing the cancellation of the show next season, Wood said that the Smothers Brothers "had consistently failed" to deliver tapes of their shows in time for the network to review them.

In his telegram to Tom Smothers yesterday, Wood said the tape of Sunday's show had not been received in time to be reviewed. He said a show originally broadcast on Nov. 10 would be substituted for it.

"On the basis of our information about parts of that program," Wood said, "we believe that the program in its present form would not be acceptable."

He said the network understood that the program included "at the very least ... a monologue which in our opinion would be considered to be irreverent and offensive to a large segment of our audience, and therefore unacceptable even if this were not the week of the Eisenhower funeral rites and even if Sunday were not Easter Sunday."

The monologue, CBS said, was by comedian David Steinberg and was described as a "sermonette," satirizing the religious lectures used by some stations to sign on or off.

A spokesman for the Smothers brothers said that Sunday's program was previewed by CBS broadcast officials in Los Angeles and that the Steinberg monologue was dropped from the program tape at their suggestion.

Even if it had been left in, the spokesman said, it would not have been "remotely offensive."

Livestock Show Set June 21-22

The 20th annual West Marin Junior Livestock Show will be held at Point Reyes Station June 21-22 and the sponsoring West Marin Lions Club is looking for queen candidates, Mrs. J. H. Mendoza, registrar for the queen contest, said yesterday.

The contest, with an entry deadline of April 15, is open to all girls between 16 and 21 who live in the county or attend Tomales High School. The winner will be decided on the basis of most show tickets sold per candidate.

The winner will get a $500 scholarship and the possibility of a trip to Hawaii, Mrs. Mendoza said. All entrants get to keep 25 per cent of the money from their ticket sales. The queen and her two princesses will receive a trip to Hollywood and Disneyland, a dinner and a show in San Francisco and their royal gowns as a gift of the Lions.

Senior Citizens Due Tour Of Wineries

The San Rafael Goldenaires Senior Citizen Club will visit the Napa Valley wine country in a field trip to St. Helena on April 16.

The club members, to leave from the Community Recreation Center at Second and Brooks streets at 9:30 a.m., will visit several wineries during the daylong trip. Reservations must be made by next Friday. More information on the trip may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

Scarlatti Oratorio Turns Up

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI)— A spring cleaning has turned up the 300-year-old manuscript of an oratorio by Alessandro Scarlatti that lay in a vault unnoticed for a decade.

The oratorio is titled "La Guiditta" and dated March, 1693, Naples. It was discovered in a collection of rare printed materials in the Morristown National Historical Park Library, it was disclosed yesterday.

The manuscript is the only musical work in the collection, willed to the library by the late philanthropist Lloyd Wadell Smith of Florham Park.

Staff members cataloging the huge collection discovered it.

Its authenticity has been verified by two members of the music faculty of the College of St. Elizabeth in Convent Station.

A three-page letter bound to the front of the manuscript, apparently in Scarlatti's fine handwriting and signed by him, contains performance notes on the work.

Mrs. Kulka Sets Get-Togethers In Vote Campaign

Mrs. Valda Kulka, Kentfield School District board candidate, will meet the voters at a series of coffee klatches and wine-and-cheese get-togethers in her campaign for election April 15.

Dr. and Mrs. David Zakiam and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Marvin will host an 8 p.m. meeting Monday in the Marvin home at 330 Via La Paz, Greenbrae.

Mrs. Kulka will be at two meetings Tuesday, a 10 a.m. coffee klatch sponsored by Mrs. Cornelius Sullivan and Mrs. Donald Elsener at the Sullivan home, 110 Tioga Lane, Greenbrae, and an 8 p.m. meeting hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Harold Brownstein of 25 Wolfe Glen Way, Kentfield.

An 8 p.m. meeting is slated for Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Erskine, 30 Turnagain Road, Kent Woodlands. Next Monday at 8 p.m. is the final meeting at the home of Mr. and Mss Harold Stone of 33 Via Navarro, Greenbrae.

Life Termer Dies At Prison

Lemmie Hackney, 62, who was serving a life term for murder at San Quentin, died at the prison yesterday after a long illness, officials said.

Hackney was serving the life term on two counts of first degree murder from Stanislaus County. Prison officials said he was transferred to San Quentin from the California Medical Facility at Vacaville on Jan. 27 for treatment of lung and heart trouble.

He is survived by a sister, Rosa McLourin of Fresno.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

'Requiem' Has Great Emotional Impact

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — The emotional impact of Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem" was doubled last night at the Opera House because it was presented in memory of the late former President and General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It was of special interest to me because the Marin Symphony under Sandor Salgo and the Winifred Baker Chorale and Children's Chorus were given the honor by the composer of presenting the Northern California premiere of this choral-symphonic masterpiece.

It was performed in Marin on Dec. 6, 1964, with a repeat performance in Grace Cathedral on March 28, 1965. Marin soloists were soprano Gwen Curatilo and baritone Byron Jones.

Of course, everything last night was greatly magnified in scale with the full San Francisco Symphony directed by guest conductor Hans Schmidt-Isserstedt, a chamber orchestra under Verne Sellin, a Stanford University chorus of some 200 voices, and the San Francisco Boys Chorus under Madi Bacon, all performing with soloists of international renown.

These were Negro soprano Ella Lee, Negro tenor George Shirley and Welsh Baritone Delme Byrne-Jones.

Schmidt-Isserstedt conducted in such a tightly controlled and unobtrusive manner that attention was focused at all times on performers.

Dedicated to four of the composer's friends who died in World War II and combining the Latin text of the mass for the dead with the poetry of the young British poet Wilfred Owne, who was killed in World War I, the requiem and special significance for Americans who feel anguish over Vietnam.

For this reason and because Shirley and Byrne-Jones had excellent voices, the poems sung in English were the most moving part. Though Shirley's tonal quality was not always pure, he had a fine strong lyric tenor and sang with total involvement, but I was more impressed with Byrne-Jones's perfectly focused and projected voice, beautiful tone and remarkably distinct diction. The chamber orchestra accompanying them was directed with finesse by Sellin.

Miss Lee, singing the Latin text with the big chorus, had a rich toned, vibrant voice strong enough to lend it an agility in negotiating the wide intervals.

The big chorus did credit to its conductor, Harold C. Schmidt, with singing of sharp precision and expressive dynamics, but truly unique and enchanting was the singing of the boys' chorus heard from high up in the top balcony so that the effect was that of an angelic choir.

The final Libera Me was stunning with its stupendous climax joining all forces and its last barely audible "amen."

Merrydale Road Density Problem Before Planners

The Marin County Planning Commission is scheduled to decide Monday how much residential density should be allowed in the Merrydale Road area near the Civic Center, where apartments are springing up piecemeal.

Last month, the commission agreed that the strip closest to Highway 101 should be zoned for planned commercial, planned residential and garden apartments.

Still to be decided is the type of zoning for 10 lots on the west side of Merrydale Road from north San Pedro Road to El Prado Avenue.

The commission meeting will start at 9 a.m. in the administration building of the Civic Center.

In other action, Johngold Corp. will ask for a use permit to construct a service station and boat storage facility next to the Howard Johnson Restaurant and Motor Lodge under construction near the Richardson Bay Bridge in front of Fireside Motel. An indoor tennis club, originally planned there, proved unfeasible, according to Joseph E. Sheeks, attorney for the developer.

Driver Claims Weed Not His

Always clean a new car thoroughly.

Dennis A. Lee of 41 Madrone Avenue, Larkspur, learned that lesson the hard way yesterday, according to San Rafael police.

The police were called to a Northgate Shopping Center parking lot by a security guard who reported a marijuana cigarette on the dash board of a car. In searching the car, police also found in the glove compartment, a pipe which apparently had been used to smoke marijuana or hashish.

Lee told poice that he had just purchased the car and had cleaned some marijuana seeds from the floor of it. He had forgotten to throw away the cigarette and pipe, he said, claiming that they were not his. He was not held pending further investigation by San Rafael police.

CBS Acquires Two TV Cable Firms In Marin

Two Marin cable television firms have been acquired by the Columbia Broadcasting System and the network has begun proceedings to take over a third cable firm which also operates in the county.

CBS announced yesterday it has acquired Clear View Cable Systems Inc. and Marin Cable Television Inc. with a total of 7,500 customers by exchanging 51,510 shares of CBS common stock for all outstanding shares of the companies.

The network also said it has filed a petition with the Securities and Exchange Commission to acquire Tele-Vue Systems Inc., which operates in California (including Marin) and Washington.

The cable firms, which came to Marin several years ago, have been involved in running battles with each other, the cities they serve and the Marin County Board of Supervisors over service, or in many cases, lack of it.

The firms have also warred frequently with Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., blaming the telephone company for lack of progress in getting service to some areas. The telephone company has granted the cable firms use of its poles in parts of Marin.

Homeless In Flood

JAKARTA Indonesia (AP) — About 51,000 persons were homeless after floods hit the low lying areas of Central and East Java, Antara news agency reported today.

Bolinas, Stinson Residents Ask Judicial Change

A group of Bolinas and Stinson Beach residents wants their area to be absorbed into the Northwestern Judicial District court in Point Reyes Station so that they can appear there on misdemeanor and traffic cases instead of going into San Rafael.

County Supervisor Louis H. Baar said he has received several requests from residents who want the justice court to extend its jurisdiction. The requests will be considered by the board of supervisors at its meeting Tuesday at the Civic Center.

The justice court, with Judge David R. Baty presiding, handles misdemeanor cases, such as fishing violations, and minor civil disputes.

Timothy M. Jackson, administrative analyst in the county administrator's office, will oppose any expansion of the court's jurisdiction, recommending that it be consolidated with Marin Municipal Court in San Rafael.

Jackson said the presiding judge of Municipal Court, the State Judicial Council, and the 1965 Marin County Grand jury all recommended this consolidation.

Quality Is the Buy Word

in this 2 bedroom, 1½ bath home! For example, the walls — exterior of resawn redwood, next comes heavy plywood, followed by full insulation; with plywood followed by paneling on the inside! Just 5 years old, this home is built on a choice ½ acre with a view that is truly magnificent. Cozy now, and with just a little imagination the downstairs can be finished into a large bedroom or family room. Another bath is "roughed in" as well! Exclusive. $31,750.

Two Arrested In Theft Try In Larkspur

Larkspur police last night interrupted a burglary attempt and arrested a San Rafael youth who already faces two court appearances on burglary charges next week. San Rafel police later picked up a second youth allegedly involved in the burglary.

Booked into Marin County Jail were Andrew M. Gillespie, 19, of 808 A Street, and Robert Charles Baldi, 19, of 11B Taylor Street, both San Rafael. Gillespie was released on $6,250 and Baldi was held for the same bail. Both were to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. Monday.

Gillespie was arrested by Larkspur officer John Cottle after a chase through a wooded area behind the James Stewart residence at 378 Via La Cumbre, police said. A neighbor had called police when he spotted two persons in and around the house.

Cottle said as he and Officer Gary Orr arrived at the house, Gillespie was leaving the house through a sliding glass door and started running, dropping a strong box as he ran. Baldi, already outside the house, also ran and was picked up by San Rafael police several hours later, they said.

Gillespie already faced court hearing Tuesday and Thursday next week in connection with earlier burglaries in San Rafael and Tiburon.

Baldi has been spending weekends in the County Jail since pleading guilty in February to a charge of burglarizing a San Rafael apartment house last year.

Budget Report Due School Board

A preliminary 1969-70 budget will be presented when the Sausalito School District board meets at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the district office.

The board also will hear reports on plans for another joint Sausalito-Mill Valley summer school.

Closed sessions are scheduled with Supt. Philip W. Schneider and Asst. Supt. Joseph Amato to give them instructions for salary negotiations with teachers and other employees.

Quake Kills One

BELGRADE (AP)—A series of earthquakes struck southern Albania early yesterday, killing one child, injuring 65 persons, and destroying 1,000 buildings, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said today.

Boathouse Cleaning Under Way

A communitywide cleanup of the old Shriver boathouse on Tomales Bay at Inverness was held today in preparation for summer by the Inverness Improvement Association.

The association made plans for the cleanup at a meeting last night, according to Mrs. John C. Wright, secretary.

Mrs. Wright reported the five old round-bottom rowboats stored in the boathouse are still for sale. The boats are being sold to raise money for a community pier.

Mrs. Wright reported Richard Plant will continue as acting president until July when regular elections will be held. Plant was vice president when Allan D. Telford resigned as president last month.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. May 2 at Vladimir's Moravian Restaurant, Inverness.

Police Report Thefts At Homes

Three San Rafael homes have been burglarized, police reported yesterday.

Walter F. Freitas, retired attorney, of 50 Manderly Road, told police that his house was entered and a portable television, tool kit and stereo set valued at $1,250 taken between March 28 and 30 while he was away.

A rifle and tools valued at $123 were taken from the basement of his home at 20 G Street, Donald K. Newburn reported. The burglary occurred between March 20 and 30.

A stereo and two rings valued at $440 were taken from his home between 6:50 a.m. and 5 p.m. yesterday, Earl B. Kofold of 199 Southern Heights Boulevard said.

$4,250 In Watches, Gems Reported Stolen

Two homes and one car have been burglarized in the unincorporated area of Marin, according to sheriff's reports.

The largest burglary was reported by Eric D. Jacobsen of 1 Marin View Avenue, outside Mill Valley. He said that antique watches and jewelry valued at $4,250 were taken from his home between 11:30 a.m. and noon on Tuesday.

Vi Rose Stitz reported she was awakened at 12:30 a.m. Wednesday by someone in her apartment at 10 Milan Court, Strawberry. The man, described as a white male, about 20, five feet 10 inches tall, ran from her apartment. She said she was missing more than $50 in cash from her purse and two pearl rings valued at $275.

A set of golf clubs valued at $500 was taken from his station wagon between 1 and 4 p.m. Tuesday when it was parked at the Indian Valley Golf Club outside Novato, Karl C. Butler of 7620 Beth Court, Rohnert Park, reported.

Bible College Drops Move To Rohnert Park

The proposed move of a Bible college to Rohnert Park is no longer under consideration, according to Dr. Fred R. Brock, president of the Western Baptist Bible College of El Cerrito.

Dr. Brock said the board of trustees had been studying a stie on the west side of Highway 101 where 60 acres had been donated by Fred Rohnert. The president said the trustees had been impressed with the location, but are now considering a site in Salem, Ore., where buildings are already constructed.

Rohnert Park developers Paul Golis and Hugh B. Codding had developed a financial plan for construction of a $3.5 million campus, but Dr. Brock said the trustees were concerned about interest rates and the ability to repay loans.

The four-year accredited college would have brought 500 more students to Rohnert Park, which is home to Sonoma State College.

Stereo, Tape Taken

The Petaluma home of Gerald Williams was burglarized of $715 worth of stereo and tape recording equipment last night, police said. Entry to the home at 1182 Lombardi Street apparently was gained by jimmying a locked rear door, they said.

Faculty To Vote On ROTC Credit

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University's 1,000 faculty members will vote on whether to retain academic credit for military training on campus.

The Academic Council called yesterday for the vote in a meeting attended by about 400 faculty members.

The ballots to be mailed will ask the faculty members to say whether credit should be dropped for Reserve Officers Training Corps classes starting with the 1970 freshman class, or whether the university president should negotiate with the Defense Department to develop ROTC programs "consistent with the academic standards and objectives of the university."

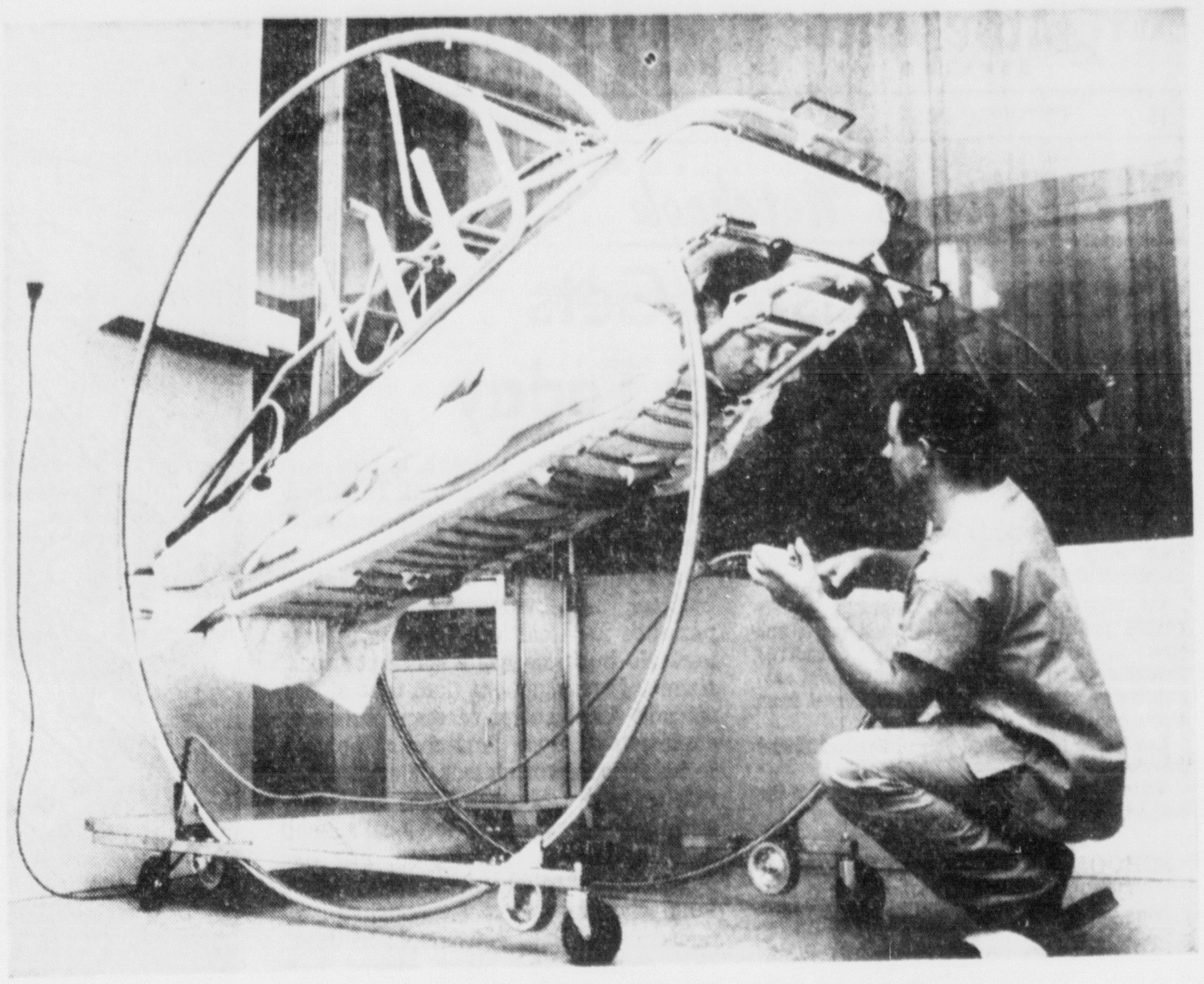
Women Voters To Help Search

The League of Women Voters of Southern Marin last night volunteered its services to the Mill Valley Human Rights Commission in organizing a committee to find available housing in Mill Valley for minority and elderly persons, commission chairman Roger J. Fleischmann has reported.

The commissioners delayed action on endorsing a proposed youth commission pending further information and a statement from students at Tamalpais High School that such a youth commission would meet their needs, Fleischmann said.

Commissioners also recommended that Iniece Bailey be considered to fill an existing vacancy on the commission, created by the resignation last month of Charles P. Guichard.



NEW HOSPITAL TREATMENT

This special hospital bed, able to be electrically revolved to the desired position by seriously injured patients, is in a new $9.5 million clinic recently opened in Ludwigsburg, Germany. The clinic has 25 of the beds, which cost $100,000 each. The clinic is financed by 26 German chemical and agricultural trade associations. (German Features photo)

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Weird Images, Notions Often Grip Mind At Dozing-Off Time

VAN DELLEN

A young executive came to my office a few weeks ago. "On falling asleep, beautiful, colored scenes appear just as though I was looking through a kaleidoscope. My eyes are closed and it is not only disturbing, but frightening. Am I going crazy?"

These are hypnagogic hallucinations that take place in the twilight state of consciousness. The person is not fully awake, nor is he asleep.

The cause is not known, and although the images are more common in persons with narcolepsy, perfectly healthy men and women experience them. The hallucinations are usually visual in nature and often consist of bright, shifting patterns of light.

SOME SLEEP HALLUCINATIONS are unpleasant and terrifying. The individual visualizes a dream when half awake. His head and limbs feel as though they were twice their normal size, or that they were shrinking in size to an inch or two.

Many persons have experienced the feeling of not being able to move the hands or feet during the few moments that precede slumber, or just before awakening. Sleep paralysis is a strange sensation and, like a trance, is dispelled quickly by a noise or when the person is touched. The condition is of emotional origin.

WE ALSO RECEIVE letters from people who develop jerkiness when falling asleep or on awakening. These movements may be confined to one arm or leg, or involve the entire body. The cause is not known, and unless the jerks occur constantly, can be considered normal.

The phenomenon may be related to anxiety or to partial wakefulness as a result of illness or worrying about a sick child or a dating teen-ager who is out after the curfew.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

TIMES OF STRESS

A. C. U. writes: Please tell me why "nerves" would bother a young man at critical times such as getting ready for a job interview.

REPLY

Because at these times, tension mounts and anxiety is likely to occur. This individual may have inherited an overly-active nervous system or perhaps is emotionally immature. Some people are unable to handle everyday problems because their parents never allowed them to grow up and become independent.

LOCAL HERNIA

A. G. writes: Can a hernia in the groin be repaired without a general anesthetic?

REPLY

Yes. Some surgeons use a local anesthetic, whereas others prefer a spinal. In this procedure, the muscles should be relaxed and the medico selects the anesthetic he considers most suitable.

TWO KINDS OF VITAMINS

R. S. writes: Are the natural vitamin products sold in health food stores superior to synthetic vitamins?

REPLY

No. There is no proof that natural vitamins are more beneficial than synthetic preparations. Consequently, one is not superior to the other.

FIBROIDS

Mrs. E. B. writes: Is hysterectomy necessary for fibroids of the uterus?

REPLY

Only if the tumor is large or several exist, causing symptoms such as pressure or bleeding. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on uterine fibroids.

EATS RAW POTATOES

Miss L. writes: Is there any harm in eating raw potatoes? This is the only way I like them.

REPLY

No, although raw starch digests more slowly. Cooking alters the starch but has little effect upon the nutritional elements.

FORMATION OF KELOIDS

S. R. writes: My young son was in an accident that necessitated stitches on his back. After the area healed, the scar developed into a deloid. Will he always heal in this way whenever he needs stitches or gets cut? Could the deloid have been prevented?

REPLY

There is a possibility that if he develops scars elsewhere they will become keloids. We do not know why some people develop these superscars.

EATING APPLE SEEDS

G. R. writes: Is there any danger in eating an entire applie, including seeds?

REPLY

No, provided your intestine can handle the added roughage without complaint. Seeds are not digested, but, because they are small, they seldom cause obstruction.

COOKED, PUREED VEGETABLES

A reader writes: Can a person suffering from ulcerative colitis eat cooked, pureed vegetables?

REPLY

Yes. Cooking and pureeing usually reduce residual bulk to a minimum.

School Trustee Gets The Last Word Today

"Don't argue with a newspaper; you can't win. The newspaper always gets the last word."

So goes an old saying among public officials (not often heard by newspapermen, understandably).

On very rare occasions, however, a concerned public official sets himself down and puts in writing his carefully considered thoughts on an important problem of the day, expressing views constructively different from those expressed.

Leo Souza of the Reed School District Board has done just that.

Today in this space he is going to have the last word.

SCHOOLS NEED CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM AND SUPPORT

"The Independent-Journal, in its recent editorials, has been unduly harsh upon the people responsible for running our schools. Some criticism is undoubtedly warranted; to be constructive, it must be based upon fact and sound logic. This has not always been true.

"For example, on March 20 the Independent-Journal editorial stated: 'In Reed School District, the board of trustees has recognized a teacher negotiating council, yet its demands have not been made public.'

"The board's minutes for Nov. 26, 1968, clearly indicate that the teachers' salary requests for 1969-70 were submitted and received for consideration in a public meeting. The teachers also asked that their request be examined in conjunction with the working budget, which has been done in a public meeting. In addition, the board's attitude toward the recognized negotiating panel has been expressed in a public meeting.

"In an earlier editorial, it was stated that James Atkin, of the Reed board, resigned shortly before the expiration of his term to permit the appointment of a 'quickie incumbent,' presumably to perpetuate the philosophy of the current board. Admittedly, this political maneuver has been tried frequently; however, is your criticism justified in this case?

"According to official minutes, between July 1 and Dec. 1, 1968, Atkin was absent from six out of 17 meetings, or 35 per cent of the time. By the first week in January, following public encouragement by the board, 10 candidates had filed for the vacancy. Prior to his interview, the person selected was unknown to three members of the board and only casually known to the fourth. Due to the number of interested and qualified candidates, the final choice was a difficult one. Two of the candidates who were not selected are now running for the board.

"In your editorial of March 11, entitled 'Schools Blame Voters But Never Themselves,' many salient observations were made. The lack of discipline, the use of marijuana, the unwise allocation of classroom time, and the number of 'consultants,' administrators and experiments are all deserving of valid criticism. The editorial continued: 'They (schools) blame attacks on the schools by right-wing (never, to our recollection, by left-wing) groups.' Yes, we agree that the school system could be improved if the participants represented a balance of political philosophies. I would welcome more persons from the 'right wing' as teachers, administrators and trustees, if they would devote the time and effort and assume the responsibility of any one of these positions. As part of the 'establishment,' they may develop a different perspective of current problems confronting our schools. As outsiders, we all tend to throw rocks too soon!

"No single segment of the community is more fully cognizant of the rising costs of education and the impact upon property taxes than the approximately 120 taxpayers who serve on school boards in Marin County. We have, individually and collectively, pleaded with our legislators in Sacramento for tax reform and a more equitable source of revenue. The cost of education in California is now increasing at the rate of seven per cent per year; the most generous bill introduced in the legislature to date provides for two per cent.The balance will have to be borne by the local taxpayer. The state's contribution toward education, on the average, is now less than 40 per cent of the total. The Reed District, for example, obtains only 20 per cent from the state.

"As your readers are aware, many trustees are businessmen with experience in fiscal and budgetary matters. No business has a more complex financial arrangement than that of the schools. The receipt of many funds is conditioned upon matching local funds, the size of classes, special override taxes, etc. Some of these funds are subject to change after the local school budgets have been adopted. For example, funds to support single session kindergartens were abolished in September, 1968, retroactive to July. Our district, like many others, had employed teachers by written contract in May for this program.

"As businessmen, we can further attest that no organization employing white-collar workers has more employment restrictions than a school district. The position of the tenured teacher, though he may be totally incompetent, is preserved for life. The position of the probationary teacher — one who is employed three years or less — is also protected to a great extent. In actual practice, existing laws for the termination of employment are virtually useless to the school board. I have never seen them applied or enforced.

"This year the 'Winton Act' has become operative. It prescribes that school boards shall in good faith meet and confer with teachers on any subject—not just their salaries and fringe benefits, but on the district's basic policies, educational programs, number of support personnel, school calendar, etc. Will this law result in higher educational costs? An emphatic 'yes'! School boards are already being advised to employ professional labor negotiators. Were the readers of the Independent-Journal made aware of the full effect of this legislation before its passage?

"In nearly 10 years of attempting to serve our schools in various capacities, I have found virtually all trustees, administrators, teachers, and other district personnel to be hard-working, dedicated and solid American citizens. We frequently differ on methods, but we endeavor to achieve the best education possible for our children a the lowest possible cost. As trustees, we have begged for community involvement and support in school matters. While we like to share the blame for our failures, particularly when parents and the legislature are partially to blame, we should, and do, accept the responsiblity for our mistakes.

"In respect to our teachers, they are the backbone of our educational system. Most of them do a commendable job. There is a crying need for more and better teachers — for anyone who wishes to enter the profession and to accept the rigors of supervising and instructing 25 to 30 of our children. The rate of pay has greatly improved from years gone by. If a few teachers are incompetent or misguided, give our school boards the legal tools to cope with the situation.

"Each two years, members of school boards are elected to represent the people of their districts, to formulate policies and to select administrators. We accept our job willingly, knowing the many hours of work it entails. We do not suddenly become 'villains' upon our appointment or election, to function behind a cloak of secrecy or to spend prodigally all of the taxpayers' money. When we request more funds, it is our honest appraisal that more funds are needed to continue or improve the educational program.

"The development of an informed and disciplined youth is one of the greatest social projects confronting our nation. To achieve success will require the cooperation of all segments of our society. The Independent-Journal should be Marin County's catalyst for improved communications, necessary legislation, sound educational standards, and a new system of school finance."

Thank you, Leo Souza.

Turnout Poor To Hear Candidates

On Thursday evening, March 27, my husband and I attended the "candidate night" which was held at Redwood High School. All of the candidates seeking the vacant positions on the Tamalpais Union High School District Board were there.

It was a great disappointment to see so few people at this meeting. There are many parents that have been very concerned over various problems that exist in this school district and yet where were they when they had a chance to put their inquiries to the very people who will be charged with trying to solve these problems?

Since they (these parents and taxpayers) have missed this opportunity, I hope they will avail themselves of all the information that may be published about the various candidates in hopes that we may elect three people who will dedicate themselves to these immediate problems. . . .

But . . . where were the parents, taxpayers, etc. of this TUHS District, when they could ask these people some very pertinent questions?

Series On Drugs Issued As Booklet

I am impressed by your series of articles, printed during March, on use of drugs and drug addiction. Have you considered reprinting these articles and making them available in pamphlet form for those who may have missed the series? I should think the schools would be interested in having such pamphlets for use of teachers and administrators, as well as for dissemination to parents.

LINES ON LIVING

Watchword For Harassed Man: 'Meet Thyself!'

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

There are those who claim that we live in a twilight zone of civilizations. We have left the dreamlike garden of pastoral calm and lowly beasts, but we have not yet come fully to enjoy the tempting fruits of the tree of knowledge and science. We look upon our lost innocence as a primitive condition of nature. Yet, with all our modernity and sophistication, we are still awed by the "flaming sword" and know no peace.

Persons today are too mechanized and too specialized to maintain the integrity and freedom of their personality and life. They are estranged from themselves and hopelessly alienated from the unity which underlies inner peace.

ELEMENTS in our society conspire against the individual, explains Dr. F. A. Weiss, and tend to foster emotional conflict and mental anguish. The individual "resents the dependency, and feels hostility coming up; but his hostility is repressed, not only for reasons of external security, but because it contradicts his ideal self-image of himself as a good, socially-minded citizen. So he swallows his resentment and this swallowing is more important in the causation of gastric ulcers than the swallowing of rough or hard food."

This self-mutilation similarly occurs when people feel compelled to live their lives to please others more than to please themselves and to live by fashion more than by faith; to fit the "pattern" and to become socially acceptable; to be popular at the cost of principle and to gain the coveted status symbol at the price of serenity, the pinnacle of a misguided sense of belonging. For what are some of those glamorized socials and glittering parties if not empty rituals of modern image-worshippers who have lost their souls and are in a mad chase after their own tails in an attempt to recapture their lost identity?

Many of them are tribal games that people play because other people play them who have seen still others play them. They are soul-eclipsing gatherings of shallow nonsense and small non-talk, mentally stifling and emotionally stupefying. And yet the social instinct to conform, the temptation to be part of the crowd prompts countless individuals to indulge excessively in such merry-go-wilds and to "swallow" many rough and indigestible "hors d'oeuvres" with social grace.

FEW PEOPLE have the courage and conviction to react the way the great French writer Balzac did when he felt repulsed after returning home from a long and uneventful party with boring people. He went to his lined book shelves, exclaiming with excitement and relief: "Now for some real people!"

The first among the real people one must meet is the real person in himself. Surely people have a need to be with other people. But, first and foremost must they be with themselves. The desire to be like others, to be popular, to be loved, is normal and worthwhile. But if we can't be good to ourselves, what good are we to others? And if we can't appreciate our own self worth and esteem, can we hope to recognize the individual value of others? In the sage words of the ancient Talmudist Hillel: "If I am not for myself, who is for me And I am only for myself, what am I?"

Imitation, we know, is not our brand, nor conformity. Originality is our destiny, and thus is our identity. And in this mass society and mass identification of ours, the ancient truth of "know thyself!" might better be modified to answer the needs of our time in finding ourselves and our individual identity by heeding the newer motto: "Meet thyself!"

U.S. Debate On China Policy Unrealistic—Like Mao's Dreams

HONG KONG — From the perspective of this nodule attached to the great land mass of China, the continuing debate over China policy in the United States sounds like an exercise in medieval theology.

At this late date it seems self-evident nothing can be done to change that policy.

Nothing, that is to say, until Mao Tse-Tung dies. At 75, he has had one and possibly two strokes.

But even after Mao goes, a considerable time will pass before there is any appreciable change in the hard, resistant policy of the old revolutionary. According to the China watchers, the draft of a constitution is being circulated that names Lin Piao, the minister of defense, as Mao's successor. This will be confirmed during the present ninth party congress. This congress is window-dressing, guaranteeing Mao's grip on the apparatus. Lin is said to be tubercular and in frail health, and while he has been publicly anointed he may find it difficult to consolidate his position once Mao is gone.

THE BIG OBSTACLE to any change in the United States' China policy is Taiwan. Very possibly another hard, resistant old man, Chiang Kai-Shek, will have to pass from the scene before any solution is remotely possible. At 81, Chiang is as fiercely chauvinistic as Mao. The Taiwanese maps, like Peking's maps, color as Chinese Tibet and all the disputed territories.

It has been the fashion in recent years to diagnose the Chinese dragon as disintegrating, falling apart in a sick and dying state.

Sick from a series of disorders, yes; but there is little to support the view that the country is breaking up with the people living on grass.

MAO, WHO HAS never been outside China, has no comprehension of the specialization essential to a technological society in the modern world. He dreams of a society created in the image of the long march, a populist revolution, unto each according to his need. And, while he tries to enforce an egaliatarian society, the professors, scientists, and bureaucrats live in fear that their turn will come next for shipment to the countryside. Production drops as do exports, so important for earning hard currency.

It is the extreme instance of the political plague bedeviling almost every Asian nation with the overthrow of colonialism. As the dogmatists and the doctrinaires quarrel on the brink of civil war, fundamental problems of organization and production go unsolved. The backdrop is the specter of hunger that appears certain in the early '70s to stalk virtually all of Asia.

SO LONG as in most nations the population explosion is unchecked this is inevitable. China has made sporadic attempts at birth control, with the emphasis on enforcing late marriages and threatening families with more than three children with a reduction in social allowances. The birth-control program along with just about everything else was disrupted by the revolution that Mao initiated in 1966.

Whether development and a somewhat higher living standard must precede any meaningful attempt to damp down population growth is widely debate in this part of the world. Without health centers and trained personnel contraception by modern techniques is nat practicable, to say nothing of abortion.

Untrained, unskilled, illiterate masses with a small, disgruntled, half-educated class at the top are susceptible to every political plague going. They make up the shouting, screaming mobs burning and murdering in Pakistan. They are the Red Guards unleashed to destroy and disrupt. This may be merely a high fever, a reaction to the long suppression of the colonial past. But, if this is so, there are few signs that it has run its course.

Chart Explosion At Pentagon Menaces Senators' Parity

WASHINGTON — Whenever the Defense Department has to convince our lawmakers that the vital interests of the United States are in danger, they resort to elaborate displays of charts. The development, stockpiling and delivery of charts is one of the most critical activities the Pentagon is involved in.

Through a close friend in the Pentagon, I was permitted to visit a top-secret Defense Department chart testing center where all charts are tested before they are sent up to Capitol Hill.

THE GENERAL in charge of the center said, "We've been working day and night on charts for the ABM congressional hearings. It's probably the biggest job we've had, but ine misfired chart, and the whole system could go up in smoke."

"Is this why the center is located so far from population centers?"

"Exactly. We don't want the taxpayers to know what we're doing. Also we have to watch security. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has built a chart system of its own. We believe our charts are still more reliable than theirs, but we have to be ready with a second-strike capability in case they launch a damaging first-strike chart offensive."

"HOW DID the charts the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee unveiled at the ABM hearings last week differ from yours?"

The general smiled. "They were very primitive — what we ccould call 'first generation' charts. You probably noticed their charts were so large that Senator Gore was unable to reach the top of them with his pointer. Now, we've been in the chart business a lot longer than the Senate, so we've managed to take advantage of the great strides in miniaturization, and our smaller charts can be launched from any easel with the same impact as their large ones. We can launch four charts to their one; or, of you want to put it another way, one Pentagon chart represents an overkill of 13 Senate charts."

"What are those men doing over there?"

"They're training for chart turning."

"I beg your pardon?"

"THE MILITARY has its own chart turners, who have to know when to turn a chart to the exact second. If you turn a chart too early, you lose the impact of it, and if you turn it too late, your audience could get bored."

"It must require a great deal of skill," I said.

"All of our chart turners have been to the National War College and have been personally interviewed by Admiral Rickover. If you recall, a few weeks ago when Senator Gore's subcommittee produced its charts against the ABM system, they had to press their chief counsel and his assistant into service as chart turners. It was a disaster."

"WHAT IS THAT building over there with the machine guns on it and all the MPs around it?"

That's where we're developing a new top-secret automatic chart-turning machine. Once it is deployed, no Senate committee will dare to attack a Defense Department budget."

"But won't this spiral the chart race and force the subcommittee to develop its own automatic chart turner?"

The general said, "When the security of the Pentagon is at stake, we are not interested in chart parity."

Peru Latest White House Worry

By ARY MOLEON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The recent wave of military coups in Latin America has finally hit the White House.

The return to military rule in most of Latin America is focused today in an eleventh-hour effort to defuse a dangerous crisis with Peru.

But the turbulence unleashed by 16 military takeovers since the Alliance for Progress was founded could hit the Nixon administration with tidal force.

If the Peruvian junta does not take what the U. S. considers to be "appropriate steps" toward compensating the International Petroleum Corp. For properties it expropriated last fall, Nixon is required by U. S. law to cut off most U. S. aid to Peru.

President Nixon has said it might have a "domino effect" all over Latin America.

There is a strong undercurrent of Nasser-type officers in the Latin military establishment.

Nine of the 19 Alliance's Latin member countries are now ruled by the military. There was only one military government when President Kennedy launched the program to accelerate economic progress within a democratic framework.

The progress has not been impressive. For every billion dollars the United States has furnished to the Alliance, 20 million Latin Americans have lost the right to self-determination. Today three out of every four Latin Americans live under military rule.

Total Latin American military expenditures in 1965 were $1.5 billion, 50 per cent in excess of what the United States was committed to appropriate that year in economic aid to the area.

Sometimes the Latin military are more concerned with arms purchases than in achieving social goals. The Latin American military establishment takes 2.4 per cent of the area's gross national product.

Why the huge arms expenditures? The Latin soldier loves to toy with them.

Argentina has just escalated the Latin arms race by announcing the purchase of three destroyers and two submarines.

Brazil, Chile and Peru are likely to follow suit, raising the prospect of another arms race similar to the one touched off three years ago when Argentina bought 50 jet bombers.

Pentagon experts said the Argentine ship purchases have "little military significance" and that they serve merely for "reasons of prestige."

Despite the continuing search for military advantage, the possibilities that weapons will be used against other Latin American nations are considered remote.

War in the Western Hemisphere is seen as a political absurdity and a military impossibility.

According to existing treaties, any country which launches an attack against another member of the hemispheric alliance would automatically be considered at war with the rest of the treaty nations, including the United States.

Pentagon experts say the real threat facing Latin American nations comes from within.

Arms purchases, they say, should correspond to the needs created by indigenous insurrections.

At the Latin American summit conference at Punta Del Este in 1967, a resolution was passed to "limit military purchases to the levels required by demands of national security."

Nonetheless, efforts made at a preparatory conference to define unnecessary military spending ended without agreement.

The Argentine plan to build up its fleet with the purchase of two submarines involves supply by West Germany of the parts, which will be assembled in Argentina itself.

It is also reported that conversations on arms purchases are going on between Argentina and Great Britain.

The purchase from West Germany would raise to four the number of Argentine submarines — the same number now owned by Brazil. Brazil has dispatched officials to Great Britain to study the financing of possible purchases.

Chile, which is in dispute with Argentina over islands at South America's southern tip, possibly would join the arms race, increasing its submarine fleet, which now numbers two.

Eventual action by Chile could cause repercussion in Peru, owner of four submarines.

Moreover, Venezuela, citing its need to patrol its offshore waters because of the threat from Cuba, also might join the race.

A similar situation was produced in 1965 when Argentina purchased "Skyhawk" bombers from the United States. Chile followed this with the purchase of 21 British Hawker Hunter planes, and Venezuela reacted by buying up 72 West German Sabre jets.

Peru, in turn, went to France to purchase a dozen Mirage 5 jets, and then Brazil entered negotiations for the purchase of a jet, also from France.

When the Peruvian junta took over the $135 million IPC complex, it flew a French-made Mirage over the refinery and oil fields.

Experts are now waiting for the response of other countries to the Argentine purchase from Great Britain of Sea Cat rockets for its navy.

The U. S., recognizing the limited possibilities of a conventional attack against any Latin American nation, has tried to discourage the purchase of military equipment more sophisticated than needs require.

Efforts to this end failed earlier this year when the Inter-American Committee on the Alliance for Progress showed little interest in including the arms question in its annual economic review of member nations.

Sol Linowitz, U. S. ambassador to the OAS, suggested other forums were being looked into for possible discussion of the problem, perhaps the OAS itself.

Mystery Riot Pamphlet Appears On Campuses

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "If you can't kill them, harass them."

HOW TO MAIM

It tells how a campus rioter can disable and maim police, police horses, photographers and even innocent onlookers during school disorders.

Frank L. Rizzo, city police commissioner, says the anonymously written six-page pamphlet, called "Your Manual," was distributed to 25 members of Students for a Democratic Society on the 18,000-student body campus of the University of Pennsylvania.

Along with copies went orders to circulate them widely, Rizzo said. A spokesman for SDS denied the organization has any connection with the booklet.

MYSTERY SOURCE

The booklet lists its publisher as the "3R News Service, Inc., San Francisco." No such firm is listed in the San Francisco telephone directory, however similar pamphlets with the firm also listed as publisher have appeared on the campus of San Francisco State College.

On the effectiveness of hurling rocks and bottles, the manual reads: "An empty bottle or rock can disable a pig (policemen) for the whole campaign."

It prompts agitators to throw first at police cameramen to eliminate pictures of ensuing clashes.

FIRST VOLUME

The manual, Vol. 1, No. 1, gives other details on possible weapons and how to use them.

"If we are to free ourselves, we must out of necessity, strike at them as violently as they have struck at us," a preface says.

"It's terrible and outrageous," said Rizzo.

He said no attempt is being made to confiscate copies, but added he is taking steps to see whether any violation of city statute is involved in circulation.

A spokesman for the University of Pennsylvania said the pamphlet would not be banned because this would not "effectively curtail its distribution."

The initial issue promises in subsequent editions to highlight a revolutionary leader of the month, publish an assassination list, detail how to make napalm bombs and print a primer on riot logistics.

DOOMSDAY THIS MONTH?

Quake Jitters Shake State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Is California in danger of being shaken into the ocean by a quake this month?

With the month almost here, that is the question with which thousands of anxious residents are besieging geologists and government researchers.

The answer they get is that there is no scientific or other justification for such a rumor.

"The best we can tell them is that there is no scientific basis for a prediction of a major earthquake in April," according to L. C. Pakiser, chief of earthquake research for the U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park.

Pakiser and his colleagues have been flooded with inquiries since someone started the idea circulating that the state's days were numbered since April arrived.

"We try to calm them down and explain rationally what the chances are," the scientist said, "but unfortunately, there's no such thing as an absolute anti-earthquake guarantee."

RUMOR'S SOURCE

The doomsday speculation apparently began about a year ago when Rev. Donald Abernathy "saw a vision that a giant earthquake will destroy California and swallow the entire state up into the ocean."

"God told me He is going to punish California for its sins, especially Hollywood and Beverly Hills where the movie stars live," said Reverend Abernathy of the First Apostolic Church of Bell Gardens. He led about 200 members of his congregation to the "safety" of Atlanta, Ga., which subsequently was the victim of a disquieting temblor.

A San Francisco seeress, Mrs. Elizabeth Steen, 29, had a vision of a quake occurring during April, 1969. Mrs. Steen, her husband and two children fled to Spokane, Wash., in December after "I just went over the map with my hand and got good vibrations there."

DISQUIETING SONG

In recent weeks, predictions of doom have increased, thanks partly to a popular song which, to a calypso beat, proclaims:

"Where will we go when there is no San Francisco? Guess we better get ready to tie up the boat in Idaho.

"Every day all people come to L. A. Sssh. Don't you tell them de whole place shakin' away."

In addition, talk of doom keeps coming up on radio and television talk shows along with references to strange astrological charts. The day most frequently mentioned is April 14, a Monday.

Says Dr. Charles Richter, developer of the Richter scale for measuring earthquake magnitude and one of the world's foremost experts:

SPURIOUS DATES

"A few years ago, in 1965 to be exact, we received spurious earthquake predictions for Jan. 17, Feb. 4, March 17, April 1, April 16, all of May, May 30 and for the Imperial Valley sometime in June or July. But it was a normal year—none came true."

"If you look at the record," Dr. James N. Brune says, "those people have been predicting major disasters for years and they've consistently been wrong. There is no way yet to predict earthquakes although seismologists are seeking ways to accurately estimate and reduce earthquake hazards."

NOT IMPOSSIBLE

While scientists can discount the probability of an earthquake, they do not deny the possibility.

"There is a great deal of restrained energy stored up along some of the major faults," Menlo Park's Pakiser says, "and it could slip at any time.

"Earthquakes are, after all, normal occurrences in this part of the state."

Actually, some 200-300 tremors—too small to be felt by man—are recorded every month in the San Francisco area alone.

"During 1968, we recorded about 2,000 earthquakes from San Francisco to Monterey," Pakiser said, "but all but six were below the level where they would be noticed by human beings."

Scientists point out that California's San Andreas Fault, a huge, 600-mile-long fracture in the earth's crust, has been slipping for as long as 100 million years. In that time, total displacement along the fault may be as much as 350 miles. Current estimates are that Los Angeles actually is moving toward San Francisco at the rate of one to two inches a year.

The fault extends about 20 miles into the earth, and scientists say, at a depth of about six miles the temperature on the east side is about 200 degrees warmer than on the west side because of friction brought about by the slippage.

JOLT OF 1906

The San Francisco earthquake of April 18, 1906, originated along the San Andreas Fault and was one of the 10 worst ever recorded.

The temblor, which registered a magnitude of 8.3, left 452 persons dead in the rubble from the quake and the ashes of the uncontrollable fire that followed. The shock waves leveled 460 city blocks and left more than 100,000 homeless.

This Week In The World

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The funeral of Dwight D. Eisenhower occupied a large place this week in the hearts of America and the world.

The valiant heart of the fivestar general and former president gave up the long fight last Friday. After a state funeral Monday in the Washington Cathedral, the body was taken by train to Abilene, Kan., to be laid to rest in Eisenhower's boyhood home.

"He once said 'I come from the heart of America,' and so it is to the heart of America that General Eisenhower returns today," a minister said at the final services in the Kansas City.

Dozens of foreign leaders came to Washington for the state funeral, and thousands of persons filed past the casket while Eisenhower lay in state beneath the Capitol Rotunda.

Some of the mourners had served under Eisenhower's command in Europe or the Mediterranean during World War II, and others had been members of his presidential administration.

There were many, though, who had never had any direct contact with the general, who knew him only as (in President Nixon's words) "this good and kind and gentle man who made us proud to be Americans."

Around The World; Around The Clock:

Saigon — Army authorities announced that 312 Americans were killed in Vietnam last week, making the conflict there the third most costly in terms of human life in U. S. history. The total announced death toll now stands at 33,641—12 more Americans than were killed in Korea.

Chicago—Violence erupted in negro neighborhoods on the eve of the first anniversary of the Martin Luther King assassination. Seven thousand national guardsmen had to be called out to restore order.

Prague — Russia tightened the screws on Czechoslovakia this week, forcing local Communists to tighten press censorship and to threaten party members with disciplinary action because of an outbreak of anti-Soviet violence inspired by a Czech victory over Russia's world-champion hockey team. Communist leader Alexander Dubcek warned his people in a national telecast that further demonstrations could trigger sterner Russian repression.

Civic Center Spreads Its Wings

The multimillion-dollar Marin County Civic Center stretches its length over the rolling hills north of San Rafael. The first section of the Frank Lloyd Wright building is at right, housing many county administrative offices, the library in the domed center, and the board of supervisors chambers. The new Hall of Justice wing (left) will house courts, county jail, sheriff's department and other offices and is expected to be completed this spring. Out of the photo at left is the 800-seat Veterans Memorial Auditorium, under construction and planned for use for conventions, exhibitors and dances. It is scheduled for completion at the end of the year. Above the new wing in the photo is the baseball field near the National Guard armory. Top left is Santa Venetia Middle School. Blessed Sacrament School is at top center-right, also in the community of Santa Venetia. Highway 101 runs across the bottom of the photo and North San Pedro Road extends diagonally from the right, disappearing in wooded hills at the top of the photo. The Civic Center lagoon shows just above left end of new wing.

NANCY

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, April 5, the 95th day of 1969 with 270 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Mars. The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1792 President George Washington set a precedent by vetoing a bill for the apportionment of representation.

In 1951 Julius and Ethel Rosenberg of New York City were sentenced to death as "atom spies."

In 1964 Gen. Douglas MacArthur died at the age of 84.

In 1968 major American cities were hit by violent riots in the aftermath of the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr.

A thought for the day: Lord Byron said, "Fame is the thirst of youth."

Space Exploration Is Costly Venture

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UPI) —The nation's $5 billion annual investment in space exploration represents only one-sixth of one per cent of the U.S. gross national product, according to Daniel Fink, general manager of General Electric's Space Systems organization.

In contrast, Adm. Richard E. Byrd's funds raised to finance his 1928 expedition to the South Pole totaled $800,000. Fink also cites figures showing that U.S. smokers in 1968 spent almost twice the $5 billion space budget amount for cigarettes.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Forget About The Old Slogans For The Best Possible Defense

When you know that an opponent can surely win two tricks in your long suit, you may still need to decide which two tricks he wins. Make your decision logically instead of merely following an old slogan, such as "third hand high."

OPENS SPADE

West opened the 10 of spades, and East put up the queen without the slightest thought. After all, don't all the textbooks tell you to play third hand high?

South shrewdly refused the first trick, and now he couldn't be beaten. East returned a low spade, and South won with the jack. Now South led diamonds, since he needed one diamond trick for his contract.

If West took the king of diamonds, he could not lead another spade. If East won the first diamond, he could set up the spades but could never regain the lead to cash them.

PLAYS LOW

East should defeat the contract by playing the nine of spades at the first trick. This forces South to win the first trick with the jack.

When South leads diamonds, as he must, West steps up with the king of diamonds in order to lead his remaining spade. East sets up his long suit and gets in with the ace of diamonds in time to defeat the contract with the rest of his spades.

TRICK MARKED

East's duck at the first trick is marked. West would open a low spade rather than the 10 if he held 10-x-x. If West has only 10-x of spades, South must hold A-J-x and is sure to win two spade tricks sooner or later. East must therefore force South to win the first spade trick in order to leave a spade in the West hand.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ A J 4
♥ K Q J
♦ 7 5 3 2
♣ K J 5

What do you say?

Answer: Bid 4 no-trump. This does not ask partner to show his aces. Instead, you invite partner to bid a slam if he has 18 points but to pass if he has 16 points. If he has the middle value of 17 points, he may use his judgment. You promise 15 or 16 points with a suit of any real merit for your jump to 4 no-trump.

281 Billion Cups

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (UPI)— The Coralville Reservoir in Iowa is the state's second largest body of water. Someone in the Army Corps of Engineers office here figured out that during the summer months the reservoir holds enough water to make almost 281 billion cups of coffee.

Special Rites For Easter

Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, Fifth Avenue and H Street.

Churches in the Marinwood, Terra Linda and Lucas Valley will gather for an ecumenical sunrise service at 5:30 a.m. at Terra Linda Hill behind the Aldersgate Methodist Church.

And atop Mount Tamalpais a 5 a.m. non-denominational service will be held in the mountain theater.

The rite, a "celebration of life," will feature 20 high school and college dancers, who will perform a three-part interpretation of the Easter theme — life, death and resurrection. It is under direction of Reg Wood, a drama student at College of Marin. Music will be furnished by the Burning Bush. Officiating will be Rev. Charles G. Robertson Jr., Protestant chaplain at the Newman Center, located adjacent to the College of Marin.

Also on schedule is a youth ecumenical service at 6 a.m. on a hilltop across from the San Geronimo Valley Golf Course and the San Geronimo Valley Community Church.

The contemporary service will include a dialogue between Rev. John O'Connor of St. Isabella's Catholic Church and Rev. Willard Frederickson of the San Geronimo Presbyterian Community Church.

Also included will be folk music and a "soul" offering.

SEMINAR LEADERS—The First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael will present two post-Easter seminars beginning Monday at 8 p.m. Dr. Neill Q. Hamilton (left) and Dr. Edward V. Stein of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo will conduct the five-part programs which will be on Mondays through May 12.

Peninsula Singer To Give Sacred Concert Tomorrow

Russell J. Marshall, minister of music at Redwood City's Peninsula Covenant Church, will present a program of sacred music at 4 p.m. tomorrow at the First Baptist Church of San Rafael.

Formerly of Seattle, where he had his own radio program, Marshall is well-known in operatic circles. He has been a regional finalist in the New York Metropolitan Opera auditions and is presently being considered for a Merola Scholarship by the San Francisco Opera Company.

He has appeared in numerous sacred concerts on the West Coast as well as appearing with the Bach Societies of Victoria, Seattle and San Francisco. He has also been guest soloist with the Vancouver and San Leandro Symphonies.

The service is open to the public. The church is located at 1411 Lincoln Avenue.

THE LENTEN SEASON

Local Greek Orthodox Church Sets Services

The recently organized Greek Orthodox Church of Marin will observe its first Holy Week with services starting tomorrow.

The Lenten schedule, according to Rev. John Bersetes, pastor, will culminate with an outdoor service on Eastern Orthodox Sunday next week to be followed by a traditional picnic, a glendi.

Due to church events celebrated according to the Georgian calendar, which is 13 days behind the Julian calendar used by the Western Christian church, Easter falls on the same Sunday only once every four years.

All services will be held in the Montgomery Chapel on the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo which is home for the church unit until it can build its own sanctuary.

Tomorrow, Palm Sunday, services will be at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Monday through Friday evening services will be held at 7:30 p.m. and Holy Saturday's schedule will include a divine liturgy and memorial for the repose of the departed at 10 a.m. and the traditional midnight rites, beginning at 11 p.m.

The agape (service of love) will be held next Sunday at 12 noon at the Sequeira Ranch in Novato. It will be followed by the glendi which will feature a Greek dinner and dancing, kicking off the building fund for the 200-member congregation.

In charge of the glendi are Gus Stathis of Terra Linda; Spiros Halikas of Novato and John Pappadopoulos of Greenbrae.

Presiding at all the services will be Rev. John Bersetes, who has served in the Greek Orthodox priesthood for 40 years. Prior to moving to Marin he served churches in Bakersfield and Pittsburg.

Ecumenical Song Fest Next Sunday

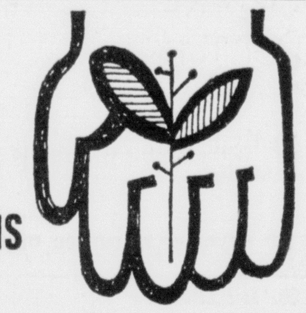
"Come Alive — Sing!", an ecumenical hymn festival, will be held next Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Sponsored by the San Francisco Theological Seminary, it will feature St. Anselm's Roman Catholic guitar choir, the seminary's choir and that of the San Anselmo Presbyterian church.

The program will be under direction of Dr. Austin C. Lovelace, minister of music at the Montview Boulevard Presbyterian Church in Denver.

According to Wilbur F. Russell, associate professor of church music at the seminary, emphasis will be on congregational singing.

WHAT EASTER MEANS



"He is not here; he is risen!" The empty tomb is what Easter is all about. It means victory over death—his and yours. Easter tells us there is more to this life than what appears.

Life's struggles all seem to end with the tombstone. They don't seem worth the trouble. But if the grave is not the end of it, a new perspective is created. Death is not just defeat; it is a doorway to an unknown, perhaps fearsome future.

Easter is to show us a guide for the trip through that doorway. Jesus has been there before. Commitment of our future to him also gives new meaning, new purpose, new tasks for the present. That's what our Church is all about. We invite you to come and share in this meaningful life with us.

WE WELCOME YOU

Managers Express High Hopes As '69 Openers Near

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are no more optimistic people in spring than baseball's managers. Every year they prove it just before the season opens.

Here is this year's proof—the pennant predictions and hopes of the 24 major league managers:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Red Schoendienst, St. Louis Cardinals—Our club added a lot when we got Vada Pinson. He can do everything. And Joe Torre gives us protection behind the plate. Dave Giusti should help our pitching. But we could be hurting in relief.

One of our biggest problems is not having a bench man who can motor. I mean a man who can pinch-run well. All in all, I like our pennant chances.

Clyde King, San Francisco Giants—I'm not predicting we will win the pennant but I know we are capable of winning it all. Besides, we've got a winning attitude. This is a happy club.

Walter Alston, Los Angeles Dodgers — Basically, three factors make us strong. First, our pitching looks pretty solid. Maybe we could use some relief help. Second, our youngsters—Willie Crawford, Bill Russell, Ted Sizemore and Bill Sudakis—have had good spring training seasons although they haven't actually proven themselves yet. Third, Ron Fairly and Jim Lefebvre have looked the best in years.

Dave Bristol, Cincinnati Reds—This is now my type of team. We can score runs. We've proved that. If our pitchers can stay healthy we should be able to have a good shot at winning the Western Division.

Leo Durocher, Chicago Cubs—I don't believe in pennant predictions. I predicted once. I said my club wasn't an eighth-place club. It wasn't. We finished 10th.

Preston Gomez, San Diego Padres—We went for young kids in the expansion draft because we think that's the only way we can build for the future. Our kids will lose us a lot of ball games this year but they'll be learning.

Larry Shepard, Pittsburgh Pirates—Things are much better than last spring in spite of the late arrival and the disappointing weather. There have been several bright spots and we haven't had thei njuries that we had this time last year. Our young players look good.

Luman Harris, Atlanta Braves—I think we can win the pennant. I think we've got as good a chance as anybody. I don't see why we can't get off to a fast start.

Our bench will help us more than it did last year and that's going to be a big factor. For instance, we've got Tito Francona, Tommie Aaron and Bob Aspromonte and all of them can handle first base and the outfield.

Harry Walker, Houston Astros—I believe our club is better than any we have brought back previously from training camp. We acquired a fine catcher in John Edwards and a live wire in Curt Blefary at first. The trade controversy has put Jesus Alou under a strain but his attitude has been tremendous. Joe Morgan is back and his leg apparently is in good shape.

Gene Mauch, Montreal Expos—I think we can hold our own with any team in our division except maybe the Cardinals and the Cubs. We won't beat ourselves. In fact we are, in my opinion, the strongest expansion club in baseball history.

Bob Skinner, Philadelphia Phillies—The Phillies could be a surprise team this season.

Richie Allen now is our first baseman and with Deron Johnson at third we will have as much power on the corners as any team in the majors.

Warriors Face Do-Or-Die Situation Tonight

Lakers Can Wrap Up Title In S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Warriors have their backs against the wall tonight when they meet the Lakers in the sixth game of the NBA's Western Division playoffs with Los Angeles holding a 3-2 advantage over San Francisco in the best of seven series.

Tonight's game at the Cow Palace will start at 8 o'clock.

The Lakers scored their third straight win last night on the Los Angeles home court, 103-98 after the Warriors spurted in the second half to close the gap to two points with 10 seconds left.

But then little John Egan sank three clutch free throws to give the Lakers the victory.

Los Angeles appeared to be running away with the game in the first half as the Lakers piled up a 20-point advantage only to dissipate it in the second half when their star, Jerry West, fouled out with 4:43 left to play.

'PLAYED BADLY'

"We played badly in the second period and that's what cost us," said Warriors coach George Lee. "You can't spot a team like the Lakers 20 points and expect to win."

Lee pointed out that the Lakers won the game at the free throw line as his club at one point went 32 minutes and had only two free throw chances. The Warriors made only 18 of 30 free throws.

Coach Bill van Breda Kolff of the Lakers said his team "just stopped" in the fourth period and gave the Warriors a chance to catch up.

"We have to keep moving and penetrate and we weren't," he said. "Wilt Chamberlain played a fantastic game, especially in the first half."

MULLINS LIMITED

Lee said the Warriors had hoped that Jeff Mullins, star of San Francisco's first two wins in the series, would be over a leg injury but he saw only limited action and did not score last night.

Even with 10 seconds remaining, the Warriors still had a chance but Rudy LaRusso made a wild pass out of bounds and removed whatever hopes San Francisco had of tieing up the game.

West was the game's high scorer with 29 points, most of them in the big Laker first half.

It was Bill Turner who fouled Egan with 10 seconds remaining and the 6-footer sank both of his shots. Seven seconds later, when the Warriors fouled him intentionally, he sank his third clutch free throw.

Joe Ellis led the Warriors with 23 points followed by Nate Thurmond with 18 and LaRusso with 17 while Mel Counts had 17 for Lakers.

Cha Cha Cepeda May Spark Atlanta To Division Title

Manager Lum Harris of the Atlanta Braves expects big things from Orlando Cepeda this season. Harris expects Cha Cha to correct a deficiency that existed last season in Brave hitting.

Felipe Alou and Hank Aaron provided the only dependable Brave bats last year, Alou hitting .317 and Aaron .287. But they couldn't carry the entire Brave offense, particularly when pitchers pitched around Aaron's dangerous bat.

"Now," said Harris, "we have Cepeda's bat behind Aaron. They (opposition pitchers) are going to think twice before pitching around Aaron this year. Cepeda gives us another home run bat."

Harris believes Cepeda's bat will give the Braves a good shot at the National League's Western Division title. Cepeda did put the necessary muscle into the 1967 pennant drive of the St. Louis Cardinals after the Giants traded him for Ray Sadecki.

He Kept 'El Birdos' Relaxed

Furthermore, Cepeda, a buoyant character with a sunshine smile when he is happy, gave the Cardinals a light-hearted confident attitude that kept them relaxed not only in 1967 but again in 1968 when they won the pennant in a walkaway.

Cepeda was the cheer leader of the Cardinals for two seasons. He dubbed them El Birdos. Nobody minded that El Birdos didn't fit grammatical rules. The title sure fit the carefree Cardinals on their way to back-to-back pennants. Los Birdos somehow never would have caught the fancy of the Cardinals or their loyal fans in the manner El Birdos did.

Last season Cepeda hit a most disappointing .248 after his big .325 that won him Most Valuable Player honors in 1967. However, Cepeda kept his tape-recorder going full blast in the Cardinal clubhouse in 1968 and continued to cheer everybody on despite a somewhat heavy heart.

Torre Trade Shocked Cepeda

When he learned that he had been traded last month to the Braves for Joe Torre, Cepeda was shocked. There was no secret that Torre wanted to be traded. He and Paul Richards, general manager of the Braves, engaged in some sharp exchanges during the winter.

But Cepeda was happy with the Cardinals, as happy as he had been with the Giants at the outset of his major league career 12 years ago when he won Rookie of the Year honors in 1958.

Was it because of Cepeda's discouraging .248 average last season that the Cardinals traded him? Joe Schultz, former Cardinal coach who is manager this season of the Pilots, Seattle's American League expansion team, doesn't think so.

This spring in Arizona, where the Giants and Pilots met in Cactus League exhibition games, Schultz pointed out that Cepeda didn't report until eight days after agreeing to contract terms.

"You just don't do things like that in the Cardinal organization," said Schultz.

Surprise For Marr: He Leads

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—When Dave Marr heard someone say that his 8-under-par 134 for the second-round lead in the Greater Greensboro Open (GGO) golf tournament was surprising, he laughed and said, "It surprised me too."

"Until today I've been playing so badly I haven't had anything you could call my best finish in a tournament this year," the 35-year-old Marr said yesterday after carding an eagle and four birdies against one bogey for the 5-under 66 that vaulted him into a two-stroke lead in the $160,000 GGO. He shot a 68 Thursday.

LITTLER SLIPS

Leading money winner Gene Littler and Gordon Jones of Windemere, Fla., two of the first-round leaders with 5-under 66 scores, each carded a 70 to tie with Rod Funseth of San Jose, who had a 69, at 136.

South African Gary Player, 26-year-old Alameda County Open winner Dick Lotz, Bruce Crampton, Deane Beman, Art Wall and Chi Chi Rodriquez were another stroke back at 5-under 137 after 36 holes.

Marr credited his improved game to cousin Jack Burke Jr., a famous golfing figure himself who won the Masters and the PGA in 1956.

Burke himself was 76-71—147 after two rounds and failed to survive the cut. Seventy-six players scored one-over-par 143 or lower to survive the cut.

Sadecki, McCormick Battle For Fourth Starting Post

Bolin Clinches No. 3 Role; S.F. Set For Opener

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bobby Bolin has the No. 3 spot all but locked up on the San Francisco Giants pitching staff.

Bolin won his spot in the starting rotation off excellent spring performances and moves in behind Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry.

The Giants meet the New York Yankees in exhibition games today and tomorrow before opening the 1969 National League season against the Braves in Atlanta Monday night.

VETERAN LEFTIES

By then, manager Clyde King will have made up his mind who has the No. 4 starting job. The competition for that job is between veteran lefthanders Ray Sadecki, Mike McCormick and rookie Rich Robertson. Since Marichal, Perry and Bolin all are righthanders the job should go to either Sadecki or McCormick.

"I'll make up my mind after the two games with the Yankees," said King.

The club otherwise seems all set for its Monday opener now that Bobby Etheridge apparently has won the third base job and left fielder Jim Ray Hart seems to have gotten over a groin injury.

SANTA CRUZ TOURNEY

Marin Catholic Loses In 4-3 Heart-Breaker

Marin Catholic High School's baseball team lost a heartbreaker at the Soquel Invitational Tournament yesterday, bowing to Soquel, 4-3, in a nine-inning semifinal action at Santa Cruz.

The Wildcats of Kentfield were set to play for third place and Redwood of Larkspur would have gone for the consolation title today but rain washed out the remainder of the action. The rest of tournament has been postponed to an unannounced date.

The Wildcats got off to a 2-0 lead against Soquel, scoring on a double by Rick Denning, an out, a passed ball and a mighty 390-foot homer by Bill Wilson.

Soquel got two in the third on a two-run pickoff error and went ahead on a sacrfifce with the bases loaded in the third. Marin Catholic tied it in the sixth on a double by Roger Offenbach and a single by Rick Fox to force the game into extra innings.

The game-winner came in the ninth inning, Soquel scoring on a botched rundown play.

Braves May Lose Carty For Opener

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Braves may have lost the services of veteran outfielder Rick Carty for Monday's season-opening game with San Francisco.

Carty suffered a dislocated shoulder last night while warming up for an exhibition game with Richmond, the Braves' International League farm club.

Trainer Dave Pursley put the shoulder back in place and said the injury was minor although Carty may miss Monday's opener.

Hecklers Infuriate Sifford

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Negro professional Charlie Sifford indicates he may never play in the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament again after the heckling he received during the tournament's second round yesterday.

"This used to be a damn good tournament," said Sifford, formerly of Charlotte, N.C., but now of Los Angeles. "But it isn't worth a damn anymore."

His remarks came after four spectators were ushered from the Sedgefield Country Club course for allegedly heckling golfers. Sifford was the target of most of the abuse, club officials said.

"When Charlie was putting, after the stroke, some members of the gallery were yelling 'Miss it nigger,'" said George Walsh, member of the Professional Golfers' Association field staff.

MISSES CUTOFF

Sifford finished with an even-par 71 for a 145 total, which failed to make the 36-hole cutoff.

Shortly after the incident, tournament officials issued a prepared statement in which they apologized to Sifford.

"Charlie Sifford has always been a favorite of Greensboro golf fans," the statement said. "Indeed a warm relationship has developed between Mr. Sifford and the GGO."

Pro Al Geiberger said the fans were saying some "pretty nasty things," but that he didn't believe the insults were racial.

Seals Battle Kings' Home Edge Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings closed their second regular season in the National Hockey League without a victory in their last six games and weren't particularly thrilled to begin the Stanley Cup playoffs right then.

Tonight when the Kings take on the Oakland Seals in the third game of their best-of-seven set, things couldn't look rosier.

Ted Irvine scored the fastest sudden death overtime goal in the league's history as the Kings won the first game of the series. Oakland won the second, 4-2, but tonight the Kings are home enjoying a home-ice advantage.

And it's a good thing the Kings are at home: Their road record during the year was a horrendous 5-27-5. The home record was 19-15-5.

But you can forget the regular season, says Coach Red Kelly of the Kings.

"You have to convince the players that it's a new season and they can atone for a lot of things just by winning in the playoffs," said Kelly.

The defeat Thursday to the Seals was a disappointment to Kelly, who said his players "acted as if they didn't want to shoot the puck."

But he feels that problem will be remedied when the teams clash here tonight.

Irvine's sudden death goal that gave Los Angeles its playoff victory was just another of his late-season antics that sparked the Kings.

On Mar. 18, Irvine scored his first NHL hat trick and those three goals were all Los Angeles needed to turn back the Seals, 3-2.

The Kings had a 4-2-2 season mark against the Seals but Oakland won the last two games of the eight.

Death Of Philly, Rebirth Of Celtics In Playoffs

Boston Now Takes On N.Y. Knicks

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Philly is dead, Philly is dead," yelled Emmette Bryant, leaving unsaid the obvious: The Boston Celtics are alive again, and kicking.

The rebirth of the Celtics, who finished a dismal fourth in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association this season, came last night when they wrapped up their playoff semifinal against Philadelphia with a 93-90 victory for a decisive 4-1 spread in the best-of-seven series.

The Celtics now open the East best-of-seven final set tomorrow on national television (10:55 a.m., PST, Channel 7) at Madison Square Garden against the New York Knicks, a surprise 4-0 winner against Baltimore.

In the Western Division semifinals Friday night, Los Angeles closed in on a trip into the final with a 103-98 victory over San Francisco for a 3-2 lead while San Diego evened its set at 2-2 against Atlanta with a 114-112 triumph.

'COOL IT'

Bryant thoroughly enjoyed his first playoff triumph in the otherwise quiet Celtic locker room until teammate John Havlicek, a veteran of many Boston playoff successes, told him to "cool it."

But Philadelphia's Hal Greer, another playoff veteran, couldn't believe that Philly was dead.

"Sure, they're a great team," Greer said, "but to this day, I think the better team didn't win. I can't believe it's over."

It wasn't over until Billy Cunningham missed an off-balance jumper in the last minute after the 76ers had cut an eight-point deficit to 91-90 with 1:20 left.

THE WRAPUP

Then Bryant and Havlicek, who totaled 22 points, hit free throws to wrap it up. Cunningham had 23 for the 76ers in a defensive contest in which Boston hit only 33 of 80 field shots and Philadelphia 35.1 per cent.

Elvin Hayes' desperation 18-foot shot at the buzzer made San Diego a winner after Joe Caldwell had knotted the score with two seconds left for Atlanta, which has not beaten the Rockets on the West Coast this season.

Hayes finished with 30 points, four less than the Hawks' Walt Hazzard.

Optimism Runs High Among Most Big League Skippers

sive center fielder the Phillies have had since Richie Ashburn and Don Money is a strong, young shortstop with a fast bat.

Gil Hodges, New York Mets—This is the best Mets team ever. Our pitching should be even stronger than it was last year when two of our youngsters made the All-Star team. Using Cleon Jones at first gives us the chance to put Rod Gaspar in center field. He swings a good bat.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Mayo Smith, Detroit Tigers—The Tigers have their work cut out for them but I think they have the stuff to win against. I'd say that Baltimore, Boston and New York are the teams to beat in the East.

This is a young club with fine pitching and great hitting.

Dick Williams, Boston Red Sox — Barring injuries, I believe we have as good a chance as any team to win the American League pennant.

We have youth and talent on the Red Sox and, if we can stay free of serious injuries, we have a shot at the pennant. The return of Tony Conigliaro should help us greatly. Also, having Jim Lonborg available all season will make a great deal of difference.

Billy Martin, Minnesota Twins — This has been the type of spring I hope never to see again. Because of brutal weather; injuries to Jim Kaat, Dave Boswell, John Roseboro, Rod Carew and Bob Allison plus late arrivals, we just haven't caught up.

Al Lopez, Chicago White Sox —I feel we have a good chance in our division. Gary Peters, Joe Horlen and Tommy John have rounded into shape well and none shows any trace of injuries. We hope Sammy Ellis can be our fourth starter. Bill Melton is a good third baseman, a new boy who has been hitting around .400 all during spring training.

Joe Gordon, Kansac City Royals — We've looked pretty good. We haven't scored many runs but our pitching has looked real good. Our defense hasn't been too bad. I feel we'll surprise some people.

Bill Rigney, California Angels —I'm excited about the potential. It's the first time I've felt that the starters will carry us and not the bullpen. Our fate is in our young arms—Jim McGlothlin, Andy Messersmith, Tomy Murphy and Rudy May.

Joe Schultz, Seattle Pilots — We'll have a club with good power and good hitting. Our defense is good and we have fairly good speed. Our pitching is fairly good and we have strong relief pitching. The addition of Gene Brabender from Baltimore will really help.

Earl Weaver, Baltimore Orioles—We'll be close all the way if everybody has just a normal year, not even an outstanding year. I don't see how any American League team can run away with it. Our pitching is better. We had three starters-last year —Dave McNally, Tom Phoebus and Jim Hardin—who won 55 games. To these we have added two starters in Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer.

Hank Bauer, Oakland A's—We should be a real contender this year for the title in our division along with Minnesota. Our problem will be scoring runs. We also might have problems with our young bullpen and the catching. John Odom, Jim Nash, Jim Hunter and Chuck Dobson give us four strong and young starters.

Ted Williams, Washington Senators—I can't make any predictions becaue I haven't seen all the other clubs yet, but we're coming out of spring training with our spirits high and we're in good shape."

Alvin Dark, Cleveland Indians —We're definitely a contender in the American League this season. I'm looking for our pitching to be even better and certainly we should score more runs.

Ralph Houk, New York Yankees—I believe this is a better team than we've had recently. It is the youngest in Yankee history. It also is the fastest. It can be a good one.

The development of Murcer, Kenney and Burbach makes us stronger.

Leach Ninth In Western College Golf

Ray Leach, former Novato High School golf star now playing for Brigham Young University, skied to an 80 in the third and final round of the Western Intercollegiate Golf Tournament yesterday at Santa Cruz to finish in a three-way tie for ninth.

Gary Sanders of USC finished with a 223 to take individual honors, a stroke ahead of Lane Bennett of BYU, who shot a hot final-day 69.

The team title went to Arizona State, which finished two strokes ahead of USC, 913-915.

San Jose State was third at 921, followed by BYU and San Diego State at 923.

Second-round individual leader John Jackson of Arizona State bogeyed his first four holes yesterday and finished with an 82, dropping to a tie for third at 225.

Rev. Crowley Named New WCAC Chief

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—The Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley, who once headed the National Collegiate Athletic Association's United States Track and Field Federation, is the new commissioner of the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Father Crowley, 61, succeeds Walter J. McPherson, chairman of the San Jose State Physical Education Department. McPherson resigned from the post after San Jose State pulled out of the WCAC to join the new Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

Walter J. Hawkins, a member of the University of Santa Clara's Board of Control, has been named executive secretary of the WCAC. The post is a new one.

The WCAC offers competition in basketball and baseball only.

McLain's Shoulder Still A Question

DETROIT (AP)—It's still a question mark whether Denny McLain can pitch for the Detroit Tigers Tuesday in their opening game against Cleveland.

McLain, bothered by tightness in his shoulder, was treated by orthopedic specialist Dr. Leslie Mitchell at Ford Hospital yesterday. Dr. Mitchell said he would see McLain again Monday before determining whether he should pitch the opener.

Tiger Manager Mayo Smith said McLain would work out Monday at Tiger Stadium. Mickey Lolich is expected to start in place of McLain if last year's 31-game winner isn't ready.

Nine-Time Champ

DETROIT (UPI)—Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers won the American League batting crown for nine consecutive years from 1907 to 1915. He lost to Tris Speaker in 1916 and then won it for the next three seasons.

Rains Postpone Softball Tourney

They got in one game of the San Rafael Invitational Softball Tournament last night and that was it as the rains came down at Albert Field.

In the only game played, San Mateo Auto Kings dropped Bob Castro's of San Leandro, 6-0. The Sohner Treemen of Marin saw their game against Good Spot of Santa Rosa washed out.

The remainder of the tournament will be rescheduled for next weekend, beginning Friday.

Jensen Doing 'Very Well'

COMBINED AP & UPI

RENO, Nev. — Former star athlete Jackie Jensen is "doing very well" in his recovery from a heart attack and is expected to be released from Washoe Medical Center in about two weeks.

The former University of California football All-America and the American Baseball League's Most Valuable Player in 1958 was hospitalized a week ago after suffering a seizure while watching his University of Nevada, Reno, baseball team practice.

Jensen's wife, Kathy, said yesterday, "He's now walking a little bit and moving around in a wheel chair. He's also no longer under sedation."

GYMNASTICS

SEATTLE — There's no rest in sight for Washington's Mauno Nissinen, the new NCAA all-round gymnastic champion.

The junior from Finland, who won the title with ease yesterday to give the host Huskies their first NCAA individual national crown in six years, returns to the arena tonight to compete for the individual championship in the side horse, rings and horizontal events.

Penn State and Iowa are battling it for the team title, with scores of 159.60 and 159.17, respectively, going into the finals.

BASEBALL

ANAHEIM — Veteran Lou Johnson was acquired by the California Angels from Cleveland in exchange for infielder-outfielder Chuck Hinton. Pitcher Phil Ortega also was obtained from the Washington Senators for the $20,000 waiver price.

FOOTBALL

BUFFALO, N. Y. — Al Bemiller, veteran center for the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, reportedly is seeking the Democratic endorsement for town supervisor in suburban Cheektowaga.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. E. — Johnny Walton, a Negro quarterback from Elizabeth City State College, has singed a contract with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

Walton, according to Rams' scout Paul Younger, is the first Negro quarterback to sign with an NFL team.

TENNIS

SAN JUAN — Top-seeded Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., advanced to the final round by beating Jaime Fillol of Chile, 6-4, 6-3 and Ove Bengston of Sweden moved into a semifinal against Charles Pasarell by ousting Brian Fairlie of New Zealand, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3. Julie Heldman of New York also advanced to the finals in women's play by downing Judy Tegart of Australia, 6-4, 11-9 in the 17th Caribe Hilton International Tournament.

HORSE RACING

ALBANY — Alvaro Pineda, leading rider at Santa Anita, booted home Apply to win yesterday's featured Tiburon Purse at Golden Gate Fields.

Pineda, who also won the seventh race, sent Apply up on the inside in the turn and kept her going to finish a length in front of Everything Lovely.

Tam Favored In Marin Golf League

Tamalpais High School's golf team came within an eyelash of winning or tying for the Marin County Athletic League title last year.

The Indians figure they can do a little better this year.

They have two things going for them. Coach Paul Wata has an all-veteran squad and practically seven guaranteed wins at the Mill Valley home course, the Indians' favorite stomping grounds.

Nothing will come that easily for the Indians. There aren't very many bad teams in the league, although none could be termed exceptional.

For Tamalpais, it is strictly a matter of depth and experience.

Back again this year are Craig and Wayne Smith, Jeff DeVoto, Dean Ryder, Kevin Hogan and Steve Golfine, all returnees from last year's near-miss team, along with a couple of good prospects in Rick Golfine and Greg Anderson.

The Indians were the top MCAL finishers in the recent 20-team Terra Linda Invitational Tournament at Peacock Gap in San Rafael.

The finishing order behind them was Terra Linda, San Rafael, Redwood and Drake. Those teams, along with Novato, figure to give the Indians whatever challenge they'll get for the title.

Terry Davis, Warren Raatz, Joel Jurtovsky and Art Cudworth head Terra Linda's team, which is described as "enthusiastic, young and dedicated" by coach Bill O'Bayley.

Chris Cardenal is a top returnee for the San Rafael Bulldogs, who always manage to put together a contending team.

Three-year veteran Wayne Duerson heads Redwood's squad, which has a solid nucleus of Duerson, George Carewe and Bruce McCarthy.

Drake figures to do better than in past years, with veterans Ed Herrington, Dean Hamilton and Tom Schaal, along with a pair of talented juniors in Fred Hellwig, and Scott Thompson.

Novato lost super-star Ray Leach and a flock of veterans from last year's title squad, but the Hornets still have Mike Ahern, one of the top golfers in the county. Jeff Lesieur, another top returnee, will help and so will Greg Davenport, but the Hornets may just be too thin.

WHEN WILL AMERICA LAND A MAN ON THE MOON?

When will the first American Astronaut set foot on the moon? This June? This summer? Exactly when? You can share in the excitement of the momentous event by guessing precisely when it will be. And if you win—well, take a look at the prizes!

WIN

A 2-week trip for two anywhere on earth!

2ND PRIZE a 2-week all-expense vacation for two, Cocoa Beach, Cape Kennedy

to view a future space shot

3RD PRIZE $100.00 in cash—for fun money

ENTER THIS EXCITING CONTEST NOW!

IT'S STRICTLY FOR FUN. YOU CAN WIN!

Here's all you do:

Fill out the entry blank shown (or use a postal card facsimile) to guess the year, month, day, hour, minute and second that the first American Astronaut steps on to the surface of the moon.

Why the contest?

The contest, co-sponsored by the Independent-Journal and Today, the newspaper of Cape Kennedy, is offered as a novel guessing game for our readers — and as a means of recognizing the nation's space program. It's fun, it's out of this world!

SOME TIPS TO AID YOU ON YOUR GUESS

The Space Agency (NASA) has provided for readers the most likely times for the first landing attempt. These "windows" are the days when the Apollo spacecraft can reach pre-selected sites on the moon. The best "window" days include: April 18-24; June 16-22; July 15-22 and August 14-21. While most space experts talk of a June, 1969 landing, some predict it could come as early as April. Others believe it will not come until August. Watch for further news from NASA on the moon landing. And keep the above dates in mind in making your best guess. Happy landing!

RULES

1. ANY MAN, woman or child in the U.S. is eligible to enter except employees of the Independent-Journal and Today, the newspaper of Cape Kennedy and families.)

2. DEADLINE for entries is May 1, 1969. Entries must contain year, month, day, hour, minute and second to be eligible. Official time will be that registered by NASA as the time the first astronaut steps onto the surface of the moon. If astronauts do not leave the lunar module, the time will be the instant the module landed on moon's surface.

3. THE WINNING ENTRY will be that with the exact EASTERN STANDARD TIME or closest to it. Do not worry about difference in the time zones. The time you send in will be judged on the assumption it is Eastern Standard Time.

4. ENTRIES must be mailed to: MOON CONTEST, INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL, P.O. BOX 330, San Rafael, Calif. 94902. Use entry blank herewith or facsimile.

5. FIRST PRIZE: Two-week all-expense paid vacation for two anywhere on earth winner selects. Trip must be completed within one year from date of notification. Second prize: 2-week all-expense paid vacation for two to Cocoa Beach at Cape Kennedy to view future space shot. Third prize: $100 cash. Decision of the judges final.

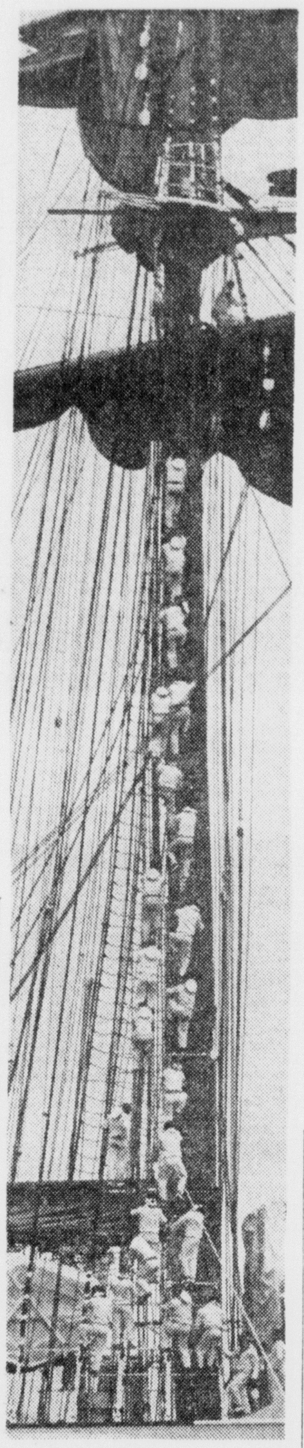
UNDER THE GOLDEN GATE — The Spanish Navy training schooner Juan Sebastian de Elcano is framed by the Golden Gate Bridge and a small swarm of fireboats and yachts as she sails toward her San Francisco berth at Pier 17 North yesterday. The training tour of the schooner brought back reminisceses of California Spanish colony days. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

STRIKING CONTRAST — The sight of a four-masted schooner against the background of the 1969 San Francisco skyline is a rare vision. The Spanish ship Juan Sebastian de Elcano's visit coincides with the California bicentennial.



GOING ALOFT — A large crew climbs the mainmast rigging as the Spanish training schooner Juan Sebastian de Elcano glides into San Francisco Bay.

Spanish Schooner Paying A Visit

The 300-foot Spanish schooner Juan Sebastian de Elcano sailed through the Golden Gate yesterday to open a five-day courtesy visit to San Francisco in connection with the 200th birthday celebration of the first sighting of San Francisco Bay.

The huge, four-masted schooner will be tied up at Pier 17 North through Tuesday before lifting anchor to sail to San Diego. It will be open to the public from 2:30 to 6 p.m. daily.

The schooner's captain, Commander Alvaro Fontanalis Baron, and his 336 crewmembers were greeted at dockside by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, members of the California Bicentennial Celebration Commission and Spanish Consul General Antonio Vidal-Gabas.

Reinecke presented a scroll to the Spanish officer commemorating the first entry into San Francisco Bay by a flagship of the Don Gaspar de Portola-Father Serra expedition. That expedition resulted in the naming of such landmarks as Alcatraz, Angel Island and San Pablo Bay.

The 52-year-old schooner, reconstructed in 1955-56, has sailed around the world three times and has served as the training ship for most of the officers in the Spanish Navy.

With 20 officers, 49 sub-officers, 97 midshipmen and 170 seamen on board, the 1500 horsepower Elcano had come through the Panama Canal on a training voyage with stops at San Diego and Monterey before arriving in The City.

Its next destination is San Diego, then back through the canal and home. It has logged 550,000 miles so far in three trips around the world so far, according to U. S. Navy officials.

Auto Stolen

Petaluma police today reported the theft of a 1966 Chevrolet Impala beglonging to James Carte of 632 St. Francis Drive, Petaluma. The bronze-colored auto was taken from Carte's driveway sometime last night, police said. Its license was RXP 469 and it had a black vinyl roof, they said.

Woman's Lip Cut In Wreck

A San Rafael woman was treated for a cut lip at Marin General Hospital yesterday after her car collided with another and bounced into a hill on South San Pedro Road.

The California Highway Patrol said a car driven by Grace Henry Russell, 37, of 400 Canal Street, crossed the center line near Main Drive and collided with a car driven by Wendy Wertz, 18, of 35 Wolf Grade, Kentfield, at 6:55 p.m. The Russell car then bounced into a hill, the patrol said.

Judge Orders Tiburon To Court In I-J Petition

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, acting on a petition by the Independent-Journal, yesterday ordered the City of Tiburon to make available to the public a plan for downtown Tiburon or to appear in court Monday to explain why it had not done so.

The action was brought against the City of Tiburon, the Tiburon Planning Commission, Tiburon planner Philip K. Buskirk and City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose by the California Newspapers Inc., owners of the Independent-Journal, and Anne Bardwell, Independent-Journal reporter.

A writ signed by Judge Gardiner orders the city officials and Buskirk to appear at 10 a.m. Monday before Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson, saying that they are "wrongfully refusing the inspection and/or copying of public records."

The state's Inspection of Public Records Act, authored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, requires that all public records and documents be made available to the public for inspection and/or copying upon request, said Mrs. Bardwell through attorney Gary T. Giacomini.

In its action, the newspaper said the city officials and Buskirk had refused Mrs. Bardwell permission to inspect the plan.

It alleges that Buskirk privately approached several members of the planning commission, the city council and Rose to discuss his alternate plan for downtown Tiburon and that, receiving interest in his plan, he agreed to present it to the planning commission for consideration.

The plan was presented to the commission at a workshop session held Tuesday, the petition states.

Another master plan for downtown Tiburon, first proposed by designer Charles Warren Callister but later modified by city planning consultant George Gatter, has been reluctantly endorsed by the city council.

The reason for a lack of enthusiasm for that plan is because it proposes high density commercial and residential development on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad property.

According to the I-J's petition, the planning commission agreed that the Buskirk plan had "sufficient merit to warrant further study" and named commissioners Joseph C. Marshall and Peter Macgowan to pursue the matter.

After presentation of Buskirk's plan to the commission, the petition notes, Mrs. Bardwell asked to see and copy the plan and was told by Buskirk that he would not allow her to do so unless authorized by the planning commission.

On the other hand, according to the action, Marshall and Rose told Mrs. Bardwell that Buskirk has possession of the plan and she must obtain his permission to see it.

Further, the petition states, Marshall and Macgowan refused to authorize Mrs. Bardwell to inspect and copy the plan.

Finally, according to the petition, Mrs. Bardwell and the Independent-Journal "are informed and believe" that the planning commission intends to consider the Buskirk plan at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall and that the newspaper and Mrs. Bardwell will "suffer irreparable damage" if they are not allowed access to it before the meeting is held.

Planning commissioners named in the action are Marshall, Macgowan, Joseph H. Bacheller III, Victor C. Banks, Allan N. Littmann, Allan Thompson and Bennett Wren.

The Bible has been translated, in whole or in part, into more than 1,000 languages.

Agent Shoots, Kills Man Fleeing During Robbery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A narcotics agent shot and killed one of four men fleeing an armed robbery the agent witnessed.

Dead is an 18-year-old Negro, Lannier Ross. Plainclothes inspector Ron Lemneos, who shot him, is white.

Lemneos and narcotics inspector Arthur Gerrans were sitting in an unmarked car near San Francisco's Fillmore district questioning a woman when the robbery unfolded in front of them late last evening.

As they watched, four Negro youths approached a white man walking along the sidewalk and one of them pulled a gun, police said.

Lemneos and Gerrans ran from their car toward the scene as the youths took the man's watch.

The person with the gun turned toward them, and then started to run with the others as the officers approached.

Lemneos chased the person he said he had seen brandishing the gun. He fired two or three shots, one of which hit Ross in the head and killed him.

A pistol, from which no rounds were fired, was found in the pool of blood beside Ross' body.

The three other suspects, all juveniles, were picked up by police a few hours later near the alleged holdup scene.

Thumper Is The Star At Easter Time

See Page M4

TWICE EACH year, at Easter time and again at Christmas time, the Independent - Journal's Marin Magazine presents to its readers an inspirational message from a member of the Marin clergy. This year's Easter message has been written by the Very Rev. Paul J. Flynn, S.M., rector of the Marist Fathers' St. Peter Chanel Seminary in San Rafael. Father Flynn came to the seminary in August of 1968 from Nampa, Idaho, where he was pastor of St. Paul's Parish of the Roman Catholic Church. At right he is pictured on the grounds of the seminary. An Easter Message For Our Readers

'Happy Are Those Who Believe, For They Too Will Rise'

By Fr. PAUL J. FLYNN

"But the angel spoke; and he said to the women, 'There is no need for you to be afraid. I know you are looking for Jesus, who was crucified. He is not here, for he has risen as he said he would. Come and see the place where he lay, then go quickly and tell his disciples, 'He has risen from the dead and now he is going before you to Galilee; it is there you will see him.' Now I have told you." Matthew 28: 5-8.

The winter rains, the clouds, the storms have gone. Spring has come, spelling out the newness, the freshness, the beauty of life.

The curses, blasphemies, jeers, taunts of calvary are quieted with his dying breath; "It is accomplished." The peace of that early morn, the first day of the week, was indeed the herald of spring that would make all things new. . . . "the angel spoke . . . He is not here, for He has risen as He said He would."

A simple statement of fact. He is not here. He is risen. He said He would arise. The prophecy, His prophecy is fulfilled. And there it is, this tremendous event in the history of the world for all men to accept or to reject.

There are those who believe, there are those who do not. Some doubt it like Thomas, and for them He gives the same answer as He gave the apostle: "You believe because you can see me. Happy are those who have not seen and yet believe." John 20: 29.

The fearful apostles have their shaken faith restored. Christ walks, talks with them, even eats with them to show that He is not solely a spirit but has a resurrected body. He gives them a job to do — to go out and tell the world about this good news. They do. Fearful before, they become intrepid. The resurrection of Christ is a fact. They preach it. They suffer for it . . . stoning, imprisonment, exile, death.

Their proclamation of faith has come down through the centuries: Christ has died, Christ is risen, Christ will come again! Such is the good news and its sequel; happy are those who believe, for they too will rise. It is a promise of Christ. Our hope is based on His promise. He never reneges.

"Yes, it is my Father's will that whoever sees the Son and believes in Him shall have eternal life, and that I shall raise him up on the last day." John 6: 40.

Ninety-Six Children—And Two Rabbits

The population at the Merrie-Go-Round Nursery School at 5461 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, consists of 96 boys and girls, ages 3 to 5, owner and director Mrs. Roderick Crandall, eight teachers, one cat, one turtle, one talkative cockatiel, a hooded rat and two furry rabbits.

Mrs. Crandall, her teachers and the nursery school children are there only in the daytime.

But the bird and animals make their home there, day and night.

Ordinarily, Petey the cockatiel is the star of the menagerie.

HE DELIGHTS the youngsters by ripping off such tongue-twisters as "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers," or by squawking out "happy birthday" greetings.

But at Easter time, even the talented Petey must yield the spotlight to the two rabbits, Thumper and Thumbelina.

Thumper, in particular, is a favorite, a big gray buck who enjoys a romp, be it with the other animals of the nursery school zoo or with the children.

LIKE THE doe Thumbelina, Thumper is technically the property of Greg Pickrel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Pickrel and a 6-year-old "graduate" of the Merrie-Go-Round School who is now in kindergarten. But both rabbits have made their homes at the nursery school for more than a year.

The rabbits are kept in hutches in the school yard placed so as to be well protected from the elements. When the children are present, Thumper and Thumbelina are allowed to roam the fenced school grounds freely.

They are fed a commercial rabbit food, and sometimes carrots, but the last have to be

AT EASTER time the unchallenged "star" of the small menagerie maintained by the Merrie-Go-Round Nursery School in Corte Madera is Thumper, the big gray and good-natured rabbit. He is one of two rabbits making their homes at the school along with a cockatiel, a turtle, a cat and a tame rat. Such pets as the rabbits, according to Mrs. Roderick Crandall, owner and director of the school, foster a gentleness in the children as well as a curiosity about the animal world. Attempting to interest Thumper in his picture book is Todd Santino. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean) washed most carefully because of sprays.

THE NURSERY school children take care of the feeding, as well as the brushing and the combing.

And they see to it that the two rabbits get the generous quantities of water they require — something like two quarts daily per animal.

The play of the children with the rabbits is always gentle, says Mrs. Crandall.

"Pets like the rabbits or the hooded rat seem to induce a tenderness in small children," she says. "That is why they are so ideal."

Thumper and Thumbelina have been enjoying the special attention that comes their way at Easter-time. But Petey seems impatient, anxious for the holiday to pass, so that he can once again become the star attraction in the Merrie-Go-Round menagerie.

The Music Of The Bells

A Joyous Easter Sound At The St. Luke Church

By DON KEOWN

JAMES GROVES, who directs both the handbell and the singing choirs at St. Luke Presbyterian Church, shows young Kathy Van Herwynen the correct technique for the ringing of a bell. Kathy is the president of the church's young Jubal Ringers. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

Worshipers arriving for the two Easter Sunday services tomorrow at San Rafael's St. Luke Presbyterian Church will be greeted by bells ringing out the joyous tidings that "Christ Is Risen Today."

The music will be coming from the handbells of the church's Jubal Ringers, assembled before the entrance in their robes.

While bells before the services and outside the sanctuary will be a special Easter touch, the congregation is accustomed to handbell music as part of their religious observances.

THE JUBAL Ringers, made up of boys and girls in the eighth through tenth grades, are but one of three groups organized and conducted by James Groves, the church's organist and choir director.

A second group, the Sanctuary Bells, a less experienced handbell choir of seventh and eighth graders, will be playing inside the church during tomorrow's Easter rites.

There is also a boys' group, the Crusader Boys, who play the handbells as well as such Carl Orff instruments as the autoharp, the xylophone and rhythm pieces.

IN ADDITION, Groves directs adult and primary (second and third grade) singing choirs, while an assistant, Mrs. Frank Dill, is in charge of a voice choir of fourth through sixth graders.

It is Groves, says Rev. Henry Kent, the pastor, who is responsible for the special interest of his church at 10 Bay View Drive in handbell ringing.

And his own interest in handbells, Groves says, began before his arrival in the Bay Area back in Fort Smith, Ark., where he was associated with the First Christian Church.

"A SET OF bells was donated to the church," he relates. "So it was sink or swim. Those bells had to be put to use."

Groves, also a professional piano teacher, formed a handbell choir of junior high school and high school students that was the first of its kind in Fort Smith.

"But by the time I left, handbell ringing had become so popular that five other churches had formed such choirs," he says.

GROVES' OWN appreciation of handbells also grew to the point where he purchased a set of bells of his own for use with his private pupils. These he brought west with him.

Out here he continued to give private piano lessons and was for a time with the music department of San Domenico School, conducting bell-ringing choirs in both the upper and lower schools. Since his departure from San Domenico, the school has continued its handbell program under the direction of Sister Susan, O.P.

Groves became choir director and organist at St. Luke two and a half years ago, and was eager to introduce handbell ringing to that church. But while his bells were in use at San Domenico, they were unavailable to the church.

NEVERTHELESS, Groves began drilling the Presbyterian youths, having them practice with bottles to master technique and rhythm.

Then, after he left San Domenico School, his bells replaced the bottles, and St. Luke Presbyterian soon boasted one of the finest handbell programs in the entire area.

In addition to his work at the church and his private lessons, Groves is now music department head at Katharine Branson School in Ross. "The girls there used the handbells for their Christmas program last year, and I hope they will be making greater use of them in the future," he says.

WHAT DOES it take to be a handbell ringer?

"Prior instrumental experience is not terribly important," Groves answers. "The most important thing is to have a good sense of rhythm — also excellent coordination, and utter dependability."

Dependability is vital, he explains, because the absence of a single one of the 11 ringers can destroy the value of an entire rehearsal.

THE JUBAL Ringers have that dedication to a remarkable degree, says Groves, as do his other choral groups.

"I've had the kids show up for practice with a 102 temperature," he says.

The Jubal Ringers have a special incentive these days. They aim to travel to Grove City, Pa., in June to participate in the National Festival of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers. Parents will provide some of the money, but the youngsters are raising a good part of the funds necessary for the 11 bellringers, their director and two chaperones to make the trip by plane.

THEY HAVE been performing janitorial and yard work, doing baby-sitting and sponsoring brunches and picnics.

Another source of money has been their appearance before service clubs and similar groups for a modest fee. They entertained the San Rafael Rotary Club recently. Groves and his young charges would like to have more such engagements.

Youngsters, Groves says, seem to get a particular enjoyment out of ringing English handbells — "they find it very challenging and very rewarding."

ENGLISH BELLS, which may be manufactured in Britain or

Jubal Ringers Make Handbell Music For Sunday Services

in the United States, differ from the Swiss bells in that the clapper is on a spring so that it will strike but once per arm movement and thus can be controlled musically.

Basically, each ringer is responsible for two note letters—for instance A and B—plus the sharps and flats of those notes.

Groves originally owned a full five-octave set of 61 handbells. However, just prior to Christmas, 20 of the bells were stolen from his automobile in San Francisco.

THE BELLS were insured and replacements have been ordered from the manufacturer, the Whitechapel Foundry in England, maker of the Liberty Bell, Big Ben and other famous chimes.

"If the replacement don't arrive in time for the big festival in Pennsylvania (June 24 through June 28), we will just have to borrow some bells," Groves says.

Incidentally, he adds, the American Broadcasting Co. plans a network telecast from the Grove City festival.

ST. LUKE Presbyterian Church maintains a regular schedule by which the Jubal Ringers perform on the first Sunday of each month, the Sanctuary Bells on the second Sunday, the singing choir on the third, and the Crusader Boys on the fourth. The adult singing choir performs regularly every Sunday.

Music for handbell ringers is not easy to come by, Groves said. "Very, very little of it has been written." So Groves winds up doing most of his own arrangements for his choirs.

Chairman of the music committee of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, he has been actively trying to interest Bay Area composers in producing music for the bells.

ERNST BACON of Orinda is currently at work on a suite to be performed at the national festival, he reports.

Handbell ringing, Groves says, is a less resounding derivative of another traditional form of music from England's churches and cathedrals, tower bell ringing.

But its growth in the United States has reached the point where it now exceeds its popularity in England where it all began.

TO GROVES, to Reverend Kent, and to the worshipers of Kent, and to the worshipers of St. Luke Church, the pure, clear sound of bells, rung by young hands, offers the best of all means of announcing and celebrating the greatest news that Christianity has ever heard:

"Christ Is Risen Today."

The Case For Beauty Contests

Director Of Miss Marin Pageant Tells Of Rewards

The beauty pageant is as much an American institution as the traditional apple pie or the contemporary campus riot.

It is considerably more controversial than apple pie and sometimes almost as fiercely debated, pro and con, as student demonstrations.

Parental attitudes toward these competitions among pulchritudinous young women generally fall into one of two divergent categories:

Those proud parents who are so eager for their daughters to compete that they almost push them into participation.

And those parents who are strongly opposed to permitting their offspring to bid for a beauty crown, usually in the belief that such events are frivolous, constitute exhibitionism, or pose too great a hazard of heartbreak for the young competitors.

MRS. EDWARD Beach is a woman who has been dealing with both kinds of parents for nine years now.

She began her association with beauty spectaculars while with the John Robert Powers School in San Rafael, assisting Millie Cameron, director of the school, in conducting the annual Miss Marin contest.

Then Hugh Turner, manager of KTIM, was searching for a public service event that could be staged in conjunction with the Marin radio station's 18th anniversary celebration. He was interested particularly in some kind of a program that would involve young women, since the station was already the sponsor of its Sportsmen's Club movement for young men.

THE RESULT was the programming of a Miss KTIM contest with Mrs. Beach as its director.

And with the John Robert Powers School no longer involved in the Miss Marin Pageant, Mrs. Beach continued to work under Marin Visitors Bureau sponsorship with Esther Dearth in the staging of that annual event.

The Miss KTIM titleholder qualified for the later Miss Marin contest.

Gradually, however, the Miss Marin and Miss KTIM contests became one, under the direction of Carolyn Beach and the radio station as franchise-holder and sponsor.

TODAY, IN the midst of final preparations for the 1969 Miss Marin Pageant to be held April 17 at 8 p.m. at Olney Hall on the College of Marin campus in Kentfield (Monday is the closing date for entries), Mrs. Beach is also an executive director for the Miss California Beauty Pageant, held each year in Los Angeles with the Miss Marin winner among the contestants, and an honorary board member of the Miss USA - Miss Universe pageants at Miami Beach, Fla., to which the Miss California titlist advances.

She serves, too, as executive director for Miss Sonoma-Miss Marin Beauty Pageant, annually a part of the Sonoma-Marin Fair in June in Petaluma, where she is also a fashion show coordinator and commentator.

And she is an official chaperone for the Maid of California Pageant.

DESPITE HER close association now with the world of beauty pageants, the attractive Mrs. Beach never herself competed in such an event. But she feels her work as a John Robert Powers instructor provided her with an excellent background for the beauty pageant field.

Reared and educated in Marin County, Carolyn Beach resided in San Rafael until recently when she moved with her husband, an electrician, to Sebastopol.

What does she tell those parents who are reluctant to permit their daughters to compete in the Miss Marin Pageant?

"I POINT OUT to them that it is a marvelous opportunity," she answers. "It offers the young women the kind of experience that helps to bring out their personalities, that develops confidence and poise. It is the kind of thing they could never get from books."

Carefully, at an annual get-acquainted Coke party, she goes over with all the parents and their daughters the strict rules and close supervision that are part of the pageant system.

As for those parents who are worried that their daughters will be too badly hurt if they should fail to win, Mrs. Beach says:

MRS. CAROLYN BEACH uses the "mike" of radio station KTIM to publicize the Miss Marin Beauty Pageant, to be held April 17 in Olney Hall at College of Marin, Kentfield. Mrs. Beach is the director of the pageant, and KTIM is the sponsor. (Independent-Journal photo)

"I TELL THEM that it is true that there is some disappointment, as there is in much of life. But almost always, in advance, the girls seem to sense who is going to win, and most often they are pleased by the judges' decisions. They are sincere in their congratulations.

"And they say afterwards that they wouldn't have traded the experience or the fun for anything."

Mrs. Beach says that the chain of beauty pageants that leads ultimately to the crowning of a Miss Universe in Miami Beach is the only real beauty competition among the major contests.

"THE OTHERS are talent contests to a large degree," she explains.

Competitors in the Miss Marin competition and in the succeeding pageants are judged on poise, carriage, stature, smile, texture of skin, grooming, posture and "all in all, magnetic personality."

"My advice to each contestant is that the two most important factors are posture — stand tall and proud, think tall —, and smile — be in love with the world and let your joy show."

MRS. BEACH also counsels the girls: "Don't worry about turns, pivots, walk, etc. Just relax, stand tall, and smile. Look at your judges, for eye contact is most important."

Judges are advised, when rating the girls in the evening gown competition: "Do not be prejudiced by the evening gown the contestant is wearing, but consider her ability to create a picture of good taste and charm."

"Why Did My Suede Jacket Lining Change Color?"

This occurrence is prevalent in many suede jackets today—especially those with light or white linings. The majority of these suede garments are of foreign manufacture. The cause is a poor selection of dyes for the suede by the manufacturer. This dye bleeds readily in any type of cleaning, no matter how much care is taken. The dye transfers to the jacket lining—and there it is!

Although this dye bleeding may be found in domestic garments, too, it is far less likely here because manufacturers in this country are more alert to such complaints. The watchful eye of the National Institute of Drycleaning observes, complains, publicizes and urges manufacturers to use dyes which do not bleed in drycleaning solvent.

A WIRE SERVICE photograph caught Pam Stettler, Miss Marin of 1961, glowing with happiness after her triumph in the Miss California Beauty Pageant.

The Miss KTIM pageant has since merged with the Miss Marin contest, under radio station KTIM sponsorship.

The Networks Plan For The Fall

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP) — The television network schedules for next fall are going to offer more talk, more sex and less violence.

The three networks each put together packages with heavy emphasis on comedy, variety and drama.

Shows high in gunplay and fistfights will be in short supply next season. Not a single new Western will be introduced in the fall and only four will remain. Action-adventure shows are down to 10 with a few new entries.

On tap are four new variety shows, 10 comedies and eight shows loosely categorized as drama.

The talk is to fill up the time formerly occupied by actors knocking each other about. And the sex is to perk up the interest when the talk begins to pall.

Actually, television is not going to go all the way down the path taken by the movies. The sex is going to be talked about, hinted at and joked about.

At the top of this list undoubtedly will be ABC's "The Survivors," which its creator Harold Robbins says will make bold use of sex. This "novel for television" will chronicle the jet set Robbins has written about in such best sellers as "The Carpetbaggers" and "The Adventurers."

Following it on Monday nights on ABC will be "Love American Style," with only one continuing character—a large brass bed. It will tell two to four separate love stories each week.

Underscoring the fact that television is indeed cyclical are three medical dramas. One of them, ABC's "Marcus Welby, M.D.," was created by David Victor, who produced "Dr. Kildare" in the heyday of medical shows. It will be about a family doctor.

The other entries, CBS's "Medical Center" and NBC's "New Medicine," will be hospital oriented.

An interesting footnote to the NBC show is that it will alternate Sunday nights with a courtroom drama called "The Whole World Is Watching" and a police show called "Deadlock."

The tentative title for the alternating series is "The People," but that may be changed to avoid a conflict with ABC's "The New People."

"The New People," created by Rod Serling, is about a group of young people who set up a new society on an island after their plane crashes—a combination of "Lord of the Flies" and "Wild in the Streets."

The reason for the trend to comedy, variety and drama—and the demise of so many action-adventure shows—is obvious. The networks are under pressure from Washington and from critics to eliminate violence.

In recent weeks Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate Communications subcommittee, warned that if television "doesn't exercise restraint, drastic action will be taken." And Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, said he hoped to begin an investigation of whether violence poses a health hazard to children.

Monster Cartoons Are Passe

NEW YORK (AP) — The power of the public to affect television is illustrated by changes in children's programming.

Parents made known their displeasure with the cartoon diet of monsters and superheroes being fed their children on Saturday mornings — and the networks reacted.

"Action-adventure cartoons were severely criticized and we took them off the air," said Bud Grant, director of daytime programming at NBC.

Ed Vane, vice president for daytime programming at ABC, said, "We knew there was adverse reaction to all the networks presenting cartoons with monsters and superheroes."

As a result of the barrage of complaints the Saturday morning monster cartoons are all but off the air. Those remaining probably will disappear at the end of the season.

In many cases, however, they are simply being replaced by comedy cartoons.

CYRIL RITCHARD sets the stage for "S.S. Lusitania," a Group W presentation of a Granada TV documentary. The one-hour special recalls the historic events that brought the United States into World War I, through rare film footage, and will be presented Thursday at 8 p.m. on Channel 5.

"WE ARE ALWAYS proud of our girls," says Carolyn Beach of the young women who have represented Marin in the Miss California Beauty Pageant in Los Angeles.

Carolyn Beach: Mother Confessor To Marin's Beauty Contestants

She Plays Key Role In Pageant Chain That Begins With Miss Marin Selection

pearances: "Consider beauty of face and figure, but bear in mind that grace, poise and posture are essential requisites for beauty too."

COMPETING girls receive expert advice in etiquette, in their wardrobes, in proper walking and in posture that is invaluable and long lasting, says Mrs. Beach.

"Since we stress natural beauty, make-up is of only incidental importance," she adds.

Her association with beauty pageants has convinced Mrs. Beach that beauty and brains do go together. Most of the Miss California contestant are either college graduates or college students, and they display, she says, a keen awareness of the issues of the day.

FOR THE Miss Marin Pageant, Mrs. Beach finds that most of the entries are women 20 and younger.

"This," she says, "despite the fact that women are at their most beautiful age in their early 20s. Somehow, past 20, there seems to be a loss of confidence that prevents them from entering the pageants."

Throughout her nine years of working with the pageants, Mrs. Beach says, the contestants have remained "wholesome, all-American types." This wholesomeness, she adds, is usually reflected in their stable family backgrounds.

ONE OF THE highlights of the year for Carolyn Beach comes when she accompanies the Miss Marin winner and other Northern California title-holders south to Los Angeles for the Miss California Pageant held in Los Angeles' Biltmore Hotel.

"As an official chaperone, I become sort of a mother confessor and pill-dispenser, as well as an emergency stagehand," she says. "I'm on the go, every moment that I'm there."

A high point in Marin's beauty pageant history came in 1961 when Pam Stettler, now Mrs. Jim Costello and mother of two children, went on to win Miss California and Miss USA first runnerup honors.

"BUT WE ARE always proud of our girls," says Mrs. Beach. "They have never given us the slightest cause to feel otherwise."

The Miss California Pageant with which the Miss Marin competition is affiliated is conducted by the California Beauty Pageant Inc., with Dr. Leonard B. Stallcup, a Los Angeles dentist, as president.

Involved before the final selection of a Miss California is made is the screening of some 6,000 young women.

THE FINAL Miss USA and Miss Universe competitions will be aired on Columbia Broadcasting System network television this summer before some 75 million viewers.

The Miss Universe creed, Mrs. Beach says, is something more than flowery words. It reads:

"We, representing the countries of the world in the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant in order to further the cause of peace, justice and mutual understanding, do solemnly dedicate ourselves to the highest ideals of sportsmanship, friendship and goodwill among all the people of the universe."

THIS SAME spirit prevails on the local contest level, she says, as Marin goes about selecting its best qualified candidate to vie for state, national and world honors.

And such goodwill is exactly what the world, and the community, need now, in a time of tension and trouble.

Disneyland's Magic Grows

Spooky Place To Become Newest Unit

A HAUNTED MANSION, now in its final phases of construction, will open late this summer to become Disneyland's 53rd major adventure attraction. The mansion will be home to a "floating population" of 999 ghosts and other restless, ghoulish spirits, including a Ghost Host who will conduct curious mortals on tours of the cobwebbed halls and haunted graveyard.

San Francisco Bay Area residents are reluctant to acknowledge that Southern California offers any advantages, for residents or for tourists, that our own region cannot match or or surpass.

But when it comes to sheer escapist entertainment, Northern Californians are hard put to cite anything we can offer that is in the same class with Disneyland.

Furthermore, the magic kingdom at Anaheim created by the late Walt Disney continues to grow annually in its attractions.

FOR INSTANCE, under construction there now is a Haunted Mansion that will open late this summer, inhabited by happy spooks collected from throughout the world.

Frequenting the mansion's shadowy rafters and echoing hallways will be a Ghost Host who will serve as the guide to visiting guests. Dwelling in the cobwebbed labyrinth and misty gardens with him will be headless knights, phantom dancers, floating furniture, howling hounds and other supernatural apparitions and psychic phenomena.

This summer will also see the introduction of a new fleet of Disneyland monorail trains and enlarged stations at Tomorrowland and the Disneyland Hotel. The new five-car trains will be equipped with foam rubber seats, panoramic windows and super-soft air suspension.

THE SUMMER season begins officially June 21 when daily hours become 8 a.m. to midnight. During its winter season, Disneyland is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekends, with extended hours on holidays.

A three-day festival, May 30, 31 and June 1, will preview the stepped-up summer fun, highlighted by a Great Bands of America Festival starring Count Basie, Don Ellis, Harry James, Sammy Kaye and other bandleaders and their great musicians.

The premiere night-time show for this summer will be "On Stage USA," to be produced twice nightly on the Tomorrowland Stage, with celebrity performers and the John Scott Trotter show band. For the younger set, there will be the top rock bands and recording stars.

EACH SATURDAY night will spotlight "pop music" favorites, while Sunday evenings, beginning June 22, will be given over to a country and western music jubilee.

The well established Golden Horseshoe Revue will be staged hourly each evening as well as during the daytime this summer.

Other summer specials will include the twice-a-day parades of Disney characters led by Micky Mouse and including such beloved figures as Donald Duck, Snow White and Winnie the Pooh, and the nightly 9 o'clock "Fantasy in the Sky" fireworks display preceded by Tinkerbell's flight over Sleeping Beauty's Castle.

ALL THE regular Disneyland adventures, including the Pirates of the Caribbean, the submarine voyage, the jungle cruise and the Matterhorn bobsleds, many of these expanded and improved, will be operating full tilt, before and after the new Haunted Mansion begins functioning.

The mansion will become the 53rd major adventure awaiting Disneyland visitors, and the eighth to use the "audio-animatronics" system that combines animation and sound electronically, producing in this case everything from chains that clank to a raven that recites, from bones that rattle to a seance that calls in spirits from beyond.

These ghostly goings-on provide just one more reason why Marinites will be swallowing their prejudices this summer and, in greater numbers than ever, will head south to see the sights of Disneyland.

No sense arguing — we just haven't anything to match it. At least, not yet.

YALE GRACEY, one of the Walt Disney-trained creators of illusion, greets this happy hunter upon his arrival at Disneyland's new Haunted Mansion where he should be perfectly at home among clanking chains and demonized doors.

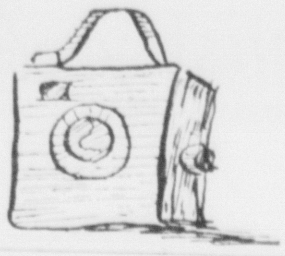
MAKING MONEY WHILE VACATIONING IN AUSTRALIA



You can make money on a vacation in Australia, maybe lots of it, and the way to do it is to try your luck at "rock hounding."

Gems and semi-precious stones are to be found in many parts of Australia, which is why rock hounds are beginning to converge there from all over the world.

IT'S WELL known that precious opals are practically an Australian monopoly. But that's only part of the picture.

Australia produces many of the world's most valuable sapphires, is rich in emeralds and rubies, and has in bonanza proportion just about every semi-precious stone from agate to zircon.

To set yourself up as a gem-seeker all you need is a Miner's Right, available at local police stations, and some digging and sifting equipment, which can be inexpensively hired on the spot.

CURRENTLY tops for opals are Amdamooka and Coober Pedy, 400 and 600 miles north of Adelaide, and Lightning Ridge, 450 miles northwest of Sydney.

Coober Pedy has yielded Australia's biggest single opal, the 135-ounce "Olympis Australis," which is priceless.

Lightning Ridge is the only source of the famous "black" opals.

Among the finest Lightning Ridge "blacks" are "Pride of Australia," valued at $180,000; "Aurora Australis," valued at $250,000, and "The Queen of the Earth," purchased on the field for $200 and now valued at $200,000.

Years may go by between discoveries such as these. But the unearthing of opals worth from $50 to $200 is quite common.

Sapphire, emerald, beryl, aquamarine, topaz and some diamonds occur in a broad band of east coast country running 700 miles from Canberra to the Queensland border.

But the biggest gem rush center at present is Queensland's Anakie district, 200 miles west of Rockhampton.

The quest here is mainly for sapphires, for Anakie has produced such exquisite gems as the 888-carat "Star of Queensland" sapphire, valued at more than $300,000, but sold on the field for $30.

From all this, there are two important things to remember; keep your finds in one piece and shop around before you sell them.

Artistry And Insight In A New Deck For An Ancient Game

T: THE NEW TAROT by John Cooke and Rosalind Rosalind Sharpe; Western Star Press, 148 pages, softcover, $1.95.

THE TAROT SPEAK by John Cooke; East Totem West, 22 Tarot cards, $5.95. Reviewed by Margaret Terrien.

A new deck has been cut in the ancient game of Tarot and the result may be a "consciousness map" to rival the Rorschach ink blots, according to Ralph Metzner, Ph.D., of the Kaiser Foundation Hospital and Stanford Counseling Service.

Dr. Metzner writes the introduction to "T: The New Tarot," a limited edition paperback dictated via the ouija board in Carmel and compiled in Marin.

Rosalind Sharpe of Mill Valley is co-author with John Cooke of this book describing and interpreting the loaded symbolism of the 22 cards of the new Tarot's "major arcanum" painted by Cooke. Full color reproductions are available in seven and a quarter by 12-inch posters suitable both for wall decor and self analysis. These cards and the illustrated commentary of "T: The New Tarot" will serve as introduction to the full 78-card deck which, when released later this year, will be printed in conventional playing card format.

The presently available 22 cards provide a mind-blowing tour through the major archetypes of C. E. Jung's racial unconscious. Although Cooke insists he is "no artist" he has done a remarkable job, presenting in jeweled color and heavy line the Tarot's 20th Century cast of characters: Actor, Feeler, Thinker, Seeker, Nameless-One, et al. Equally evocative are Cooke's grace notes of peripheral design: lions, serpents and spiders; daggers and chalices; fire, stars and blossoming trees. Here is imagery for everyone.

Black and white reproductions of the 22 major trumps appear in "T: The New Tarot" side by side with their ancestors from the European deck, six centuries old. In most cases, interestingly enough, the symbolism is completely reversed. The old "Death" card, for example, is now "Renewer." The conflict of sex, depicted in the old "Lovers" by a confused man standing between two women costumed as angel and whore, is resolved in the "Unity" with naked male and female bodies, one each, whose reaching arms enclose a sphere.

Miss Sharpe, who is astrologist as well as novelist, playwright and journalist, states that the new cards are "predictive" and herald the dawning of the Aquarian Age. The former era of Pisces, a tumultous 12,500 years, she assures us is now ending. And high time.

In contrast to the gloomy forecasts of most world thinkers the predictions in this book give mankind a fighting chance. The species just may survive if it has the sense to develop the best in itself, herein described as the divine "Essence."

Whatever the new Tarot's original source of inspiration — the ouija board or a mighty powerful joint subconscious — the book reflects an admirably humane point of view. Self awareness, psychic wholeness and world brotherhood are recurring themes. The diction is poetic.

The authors are completing the 56 minor trumps (the "minor arcana"), which when completed will round out the full deck. In the meantime, "T: The New Tarot" may be obtained from most Bay Area bookstores and the 22 posters from East Totem West, Mill Valley.

To enjoy the artistry and insight of both, a knowledge of card games or Rorschach is not required.

Club Women Offer Their Best Recipes

AMERICA COOKS, edited by Ann Seranne; Putnam's, 796 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This is a big, no-nonsense book, aimed at giving the cook a mass of practical ideas and help.

First and foremost it is a recipe book—some 3,500 in all. And they are the kind of recipes that belong in the home kitchen, not in the gourmet restaurant or on the printed page.

Their sources, indeed, are homes across the country. For the book is a project of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which solicited the most prized recipes of its many members. Nearly a million poured in, and from these Ann Seranne, food editor of the New York Post and a veteran cookbook editor, performed the immense task of selecting the best after subjecting them to rigid testing. The book was 10 years in its formulation.

It is a most comprehensive book with recipes of every kind imaginable, and it is a distinctively American book, capturing all the regional specialties, the ethnic variety, the zest and the hearty flavor that Americans like in their table fare.

While quite properly the recipes are accorded priority, there is also included a great deal of basic culinary information that will be of special value to the newlyweds.

It is, in short, one of those cookbook standards that come along about once in a decade, to remain popular with an entire generation that keeps it always on the kitchen shelf close at hand, like an old friend for times of need.

CASEY STENGEL, THE New York Mets' first manager, offers some advice to the team's new pilot, Gil Hodges. The photo is from "The Game of Baseball," with Hodges' recollections and his advice for players and fans.

Advice From A Mr. Nice Guy

THE GAME OF BASEBALL by Gil Hodges with Frank Slocum; Crown, 159 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Any hope that Gil Hodges' "The Game of Baseball" will do for that game what Jerry Kramer's best-selling "Instant Replay" did for professional football, by taking its readers into the very bowels of the sport, dies quickly.

Hodges, one of baseball's Mr. Nice Guys, has, with the help of veteran sportswriter Frank Slocum, written a rather routine sports book of advice to managers, coaches, players and fans on the basics and some of the finer points of the game.

This instruction has been spiced with some mildly amusing anecdotes picked up by Hodges during his long playing career and his current managerial tenure.

For what it is intended to be, the book is quite satisfactory, keeping its advice simple and uncomplicated.

The book could be of the greatest assistance to coaches of Little League and other "kid" teams.

Reviews Of New Reading

For instance: "One area that I think is abused is the position of Little League baseball as stepping-stone to the major leagues. It's not, any more than students are taught French in our schools to prepare them to live in France. It's merely an outlet for some kids to have fun."

In other words, the manager or coach should intrude himself only when he serves to make the pastime more enjoyable to the boys, rather than to attempt to control the program within certain organized guidelines, or worse yet, to indulge his own ego.

Nor, says Hodges, should youngsters be expected to confine their baseball to scheduled practices and games. There is still a lot to be said for the old sandlot style where the kids get together, choose up sides, and play away, tossing the finer points and even some of the rules aside, for sheer enjoyment.

It is the kind of thoughtful advice that one would expect from a decent, commonsense chap like Hodges who has always been a credit to his sport. One hopes that as a manager Hodges proves Leo Durocher wrong and that this "nice guy" does become a winner.

Novel No. 63

THE VELVET HAMMER by Faith Baldwin; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 213 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This is Faith Baldwin's 63rd novel and 86th book.

Again her scene is smalltown New England, where young war widow Meg Brand comes to live with her imperious and wealthy mother-in-law while her baby is born. Afterwards, Meg has another chance for romance and marriage, but she must survive the bitter opposition and intrigue of her first husband's mother.

The plot sounds "soap-operish," which it is. But Miss Baldwin writes with sensitivity and skill.

It is no literary blockbuster, but it is a novel that will please Miss Baldwin's loyal followers, and they are considerable in number.

One Doctor's Remedy For Sicknesses Of The Nerves

HOPE AND HELP FOR YOUR NERVES by Dr. Claire Weekes; Hawthorn, 183 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

All over this stress-filled globe, individuals are fighting desperately against nervous illnesses. And in so doing, says this Australian physician with a special interest in the field, they are making a basic error.

The key to recovery from nervous disorders and their symptoms, she advises, lies in accepting, not fighting, those conditions.

She summarizes her program as: "Facing, accepting, floating, letting time pass."

Oversimplifying, she says nervous sickness can be described as a case of nerves overly-sensitized by fear. The decision to accept and to live — temporarily — with that condition is the first step toward improvement. We are advised to go about our business without paying undue attention to these symptoms — "Don't be bluffed by physical feelings."

This attitude is attained, the doctor writes, by the process she describes as "floating" — by loosening our attitudes, avoiding self-analysis, by-passing the struggle. Then it becomes a matter of "letting time pass" as nerves, usually very gradually, lose their excessive sensitivity.

Mr. Weekes takes up specific types of nervous disorders and symptoms, from the so-called breakdown to such problems as sleeplessness, depression, unreality, guilty, sorrow, palpitations, extreme fear, etc. There is specific advice for the nervously ill person returning home, and for his or her family.

"Anybody is capable of experiencing a nervous illness. . . ," she writes. The important thing is not to become afraid of and try to fight the manifestations of those sensitized nerves, for by so doing he becomes caught in a trap by which his fight only increases the fear and tension rubbing raw his nerves.

Norman Thomas' Last Counsel To His American Countrymen

By DON KEOWN

THE CHOICES by Norman Thomas; Ives Washburn, 85 pages, $3.50.

The first "celebrity" we interviewed as a cub reporter was a presidential candidate.

A most unusual presidential aspirant, he had arrived in town alone, without the usual entourage and ballyhoo. He was staying not in a lavish suite, but in a single smallroom in the city's third best hotel.

The year was 1944, the place Wichita, Kans., and the candidate Norman Thomas of the Socialist Party.

Twenty-five years have passed during which we have been privileged to interview personages ranging from Dwight Eisenhower to Jack Dempsey, from Eleanor Roosevelt to Miriam Anderson. But that wartime interview of Norman Thomas in his unpretentious hotel room remains in our mind as an extraordinary experience.

He was not all that impressive as a figure, slim, even then white-haired, conservatively dressed and somewhat courtly in manner. Nor was he an eloquent speaker. His voice was soft and mild, and he had a pronounced stammer.

But there was an innate decency in the man and an undeniable wisdom in his words. What he said was filled with commonsense and goodwill.

There was optimism, too, though it was not the brightest of times for Thomas. The fortunes of the Socialist Party and movement were very low. But far worse, his country was at war. And even more than an economic socialist and political democrat, Thomas was a peace-loving idealist. He accepted the fact that the United States had had war thrust upon it by German and Japanese totalitarianism, and patriotically supported our military efforts. But still he longed for—and spoke out for — a postwar world of lasting peace and brotherhood as well as one of social justice.

Twenty-four years after that hotel room conversation that made such a lasting impression upon a young reporter, Norman Thomas was still a voice for those same causes, as reflected in his small book, "The Choices," published now some three months after his death.

In failing health, partially disabled and nearly blind, Norman Thomas still could not refuse the request of publisher Ives Washburn that he contribute to a projected series of books of counsel for young people by American leaders. He mustered the last of his strength, and what he produced was a book for Americans of all ages and all persuasions, in which, in a series of short, keenly-honed essays, he presents his views on our most contemporary problems — his old foes war and poverty, civil rights and liberties, disarmament, the draft, our electoral system, youthful unrest, violence, organized labor, agriculture, etc.

Norman Thomas had remained steadfastly the champion of the underdog, but not a doctrinaire one.

Thus he could defend vigorously the rights of dissent and protest, while adding a warning against destructive violence:

"One of the most serious signs of our times is that after two world wars, with their immense destruction, men seem readier than ever to resort to violence in their personal affairs. Violence is no new thing in public life, but never before has it been so easy for any one to get hold of extremely dangerous weapons . . . No one with the slightest imagination can fail to recognize that a small, determined, and fanatical minority can thus destroy our cities and create horrifying havoc. What this minority cannot do is create a better life for those in whose name the violence is used. In America it can only satisfy a natural but immensely destructive passion for revenge. Unquestionably, we must rapidly find alternatives to violence, and this applies to police brutality as well as rioting demonstrators."

Thomas spoke out, too, for economic planning: "Recently, the role of planning has been attacked — and not only by the Hippies. There is even a song that stresses 'loving' rather than 'planning.' It seems to me ridiculous to imply that there is necessarily a contradiction between the emotion of loving, and the intellectual and practical art of making this love effective."

He endorsed the voluntary army scheme as an alternative to the draft: "War is organized murder, and a man may believe that it is necessary, but for a government to inculcate this doctrine, and to force a man to take an active part in its horrors is the ultimate crime against civil liberties."

He retained his lifelong distaste for communism, "It is not devoted to pacifism.", but advised: "Our great weapon against communism, when it is in the wrong, is to demonstrate the superiority of a democracy that we too often talk about rather than practice."

He reiterated his belief in democratic socialism while admitting it had not been completely successful where it had achieved some political power in differentiating itself from welfare state capitalism: ". . . but I wish to repeat my belief that even the relative successes of this ideology have been vastly superior to the achievements growing out of authoritarian answers to the problems we have discussed, whether they be of the right or the left. . . " He offers Sweden as his shining example of social democratic government of skill, imagination and courage.

It might seem strange to categorize the public career of a political figure who ran for president six times, governor once and mayor twice, and was never elected to office, as a success. But in the closing days of his eventful life, Norman Thomas had the assurance that he had moved from his early reputation as a distrusted radical to the status of an esteemed statesman and revered sage, earning the admiration of even those conservatives who disagreed most sharply with his philosophy.

But undoubtedly more important to Norman Thomas, he could take inventory of the progress made in his lifetime in such fields as minimum wages, old-age insurance and medical care, public housing, conservation, union bargaining rights, education, legal justice and voting qualifications, and realize that he had played a leading, pioneering role in our slow but steady advancement toward those goals.

"WE CAN NO longer say we cannot stop possible disasters because of lack of knowledge. Our lack is rather of will and social arrangement," wrote Norman Thomas in his book, "The Choices," completed shortly before his death in December of 1968.

Sleuths & Suspense

CLUTCH OF CONSTABLES by Ngaio Marsh; Little, Brown, 244 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Ngaio Marsh may not write the fastest-paced mystery novels, but her books invariably make pleasant and diverting reading.

She is at her finest in this delightful tale.

It is all very English, set aboard a river cruise boat on which one of the passengers is Troy Alleyn, artist and wife of Supt. Roderick Alleyn of Scotland Yard. Her fellow passengers are an oddball lot, and, it soon develops, at least some of them are dangerous as well.

There is murder and theft and apparently the makings of an art swindle. Superintendent Alleyn arrives on the scene to unravel the puzzle with the help of his charming wife.

It's a well-plotted yarn with good characterization. And the British atmosphere and geography are utterly captivating.

DIABLO PRESS has published "Open Spaces: The Choices Before California" as a $6.50 hardcover of $4.95 paperback book.

It is a report by the urban-regional landscape architects, Eckbo, Dean, Austin & Williams, that is a result of their study as one phase of the long and expensive California State Development Plan.

While the plan has been severely criticized by conservationists and others, for its lack of conclusions, the Eckbo, Dean, Austin & Williams probe of California's critical shortage of open space in its metropolitan centers has stirred widespread interest.

Like most reports prepared by or for government, it isn't easy reading. One must wade through a welter of statistics and some planners' terminology that is almost as bad as the bureaucrats' gobbledygook, but it deals expertly with a subject that is concerning more and more thoughtful Californians. It is available from Diablo Press Inc., 440 Pacific Avenue, San Francisco, 94133.

WHILE MOST of the attention today is focused upon moon photographs taken from space vehicles, manned and otherwise, camera studies shot from observatories on earth are still of immense interest and value to science.

This is borne out by Dover Publications reprinting of the "Lunar Atlas" prepared by the Space Sciences Laboratory of the Space Division of North American Aviation Inc. under the editorship of Dinsmore Alter.

The book was first published in 1964 in a limited edition of 500 copies.

The Dover reprint, selling for $5, is a large, softcover volume containing 219 telescopic photos taken from such observatories as Mount Wilson, Palomar, Lick and McDonald, as well as French and Russian stations. Included, also, are two views photographed from Russia's Lunik II. Twenty-one of the plates show overall views of the moon that follow it through the crescent, full and waning phases.

Most of the plates have been reproduced in full-page size, and show such detail that we must acknowledge that the moon was something far less than a total stranger to us before we began approaching it with our man-made satellites. The captions are expert and informative. For its edition Dover has added an introduction by Harold C. Urey and has updated the written material where new developments have pointed out slight errors.

At the same time Dover has also published in its customary high quality softcover format an enlarged and revised version of "Skyshooting — Photography for Amateur Astronomers" by R. Newton Mayall and Margaret W. Mayall. It was written in 1949, the first really non-technical manual on astrophotography for amateurs. The Mayalls offer detailed instruction on how the astromomy enthusiast without elaborate equipment can take and process his own photographs of planets, stars and other phenomena overhead. Three new chapters have been written to keep step with innovations in photography and new knowledge in astronomy. The book now sells for $2.50.

FARRAR, STRAUS and Giroux Inc. has given a first American publication to another of the novels of the great German writer Hermann Hesse, this time his "Gertrude," first printed in 1910. Translated by Hilda Rosner, it is a "memoir" by a fictitious, successful composer who becomes involved in an ill-fated romance. It has been praised as a compelling and discerning novel of "the calamity of the creative spirit."

New Books For The Juniors

What has to be the most "Marin" junior book of the season is "Wild Peninsula" (Atheneum, $4.25), written by a Marin resident, Laura Nelson Baker of Lagunitas, about a Marin subject, the Point Reyes National Seashore.

It is also an excellent book by any standard.

Mrs. Baker writes of the great public preserve that lies virtually at her own doorstep, primarily of its history, taking some dramatic license in so doing, but also of its geology, geography, ecology, biology, climate and park attractions.

Her story begins on a note of controversy with the arrival of the Portuguese Sebastian Cermeno sailing a galleon for Spain in Drake's Bay in November, 1595. Was he the first white man to visit the Point Reyes Peninsula, or had England's Sir Francis Drake been there 16 years earlier? If Drake did, indeed, bring his Golden Hinde on shore there in 1579, "no one has proved it yet" to Mrs. Baker's satisfaction.

Her story continues with the life of the Miwok Indians, the influence of Mission San Rafael Arcangel on the area, the lighthouse, the ranchos, the earthquake, and finally the successful struggle for a national seashore, a movement in which she gives due credit to the late Rep. Clem Miller as its leading figure.

Mrs. Baker's text is accompanied by simple drawings of regional history and park scenes by Earl Thollander, while former Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall has written an introduction including an effective plea for conservation-mindedness in our young people.

Some other new books for the juniors:

Two Marinites, writer Zilpha Keatley Snyder of Larkspur and photographer John Arms of Fairfax, have collaborated on "Today Is Saturday" (Atheneum, $3.75), a recreation of what is unquestionably the finest day of the week for children—and why it is so. Mrs. Snyder's contribution is in the form of poetry that explores with sensitivity and with fresh approaches the thinking and the activities of the child enjoying the freedom of the weekend. The form is a change for her, since she has previously written prose, and it works out splendidly. Arms' camera catches youngsters at play, meditating and just plain relaxing, and his candid photographs provide the perfect accompaniment to Mrs. Snyder's appealing poetry.

" The Congressman" McGraw-Hill,) by William Green is part of the "A Week With . . ." autobiographies series. In it, Green, a 29-year-old member of the House of Representatives from Philadelphia, takes his young readers through a busy week of work in Washington, D.C. Photos by Dennis Brack also depict the young legislator in action. Would that all congressmen were as energetic, personable and effective as Green. But for youngsters, it can serve at least as an introduction to what their representatives in Congress should be doing for them, their communities and their country.

If you have an automotive-minded boy in the family, in or about the earliest teens, "Sudden Iron" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95) by John Clarke is an action novel that should grip his interest. It is about a young drag racer and some moral lessons he learns from the sport. The story is presented in a mature manner, not preachy, and the racing language, situations and settings are authentic.

"Tomahawk Shadow" (Doubleday, $3.95) by Nancy Faulkner is another adventure novel for young boys, in a different ti and setting. Its hero is Ba Hatherley, a youth in the 17 Century American colony of Ro er Williams' Providence Pdant tion with an unhappy past whi he hopes he has left behind hi in Plymouth. It is a good pi ture of the colonial era, and good suspense story as well the past threatens to catch with Bart and cost him his pr cious freedom.

"Tales From the Marb Fountain" (Meredith, $3.95) in the well-established traditio of children's stories featurin animal characters. Author Hug Gardner says he first told th tales to his small son while th boy was recovering from an ey operation and unable to rea Later, he put them down i writing. Thus we have the hu morous adventures of Bea Ostrich, Owl and Goat, a quar tet with loads of child-appeal.

Emery Kelen, artist, autho and television producer, ha written "Dag Hammarskjold, A Biography" (Meredith, $3.95) For 11-year-olds and up, it is a serious presentation of the life and special qualities of the late United Nations figure. Not all children will settle down to this kind of book. But if yours will, then you are among the fortunate parents.

"Heroes of the International Red Cross" (Meredith, $4.95) is a collection of the accounts of the experiences and contributions of 10 outstanding representatives of the worldwide welfare and mercy organization. It begins with Red Cross founder Jean Henri Dunant and Clara Barton and follows through to men still active. It is a factual, dignified tribute to a kind of hero that receives too little mention in books for the juniors. It is suited to children 11, 12 and 13.

Plenty of books about the flying saucer issue have been written for adult buffs and skeptics, but "Is Something Up There" (Doubleday, $3.50) by Dale White takes up the question for curious grade schoolers. White (a pseudonym) does an adequate rewrite job in relating the incidents that have created the controversy and in covering the various theories. In conclusion, he holds that UFOs are still unexplained and "one of the great mysteries of the 20th Century."

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

"CROWN OF CREATION" — Jefferson Airplane — Victor LSP-4058:

Seems like just yesterday everyone was being shocked by the first LP to use the atomic bomb mushroom cloud for cover art (a Count Basie album). Now many have used it. Here is the latest (courtesy USAF).

The Airplane has continued a rather far-out vein here, and although there are some great tunes — "Triad," "Greasy Heart" — there is a certain sameness about the harmonic construction and voicing peculiar to the group that now seems repetitious. Grace Slick is terrific, as usual.

"THE HURDY GURDY MAN" — Donovan — Epic BN 26420:

Latest and most welcome offering from the modern troubador. Besides the title tune, dig the sweetly swinging "Jennifer Juniper," plus 11 other gems of Donovan's completely unique talent, many into an East Indian bag. Backing, as always, is exquisitely right.

"ENGLISH ROSE" — Fleetwood Mac — Epic BN 26446:

Another English group into the blues bit with a vengeance. If they were the only such thing around, they would be welcome, but since others are doing the same thing from London to San Francisco — often with more originality (Paul Butterfield, for example) — this effort strikes me as less than vital. However, the group was a smash hit recently in San Francisco, so they must have their staunch fans.

DONOVAN
Modern troubador

"BAYOU COUNTRY" — Creedence Clearwater Revival — Fantasy 8387:

The second LP by this Bay Area foursome is another humdinger. "Born on the Bayou" has a wonderfully assimilated country feeling to it that makes one play it again and again. "Graveyard Train" spotlights the harmonica skills of John Fogerty, who with his lead guitar and vocals is the crux of the group. One of the most consistently fun-to-hear of the recent rock LPs is this fine local effort.

"RHINOCEROS" — Elektra EKS-74030:

Since the John Lennon-Yoko Ono LP, it seems less unusual to talk about the cover art of an album before the contents in the grooves. This one has been nominated for a Grammy for best cover art of the year, for an arresting collage beast which is spread across the double-fold album. The rock group is gutsy and hard-driving without becoming repetitious. John Finley is a fine vocalist, and the septet also combines piano and organ along with the usual guitars.

Marin Poets' Corner

THE IDES, PLUS SIX

It's the first day of spring; I can tell.
A bird sang to me and a lily bloomed in the garden.
The sun felt warm again, as March's chill and wind
fanned my face.
From a church steeple I heard the Lenten-service bell.
Dime-stores are stacked with cellulose grass and
all of Easter's bargains.
I'm confused between penance and promise; price
and pantheistic grace.

White becomes green and green becomes brown,
and brown dies.
Yet, in that annual death, the promise of awakening Spring ever hides;
Beneath the mantle of winter-white that aged Fall
was heir to.
The crocus bud and daffodil push signals through their snow ties—
That life, again, has come the cycle 'round—and
Winter chides,
As that beauteous day of spring can only do.

How good it was of Him to say, "We must all die
to rise again,"
And then, sacrificially, prove his thesis on the mountain.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

THE STEREO PHONO CARTRIDGE — The stereo cartridge is probably one of the most delicate items in a quality component home music system. Its function is to follow precisely all of the tiny wiggles in the grooves of a record and convert the wiggles to electrical currents.

There are great differences in stereo phonograph cartridges. The two most common types are the ceramic cartridge and the magnetic cartridge. This article will discuss the magnetic type since it is the one used with component music systems. Basically, the magnetic cartridge consists of two coils of wire, one for the left channel and one for the right channel, and a magnet that is activated or moved by the stylus. The movements of the magnet create currents in the coils.

The important characteristic of a good cartridge is its trackability. Trackability means the ability of the stylus to wiggle and follow the grooves with low pressure. The better the cartridge, the lower will be its tracking force. The best cartridges will track the grooves of a record with the extremely low weight of from one-half a gram to one and one-half grams. What does all this mean? Why use such light weights? The heavier the needle or stylus bears down on the record grooves, the more wear on the record. The heavy and stiff stylus will shave off some of the very fine modulations on the walls of the groove.

When such complicated sounds as orchestral bells and cymbals are mixed in with heavy rhythm, the groove modulations are quite intricate. The function of the stylus is to follow every variation and maintain contact with the groove walls. The ability to do this is its compliance or ability to wiggle easily. When the stylus does not have sufficient compliance for the better full range and dynamic stereo records, the stylus loses contact with the groove walls on some of the more delicate instrument passages. Some of the higher delicate sounds will be raspy and fuzzy. The instruments will tend to be muddled together without much transparency.

Naturally, the older stereo cartridges were stiffer and less compliant than modern stereo cartridges. These cartridges have to be used with heavier tracking forces to make the stylus move. For clearer, sharper sound consider one of the new stereo cartridges.

Rhododendrons Find Marin's Climate Perfect

There's no shrub lovelier in bloom than the rhododendron.

And fortunate Marinites have the ideal growing conditions for this spectacular performer.

More and more Marin gardeners are taking advantage of that situation to grow rhododendrons in their yards.

For those who have not yet joined the ranks, now, while the rhododendron blooming season is at its peak, is the time to shop for these splendid shrubs, and to plant your purchases.

IN MARIN, gardeners planting rhododendrons normally use a mixture of peat moss or commercial planting material with sand — heavy on the peat moss.

Generally, you can plant them in the same shaded sites where you would grow azaleas or camellias. For instance, a mass of vari-colored rhododendrons blooming beneath a grove of high-arching trees is an unforgettable sight.

You see them that way at San Francisco's Golden Gate Park, and marvel.

AND IN MARIN, the Ross and San Anselmo areas, with their profusion of fine shade trees, are the rhododendron culture centers.

These shrubs can also be grown as specimen plants in smaller gardens. Several, of the same color, can be utilized for border purposes. On a rolling or sloping lawn, they make the perfect hillside cover.

And they can be grown in containers such as redwood tubs that will accommodate the plants indefinitely.

Small wonder, then, that the rhododendron has become a Marin favorite. If you aren't among its growers, better correct that regrettable oversight this weekend with a visit to the nearest nursery.

AS A SPECIMEN plant growing in a redwood tub is only one of the many landscape purposes that the lovely rhododendron can fulfill. The variety shown above is the lavender Anna Kruschke, a type that will take a warmer, sunnier location than will most of the rhododendrons. (Photo courtesy of the California Association of Nurserymen.)

Don't Disdain The Dandelion, For It's A Delicacy

There are two ways of looking at those dandelions that raise their golden heads in Marin lawns — and just about everywhere else as well.

You can regard them as obnoxious weeds. And that's the common point-of-view.

But, says Dr. H. D. Harrington, author of "Edible Native Plants of the Rocky Mountains," they can also be regarded as delicacies.

HARRINGTON notes that young dandelion leaves are fancied for salad; he recommends as an especial delicacy those grown in shade. The crown is supposed to be comestible, too.

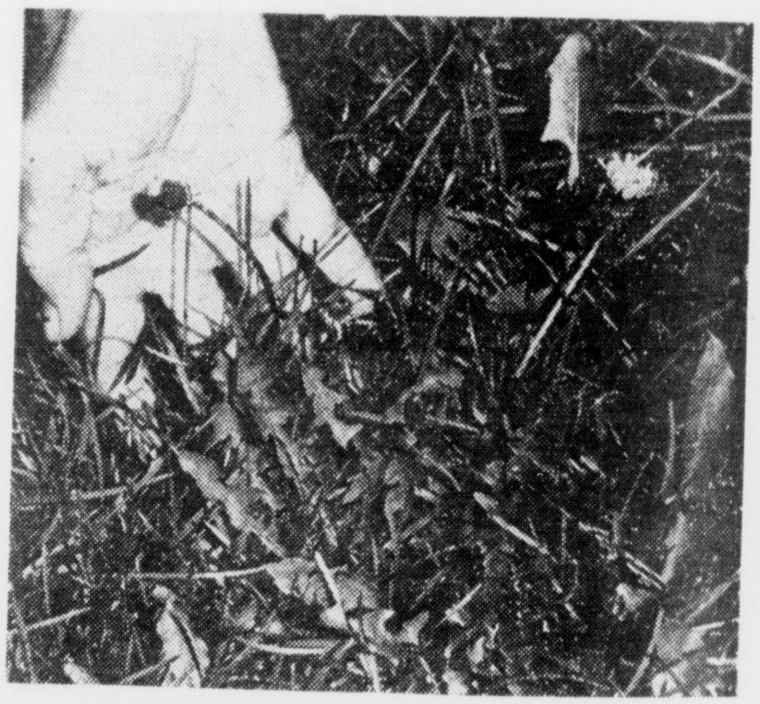
Leaves may be boiled like spinach (with a change of water to lessen the bitter taste.) The roots can be sliced for salads, and some folks roast, fry, dry and even grind them (to make a coffee-like beverage).

Dried leaves supposedly make an acceptable "tea," and is offered in some grocery stores.

Dandelion blossoms, supported by sugar and other fermentables, have long been favored for wine.

BUT DID YOU know that young blossom heads are good in pancakes? Drop them into the batter before turning the pancake. And Boy Scouts are supposed to eat dandelion seeds as an emergency food.

Some of us, however, might prefer to grow greens in the garden, and keep our lawns free from broadleaf blemishes. This is easily accomplished so far as dandelions are concerned.



The selective 2-4, D-type weed-killers won't harm the grasses but are deadly on dandelions.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- For the overlooked Easter gift for a loved one, the possibility of a living plant such as a camellia or a philodendron is still open to the last-minute shopper, thanks to most nurseries' open-on-Sunday policy.
- Now is the ideal time to plant dwarf citrus trees that will produce fantastically despite their small size.
- Check the seed rack at your nursery for flowering plants not commonly available as started seedlings.
- Now is a favorable time for planting new lawns.
- You should begin an organized pest control program for your roses in early April, and then spray at regular intervals.
- To produce a succession of bloom, continue to plant gladiolus at two-week intervals.

Wainscotting Has Made A Comeback

Handyman's Page

One way to give an old room a new look is to panel the lower half of each wall.

Known as wainscotting, this procedure was fairly common in one or more rooms of almost every house many years ago. It disappeared from most new construction for a long time, but is making a comeback in both traditional and contemporary homes.

It's the same type of decorating seen in many bathrooms which have tiling half way up the walls with regular plaster or gypsum board above.

THE LOWER-WALL paneling can be regular lumber of set or random widths, finished or unfinished plywood or hardboard, materials with laminated plastic faces or any one of half a dozen or so other wall products.

Entirely aside from the objective of giving a room a different appearance, wainscotting can be used as an effective backdrop for furniture, either to pick up the wood tone of the sofa, chairs and tables or to provide a suitable contrast.

The idea that wainscotting should be reserved for certain rooms has no basis in fact, either as an aesthetic, self-satisfying measure or, for types who like to emulate so-called high styling, from the standpoint of being "in." Lower-wall paneling can be seen in the living rooms and bedrooms of many expensive, tastefully decorated homes as well as in kitchens, dining rooms and family rooms.

PANELING CAN be attached directly to an existing wall or to furring strips which have been firmly secured. The method depends on the kind of material being used and the strength and solidity of the old wall. With a solid plaster wall, for instance, large panels — four-by-eights or four-by-fours — can be attached with a special adhesive. Furring strips are necessary if the wall might not hold the weight of the new panleing, in which case they should be nailed through the wall directly into the studding.

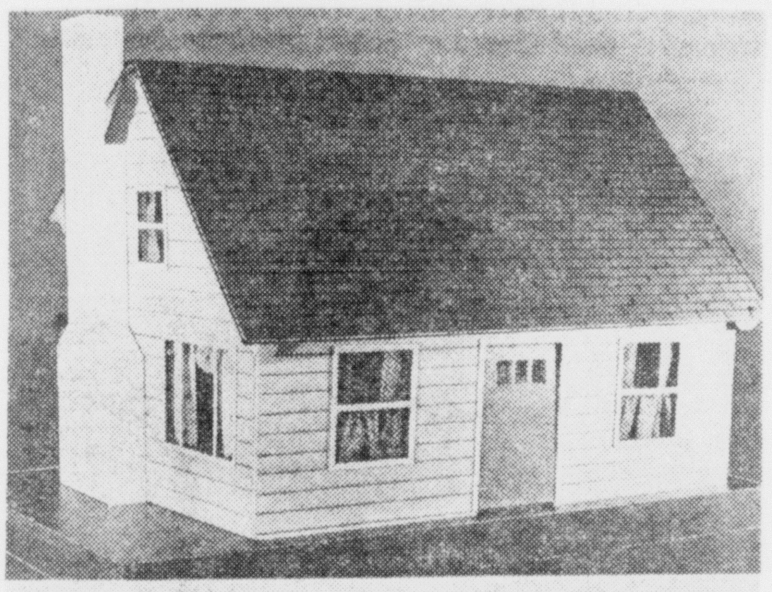
If lengths of lumber are used, decide whether you want them to run horizontally or vertically, a decision that will affect the way in which the furring strips are attached.

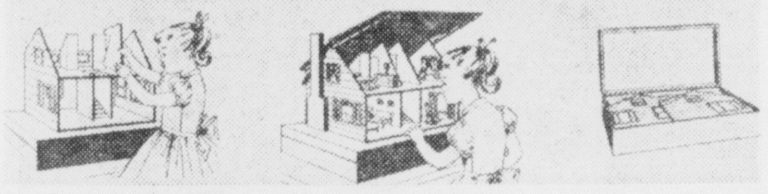
Prefinished paneling will cost more, but save work and virtually eliminate maintenance. Should you get unfinished panels, take the time and care to coat them properly and you'll get a finish that will last indefinitely.

ANOTHER WAY to give a room a different look is to panel a single wall from floor to ceiling, leaving the other walls the way they are, except perhaps for new paint or wallpaper.

If the paneling is being done from scratch — that is, in a newly constructed room, such as might be located in an attic or basement — don't overlook the opportunity to utilize the wall areas for built-ins. These can be constructed much more easily before the paneling is up than if it were necessary to break into the wall and then work in a restricted area.

Enchanted Cottage





THE DOLLHOUSE has been a source of happiness for little girls for many, many generations. With the help of an Easi-Bild pattern, any father can build this enchanting little cottage for his daughter. Send 75 cents to Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 10510, and ask for Packaway Dollhouse Pattern No. 596. Be sure to include your zip code number. The special features of this dollhouse are many, including a slotted construction that makes for quick assembly, a roof that swings up and front walls that are removable for easy access, and compact storage in its building platform that doubles as a storage chest. There is room in the base as well for stowing away doll furniture. This Cape Cod style cottage can be built without special tools or skills, thanks to the detailed, illustrated step-by-step instructions.

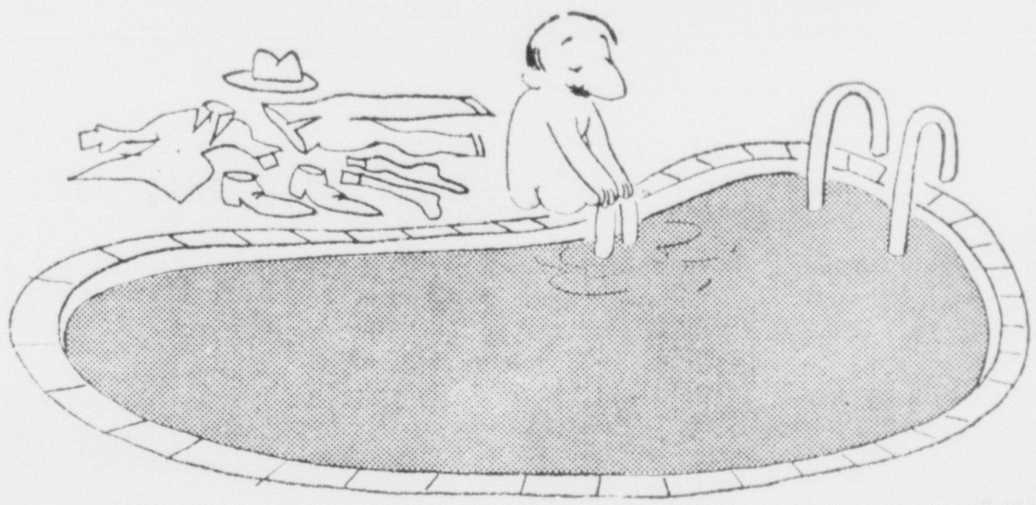
A word about nude swimming.



The beautiful abandon of swimming in the raw is at once an experience of sensual, almost spiritual joy.

Do it alone, do it with friends, do it with the better half—but by all means, do it in an Anthony swimming pool. Because in an Anthony pool you can be sure the plaster will be smooth, the lighting will be at its flattering best, and the water will be warm and safe from germs.

The naked truth is some pools just don't work too well. In the past 10 years, over 200 California swimming pool companies either went down the drain or changed their names. A lot of nice people who bought swimming pools wound up taking a bath instead of a swim.

Anthony Pools is the world's largest builder of pools. Anthony Pools has no franchise dealers. All Anthony Pool offices are company owned. Anthony Pools, building pools for nearly a quarter of a century, is the only pool company listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges.

Wouldn't you feel better having the leader in the industry build your pool?

Anthony Pools compares with all other pools in price, beginning as low as $2,495. But there the comparison ends. If you're thinking of buying a swimming pool, fill out the coupon. We'll send you a beautiful swimming pool catalog with all the information that will help you get right down to the bare facts.
